Council Colleagues Opposed

Harold Runs Into Flak On

Finance Commission Proposal

City Councillor Paul D. Harold suggested a charter change Monday that would give Quincy a Finance Commission like the one in Boston - and his fellow councillors fell on him as if he had spoken out against motherhood.

One of them even suggested a further charter change that would put Harold out of a job.

The proposal for a Quincy Finance Commission was one of five charter changes filed by Harold at the Council's opening meeting of 1977. Councillors snarled at them for a while and then sent them on to the Ordinance Committee.

The Commission would be composed of five unpaid residents of the city, appointed by the governor for staggered terms of three years, with a staff of its own and a budget of not less than $75,000 for its operations.

The fact that Boston has a Finance Commission [and we all know what had happened to Boston] bothered most of the Councillors. Said Council President Arthur H. Tobin:

"There is always need of reform. But what I do vehemently object to is the suggestion that we implement a finance commission like the city of Boston.

"I should like to remind my freshman colleague that the city of Boston right now is the only city in this Commonwealth that can't even manage its fiscal affairs and it has a Finance Commission. It has the largest tax rate in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

"If that's what the Councillor wants to bring to the city of Quincy, then I am going to violently object to it and I intend to speak out and filibuster if I have to.

"As one who was born and raised in this city, to think that a liberal Democrat from Brookline [Gov. Dukakis], who won't even come to the aid of the city of Boston... He's not going to put five people in charge of this city as long as I have an ounce of breath in me.

"I think the city of Quincy should be governed by the people of the city of Quincy and if you want to run for elective office, you stand up at candidate's night; you take your credentials to the people and you run. We don't need any outside interference.

"There's nothing wrong with our city government. But if we are going to have a charter change, let's not do it piecemeal. I can think of a million and one things in which the people of this city can have input.

"We don't need a liberal Democrat from Brookline saying 'no'; the same governor who cut out in the Quincy City Hospital care for the elderly and the indigent. He won't even reimburse a municipal hospital in the city of Quincy, which is running in the red at this time. And we're going to turn to him

Redistricting Plan Coming Friday

Representative Seats To Be Cut To 2½?

By TOM BRADY

The redistricting plan for the state House of Representatives may hold some bad news for Quincy representatives when it is announced Friday.

The plan, which was mandated by a binding referendum passed by state voters two years ago, will reportedly cut the number of representatives from Quincy down to two and a half seats from the four present ones.

The cut will go into effect during the 1978 legislative session starting next January. Under the plan the size of the House will be reduced to 160 from its present membership of 240.

Reports from the State House indicate that Quincy will have only two full seats in the House and will share a third district with Weymouth.

The shared district is reported to be the current First Norfolk District represented by Robert Cerasoli of Quincy Point who currently has a bit of Weymouth in his district.

This will leave three Quincy representatives, Thomas Brownell, Michael W. Morrissey and James Sheets to fight it out for the two full seats that are

Each of the new districts will include about 35,000 people compared to the present 20,000 population of most districts.

Since the final version of the redistricting plan will not be released until a press conference Friday morning, State House observers say that there is still a possibility of change in the district lines drawn up by the committee chaired by Rep. George Kevarian of Everett.

A final vote on the redistricting plan will be held later this session after public hearings throughout the state.

Raymondi Irks LaRaia

'Campaign' Letter Starts New Furor At City Hall

By TOM HENSHAW

Did A. Fred Lane, the director of Quincy Heritage, call a meeting in his office at 10 a.m. last Dec. 27 to discuss raising money to finance Mayor LaRaia's re-election campaign?

Or did he ask then-Public Works Commissioner Vincent LoCicero to meet with him during a coffee break to talk about raising funds for the Quincy-South Shore Cultural Center and the Ruth Gordon Theater?

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi thinks its the first one.

Lane says it's the second one, although he didn't say so when Raymondi confronted him with his letter to LoCicero at the Council's opening meeting of the season Monday.

And Mayor LaRaia says he's confused by it all.

"I'm not even thinking about re-election," he said.

Raymondi, a frequent critic of the LaRaia administration, sprung the letter on Lane while the Heritage director was testifying on behalf of a request for $3,060 to cover Heritage expenses.

The letter, addressed to LoCicero on Quincy Heritage stationery, said:

"You have been selected to work on the Mayor's committee

'The Big Lies. . .'

Tobin Criticizes LaRaia On Mid-Term Address

It looks like 1977 is going to be more of the same.

"I don't want to make inflammatory statements," began City Council President Arthur H. Tobin when he was asked to comment on Mayor LaRaia's mid-term address. And then he added:

"But I'm not going to sit back and let the big lie be told and not respond to it."

Then he raved back and responded, almost item by item, to the points made by the Mayor in his 21-minute "state of the city" speech Monday to the City Council and the people of Quincy.

Said LaRaia: "After several months of close scrutiny ... we were able to convince the Massachusetts state education authorities that the cost of the new North Quincy High School could be reduced. This achievement, reduced the sum required for the building bond issue by more than $1½ million."

Said Tobin: "He said that he saved $1.5 million on the North Quincy addition. This is not so. He not only committed the $15 million bond but he came in for additional money."

Said LaRaia: "Positive testimony to the values of the Central Maintenance Facility has been given by Police Chief Francis Finn and Master Mechanic Officer Daniel

Anderson Named Interim DPW Commissioner

Paul N. Anderson, 27, of 145 Whitwell St., city development coordinator since last March, has been named interim Commissioner of Public Works by Mayor LaRaia.

He succeeds Vincent LoCicero, who was suspended following his arrest Dec. 23 by the FBI on charges of extortion in connection with a contract to build an addition to the Merrymount School.

In suspending LoCicero, the Mayor said he would be "given every consideration as to his reinstatement" if he is found innocent of the extortion charge. The job pays $27,489.

Anderson was a management and financial consultant with Exeter International Corp., Boston, when he accepted the post of development coordinator with an annual salary of $15,825.

He was co-campaign manager of LaRaia's successful bid for Mayor in the 1975 election.

He has served as an advisory member of the Mayor's MBTA Task Force, a member of the National Association of Housing and Rehabilitation Officials and the National Association of Development Officials.

He will continue to serve on the recently reactivated Industrial Development Finance Authority.

Mayor LaRaia named James Eddy of 123 Elm St. to replace Anderson as development coordinator. He is president of the Eddy Co., 24 Adams St. and treasurer of the board of trustees of The Way, Inc.

Applications For Economic Funds Properly Filed, Says LaRaia

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia this week reiterated that the city's unsuccessful bid for a portion of the $9 million Economic Development funds was not the result of improperly filed applications.

"Our applications requesting $4.7 million for a City Hall project, $3.6 million for a Public Works project and $600,000 for a Parks and Recreation project were perfect in every detail," said Mayor LaRaia.

"The problem lay in the fact that the formulas we were instructed to use were not the same formulas by which the ultimate distribution of funds was assessed," he said.

"It is my belief that the computers were fed with misleading formulas as to what the true unemployment statistics were."

Quincy was one of many large cities in Massachusetts and throughout the country which, although they show high unemployment statistics, did not receive EDA funding.

City Solicitor Thomas Williams and Administrative Aide Arthur Casey recently represented the Mayor at a meeting of 25 cities sponsored by the City of Lawrence.

The meeting was also attended by Congressman Tsongas who claimed that the intent of Congress which passed the legislation and over-ruled President Ford's veto was to provide employment for the cities of the country rather than fund public works projects in towns which did not proportionately qualify for the funds.

The meeting concluded with a directive to the City Solicitor from Lawrence to file a Class Action suit enjoining the EDA for distribution of the funds.

Further, in conjunction with the offices of Senators Brooke and Kennedy and Congressman Tsongas, research is to be conducted in Washington, D.C. and Philadelphia as to the exact reason why certain cities did not receive funds.

Finally, according to Mayor LaRaia, Congressman Tsongas expressed his belief that President-elect Carter who vigorously campaigned to ease unemployment in cities will maintain that commitment.

A second oversight meeting is scheduled next Tuesday to more actively discuss the suit.

opinions of those participating at the meetings as to how and where the money should be directed will be taken into consideration in the grant application.

The meeting dates:

* Tuesday, Jan. 11, 7:30 p.m., Blessed Sacrament Church Parish Hall, 1000 Sea St., Houghs Neck.

* Wednesday, Jan. 12, 7:30 p.m., Atlantic United Methodist Church Parish Hall, 63 East Squantum St., North Quincy.

* Thursday, Jan. 13, 7:30 p.m., Lincoln Hancock School Cafeteria, 300 Granite St., South Quincy.

Koch Club Scholarship Fund Totals $7,201

The Koch Club Permanent Scholarship Fund totaled $7,201.23 as of Jan. 1, according to Richard J. Koch, Executive Director of the organization.

This week a donation of $60. was received in memory of Mrs. Dora Ellis and applied to the fund.

The permanent scholarship fund was established in 1973 on the 25th anniversary of the Koch Club, when $5,000 was raised and invested in a city of Quincy special scholarship account. Periodic donations, interest, and special events have increased the amount to its present total.

In 1998 on the 50th anniversary of The Koch Club, scholarships will be awarded, and will continue to be awarded each year with the interest accrued annually.

The Koch Club founded the scholarship awards in 1959 when a $100. scholarship was presented to a boy and girl graduate of North Quincy High School.

With the Broadmeadows district added to The Koch Club the scholarship awards were expanded to include a boy and girl graduate of Quincy High School in 1964. In 1970 a boy graduate of the Vocational Technical School was added to the awards, and a girl graduate included in 1972.

A total of 76 boys and girls have received scholarships since 1959 from The Koch Club program, and over $14,000 has been awarded and invested for this purpose of the organization.

Army Leases Nike Site To City Without Charge

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia announces the U.S. Army has leased without charge to the city 7.95 acres of land known as the Nike Battalion Headquarters Site.

The lease, granted for a period of one year, began Jan. 1 and ends Dec. 31, but will continue thereafter until terminated or revoked by the General Services Administration.

The site, located in the heart of Merrymount Park, bounded by the Southern Artery and Black's Creek, is a portion of 80 acres of land originally belonging to the Adams family and donated to the city in 1895 by Charles Francis Adams for the recreational use of its residents.

In 1957, the U.S. Army acquired the land through eminent domain proceedings for which acquisition the city was awarded $33,000. Since that time, the Adams family and the city have attempted to negotiate with the Federal Government for repossession of the land.

The Nike site presently houses some 20 administrative offices, dressing room, kitchen and shower facilities. The city has formalized no plans as to future use of the site.

Stop & Shop Plans Second Consumer Board Program

Stop and Shops' Quincy-Braintree Consumer Board Program will hold its second meeting Tuesday [Jan. 11] to listen to constructive criticism, suggestions and even praise from local food shoppers. Quincy residents who are interested in attending the meeting should contact the store manager of his or her local Stop and Shop Supermarket, Bradley's Discount Store and Medi Mart Drug Store.

The Consumer Board Program, now entering its 10th year, has 55 units covering New England, New York and New Jersey. Members serve one year terms with meetings every six weeks, usually in the morning. Stop and Shop has credited the Consumer Boards with a major role in developing company policies in such things as unit pricing, toy safety and the offering of bulk instead of packaged produce.

Stay Alive!
By Jack Silverstein
Diabetes and Detection
If uncontrolled, long-term diabetes can lead to blindness, heart and blood vessel disease, coma and, eventually, death. At least 10 million Americans have diabetes. Another 25,000,000 or so may have the disorder without knowing it.
A national commission recently found that women are 50% more likely than men to have diabetes and that the chance of developing the disease doubles with every 20% of a person's extra weight and doubles again with each decade of advancing age.
Doctors commonly test for diabetes by measuring how quickly blood levels of glucose return to normal after you drink a large amount of sugar solution. The problem with the test has always been that it may not pick up diabetes in its earliest stage.
Diabetes is also a disorder that tends to run in families. If you have knowledge of such a condition in your family, it would be wise for you to inform your doctor so that he can prescribe the best preventative diet as well as monitoring blood tests to prevent or eliminate the onset of this dangerous disease.

Nothing Wrong With The Charter

By HENRY BOSWORTH

At first glance, Councillor Paul Harold's proposed Finance Commission for Quincy looks like a major progressive step.

But after you think about it for awhile you wonder if such a commission really would be so great a move forward.

Harold notes it would be similar to the Boston Finance Commission and expresses hope it would prevent "the see-sawing tax rates we've seen for the past few years."

That alone may turn a lot of people off.

Boston is hardly an inspiring model to pattern Quincy after. And as far as tax rates go, the Hub's is in far worse shape than Quincy's. While Quincy's took a $34.90 jump last year, Boston's skyrocketed $54.

Under Harold's proposal, the Quincy Finance Commission, would have five members appointed by the governor. They would serve staggered terms of three years each.

The commission, too, would be given a minimum budget of $75,000 to pay for a staff. The commission would be completely independent of the mayor and council. And, would have the power to subpoena city records for investigations.

Whoa!

That sure is giving five people-five appointed, not elected people-an awful lot of power and might.

Eventually, the mayor and council—who are elected—could be pushed into the background.

There is no guarantee those appointed by the governor would really be qualified. The appointments could be political debt payoffs.

And why really should a governor be allowed to become involved in—or to interfere—in any way with local government? Massachusetts is in a big enough mess now without inviting more potential problems at the local level.

For Harold's proposal to become a reality would require a change in the city's charter.

Frankly, there is nothing wrong with Quincy's charter the way it is right now. What is wrong is that sometimes the wrong people are elected to serve under that charter. It is not the charter that is at fault.

And fortunately, under that charter, the right people can be elected the next time.

A finance commission appointed by a governor has too much power—or can soon muster it—and is not directly answerable to the people.

And a politically ambitious chairman or member of that commission certainly could launch a campaign for public office with headline opportunities and in the long-run create as many problems as he is supposed to help solve.

Frankly, we still prefer to have the mayor, city council and school committee carry out their respective duties as prescribed under the present charter.

And, if some of them can't do the job right, then vote them out and elect someone who can.

ANOTHER HAROLD proposal might be worth consideration. It would require council confirmation of the city solicitor and public works commissioner. Both have to work closely with not only the mayor, but the council, too. The men holding those two posts should, as Harold puts it, be "unbiased" to the council.

But in fairness to the mayor, maybe he should have a role in the choice of the city auditor.

HAROLD'S OTHER proposal to limit the council presidency to no more than two consecutive terms may in the long run cause more of a stir than his proposed finance commission.

Arthur Tobin, elected to his eighth consecutive one-year term this week, no doubt will take it as a personal barb. And some council colleagues no doubt will see it the way Tobin does although one or two may secretly wish there was such a limit.

With all due respect to Tobin who wields a pretty good gavel, the time may be here to put a limit on council presidency terms. Maybe.

There are other capable men in the present council who could do a good job presiding over council meetings and appointing various committees.

But if a majority of council members want a particular councillor to continually serve as their president, they certainly have that right. And, he must be doing something right.

Limiting terms could get a little out of hand, though. For example someone might come up with the idea to limit an incumbent councillor to two terms or a mayor to one or two terms, etc.

CONSPICUOUSLY ABSENT at Mayor LaRaia's mid-term address were former Mayors Thomas Burgin, Walter Hannon and James McIntyre. Apparently someone neglected to send them invitations.

SCRATCH Deputy Sheriff Richard Gilmore of Quincy Point as a candidate for the Ward 2 City Council seat. Gilmore acknowledges he has been urged to run but says he will not be a candidate. Not this year, anyway.

SMILE DEPT: At a holiday party, impressionist Ann Warren observed to former Mayor Hannon: "Politics ate so uncertain." Hannon laughed and replied, "You're telling me!"

LIVING TODAY

By DR. WILLIAM F. KNOX

Living In The World Of Feelings

"We've lost that 'specialness' that we had early in our marriage," said Sara ... "I don't know ... I can't tell what Tod feels. He just sits there saying nothing... no reaction to anything."

"Just like my Raymond" ... spoke up Elaine ... "he's like a stone ... When I don't feel well he doesn't seem the least bit concerned. The children partially ignore him. He has no feelings."

It was the Friday night Therapy group ... we were talking about FEELINGS and AWARENESS.

"What do you want me to do? Tod said. 'I keep a roof over your head don't I? There's always food on the table isn't there? What more do you want?' Notice Tod was talking about what he did ... not what he felt ... exactly what Sara was complaining about."

Why is it that men often do not show their feelings? If we consider the way we raise our boys it isn't too difficult to see why some men don't show their feelings. When the little boy falls and begins to cry mother tells him ... "come on now ... don't cry ... be a big man." After a time the little Tods and the little Raymonds get the idea that showing feelings isn't being a big man. By high school days in a football game a boy is hit in the groin ... and it hurts like hell. But again the boy isn't supposed to show feelings. The coach bounces him on the cold ground ... he's walked around arms over the shoulders of two other players and as the cheerleader starts the chant ... "Tod-Tod he's our man" ... back into the game he goes. If he's to be "our man" the Tods and Raymond must not show feelings ... not even of pain.

Carry this on to the professional and business years ... it's the same thing. CLOSE THE DEAL ... MAKE THE PROFIT. If feelings come into the transaction he may lose out! It's a tough world out there ... no place for feelings.

But when Tod and Raymond come home ... [Tod's a plumbing contractor ... Raymonds a supermarket manager] they're expected to be warm ... gentle ... and emotional. Many men haven't learned to shift gears that fast. But men can learn to change the three year old ... 16 year old ... thirty-five year old conditioning ... and learn to feel ... to be aware of others ... and express what they feel.

The Therapy group helped Tod and Raymond to live in "the world of feelings." Sara and Elaine began to understand their husbands ... and to help them to be men who were able to express feelings.

There can be little expression of feelings without TALKING. Go beyond shallow talk of the mechanics of living. Talk about what you SEE ... WHAT YOU HEAR ... WHAT YOU TOUCH ... what you SMELL ... what you TASTE. These physical senses provide unlimited conversation about beauty ... delicacy ... fragrances ... love ... hate ... and people. Then ... a couple may grow to reach the deeper level of spiritual awareness where feelings are expressed about attitudes ... fears ... hopes ... goals ... a genuine sharing their souls. Now your arriving at the companionship level ... and when you reach this level happiness reigns.

If you want only a platonic marriage O.K. But most marriages won't last without the sharing of feelings.

THE READER SPEAKS OUT

A Gripe With The MBTA:

No Communication

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

This morning I waited 45 minutes in 15 degree windy weather at the Wollaston MBTA station [where I normally get on] before a train came along that was "empty" enough to squeeze on.

The squeezing on was normal enough but the delay was somewhat abnormal. Now I realize the cause of the delay was a fire in the Park Street station because I heard the report on the radio before I left for work. There were, however, hundreds of people on that platform, most of whom did not know the cause of the delay. Many had heart and bronchial conditions.

My [and most everyone's] gripe is that we are never told a thing. There are several reasonably capable employees of the MBTA in that station that are fully able to announce over the PA system the 1. cause of the delay; 2. when a train can be expected; 3. alternative measures.

A classic example is last winter after an ice storm when thousands of people were waiting on the platform and still going through the turnstiles while the employees were aware [or should have been] that the trains were not running. Someone on the platform noticed that buses were pulling up outside the station to take the people to Andrew Station. We had to deduce for ourselves that the system was shut down. No announcement was ever made.

No one can fault the MBTA for an occasional equipment failure or qualified delay. The anger comes when you stand on that platform like a bunch of fools for a train that may or may not come. All we want to know is what is going on and how long it will be before a train arrives. Is that asking too much? I've lost track of the number of times the train has stopped dead on the tracks for 5-20 minutes with absolutely no explanation while the conductor just sits there lack of communications!

As the winter is now upon us and the Red Line heads into the "disaster season" I sincerely hope that steps are taken to improve one single item - courtesy. Let us know what is happening.

Sincerely

Richard S. McEvoy
270 Beale St.,
Wollaston

P.S. I have been riding the Red Line from Wollaston [one stop from the start of the line in Quincy] for over four years now and have gotten a seat going to work one time, December 7, 1974. The date was checked on my calendar and forever etched in my mind.

Argo Merchant Oil Spill

Argument Against Off Shore Drilling

[Editor's Note: The following letter was submitted to The Quincy Sun by the writer for publication.]

Mr. Russell E. Train
EPA Administrator
Washington, D.C. 20460

Dear Mr. Train:

Although Save Our Shores consists primarily of a large group of citizens who are concerned with the preservation and maintenance of historic Boston Harbor including the foreshores, we would like to go on record now and say that the tragedy of the Argo Merchant illustrates clearly the horrors of the oil spilled in the vicinity of Georges Bank. This is not hysteria, it is not emotionalism, it is now simply fact.

It is also a fact that Georges Bank is the major spawning ground for the entire North Atlantic, at the least. It is absolutely irresponsible to tamper with this recognized asset by off shore drilling.

As I write this the Argo Merchant has broken up and has discharged its oil and the fate of the valuable spawning grounds of the Banks rests on the wind. Georges Bank is indeed threatened in a very real way by the oil of a mishap that has been theoretically calculated. It is threatened in the future by drilling mishaps that have also been calculated.

The argument that tankers are one thing and drilling is another and that mishaps can be calculated becomes moot when the black oil finally spreads across the water and into the food chain. When that happens, the source is no longer relevant.

The lesson is now clear. No percentage of mishap on Georges Bank is worth the risk. After it has happened it is far too late.

Very truly yours,

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By ERIC SWIDER

1977: The Year Of The Public Pension

The year 1977 will probably go down in history as the year that we learn more about public pensions than our stomachs can stand. The Massachusetts Retirement System is in terrible shape and basically unfunded.

The problem is a simple one really. The benefits of these are a might generous in comparison with private sector programs. A person in state government with 20 years of service, at age 55, can retire receiving 75 percent of the average of their three highest years in government service. They contribute five percent of their annual salary to the fund.

Even considering appreciation of investment, it is plain to see that within a couple of years after retirement, the retired public employee starts being unfunded. Unfortunately, there are too many cases where the "three best years" are astronomical in comparison with the other 17. Right now there are 6,000 pension plans nationally covering 20.3 million in federal, state and local governments that are making commitments for future pensions without adequate financing.

In an article, "Why Soaring Public Worker Pensions Threaten You", Nation's Business magazine points out taxpayers and business face incredible demands in future years to make up for these deficits.

As of 1974, federal civil service retirement programs had unfunded liabilities of $77 billion. The Senate Armed Forces Services Committee estimates that unfunded liability for pensions of retired military personnel would add $150 billion to this amount.

An unfunded liability is the amount that would have to be invested today to meet present commitments of a pension system, including, of course, pension amounts due in the future.

A private study of plans in 43 larger cities showed that more than a third had failed to disclose pension commitments of hundreds of millions of dollars. In some cases, the unreported commitments came to more than $1 billion.

In a study of 2,300 state and local plans, the Tax Foundation, a research and education organization, said that in a great many cases such plans "are growing at a rate that will cost taxpayers unimaginable new burdens in future years."

Nation's Business, a monthly publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, points out that an explosion in public employment since World War II has helped fire up the problem. While fewer than half a million people were receiving state or local pensions in 1957, some 2.4 million collect them today or are entitled to draw benefits at a later time.

But it is no secret many public systems are overly generous. Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats points out that federal "pay and annuity adjustments have occurred frequently in large amounts since 1969." He adds: "Federal white collar pay rates have increased 56% and annuity adjustments have totaled 68 percent."

Robert Tilove, a pension expert commissioned by the Twentieth Century Fund to study state and local government employee pensions, says:

"Retirement plans of state and local government clearly provide more generous benefits than do the pension plans of private industry."

"Half of the wage and salary workers in industry are not covered by a pension plan; almost all employees of state or local government are covered."

"A little more than half the state and local employees are protected in retirement by automatic [cost-of-living] adjustments; such adjustments are almost non-existent in private plans."

Faith Healer Draws Large Crowds In Adams Shore

Nelson Loris, a 16-year-old faith healer from Texas was drawing large crowds to the Adams Shore Evangelical Church at the corner of Albatross and Pelican Rds.

Testimony to the young preacher's healing prowess was given by Mrs. Warren Young of Houghs Neck who said she was completely cured of a spinal injury that had prevented her from washing dishes since 1917.

Mrs. George Church of Norfolk Downs told of how she was cured of neuritis of the feet and back and Mrs. Robert Prescott of Bicknell St., Germantown, reported her stiff knee on the mend.

BOOTLEGGERS SEIZED

The Quincy Motor Patrol seized 60 gallons of illicit whiskey and three automobiles and took five persons into custody for questioning in a swift raid on Willard St. near the Brintree line.

Police Chief Alfred W. Goodhue, who called it a "bootleggers' outfit", said one of the men would be charged with a bribe attempt after he offered him $200 to permit the delivery of the liquor to be made.

and calendar for fund raising. I would like to meet with you on Dec. 27 at 10 a.m. in my office at 55 Sea St.

"There are many avenues to follow, many ideas to vote upon and many inputs that are necessary so that the entire package will be cohesive. Bob Beniers, Pat DiStephano, Mike Shaheen, William Huber have all been selected."

DiStephano is the city's director of Veterans Services, Beniers is director of recreation, Shaheen is a safety inspector in the Building Department and Huber is a project director in Houghs Neck under the Planning Department.

Raymond said he thought there was something illegal, or at least immoral, about the whole thing.

He asked City Solicitor Thomas F. Williams to check "either the legality or the morality of this kind of communication going back and forth interdepartment, paid for by the citizens of this city and being used to promote someone's campaign."

But nowhere in his letter to LoCicero did Lane state that the fund-raising was for a LaRaia re-election campaign. And nowhere did he mention the Quincy-South Shore Cultural Center, or its companion, the Ruth Gordon Theater.

In Monday's confrontation with Raymond, Lane said only that he did not know LaRaia's plans for re-election and he implied that he had asked LoCicero to meet him on a coffee break.

The Quincy-South Shore Cultural Center explanation did not come up until the next day.

Lane did say, however, that the meeting did not take place and no other meeting was scheduled. On Dec. 23, LoCicero was arrested by the FBI on a charge of extortion in connection with contracts for the Merrymount School.

Mayor LaRaia declined to comment specifically on Raymond's charge.

"I can't respond to something when I don't have the evidence," he told The Sun. "He is an attorney. He knows a charge has to be based on some kind of factual information. I don't know what you want me to reply to."

"I don't think he knows what he is talking about, really. But I don't expect anything different from him."

LaRaia said he has given no thought to re-election next fall.

"As soon as I feel that I have accomplished what I set out to do in the city, then I'll make an announcement on re-election," he said.

Raymond called the Cultural Center-Ruth Gordon explanation "a fabricated story."

"There is no doubt in my mind that it was a political fund-raiser," he said. "They got

Complete Text Of Mayor's Mid-Term Address

"Citizens of Quincy and members of the Quincy City Council: I begin this traditional message with a personal wish that you will all enjoy A Happy New Year. And that the year 1977 will be one in which each Quincy citizen will have an improvement in the quality of his or her life. In a democratic society this essentially is the task of government, to provide services that help improve the quality of life for all citizens.

"I have chosen as the title and the theme for this mid-term report; the phrase; One Foot In Tomorrow. This phrase is at once a delineation of the progress that we have made during the first year of the LaRaia Administration and it is also an admission that there are still many challenges to be met and many obstacles to overcome if during the next year I am to fulfill the trust and achieve the aspirations of the citizenry who elected me as chief executive of our historic city. One year ago, when I was sworn into office, it was my hope that we could leap boldly forward into a new era of vastly greater and more efficient services for the people of Quincy. This idealistic goal has been achieved only in part: we have introduced many efficiencies; but not all that we had hoped for.

"We have streamlined government in several areas and cut the cost of operating city government wherever the force of my office could be directed.

"These preliminary observations are merely generalities, however, it is my duty in this address to review specifically the progress we have made over the past twelve months, and I shall now address myself directly to that summary.

"The most concise way to accomplish that, I believe, would be to analyze the points and the programs and the promises I made to you as I stood at this podium one year ago.

TAXES

"First and foremost in the mind of every taxpayer is the cost he must pay for municipal services. I am certain that most citizens were shocked when it was determined that we must declare a tax increase of $34.90 to provide those essential municipal services to which I referred a moment ago. May I recall to you specifically my words on that inaugural morning in January, 1976.

"I quote, 'I caution you that Quincy, like every other city in this nation, faces a severe financial crisis. Ours has been brought about chiefly by the deliberately less than realistic election year budget which is a legacy from the previous administration.' At the time I made those remarks, we were facing a four million dollar deficit incurred by the financial policies of the previous administration. That deficit alone amounted to fourteen dollars and fifty cents on your tax rate.

"The answer to this financial problem can be explained by the following: During the three year period prior to my administration, we experienced a steady increase in the cost of living, and in the cost of operating city government. City employees received an 8.9% cost of living increase, yet during this three year period the tax rate increased a grand total of only $4.50 building toward that four million dollar deficit.

"Eleven dollars of the tax increase during this past year, is directly attributable to our educational services.

"The fiscal autonomy of our school system and the deficit spending of a prior administration accounted for $25.50 of the past years tax increase. The remainder of the tax increase was necessary to cover our obligations for debt service, our assessments to the state and the county and for added costs in our police and fire protection agencies.

"The problem with municipal costs is the same as in any business; people who perform services must be paid and materials and equipment essential to the provision of those services must be paid for.

CUTTING THE BUDGET

"I was able to reduce the budget for personnel services by approximately three hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

"The only areas in which we recommended the addition of personnel were in positions concerned with fiscal controls...regrettably the city council did not approve my requests for funding those watchdog positions.

"My stand on the bond issue for North Quincy High School was unpopular politically because residents of that area and our school department officials were impatient and eager to proceed with a vital project that previous administrations had delayed for ten years. My compromise plan eliminated the need for double sessions and effected a cost reduction that was reflected by a savings of three dollars and twenty-three cents that otherwise would have been added on the tax rate.

"I shall continue to assert the power of my office to insure that our citizens receive a full dollar value for every dollar of tax revenue. I know it is a small consolation to you as well as to me, that Quincy was one of fifteen municipalities that increased its taxes substantially this past year. The average tax increase of these municipalities was approximately $36.00.

FEDERAL ASSISTANCE

"I join with the mayors of every city in this nation who look to the new administration in Washington to concentrate on the plight of the country's urban areas.

"I have supported the mayors of some twenty-five Massachusetts communities in a class action suit to halt the disbursement of federal funds under the Economic Development Act of 1976.

"The Boston Globe yesterday devoted much space to criticism of the government's action; and several Massachusetts congressmen are spearheading an investigation into the procedures used by the funding authorities. It is unfortunate that the federal officials saw fit only to provide monies in the amount of fifty-four million, when our municipalities had requested seven hundred million in aid. The sad fact is that projects approved were in towns where unemployment is not as critical as in the cities.

"We had submitted proposals for federal grants totaling nine million dollars, and were completely overlooked, as were other cities of Massachusetts, with funds being disbursed only to towns with small populations and much less severe problems of unemployment.

NORTH QUINCY HIGH

"Another area to which I referred in my inaugural address was the North Quincy High School. Again, I advocated a policy of progress with prudence. After several months of close scrutiny, and after meeting with city councilors, state and local education officials and with the advice of educational consultants, we were able to convince the Massachusetts State Education Authorities that the cost of the new North Quincy High School could be reduced from a 2,000 student capacity to 1,800 and still maintain the educational quality that would merit the state assuming 65% of the cost for new construction. This achievement reduced the sum required for the building bond issue by more than a million and one-half dollars. Over the years this will reduce the tax burden for debt service for each taxpayer. Most importantly, double sessions throughout the city have been eliminated as part of my compromise plan to go ahead with the construction of a major addition at North Quincy High School.

CENTRAL MAINTENANCE FACILITY

"One of the priority items to which I referred a year ago was my plan to establish a central maintenance facility where all repairs to vehicles from the police, fire, highway and other city departments would be made. The goal was to maintain as many vehicles as possible at operational level; to reduce the per vehicle operational cost; and to insure longer life for each vehicle through proper maintenance, thus reducing capital outlay cost over the long term. Dramatic testimony that the creation of this facility has already produced benefits is evident in the fact that every snow removal vehicle in the city was ready for last week's storm; whereas when a major storm struck last year, only 50% of our snow fighting equipment was operational.

"Additional positive testimony to the values of the central maintenance facility has been given by Police Chief Francis Finn and Master Mechanic Officer Daniel Mahoney, who observed that police cars in for repairs are back on their patrol duties faster than at any time in their sixteen year experience in the public safety protection agency. I confidently expect that when the developmental problems associated with the central maintenance facility are worked out, that is, the same kind of organizational problems involved in any new venture, we will be able to effect savings annually in excess of one hundred thousand dollars.

QUINCY HOSPITAL

"This is but one of the innovative programs we promised. Another such program is the reorganization of Quincy Hospital. We have secured as director of the hospital an individual who served the Commonwealth of Massachusetts as our Deputy Governor and who has achieved a national reputation as a business systems expert. He has already applied that expert knowledge to the hospital administration, installing new programs for patient safety and security, a new central purchasing system, and has instituted negotiations to secure an affiliation of the hospital with one of our area's prestigious medical teaching institutions.

"We are on the threshold of launching a major modernization program at Quincy City Hospital and in keeping with my pledge to secure greater volunteer involvement in governmental affairs by knowledgeable citizens, I have created a building advisory committee to help chart the path of that institution's expansion and modernization.

CITIZEN INVOLVEMENT

"With respect to citizen involvement, we have created other planning and advisory committees and commissions to provide input for the betterment of our neighborhoods, for developing a growth policy for the achievement of long term city goals, an economic development committee to spark business expansion, expanded the Commission of the Status of Women and created the Quincy South Shore Cultural Commission to enhance the artistic climate of our area.

"Just briefly, I would like to catalogue some accomplishments of these citizens activists. I am sure you all know of the successful 80th birthday tribute to Quincy born actress, Ruth Gordon. This was more than just a festive weekend, with twelve hundred people attending the ball and eight hundred people attending the dinner. It was an example of citizen involvement with more than two hundred men, women and youths participating on the various committees. There was not the appropriation of one cent of city funds for this venture. Indeed, I am pleased to report that approximately seven thousand dollars has been deposited in the bank to be placed at the disposal of the non-profit cultural commission for planning the creation of a performing arts center to benefit all of the people on the South Shore.

BUSINESS CLIMATE

"We pledged that the LaRaia Administration would be deeply concerned with improving the business climate for the downtown area. May I cite a Letter sent to our local newspapers by the president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association who stated, 'The members of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association are quite unanimous in their opinions concerning the downtown development office under Mayor LaRaia and wish to congratulate him on the personnel he has working this area. Quincy is one of the few cities which is keeping pace with our changing times and at present enjoys a business climate which rivals the most successful of retail centers, including shopping malls.

"That is the end of quote, and I ask you to forgive my expression of pride when I tell you that I am the first of our city's chief executives to be elected to Honorary Membership in that business association.

"Let me also cite as an example of the faith that prestigious business firms have in the future of our city, the location of the corporate headquarters of Stop and Shop in Quincy and the current construction of a major supermarket by that firm in the north end of the city. A Boston based firm has purchased the Historic Adams Building and Norfolk Building in the center and is investing in the neighborhood of half a million dollars to convert them into modern professional offices. These few points on the economic and business climate of our city are consistent with my theme of one foot in tomorrow. Quincy has been retreating as a commercial center throughout the decade of the seventies; our administration has reversed that trend and I am certain that the negotiations in which we are engaged will bear productive fruit in nineteen seventy seven. The result will be a broader tax base, more jobs and great economic growth for Quincy.

SENIOR CITIZEN ACTIVITIES

"I expressed, in my inaugural address, a desire to make more and better services available for our senior citizens. This promise has been kept, and we have also been able to reduce operational costs. Our administration has increased the participation in the Hot Lunch Program by 50%, we have expanded the RSVP program whereby retired citizens have provided vital services to city agencies and institutions at no cost to the city.

"With regard to our senior citizen program for home care and nutrition, I have before the city council a measure requesting seven thousand seven hundred and seventy dollars, to be applied as matching funds for a grant provided by the federal government. I urge speedy approval of this measure in order that our elderly may take full advantage of the benefits and services offered by our council on aging. Although we have been able to reduce this organization's budget by 35%, we have not curtailed any services. In fact, we have instituted this year an Arts and Crafts program for the blind that has been hailed by state authorities, who are now giving us additional funding so that the program may be broadened.

"We more than doubled the kinds of transportation services we offer to senior citizens for shopping and for health care. I assure you, Quincy can match the scope of its program for the aged against any comparable city, and be confident that we are not second best.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

"The progress of rehabilitating sections of our city under our community development program has been praised by community leaders and the residents affected by these improvements. The project director of our community development program has administered loans and grants for 93 separate projects for home rehabilitation in the Houghs Neck area, with funds totaling $570,000. We have also started low cost loan programs in the Southwest and Atlantic sections of the city. In less than two months since we opened the branch office in Southwest Quincy, our staff has processed ten thousand dollars in loan applications.

"We have recently taken possession of property to be used as the Manet Neighborhood Health Center in the Houghs Neck area. We are presently negotiating for the purchase of a new neighborhood center in North Quincy, in order to provide for increased use and increased services to the residents of that area. Another example of One Foot in Tomorrow since eventually, we hope that we will be able to sponsor similar citizen oriented facilities in other neighborhoods.

"As I stated at the outset of this report, we are not yet satisfied with our progress yet we do believe that we have made an impressive start toward extending government to reach all of Quincy citizens.

"We have faith that those individuals who serve our city as employees or as volunteers will continue to be as conscientious and vigorous in the coming year as they were in 1976 and we assure you that their ranks will be swelled by the addition of many more Quincy people who have specialized knowledge that would help us make our city a better city.

"We hope also that we will be able in the coming months, to effect a closer working relationship with the city council. Each one of these elected officials has special responsibilities to those of his constituents in the various wards, and we pledge to them, the cooperation of the Mayor's office and the city departments so that they can best serve their wards. On the part of myself and my department heads, we shall make every effort to implement any suggestions, respond to any complaints and take positive action to help solve any problems that are brought to us by the individual councilors in the exercise of their duties.

"Simultaneously, we hope for a more conciliatory attitude toward the programs we propose to benefit the entire city so that the executive and legislative branch in unison can bring expanded and improved municipal services to our community.

"Thank you."

Christmas Lighting Wins WEEL Award

The city of Quincy has received a bronze plaque for its outstanding Christmas lighting display from Radio WEEL in Boston.

The display was cited by Kevin O'Keefe, who flies the WEEL traffic helicopter, as "visible evidence of the true spirit of the season."

The display is produced by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and the Quincy Downtown Development Office.

The plaque will be on display at City Hall.

Mahoney, who observed that police cars in for repairs are back on their patrol duties faster than at any time in their 16 year experience."

Said Tobin: "I was told that the reason there were no major overhauls was that the city has just purchased 19 new police cruisers under the bond issue. What major repairs can you have to 19 new cruisers?"

Said LaRaia: "Quincy has been retreating as a commercial center throughout the decade of the Seventies; our administration has reversed that trend..."

Said Tobin: "Nothing is more detrimental to the business climate than the $34.90 tax rate increase, Ashmont Discount and the offices of Capital Food Markets have moved out of Quincy. The Edwin Case Shoe Store on Revere Rd. has gone out of business."

[LaRaia pointed out in his address that the corporate headquarters of Stop and Shop has been moved into Quincy and the company is building a supermarket in North Quincy.]

Said LaRaia: "I expressed, in my inaugural address, a desire to make more and better services available for our senior citizens. This promise has been kept and we have also been able to reduce operational costs."

Said Tobin: "I have learned indirectly that federal authorities have requested documents and reports from the Council on Aging Office because Reppucci worked there. I don't know what the federal authorities are addressing themselves to. We want it to get a clean bill of health before we engage in any contracts there."

Herbert Reppucci is the suspended assistant director of Retired Senior Volunteer Program who was arrested by the FBI on a charge of extortion in connection with a building contract at Merrymount School.

Said LaRaia: "We have streamlined government in several areas and cut the cost of operating city government wherever the force of my office could be directed."

Said Tobin: "The only cuts the City Council are aware of was his effort to reduce the Quincy Police Department by firing 18 policemen and close the Germantown Fire Station. We were opposed to that."

Said LaRaia: "The progress of rehabilitating sections of our city under our community development program has been praised by community leaders and the residents affected by these improvements... Eventually, we hope that we will be able to sponsor similar citizen-oriented facilities in other neighborhoods."

Said Tobin: "We commend him for the neighborhood improvement programs. But remember, he was the only City Councilor who opposed the bond issue for it."

Said LaRaia: "We hope also that we will be able in the coming months to effect a closer working relationship with the City Council... We hope for a more conciliatory attitude toward the programs we propose to benefit the entire city so that the executive and legislative branches in unison can bring expanded and improved municipal services to our community."

Said Tobin: "We'll cooperate with any well-meaning program. But we're not going to sit idly by and allow misinformation and lies to be distributed by his press secretary and department heads. It's an intolerable situation. The big lie was told in 1976. If it is tried in 1977 we are going to speak out."

Mayor, Lydon Praise

Tobogganing, Sledding Program

Mayor LaRaia and City Councilor John J. Lydon Jr. have complimented the staff of the Recreation Department for its courteous and effective supervision of tobogganing and sledding on the Furnace Brook Golf Course.

"The snowstorm came at a most opportune time during the Christmas vacation week," said LaRaia.

"Although over 1,000 children took advantage of the holiday weekend, our city's recreation leaders patrolled the slopes, equipped with first aid kits and were able to accommodate the large number with little or no difficulty, maintaining an emphasis on safety."

The Mayor and the Councilor also commended the Recreation Department's efforts at the Heavenly Hill ski tow, where, under the direction of Bill Ellis, an impressive turnout of about 1,000 children and adults frolicked over the holidays.

Harold Runs Into Flak On Finance Commission Proposal

to help this city?

"I don't think much input or thought has been given to this proposal. I hope this thing isn't a last minute political headline-seeking because what the city of Quincy needs at this time is restraint, coolness, direction and leadership.

"Let's not go into a half-baked idea. If anyone can show me where a five-member finance committee has cured the ills of the city of Boston... I'm violently and vehemently opposed to it.

Councillor Daniel Raymond: There was a figure of $75,000 used?

Harold: That was the figure I came up with for the minimum appropriation for the commission.

Raymond: Where would that come from?

Harold: That would come from the appropriation of the City Council.

Raymond: The City of Quincy would pay for that?

Harold: Yes.

Raymond: I would agree with the Council President. I think we should undertake a complete study of the charter. Times have changed. Perhaps we should take another look at it.

I know that when I ran for School Committee four years ago there was an awful lot of talk that perhaps School Committee members should be elected on a ward basis.

I also think this particular committee could look into the structure of the city council. We have six ward councillors and three councillors at large and, with all due respect to the councillors at large, perhaps to save some money we could just have six ward councillors. I don't know if we need any councillors at large.

I think if we go into having fulltime representation, if that's what the councillor has in mind, that councillors should be on the job 24 hours a day, seven days a week. And I think you could have six or seven watch dogs in the city that get paid a salary and that's all they do. They just become city councillors and they're here every day of the week.

All these things are ideas that I just briefly came up with. I would like to recommend to the chair that if you are entertaining some kind of a charter study that you do invite citizens across the city to participate and let's take a broad look.

I don't think we should do it piecemeal. I think we should take a broad look and have the citizens participate, maybe have a referendum, a question on the ballot.

Councillor John Quinn: "It's my judgement that the people actually govern in the city of Quincy. It's my opinion that appointed people would not be answerable to the people and to reduce from a nine member finance committee of elected officials that we now have here to a number of five, to be paid somewhere in the vicinity of $75,000, is not a modernization of good government in my judgement. I would oppose that."

"I think the state government has enough problems of their own to solve. I believe in the home rule principles.

"I think the people have to be involved. They're the ones to petition the council to change the laws. I have not seen any support from the people for a $75,000 five member finance commission when they have elected a city council who are responsible to them every two years."

Councillor Leo Kelly: "I read with concern Councillor Harold's article in the paper last week and I'd like to read a paragraph out of it. It said: 'Mr. Harold said that the commission, similar to the one in Boston would have five members with staggered terms of three years each appointed by the governor.'

"I also read with great concern an article in Sunday's Globe on Boston's year in review. It says:

"Boston's immediate problem is a higher spending level than its tax base can reasonably support. Boston spent almost $1,100 per capita in fiscal 1975 more than any other comparable city except New York. In general, Boston's high spending level reflects long-run patterns rather than rapid increases in the last few years. Boston's fiscal problems are not new. The city has traditionally spent heavily and relied too much on property taxes.

"I just can't believe that anybody right-thinking would want to pattern the city of Quincy after the city of Boston. Maybe the next thing we're going to hear about is metropolitan government, that Quincy be governed by the city of Boston. I mean, how far can you bring this type of thing."

Harold: I think that if any of the councillors are familiar with the city of Boston's finance committee they would know that they have absolutely no control over the finances or the appropriations of the city. All it is, is a watchdog authority.

"It is no way is responsible for the ills of the city of Boston. I think in many ways it has protected against some of these ills being further multiplied.

"It is in no way a mandate of confidence for the governor because Dukakis will not be governor forever. This proposal was put through knowing it might take a couple of years to go into effect but in the long run would benefit the city of Quincy.

"This is not a vote for higher taxes. It is not a vote for all these things that have been discussed. It's just clouding the issue.

"The reason that I considered this was that during the period of time that we considered the budget we had tax rates that varied from $8 to $50 and if the city council is going to act with any consistency on any financial matters we have to have a body that's independent of the Mayor and the Council to give us some long range advice.

"This was the reason it was put as an appointment by an outside authority so it would be independent and would in no way have any control over city finances. It would just serve as a watchdog on money that was being proposed or spent."

Other charter revisions proposed by Harold included:

- Full citizen membership on all council committees, with the unpaid members selected by the Council for two-year terms based on their backgrounds and expertise.

- The City Solicitor and the Public Works Commissioner be subject to confirmation by the City Council.

caught and now they're attempting to cover up. They called 'team back' all night and came out with a fabricated story.

"Vinnie LoCicero? Mike Shaheen? It's hard to believe that they would be interested in raising funds for the Ruth Gordon Center. They have nothing to do with Ruth Gordon. They are political appointments."

Raymond said he's not sure what he or the City Council could do about it.

"I'm going to ask Mr. Lane to come before the Council and state his position," said Raymond. "Then I want to ask him why he didn't say that in the first place. And when the dust clears I'm going to leave it to the people to decide."

The text of the Raymond-Lane confrontation at the Council meeting follows:

Raymond: We are getting into a situation where the Mayor is talking re-election. Has your office been used in any measure with respect to any re-election designs of the Mayor?

Lane: I have no idea what the Mayor's plans are so far as re-election. I heard his speech this morning and I would have to have time to digest that. So far as his plans are for the future, I'd be reluctant to say because I don't have that information.

Raymond: The problem is, Mr. Lane, I'm greatly disturbed. I have a communication that's addressed: Quincy Heritage, Office of Communications. It's a memo letter. It's dated Dec. 21, 1976, and it's signed by you, A. Fred Lane. And it's addressed to the Commissioner, Vinnie LoCicero, Public Works Department. "You have been selected to work on the Mayor's committee and calendar for fund raising. I would like to meet with you on Dec. 27 at 10 a.m. in my office at 55 Sea St."

I would assume, Mr. Lane, that on Dec. 27 at 10 a.m. you are working on behalf of the citizens of this city and not on behalf of any re-election campaign for Mayor LaRaia. "There are many avenues to follow, many ideas to vote upon and many inputs that are necessary so that the entire package will be cohesive. Bob Beniers, Pat DiStefano, Mike Sheehan, William Huber have all been selected." Now, does this refresh your recollection as to what extent your department is being used for the re-election campaign for Mayor LaRaia?

Lane: Not my department, Councillor Raymond, but rather on a coffee break that we would discuss that if there was anything forthcoming....

Raymond: Well, let me ask you this, getting down to the sublime, who's paying for this piece of paper here? Aren't the taxpayers of this city paying for this piece of paper?

Lane: That's true, sir.

Raymond: Aren't they paying for your salary?

Lane: Yes, sir.

Raymond: And do you feel that it is not against the public trust, irrespective as to who you're going to campaign for, to utilize public paper on public time to gather information and take notes on someone's campaign? You don't see anything wrong with it?

Lane: No, I can see your point entirely.

Raymond: You don't think there's anything wrong with it? Or do you?

Lane: No, I can appreciate your thoughts on that.

Raymond: Mr. Williams, I would like you as city solicitor to check the legality of city employees being assigned to be on a committee for fund-raising by a Mayor of the city. I think if you checked the latest pieces of legislation that have come down that you'll find it in violation of these pieces of legislation. I recognize at least four people on this particular list that were city employees. Perhaps you can give us an opinion at some later date with respect to, either the legality or the morality of this kind of communication going back and forth interdepartment, paid for by the citizens of this city and being used to promote someone's campaign.

Raymond [later]: Did the meeting take place?

Lane: No, sir, it did not.

Raymond: Did you schedule other meetings?

Lane: No, sir, I did not.

LaRaia Neutral On Proposed Finance Commission

Mayor LaRaia said he had no feeling either way on a Quincy Finance Commission. "That is something for the City Council to discuss and act on," he said. "I personally have no need for a Finance Commission."

Then he tossed a gentle needle in the direction of the Council Chamber.

"I'm sure this suggestion by Councillor Harold is based on the fact that part-time councillors do not have sufficient data and information on the finances of the city," he said.

"I was a City Councillor myself and I see the need of assistance of this sort."

Mercury Vapor Floodlights At Heavenly Hill Ski Area

The recently installed mercury vapor floodlights in the Heavenly Hill Ski area at the Furnace Brook Golf Club in Wollaston, received a good workout over the holidays as some 1,000 adults and children tested their ski equipment on the slopes.

The installation was recently completed by the Recreation Department with the wiring and five lights estimated to cost $900 out of a bond issue. The poles were donated by the Massachusetts Electric Co.

"The floodlighting will substantially reduce the safety hazards of dark shadows and spots on the hill and enhance the enjoyment of skiers who frequent the area," said Mayor LaRia.

The project was initiated by the Mayor and Councilor John J. Lydon Jr. The hill will be open evenings until 10 p.m.

Danger Of Wrong Pricing

Since human nature is predictable, there is a better than even chance that you'll put the wrong selling price on your home if you arrive at it yourself.

You may price it far above its fair market value because of sentimental attachment, expenditures you have made, or by heeding a well-meaning friend's advice. A home remaining on the market for months due to over-pricing, frequently becomes a "White Elephant". It eventually sells for a much lower figure than it would have brought originally - had it been priced realistically.

On the other hand, you might under-price it because of unfamiliarity with the local market. This would be financial folly. Your safest bet is to list your home with a Realtor who will help you price it correctly from the start and sell it for the best profit.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

Also, we have available a one year warranty on all plumbing, heating, mechanical, electrical systems and built-in appliances on homes that we sell.

One Bright Note

Home Values Increase Faster Than Cost Of Living Over Past 10 Years

With inflation taking a heavy toll on every family's budget, many homeowners have discovered the current value of their property is the brightest spot in their financial picture.

"Since 1966, while the cost of living has increased 82.7 percent, the average selling price of most homes has climbed well over 100 percent," reported Peggy Hall, Relocation Director of Jack Conway Co., Realtor. "For many families, home ownership has provided a cushion of real profit that meets the challenges of recent inflation."

But if you're planning to sell your home in the near future, pricing can be difficult.

"It's as easy to underestimate a home's market value as it is to overestimate its potential selling price. That impressive 100 percent 10 year figure is a national average that may or may not reflect local market conditions," Mrs. Hall cautioned. "To determine a fair and realistic selling price, a home seller can benefit from the advice of a professional real estate broker in his or her own community."

As a member of RELO, the nation's largest not-for-profit relocation service, Jack Conway Company works with many home buyers moving into the South Shore or Cape Cod from other parts of the country.

"A lot of things other than market appreciation can affect a home's selling price," Mrs. Hall said. "Home improvements, for instance, can either add or detract from selling appeal, depending on how they're handled."

RELO has a few home improvement tips for homeowners concerned with their home's potential resale:

- Keep the home in tip-top repair. Repaint when needed, replace garage doors, shutters, wooden steps. While these kinds of improvements may add little to a home's selling price, left undone, they put a home in the real estate market's bargain basement.

- Make improvements certain to appeal to potential buyers. Modernize kitchens and bathrooms; add a first floor powder room.

- Make home improvements in line with other homes in the neighborhood. If your house has two bedrooms and all your neighbors have three or four, a room addition is likely to increase your home's resale value.

- Scrap ideas for a basement recreation room. Few buyers today want to spend much time underground.

- Consider a ground level family room and patio. Both are high demand items among shoppers for homes today.

- Don't let your home improvements outpace other houses in your neighborhood. The most important factors in determining any home's market value are the homes nearby. Swimming pools and tennis courts seldom fit into communities dominated by $30,000 bungalows, with swing sets in the backyards.

- Before going ahead with your home improvement plans, ask a reputable real estate broker for his opinion. He'll be able to give you a pretty good estimate of just how much the improvement can add to your home's selling price. "Sometimes, a family's needs, and wants outdistance their present home and neighborhood," notes Mrs. Hall.

It's a good idea, then, to consider moving.

Student, Parent Interest On Increase

Quincy, North Varsity Swimmers Off To Good Starts

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy and North Quincy high schools are in only their second year of varsity swimming but things look bright, not only for winning seasons this winter, but for the future of the sport.

Elaine Murphy, the Quincy coach, credits the increasing interest among the students and among the parents.

"Mr. Walker [North coach Bill Walker] and I are pleased with the number of students interested and participating in our program," Miss Murphy said. "Parental interest is also increasing which, I feel, is of tremendous importance to each team. We are growing teams and encouragement and new interest are assets to our development."

Walker and Miss Murphy are counting on winning seasons this year and each team has looked good thus far.

Going into last Tuesday's meets, North was 2-0 and Quincy 1-1. The Raiders defeated Waltham in a Suburban League meet and South Boston in a non-leaguer. Quincy lost to Brockton, a perennial Eastern Mass. power, in a league meet, and defeated Randolph outside the league.

Today [Thursday] Quincy hosts Don Bosco at 3:30 at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool and Friday North entertains

Randolph at 3:15 at the same site. Next Wednesday Quincy will be at Brookline at 3:30 and North will visit Weymouth North at 4.

"I believe that, due to the fact the boys on both teams practice together, yet compete against each other, each has become more highly motivated," Miss Murphy pointed out. "We will see the results of this motivation when North and Quincy go head to head at the Lincoln Hancock pool on Saturday morning, Jan. 29, at 10 o'clock. I hope that many parents, friends and teachers attend this meet. It promises to be an interesting meet."

Kevin and John Greene and Cahill are the divers.

The divers are Almquist, Regan, Palmer and Kenney.

Quincy Icemen In Groove, Raiders Finally Explode

Bob Sylvia seems to have his young, sophomore-studded Quincy Hockey Team on the right road after a slow start and yesterday (Wednesday) the Presidents sought their third win in a row and fourth overall at Cambridge Latin.

Quincy, with a 3-3 record, will play Waltham at the Waltham Sports Center Saturday at 7:30 p.m. and next Wednesday will host Brockton at the Quincy Youth Arena at 6:40.

Meanwhile, Ron Erikson's North Quincy skaters, who finally exploded for its first win last week, yesterday played Newton North and Wednesday will play Weymouth North at the Pilgrim Arena in Hingham at 6:30.

Quincy came from behind with two third period goals to edge

Weymouth North, 5-4, last week.

Mark Ricciardi scored the tying and winning goals with Tom Cahill assisting on both and Jack Campbell also assisting on the tying one.

Mike Gulizia also had two goals for the Presidents and Cahill the other. Cahill had three assists in all, while Mark Giordani and Campbell had two apiece.

Earlier in the week Quincy had topped North Quincy, 5-2, as the Raiders continued to find it hard to score.

Ricciardi again had two goals as did Cahill, while Giordani scored the other. Giordani had two assists and Cahill, Gulizia and Mike Van Tassel one each. For North, Mike Marks and Mike Smith had the goals with assists for Smith, Paul McDonald and Paul Cooney.

The Raiders bounced back Friday to wallop winless Rindge Tech, 7-0.

Paul Hurley had the hat trick and Jim Moore, John Andrews, Edwards and Paul Cooney had one goal each. Moore had four assists, Hurley, Andrews and Cooney two each and Mark Rooney one.

The win gave North a 1-3-2 record, but ties count the same as wins in qualifying for the Eastern Mass. tourney.

Raiders In Fast Start, Quincy Seeks 2nd Win

North Quincy's winter track team is off to another fast start as Coach Lou Tozzi continues to add to his amazing record.

Going into Tuesday's meet with unbeaten Newton North, the Raiders had a 4-1 record (2-1 in the Suburban League).

Friday, North will compete in the state coaches meet at Northeastern University and Saturday the freshmen and sophomores will take part in a meet at Bentley College. Next Tuesday the Raiders will face Rindge Tech in a league meet at 7 p.m. at Newton North.

Meanwhile, Quincy, which took its first win a week ago, will face Weymouth South Tuesday at 5:30 at Newton.

North, beaten only by Brockton as it was the last two years, handed Weymouth North its first defeat last Thursday, 53-33.

North's winners were Tim

O'Neill, 300; Rich Kennedy, 600; Jerry MacKenzie, 1000; Mike Morin, mile; Bob Levenson, two-mile; Bob Ferrara, high jump, and Mike Gallagher, shot put.

Quincy, following two losses under first-year coach John Laverty, romped over Cambridge Latin, 57-29, for its first win.

Mark Buchanan, one of the bright spots for the Presidents this year, won the dash and high jump and other winners were Jim Oriola, 300; Paul Ladas, 600; John Saville, two-mile; Tom LaBlue, low hurdles, and the relay team of Ladas, Saville, Ray Johnson and Oriola.

Earlier in the week, North had won all but one event in clobbering Cambridge Latin, 72-14. The Raiders swept three events, the 50, the 1000 and the two-mile.

The winners were Russ Chisholm, 50; Matty King, 300;

Kennedy, 600; MacKenzie, 1000; Mike Barrett, mile; Morin, two-mile; Dan McIntyre, hurdles; O'Neill, high jump, and the relay team of King, Tom Burke, Pete Regele and McIntyre.

Quincy lost to Brockton, 63-23, despite the efforts of Buchanan.

Presidents Bow To Rindge, 59-50

Quincy's basketball team lost the battle of the unbeaten, 59-50, to Rindge Tech Tuesday afternoon before a packed house, a rarity for an afternoon game, at Vo-Tech gym.

The Presidents led, 10-2, early in the game and had a 27-25 halftime edge. A cold streak in the third period enabled Rindge to come back to take the lead and the winners added to it as the game progressed.

Jack Uhlar had 18 points and Mike Lamie 14 for Quincy. The game featured two aggressive defenses which caused numerous turnovers.

Earlier in the week Quincy had won the first holiday tournament sponsored by the Quincy School Dept. by tipping over Stoughton 73-59, in the title game.

Uhlar had another big night with 23 points and 13 rebounds after having 19 points and 15 rebounds the night before in a big win over Dorchester.

Lamie had 17 points; Ken Ames, 11 and Ed Daley, 10 points and 11 assists.

Sensitive Son

Q. I am interested in knowing what the stars foretell about my son. He was born in Boston, Mass. on June 18, 1950 at 6:45 A.M. Perhaps with this information I will be able to understand him a little better.

M.S.

A. Your son is a very sensitive young man, "touchy" if you will, and greatly in need of being understood. He frequently feels that others do not understand him. He wants not only understanding but also to be loved.

Although the Sun was in the Sign of the Zodiac Gemini, indicative of intellect, his feelings and emotions are very strong because of his Moon in his First House of Cancer. In combination this increases the ability to remember and indicates an excellent imagination.

There is apt to be considerable restlessness and some indecision whether to stay home or be on the go. He is not likely to take criticism lightly, in fact he can be deeply hurt by it and he may withdraw and sort of "crawl into his shell" and brood.

He probably has very strong hunches and intuition which can influence his fine mind but they can be wrong as often as they are right.

He needs to learn not to take everything so personally but to be objective, that is, to disassociate himself from things. As he becomes more interested in others, he is apt to be happier and reach his higher possibilities.

He may at times talk at length about his griefs and in that way try to get it out of his system. His nerves should be better when he sets his mind on things other than himself, like a study, a job or an interest in another person.

PUPPETEERS TO PERFORM HERE -- Quincy school children will have a chance to see the ancient art of puppetry in action Friday, Jan. 21 when the Animal Rescue League of Boston's marionettes present "Aladdin and the Magic Lamp" at the Furnace Brook School, Quincy. Hand-made human and animal characters are brought to life by puppeteers Sarah Friedrichs and John Mayer (shown here) in adaptations of well-loved children's tales. By making these plays available, the League has taught generations of children to be sympathetic towards all creatures...an attitude which is reflected in better care for pets, consideration for the environment, and kindness as a continuing way of life. After the show, the puppeteers will hold a question and answer session with the children.

Track Club Takes 14 Ribbons

Quincy Track Club members took 14 ribbons Sunday night at Franklin and the club will go to Franklin next Sunday for another meet.

All members who were contacted should report to the Winfield House parking lot at 4 p.m. The cost is $3. For more information, members can contact Jeff Hennessy at 472-5537.

In the 13 and under division last Sunday Mike Williams took second in the 50-yard dash in 6.8 seconds.

In the girls' division Denise Santo won the dash easily in a quick 6.5 seconds.

In the girls' mile Michelle Millane took third and she also placed third in the women's half mile.

In the men's division Hennessy was second in the hurdles, Bart Petracca, now running at Cornell, won the mile and took second in the half mile, and Paul Doherty, now at Southeastern Mass. University, took third in the shot put.

In the women's division, Loretta Garrigan tied a club 14-15 age group record in the high jump, doing 4-8 for second place. Cheryl Ayles was third at 4-6. Miss Ayles also took a third in the shot.

Linda Kelleher was third in the mile and the relay team of Karen McCarthy, Denise Santo, Loretta Garrigan and Linda Cellini placed second. Miss Cellini took third in the 440 with her best time indoors, one minute, two seconds.

The Quincy Track Club made its official winter debut last week as four members took part in the fifth annual Beverly Invitational meet.

Jeff Hennessy placed third in the men's 50-yard hurdles behind the N. E. collegiate and high school champions.

In the women's events for 14 and older, three QTC girls gave creditable performances, although none placed.

Karen McCarthy, 14-year-old freshman Abp. Williams runner, made the finals of the 50-yard dash and placed fourth in 6.5 seconds. She won her heat easily, but a poor start cost her a place in the finals.

Loretta Garrigan also ran a 6.5 in her heat, but failed to make the finals.

Linda Cellini placed second in her heat in the 220. She also stars for Abp. Williams, having run 1:32 in the 600 last week.

John Jacoppo, senior girls' coach, had high praise for the QTC girls and was especially impressed with Miss McCarthy.

"They are young and this is fine experience for them running against top flight competition," he said. "Karen (McCarthy) has boundless potential. Just wait a few years, she could be the state high school champion."

New Teams On Sox 1977 Schedule

By TOM SULLIVAN
[Quincy Sun Writer]

The Red Sox, with the "boomer," George Scott, and Bernie Carbo back in the fold, will feature two day doubleheaders and two two-night doubleheaders for the first time in several years this summer.

The Red Sox will open at Fenway on April 7 at 2 against a greatly strengthened Cleveland team. The teams will play again April 9 at 2.

With the addition of the Toronto Blue Jays and the Seattle Mariners, managed by former Sox pilot Darrell Johnson, the 1977 schedule also features a new pattern of play, with visiting teams playing from five to eight games at Fenway Park.

Baltimore, Detroit and

Cleveland will be at Fenway for eight games, with the other Eastern Division opponents, New York, Milwaukee and Toronto in for seven games each. Those numbers will reverse in 1978.

Western Division opponents will play five games each at Fenway Park, except the new Mariners, who will play the 1977 "wild card" sixth game in Boston.

With the inclusion of two-night doubleheaders with Detroit and Texas, there will be 46 night games at Fenway next year. The newly created day doubleheaders will be with Milwaukee on Sunday, May 22 and a Fourth of July holiday twin bill with Toronto. Detroit will be the opponent for the traditional Patriot's Day game on April 18, which will start at noon, a change from the former 11 a.m. start.

May will be the busiest month at Fenway with 18 games on 17 dates. There will be 15 games on 14 dates in July and August, 11 games in June and September, 9 games in April and the closing 2 games in October.

Starting times for all single day games will be 2 o'clock, night games at 7:30, day doubleheaders at 1:30 and two-nighters at 6.

It was also announced that season ticket applications are still being accepted and processed at Fenway Park and individual game ticket orders will be accepted immediately.

Brownell Files 2 Bills For Environmental Protection

Hey, Kids!

Collect all 24 in this series of Capt. Noburn cartoons appearing each week in The Quincy Sun. Then turn them in at the Central Fire Station and receive an autographed picture of Capt. Noburn.

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell announces he has filed two pieces of Environmental Protection Legislation with Atty. Gen. Francis Bellotti.

The first bill authorizes civil forfeitures penalties for environmental violations.

The legislation provides for the assessment of civil penalties for violations of environmental law. There are many cases when criminal adjudication may be inappropriate, or difficult to prove, yet some sanction is called for to uphold the integrity of the law, Brownell said. A civil penalty would fill the gap, he added. Brownell declared:

"The sums so collected can go to the General Fund or, at the court's discretion, may be awarded to such department or agency of the Commonwealth or the appropriate city or town to help in abating or preventing such damage to the environment. In addition, the court may order the fine collected to be paid back directly to the violator to be used specifically for the purpose of abating or preventing such damage.

"Imposing a civil penalty for remedying the harm caused should obviate, in most cases, the necessity of pursuing a defendant later for contempt proceedings, following noncompliance with an order of the court to take the proper pollution abatement steps."

The second bill provides for attorneys' fees in tort actions for oil spill clean-up costs.

Said Brownell: "This legislation provides that in any actions brought to recover costs of oil spill clean-ups in which judgement is entered in favor of the Commonwealth or the Division of Water Pollution Control, attorneys fees shall be awarded as determined by the court. Under existing practice, the award of attorneys fees is discretionary.

"Oil spill litigation tends to be complex and time-consuming and may require the testimony of outside experts. The cases must be pursued vigorously because they seek to recover funds already spent by the Commonwealth to clean up oil spills caused by private parties.

"It is appropriate for the party responsible for oil spill damage to bear the expense of recovering for clean-up costs, rather than for the taxpayers of the Commonwealth to pay for this litigation through the general fund."

Storms Wipe Out City's Snow Budget

By TOM BRADY

Three snowstorms that wracked the city during the past two weeks have completely depleted the city's budget for snow removal according to Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia.

LaRaia could not estimate the cost of snow removal for the three storms but said the $118,588 budgeted for such costs for the year covered only "most of the first storm."

LaRaia said he'd rather not guess at what the second and third storms cost the city in snow removal.

The city will have to borrow or transfer funds to fight future storms this year.

The storms dumped 29.9 inches onto eastern Massachusetts in a two week period including the 18.6 inches that fell on Friday and Monday. A total of 36.1 inches have fallen already this year compared to 19.5 inches at this time last year.

The city plowing crews couldn't keep up with the Friday snowfall and slicks of packed glazed snow lined most of the city's side streets and a few main roads.

The biggest problem for people returning home from work Monday however, was not the snow but the rain, floods and ice slicks which formed on the streets especially as temperatures approached freezing near midnight.

During the afternoon, flooding was reported on many streets.

City DPW Interim Commissioner Paul N. Anderson said his crews were called to severe flooding problems at dozens of streets in low lying areas. East Squantum St. and

$28.8 Million School Budget Proposed By Creedon

By TOM HENSHAW

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon planned to present a $28.8 million school budget for 1977-78 to the School Committee last night [Wednesday], up a comparatively tiny 1.4 per cent over that of 1976-77.

In the past decade, increases have ranged from 9.8 per cent up to 16 per cent.

"We are proudest of the fact that the things over which we have some control increased by only $47,000," said Dr. Creedon proudly.

He listed the things beyond control of the budget-makers as staff salaries, energy (heat, light, etc.) costs and state-mandated programs, all of which make up more than 90 per cent of the budget.

"The expense line [learning materials] is the only line we can control to any extent," said Dr. Creedon. "On that line we are up only $47,000."

School budgeters held the line by ignoring the cost of living increase.

"If we had gone along with the normal cost of living it would have increased 6.9 per cent," said Dr. Creedon.

The proposed budget for 1977-78 is $28,800,000.

Of that, 81.1 per cent is staff salaries, 16.8 per cent is expenses [including energy costs], 0.8 per cent is capital outlay, 1.2 per cent is pensions and 0.1 per cent is out-of-state travel.

Illegal Dumping May Have Cost City Over $130,000

City Councillor James A. Sheets' long-awaited investigation of the city dump was scheduled to get underway last night [Wednesday] amid indications that illegal dumping for the past eight months has cost the city at least $131,922.24.

And it has shortened the life of the Quincy landfill on Ricciuti Drive in West Quincy to such an extent that the city may be paying $17 a ton to dump rubbish in the Plainville landfill in less than eight years.

Sheets said the object of the investigation is to "promote additional operational charges at the disposal facility and to preserve fully the remaining life of the dump" by ordinance, if necessary.

He outlined these three main areas of the inquiry:

- Examination of the extent of alleged illegal dumping of non-Quincy rubbish.

- Examination of the practice of "allowing companies, in some cases indiscriminately, to bring solid fill into the disposal facility."

"In fiscal 1975-76, about 20,000 tons of cover material had to be purchased in excess over the previous year and in excess of what was projected to be needed for the year by Bill Moore Associates, the disposal's engineering firm."

- Look into "the rationale for allowing trucks to enter the facility and deposit loads, whether those loads be solid fill or otherwise, without being recorded."

"Out of the information gleaned from these three areas," Sheets said, "we hope that a new system will be devised for

'Hello, Russ, How Are You?'

It Was Jimmy And Rosalynn Carter On The Phone

By HENRY BOSWORTH

The telephone rang Monday night at 8:45 p.m. at the Chickatabot Rd., Merrymount home of Russell Johnson.

On the line was an operator who asked him to call the White House operator because "Mrs. Carter wants to talk with you."

She gave Johnson the number and he made the call. After identifying himself, the White House operator told him she would put a call to Plains, Ga. "because it will be a much clearer connection and I will get back to you."

A few minutes later the phone rang again.

"This is a government operator in Plains, Ga.," said the voice, "and I have Mrs. Carter for you, Mr. Johnson."

And, then, Rosalynn Carter was saying:

"Russ, we wanted to call you after we learned of Mary's death to offer our condolences and our thanks to you for all the help you were to us during the campaign."

Mrs. Carter said they just couldn't believe Mary's death had come so suddenly.

Mary, a WJDA personality, died from cancer in November, shortly after Carter was elected President. The latter had sent her flowers and a note when he learned of her illness.

Russ and Mary first met Carter in May, 1973 when Russ, as arrangements chairman for the annual South Shore Council of Churches Prayer Breakfast, had invited him to be the keynote speaker.

They became good friends and when Carter decided to run for President, the Johnsons were among the first to know. He asked them to help him and they did. Russ became his Quincy coordinator and Mary pitched in to help.

Ever since their first meeting, Carter has referred to Russ as "my first friend in Massachusetts."

Russ - and Rosalynn

chatted for awhile more and then she said to him: "Someone would like to say hello to you."

And then the next President of the United States was saying: "Russ, how are you doing? We were so sorry to hear of Mary's death."

They talked some more and Carter recalled fondly:

"It all started in Massachusetts with you and Mary. I'm happy the state went with me in the final election. Wait a minute, Rosalynn wants to talk to you again."

Rosalynn wanted to be sure Russ had his invitation to the inaugural and said they were looking forward to seeing him in Washington.

Russ assured them he had the invitation and would definitely be there.

He only wished that Mary could be there with him.

The conversation with the Carters took almost 15 minutes. They said so-long.

Russ was flabbergasted—but not really surprised. He knows the Carters pretty well.

"Can you imagine," he wondered, "the next President of the United States and the next First Lady calling a nobody like me to say hello."

To Jimmy and Rosalynn Carter, though, Russ is a real somebody.

Mayor's Office, Harborview Commission Plan Interviews For Housing Authority Vacancy

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia announces his office will conduct interviews jointly with a committee from tenants' organizations of the citywide Harborview Residents Commission to fill an upcoming vacancy on the local housing authority.

The position, currently held by Rev. Peter Corea, Chairman of the Housing Authority, becomes vacant in February.

The tenants organization, which represents the city's public housing facilities, is in the process of selecting members for a screening committee which will conduct personal interviews with applicants for the position the first week of February.

The housing authority is composed of five members, four of whom are appointed by the mayor. The fifth member is appointed by the secretary of the Department of Community Affairs. Each member serves a term of five years. The terms of all five are staggered annually so as to insure new in-put each year.

The department of community affairs makes its appointment based upon a screening process whose guidelines were authorized jointly with the Massachusetts union of public housing tenants. The screening process is designed to guarantee tenants organizations in-put in the interviewing and recommendation of candidates for appointments to the housing authority. The most recent DCA appointment is Rosemary Wahlberg.

"It has been my administrations' policy to solicit citizen participation in significant areas of city government," said LaRaia.

"I approve of the principle of citizen in-put. The screening committee, utilized normally in the case of DCA appointments only, offers the citizens an opportunity to give me their counsel. Therefore, I am mobilizing a tenants' screening committee on which I will be represented by my administrative aide, Arthur Casey. Mr. Casey will then forward to me the recommendations of the committee which I will carefully review before making the appointment."

Chairman of the screening committee, Mrs. Ellen Nieters, said that interested persons must submit their resumes to either the mayor's office or the harborview residents commission, 9 Bicknell St., by Jan. 28.

"The tenants organizations feel this is the ultimate in citizen participation and we thank the mayor for affording us this opportunity," said Mrs. Nieters.

Elderly, General Relief Recipients Tobin Bill Would Prevent $2.8 Million Operating Deficit At Quincy Hospital

Senator Arthur Tobin [D-Quincy] has filed legislation to alleviate a problem for municipalities which have been directed to provide medical and hospital care for the elderly and general relief recipients without reimbursement from the state.

Citing the example of the Quincy City Hospital, a municipal owned and operated hospital, Tobin said "that unless his bill is acted upon favorably, the property taxpayers of Quincy will be forced to pick up what promises to be a $2,850,000 operating deficit, which amounts to an additional $10 on the tax rate."

"Primary reason for this impending horror was an executive policy change which shut off hospitalization payments for general relief recipients, Tobin said. One only needs to examine the past five fiscal years' revenues as opposed to operating costs at Quincy City Hospital, and it can readily be seen that gross revenue exceeded operating expenses in every year except for the fiscal year 1976, the year in which the administrative policy change took effect.

"Projections show that the trend set in fiscal year 1976 appears to be surfacing in this fiscal year. If this trend continues, the hospital will fall short of meeting its total operating costs by $2,850,000 and exceed the budgeted cost of salaries and expenses by only about one percent."

Tobin said. There are only four ways, he is aware of, as to how the total operating costs of municipal hospitals can be balanced with revenue:

- Establish rates which will cover every contingency.

- Absorb the difference between costs and revenue through property taxation.

- Restrict the handling of indigent patients unless they live in Quincy.

- Establish a state aid program for municipal hospitals which will offset, at least in part, deficit operations.

"If one looks at the alternates, it can be readily seen that the first is undesirable because health insurance premiums are already at an all time high. The second alternate is eminently unfair because it effects only those who pay taxes in the community that provides hospital services and who have just been struck with a $34.90 increase.

"The third alternate would be unacceptable because any hospital should provide humanitarian care for those who are sick no matter where they live. The proposed bill would provide aid in the amount of $8,100 per bed per year."

City To Receive $103,108

Quincy will receive $103,108 in the next few days as the third quarterly allocation of funds through the federal anti-recession fiscal assistance program, Cong. James A. Burke announced.

The funds are distributed on the basis of unemployment rates as determined by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics and are terminated once the community's unemployment rate goes below 4.5 per cent.

Thus far, Quincy has received $323,465.

QCA Asks Council Rezone Land For Hospital Parking

The Quincy Citizens Association at its recent monthly meeting voted to urge the City Council to rezone adjacent land at the City Hospital from Residential A to Residential C for parking.

The QCA says the action is necessary in order for consideration of any work to bring the hospital to hospital and code standards. The City has owned this property for over two years and until the land is rezoned nothing can be done, it noted.

The association also voted to inform the Police Department it objects to stores being open recently on Sunday in violation of the Sunday blue laws. The question is not the Blue Laws themselves, but the flagrant violation of any existing laws is not a proper climate for any community or society, the association said.

TERROR IN THE TUB

John Glenn, our first man in space, orbited the earth unharmed, but was seriously injured slipping in his own bathtub. Tubs can be deadlier than outer space. Here's some helpful hints:

Smooth, non-porous surfaces and soapy water are a slippery combination. To make your footing more secure, use a suction-cup rubber mat or rough-surfaced adhesive strips. [If you're planning to install a new bathtub, some are now manufactured with slip-resistant surfaces.]

There should be at least two grab-bars securely mounted on the wall next to a tub, at different heights, and one in every shower stall to prevent falls.

Accessories - towel rings, towel racks, shower curtain rods, should also be mounted securely, for a falling person will grab the first support within reach. All bathtub and shower accessories should be free of sharp edges and constructed with sturdy materials. Incidentally, make sure that shower doors are glazed with safety glass.

Sheets Supports Harrington On Tax Help Proposals

Rep. James A. Sheets has sent a letter to Senate President Kevin B. Harrington voicing strong support for the latter's proposals to aid the state's tax beleaguered cities and towns.

Sheet said he believes that by declaring a moratorium on any further state mandated programs and by giving municipalities the option to suspend some burdensome state mandated programs, it would give "some meaningful relief" to the state's fiscally troubled municipalities.

Sheets pledged to Harrington his full support for these measures and expressed hope they will be passed this session.

"Unless this legislation is passed, it will be impossible to prevent further tax increases like the unprecedented $34.90 tax increase of 1976," Sheets said.

Who's In Mayoral Race? LaRaia, Tobin Hold Key

There seems to be more people running for mayor these days than for an MBTA bus.

But how many of them will really be running when it comes down to putting their names on the ballot? Two. Maybe three.

Joseph LaRaia and Arthur Tobin really hold the key to who and how many will be candidates.

If LaRaia seems to be acting like a man who really isn't sure he will run, you can hardly blame him. Right now he's working on his second year Exedrin headaches.

If he doesn't seek re-election, the field could be wide open. Providing, that is, if Tobin doesn't run either.

If LaRaia is a candidate and Tobin challenges him, you're not going to see many others tossing their hats in. Maybe Atty. George Tull who has already said he is a candidate but has yet to officially make an announcement.

If Tobin runs, the other names being mentioned now, will quite surely "sit it out". Names like: Walter Hannon, James Sheets, George Burke, Thomas Brownell, Dennis Harrington.

Robert Cerasoli and Daniel Raymondi mentioned elsewhere as possible candidates, really aren't even thinking of it. So you can scratch them.

But there are two other possibilities: School Committeeman and bank President Francis McCauley, and Atty. Paul Kelly, former school committeeman.

But, again, if Tobin decides to run it is doubtful if any one of the above would step into the fight.

There's some speculation, however, that Tobin will run only if LaRaia does. So if LaRaia doesn't, Tobin may not. Then be careful crossing Hancock St., or you might get hit by anyone of a number of speeding candidates.

Other observers think Tobin won't run anyway - whether LaRaia seeks re-election or not. They think LaRaia's chances of re-election are getting thinner. And if the extortion charges against two of his appointees stick, they see that as the albatross around his neck.

Regardless, who's who and how many, in this year's mayoral election is really up to LaRaia and Tobin.

THIS MAY OR may not have a bearing on who might actually run for mayor this fall: Walter Hannon is now a registered Democrat.

Some observers think that as a Republican incumbent he lost quite a few votes to Democrat LaRaia among new voters in that bitter battle - in 1975 as the latter made a partisan election out of it.

Hannon always acted more like a Democrat than a Republican anyway. But interestingly, his wife, Patricia, is still a registered Republican.

ARTHUR TOBIN and his wife, Shirley, have been invited to both Jimmy Carter's inaugural and the ball. They aren't sure, however, whether they'll be able to make it.

Definitely planning on going, are George Burke and wife, Sandy, who also have invites.

REP. ROBERT CERASOLI will be "redistricted" out of the ranks of bachelorhood this year. He will wed Jo-Ann Sclafani of the North End Oct. 23. She's employed by an insurance company.

BEAUTY and athletic ability seems to run in the Zoia family. Rhonda, daughter of former North Quincy football great, Pete Zoia, is all-sports queen at North. She's also on the girls' track and gymnastics teams and is co-captain of the cheerleaders. She's an honor student and plans to become a dental technician.

Another of Pete's daughters, Regina, a student at Boston State, was North's all-sports queen in 1973-74.

EVERYBODY'S FRIEND, Peter Maurano Jr. of Viden Rd., South Quincy, has had five poems published in a poetry anthology "Yearbook of Modern Poetry-1976" published in Knoxville, Tenn.

OBSERVATION: From where I sat Sunday was Super Bore.

SMILE DEPT: Jack Silverstein, the North Quincy druggist-author, tells about the mechanic who went to see a psychiatrist. And as the session started, the psychiatrist told him: "Get under the couch."

THUMBNAIL THOUGHTS

By Senator Snuffy

If coffee prices keep going up, there'll be no free coffee handed out on the highways next New Year's Eve.

Jimmy Carter worked hard at getting the right Cabinet members but history will show he makes as many mistakes as other presidents before him.

Turn some political columnists loose in heaven for a day and they'd convince us there are power struggles going on up there, too.

As if the recent snowstorms weren't bad enough, now they say gasoline may go over $1.00 a gallon.

LIVING TODAY

by Dr. William F. Knox

Stop Beating Yourself For Being Human

Mary is a beautiful young woman ... blonde ... good husband who loves her greatly ... three nice children. She's full of life ... the psychological test I gave her indicated that she is eager for new experiences and ventures in life. She loves people ... has great empathy for people and shares with many the burdens of their lives.

When I first saw Mary she was deeply distressed because of the recent loss of her 13-month old baby. She had been grieving and feeling awful guilt for two long years. Nearly everyone suffers the bitter mixture of grief and guilt when a loved one dies. Because of her unusual sensitivity Mary felt it more than most.

"Remember in that first session" ... Mary said recently ... "I was sobbing ... and saying 'If only I hadn't given the aspirin ... if only I had called the doctor sooner ... if only'. You stopped me ... you placed your hand on my arm and said ... 'Mary ... stop beating yourself for being human.' That changed my whole outlook ... that's just what I was doing ... blaming myself for a freak thing. [The aspirin had gone into the baby's lung ... plus some other complications.] I took a giant step forward when I heard you say ... 'Stop beating yourself for being human.'"

What Mary was doing, many people do ... beat themselves for being human ... refuse to accept their humanity. I suggest that no one can be at peace with himself until he comes to like being a human being ... with all of our weaknesses and strengths. Saying it another way ... be real ... accept the facts of life. When you've erred, accept the fact of your error. Grieve reasonably ... but not without setting your limits. Take responsibility for the events you caused ... but don't surrender yourself to crippling guilt. "It's human to err" ... some person said who knew what it is to be a human being. We're neither gods ... nor goddeses ... just human beings ... probably the finest thing in God's whole creation.

Now what shall you do with the painful blunder that occasionally happens in everyone's life? First ... ACCEPT IT. Don't play the phony game of "pretend it didn't happen." Don't indulge yourself in fantasy thinking ... "I wish it hadn't happened." Recognize what is real ... it did happen ... you can't change it. Only when we accept events ... death ... accident ... loss of job ... loss of love ... loss of money, can we deal realistically with these human events. "Don't beat yourself for being human."

Secondly ... LEARN TO FORGIVE YOURSELF. Religious people talk much about God's forgiveness ... too little about forgiving ourselves. Whoever you are ... whatever your faith ... you need to forgive yourself. Forgiving means not holding anything against oneself ... excusing oneself ... not beating oneself for being human. It's human to err ... and to need forgiveness.

The third principle ... LEARN FROM YOUR BLUNDER ... AND GROW from it. Don't suffer any unfortunate human experience without benefitting from it. Let it be a springboard to new life instead of beating yourself that it happened.

Once we get these three principles embedded in our way of life, we regain lost confidence ... seize the handles of life held out to us ... and get on with the real business of living. "Stop beating yourself for being human."

Harold Defends Concept Of Proposed Finance Commission

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

At the outset, I'd like to commend your paper for the space devoted to the proposed charter amendments. However, I feel that these proposals should not be dismissed out of hand, but rather should be the point of discussion for the next year as part of the City Council's business. For that reason, I'd like to briefly answer questions that were raised in last week's "Sunbeams" column concerning the amendment to establish a finance commission.

Over the past year, serving as councillor-at-large, I've noticed that in time and again many of the problems the City Council finds itself involved in, result from the fact that we are a part-time, elected body, which is often times too political.

The idea of a finance commission would correct some of the deficiencies in the mechanics of our city government. First, it would do on a full-time basis what a part-time body cannot do - provide full-time investigations into city contracts, bonds, etc. Second, it would provide a continuity that obviously cannot be provided by a body whose membership changes at almost every election.

It is this continuity that is needed to stabilize taxes and city finances in general. Third, I believe that such a commission should be appointed rather than elected, so as to remove it from the day-to-day politics at the local level.

While Boston is the only other city in the state with a finance commission, blaming Boston's tax increases on the commission is evidence that one does not know how a commission functions. A commission does not control the city's finances - this is the prerogative of the City Council. Should the finance commission plan be adopted in Quincy - no power would be taken away from the City Council, as some people fear. Rather, the commission would provide two vital functions - investigatory and advisory - to help the City Council better perform its basic function - control of the city's finances.

Sincerely,

Paul D. Harold

Appeals To Readers To Oppose Proposed Ban On Religious Broadcasts, Telecasts

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I received a copy of the minutes of the American Legion Department Executive Committee meeting dated November, 1976. Since that time I have looked for any information concerning this matter and think that it should be brought to your attention.

Madeline Murray O'Hare, who had the prayers taken out of the schools has a petition [R.N. 2493] before the Federal Communications Commission to prevent all religious ceremonies being broadcast on radio and television. I have asked all in the Houghs Neck area and all members of Houghs Neck Post No. 380, American Legion to send a post card to The Federal Communications Center, 1919 M Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20544, to oppose any action of this nature. I am not an alarmist, but this woman has succeeded in the past. This resolution is scheduled for review in February.

This resolution will hurt those who can not attend services, our elderly, and the shut ins. The Department of Massachusetts, American Legion, recorded their opposition unanimously, but, other voices must be heard too. Please appeal to your readers to oppose this resolution.

Thank you,

Sons Of Lebanon Criticize Raymondi On Allegations

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The Syrian Lebanese Community represented by the Sons of Lebanon Club in Ward 2 Quincy Point is outraged at the allegations made against Michael Shaheen-President of the Sons of Lebanon Club.

— Cannot ... political appointments be interested in Cultural Affairs? Would Mr. Raymondi deny all men who are political appointees participation in any Cultural Affairs?

Mr. Raymondi makes allegations which he doesn't substantiate. Slandering a good man in our community does more harm than good. We would appreciate it if Mr. Raymondi would devote his time and effort to help improve the section of Quincy Point he is supposed to represent!

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin and former Mayors Charles A. Ross, Joseph L. Whiton and William A. Bradford attended Tirrell's funeral. Ex-Mayors Charles Francis Adams and Perley E. Barbour were out of the city.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By Eric Swider

Sign Of Our Times: Death By Red Tape

According to environmentalists, the black-footed ferret, nesting hawk, antelope, kangaroo rat, and actor Robert Redford won a major victory last year when a group of utilities cancelled their plans to build the world's largest coal-fired energy plant on the Kaiparowits Plateau of Utah.

Thirteen years ago, a group of Arizona and California power companies picked this lonely spot in southern Utah because of its desolate location. Bureaucratic bungling and environmental roadblocks cut the capacity of the originally planned facility in half and increased the cost sevenfold to a point where plans to proceed were abandoned. The weight of the environmental process has grown by such proportions that projects of this magnitude are probably out of the question for the future.

The plant, as originally conceived, would have consumed 60,000 tons of low sulfur coal daily, produced 6 million kilowatts, or enough to supply six million people with electricity. It would have reduced our annual consumption of foreign oil by $500,000,000 annually by using abundant domestic coal.

Although the Kaiparowits Plateau is a vast wasteland, it forms the desolate heart of some of America's most spectacular parklands [Lake Powell, Glen Canyon, Grand Canyon, Zion and Bryce Canyon], and there began the trouble.

A 1966 request to use Lake Powell waters for cooling the plant remained unanswered through 1970 by the U.S. Interior Department. In that year, the National Environmental Policy Act was adopted requiring environmental impact statements [EIS] on projects of this magnitude. It was 1973 before the EIS could be completed, and then Interior Secretary Rogers Morton rejected the Kaiparowits application without reading the EIS. He made his judgement on another report about coal-fired plants he had read; and although he later agreed to reconsider, another EIS became necessary which took two more years to complete. The 4½ year EIS process cost the utilities $5 million in paperwork. The second EIS, although considered objective, was also largely ignored in the debate. The major issue - pollution control - was settled quickly. The utilities agreed to $800 million in pollution control devices [more than the $500 million total project cost when originally conceived].

What bogged the project down was what utilities regarded as unreasonable environmental demands by government investigators. The Feds wanted:

- Lights on transmission towers to warn birds.
- A fish net placed over water pumps 250 feet down in Lake Powell.
- Restrictions on building 1,450 miles of transmission lines which included using helicopters to build in certain areas so as not to disturb the kangaroo rat, and to refrain from building when antelope were fawning and where birds of prey were nesting, and to keep their lines 200 feet from desert tortoise dens and a quarter of a mile from black-footed ferret towns.

The utilities pointed out that lights tend to attract birds and that no fish live 250 feet down in the lake. While the Bureau of Land Management agreed to study the bird and fish situations, they hung in there on the matter of ferrets, tortoises and rats.

The draft environment impact study was circulated in February of 1975 and public hearings that followed weren't exceptionally productive. One hearing participant worried that plant construction would exterminate an insect species that hadn't even yet been discovered and urged further delay until all of the insects in the area could be catalogued.

Delay, inflation, and construction industry wage settlements were driving up the cost of the project by $1 million a day. Environmentalists were working hard to add to the project's woes. The Audubon Society referred to Kaiparowits as the "ultimate obscenity" and charged that its emissions once added to those of other coal-fired plants in the Southeast would create pollution greater than that of heavily polluted Tokyo.

The Sierra Club insisted that the plant's emissions would cut visibility at the Grand Canyon from 100 miles to 15 miles despite the fact that the government-sponsored EIS stated that about 5% of the time, Grand Canyon visibility might be cut from 70 to 57 miles for people looking directly at the plant.

Utility leaders charged environmentalists' statements to be deceptive almost to the point of fraud, and Sierra Club officials basically concurred that "this wasn't so much a factual debate as a value judgement."

The final environmental impact study was completed last March, and Interior Secretary Kleppe was expected to give qualified approval to the project but never got the chance. The utilities realized they still needed to obtain 220 additional permits and authorizations from 42 state, federal, and local agencies, some of whom would undoubtedly throw up impossible requirements and demands. Additionally, the Sierra Club had already sued to rescind the utilities' water rights and promised additional suits.

The cost had swollen from $500 million to $3.7 billion for a plant half the size originally conceived. The utilities threw in the sponge and environmentalists celebrated.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Are There Limits On Campaign Contributions?

"I plan to contribute to the campaigns of several candidates running for local office. Are there limits on the amount of money I can give?" a caller recently asked the VOTER INFORMATION PHONE.

"Yes," the VIPHOne volunteer answered. According to the Massachusetts campaign finance law, individuals may contribute up to $1,000 per candidate per year. An added stipulation, however, is that an individual of less than 18 years of age may not make campaign contributions in an amount which exceeds a total of $25 during any calendar year.

This is just one of hundreds of calls received by the VOTER INFORMATION PHONE, a statewide free public service sponsored by the League of Women Voters Lotte E. Scharfman Memorial Fund. Volunteers are on hand Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. to answer all kinds of questions about government - local, state, or national. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880; callers elsewhere in Massachusetts should dial the toll-free number, 1-800-882-1649.

MONEY TALKS

Reading This Column Can Be Worth $949,000 To You

By Philip J. Lawrence, President
Colonial Federal Savings
and Loan Association
of Quincy, Holbrook & Wareham
8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

As a self-employed person, you may be so busy trying to make money that you are actually throwing it away.

In your work as doctor, lawyer, merchant, or whatever, you have probably heard about "Keogh". But the odds are that you have been too absorbed to find out what Keogh is all about. If you'll take a minute to read the rest of this, you may be forever grateful that you did.

A fellow named Keogh, a Congressman from Brooklyn, New York, introduced a bill that became the Keogh Act in 1972. The 1974 Pension Reform Act provided that a self-employed person may set aside each year 15 percent of earned income or $7,500, whichever is less, into his or her own retirement savings account.

The beauty of this program of retirement planning is that the amount you put away each year into your Keogh Account is deducted from your taxable income for that year. Let's suppose you qualify for the maximum $7,500, which means that your net earned income for 1976 will be $50,000 or more. By putting that amount into your Keogh Account with us, you would actually be adding $3,750 or more [depending on your tax bracket] to your real take-home income this year.

But that's not all. The best part of the program could be that the interest earned on this money is not taxed either. This compounded interest in time gets to be substantial. Let's assume, for example, that you are a 35-year-old doctor and start this month with $7,500 in your Keogh Account. If you continue these deposits annually, by age 65 you will have put in $225,000, but with accumulated interest, your nest egg on retirement, based on current maximal certificate interest, will be $948,855!

The only catch is that when you begin to withdraw your money for retirement purposes, it become taxable as income in the year used. But retirement years are years of reduced income with special tax advantages granted by the government so that what is taxed will be taxed at a much lower rate.

If you are not self-employed but your employer is not currently providing a qualified retirement plan, you may set aside each year 15 percent of your wages up to $1,500 in a separate retirement fund similar to the Keogh plan. The amount that goes into this Individual Retirement Account is deducted from the gross income reported on the federal income tax return and thus annually puts several hundred extra dollars into your pocket.

If you are presently 35 years of age and continue this program to age 65, you will have deposited $45,000. But with accumulated interest, your retirement fund will then be worth a gratifying $189,770.96.

Now that you have read this far, take the next step and drop in to see us - before the end of the year.

Storms Wipe Out City's Snow Fighting Budget

Sea St. in Houghs' Neck were both closed to traffic due to floods.

The Southern Artery, Palmer St., Independence Ave., Howard St., Brook St., and almost every intersection near either Furnace Brook or Town Brook suffered flooding bad enough to make them impassable at times.

Both Anderson and LaRia praised the work of the DPW road crews who worked all weekend, some for 32 hours at a stretch, to clear snow, ice and slush from the streets and catchbasins.

Anderson, appointed only three days before the worst onslaught of the storms, said he was very pleased that his crews worked so hard for him. He said at least 6,500 man hours were put in by an around the clock complement of 130 men.

School was cancelled Friday, Monday and Tuesday due to the weather. The school department reported that a maintenance crew of 29 men worked through the weekend into Monday to plow school lots and make preparations for possible flooding in the schools.

During the storm crisis, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon manned the switchboard himself to co-ordinate maintenance efforts. The school department's own walkie-talkie network was set up to enable the crews to move quickly to flood problems.

The school cancellations leave only two more bad weather days on the systems calendar for the year. State law requires that students attend for at least 180 days and five snow days were scheduled at the beginning of the year for Quincy students.

The Quincy Fire Department reported no serious problems caused by the storm.

A spokesman at the Fire Prevention Division said that a two-alarm fire at 121 Main St., Quincy Point, was extinguished without water problems or hydrant problems.

Most of the city's fire hydrants were shoveled out by nearby residents and any others were cleared by the Fire Dept.

Sheets Launches Probe Into Alleged Illegal Dumping

recording trucks entering the disposal system and certifying their contents.

"It is not the intent of the chairman to embarrass any person or past administration nor exceed the scope of the previous police investigation."

Sheets traced this case history of one company's activities at the dump:

"Company A was recorded over an eight-month period dumping 2,060 loads of rubbish in the Quincy disposal.

"Company A had 16 different vehicles registered with the DPW with each having been granted individual permits to pick up commercial rubbish in the city of Quincy.

"Each company is required to list the location of each of its pickups in the city of Quincy when the permits to dump are requested and at the beginning of each year.

"Company A listed 19 commercial pickups in the city of Quincy.

"Sixteen of these, according to our records, were then sub-contracted to another disposal firm, making the total number of pickups for Company A at three.

"If Company A made two pickups at each location a week, a total of six a week, it would take from two to three weeks to make up one load.

"In eight months, however, Company A dumped 2,060 loads, an average of 193 loads every three weeks."

There is a big difference between 193 and 1, thinks Sheets.

The city charges $40 for each load dumped at the disposal facility. The 2,060 loads means $82,400 in gross income to the city.

The 2,060 loads comes to 10,506 tons of rubbish. It costs $3.40 a ton to cover the rubbish. That's a cost of $35,720.40, which, subtracted from the gross, leaves the city a net income of $46,479.

"If we were to buy space for 10,506 tons of rubbish in the Plainville Landfill, as Weymouth does today, to replace the 10,506 tons of space surrendered by the Quincy site, as we must someday, it would cost $178,602 at $17 a ton," said Sheets.

"Therefore, subtracting the net income from the cost, the city has lost $131,922.24 over the last eight months with Company A alone."

"And with this company alone, the Quincy disposal has been losing a year of life every seven years, based on the estimate that 342,000 cubic yards of rubbish is dumped there every year."

Sheets said the investigation will disclose if any other companies are involved in the illegal dumping.

MISSING TANKER BUILT AT QUINCY SHIPYARD

Has the mysterious and ominous Bermuda Triangle moved north?

Is it now the Nova Scotia Triangle, the place where the Quincy-built tanker Grand Zenith vanished on New Year's Eve with a crew of 38 and eight million gallons of oil?

No less than three large vessels have disappeared in the past two years in a triangle pointed by Nova Scotia, Cape Cod and a spot 500 miles out to sea. They are the fishing boats Zubelgenubi and Patricia Marie and the research ship Gulf Stream.

And now Grand Zenith, which was named Orion Comet when she was launched at Bethlehem's Fore River Shipyard back in 1953 and has since changed names five times and sailed under two flags.

Conservation Commission Gives Green Light To Germantown Park

Mike's Corner

By Representative Michael W. Morrissey

On Wednesday January 5, 1977, I was sworn in as State Representative of the Third Norfolk District. This article is the first in a series of articles, written by Representative Michael Morrissey, to help inform the voters of the North Quincy-Wollaston area and the City of Quincy of legislation or legislative action, that may have an effect on the city or it's inhabitants.

At precisely 11:00 A.M. on January 5, 1977, the legislature met and summoned the Governor to administer the oath of office. The legislature, then proceeded to elect Rep. Thomas W. McGee of Lynn as Speaker of the House, by an overwhelming margin. In his key note address, the Speaker outlined 3 important programs that the legislature would be working on in the coming year. The Speaker promised to:

1. Review and revitalize some of the older laws on the books.
2. Promised stronger legislative action to see that all laws passed are carried out [to the letter] by the appropriate state agency without any alterations.

3. Promised a fair solution to the mandated re-districting of the legislature.

On Thursday, January 6th, the legislature met to be addressed by the Governor and to swear in members of the Governor's Council. I was appointed to a special committee to inform the Governor that the legislature was in session.

The regular sessions of the Legislature started this week. Committee assignments will be made early in the next week, and until that time I may be reached by calling 727-2424 or 328-0900.

James Garrity Named To Consumer Protection Committee

James Garrity of the Garrity Oil Co., 657 Adams St., Quincy, has been named by Atty. Gen. Francis X. Bellotti to a 25-member committee to develop rules and regulations under the Consumer Protection Act for the debt collection field. The committee is the result of a nine-month study of complaints in the field which showed that, although there are laws governing the area, there is need for specific rules. The Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, headed by Asst. Atty. Gen. Paula Gold, investigated 460 complaints against 26 debt collection firms, finance companies, retail merchants and attorneys.

"The vast majority of the people in the debt collection field do attempt to comply with the law," said Bellotti, "but there is a lack of clarity in the law."

MEDICAL IMPROVEMENT DEDUCTIBLE

Home improvements are generally not tax deductible, but they can be - if they're a medical necessity. For example, a swimming pool to provide treatment for a polio victim; a chairlift elevator for a heart patient; central air conditioning for a child afflicted with cystic fibrosis.

How much of the expense is deductible? The amount OVER which it increases the property value. For example, if an elevator costs $5,000, and the property value is increased by $1,000, the $4,000 excess is deductible. If there's NO increase in property value, it's ALL deductible.

But you'll need two documents to support this claim. A letter from a doctor stating that it is a medical necessity and a written opinion from a competent real estate appraiser stating the amount [if any] the improvement adds to the value of your property.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Quincy's 2nd Win Better Last Year Mark

The Quincy track team already has as many wins as a year ago, two, and first-year coach John Lavery hopes to win some more meets.

The Presidents evened their record at 2-2 [last year's final mark was 2-7] with an easy 64-21 win over Brookline in a Suburban League meet last week.

Quincy was sparked by double winner Jim Oriola, who took the 300 and the high jump. Paul Ladas won the 600, Steve Kane the 1000, Don Jones the mile, undefeated John Saville the two-mile and Mark Assad the shot put.

Lou Tozzi's North Quincy team, minus three of its leading scorers, Mike Morin, Bob Levenson and Mike Gallagher, all injured, was walloped by undefeated Newton North, 64-22.

Jerry MacKenzie, one of only two North winners, stole the spotlight by winning the 1000 in 2:26.5, best in the league this year, and running a fantastic anchor leg for the relay team.

Jerry trailed by 30 yards as he took the baton but caught his opponent in the final turn only to fall down. "He ran an amazing leg and it was a real tough break for him," Tozzie said.

The only other North winners was Mike Barrett in the two-mile.

Newton's Duncan Scott just missed the league record in the mile when he ran a 4:29.6 to defeat North's Mike Ketzner. The record is 4:28.

The loss dropped the Raiders' record to 4-2 [2-2 in the league].

Saturday Quincy meets Waltham at 10 a.m. and North faces Weymouth South at 11:30 at Newton North.

QJC Icemen Host Holyoke Saturday

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy Junior College hockey team is back in the strong Mass. Junior College League this winter and going into Saturday's 8:30 game against Holyoke at the Quincy Youth Arena the Jaguars have a 4-3 record.

A year ago Ken Hayes' QJC team rebounded after a slow start to compile a 10-9-3 record playing an independent schedule.

Returning from that squad are Capt. Bob Kasianowicz, center, Quincy's Bob Boyle, alternate captain, defense; North Quincy's Bill Connolly, defense; alternate captain Mike Lake, wing, and John Tormey, goalie.

"This year we have some depth which we lacked the past two years and we have some players with pretty good credentials," Hayes said.

The first line has Wally Feldhouse, the leading scorer, and Quincy's Bob Barry at the wings and Kasianowicz center.

Playing on the second line are Lake and North Quincy's Bob Weddleton at the wings and Brad Harland, of North Quincy center.

Making up the third line are Rich Hanley, Jim Connors of North Quincy and Bob Cross at the wings and Kevin Sheehan center.

"Each line is checking well and the players aren't afraid to go" after the puck in the corners," Hayes said.

Boyle and Bill Shea make up the number defense duo and Hayes lauded their performances. "These two are without a doubt the best working pair of defensemen in the league," he said. "They rush the puck, make good passes, cover up, get back and can shoot."

Sean Canniff, an all-star in the Greater Boston League last year while playing for Revere High, and Gerry DeLuca of Quincy make up the second set.

Connolly, a forward last year, is playing strong defense but is willing to play anywhere.

In goal Tormey is joined by Dick Wilson, last year's all-scholastic from North Quincy High. They alternate in each game. A third goalie is Mike Corbett.

"Last year the college was ready to drop the hockey program because of the cost and the lack of participation," Hayes stated. "Although the school is not known for its hockey, nonetheless, some of the players wouldn't be going to college if it weren't for the hockey program.

"Everyone comes to practice and they all work hard at it. We don't emphasize wins and our main goal is participation. Most of these players have jobs and they make many sacrifices to be on this team. I just hope that we get the recognition we deserve. We have 13 freshmen, so the future looks good."

QJC won its opener over Suffolk, 6-4, with Feldhouse having two goals and an assist, Lake, Connors, Kasianowicz and Boyle a goal each and Weddleton an assist.

In a return game Suffolk won, 7-5, with Shea having a goal and two assists, Feldhouse a goal and assist, Cross, Barry and Kasianowicz a goal apiece, Weddleton two assists and Sheehan and Connolly an assist each.

The Jaguars nipped Mass. College of Pharmacy, 2-1, on goals by Feldhouse and Weddleton. Barry had an assist.

Strong Rhode Island JC walloped Quincy, 9-4. Barry had two goals and Lake and Boyle one each. Canniff, Weddleton, Kasianowicz and Feldhouse assists.

QJC bowed to undefeated Mass. Bay, 5-2, with Cross and Lake having the goals and Weddleton and DeLuca had assists.

Next the Jaguars exploded for a 12-1 breeze over Emerson.

Barry had four goals, Kasianowicz, two, Feldhouse two and Canniff, Connolly, Lake and Connors one apiece.

In its latest game last Saturday QJC defeated Mass. Pharmacy again, 7-2, as Barry had the hat trick. Feldhouse had two goals and Harland and Cross one apiece, Kasianowicz had four assists, Feldhouse two and Barry, Canniff, Shea, Weddleton and Lake one each.

North Future Brighter Presidents Seek 7th

The North Quincy basketball team, under first-year coach Ed Miller, had been having rough going in the Suburban League but with two wins in a row, Miller and the Raiders are hopeful of improving over the rest of the season.

North last Saturday overcame a 29-24 halftime deficit to defeat Weymouth North 57-48, and make its record 3-4.

"We had to have this win to stay alive," Miller said. "We have had our problems, losing the really close ones. It can demoralize a team somewhat and this win could give us a big boost."

Sparkplug John White had 15 points, but Mike Gill topped the Raiders with 20 points.

Earlier in the week North had edged Cambridge Latin, 53-49, sparked by Keith Lindberg's 13 points. Jim McGinley and Dan Cuddy had 10 points apiece as North, tied at the half, won the game with a big third period in which it outscored Latin, 18-7.

Quincy's game at Brockton last Friday, like the North-Latin game, was postponed but no new date was decided upon.

Joe Amoroso's Quincy team, 6-1 after its loss to undefeated Rindge Tech last week and in second place in the Suburban League, will play at Cambridge Latin Friday night at 8 and will host Waltham Tuesday at 7.

North Quincy will host Rindge Friday night at 8 at the Vo-Tech gym and will play at Newton North Tuesday afternoon at 3:30.

Quincy, North Matmen Clash Saturday

The Quincy and North Quincy wrestling teams, in only their third season since reviving the sport after more than 30 years, continue to enjoy outstanding seasons.

Carmen Mariano's Presidents are 8-0 and Saturday at noon host rival North Quincy, Stoughton and Belfast, Me., in a quadrangular meet at the Vo-Tech gym. Tuesday Quincy will be at Duffee for a 3:30 meet.

North Quincy, under first year coach Vaughn Lovejoy, is 6-2 and, following the quadrangular meet Saturday, will host Brookline at the Quincy Armory Tuesday night at 6:30.

Quincy rolled to its eighth in a row, 48-10, over Marshfield last week, winning all but two matches. The Presidents' winners were Dan Madden, 100 pounds; Steve Notarangelo, 107; Kevin McCarthy, 114; Ed Powers, 134; Gary Oniola, 140; Wayne Gardiner, 148; Tim Cahill, 157; Brian Kelly, 167; Tony Luongo, 188, and Lenny Picot, heavyweight.

North won its sixth in eight meets with a 36-24 Suburban League win over Brockton, making its league mark 3-0. Heavyweight Harry Knudsen and Ed Beck [107 pounds] kept their two-year unbeaten records intact.

Knudsen pinned his sixth straight opponent and Beck won a 4-0 decision. Other Raiders winners were Rich Scharizzi, 114; Butch Montoya, 128 [he is now 5-0]; Andy Provost, 100 [he is 4-0]; Art Dorgan, 121; Ed Evanson, 157, and Ed Hanrahan, 169.

$50 Reward Offered

Quincy Warmup Uniforms Stolen

The Quincy High wrestling team is rolling along with an 8-0 record but suffered a severe loss last week when, prior to a scheduled meet against Brookline, the team's entire set of 12 new warmup uniforms was stolen from a car parked in the Vocational School lot.

"The warmups cost the team $254 and were purchased with money raised by the wrestlers themselves through car washes, a candy sale and a paper drive," Coach Carmen Mariano said. "The boys have waited for and worked for these uniforms for three years. The warmups are royal blue with a three-inch white stripe down the right front and a four-inch "Q" on the left front. They have zippered hoods and long sleeves.

"Even if the team had the money to replace the uniforms, it would be impossible to do so before the end of the season. It would take a minimum of six weeks to remake such custom-made uniforms and, by then, the seniors who worked hardest and longest for the uniforms will have wrestled for the last time.

"Our only hope is that the warmups are returned. The team is prepared to offer a $50 reward for information leading to their return. We would even be willing to buy them back from the people who stole them.

"Any information can be forwarded to me at Quincy High School or at Sterling Junior High school. Any help will be greatly appreciated by me and all my wrestlers."

● Swimming

Quincy's Lahive 'Amazing' North Defeats Cambridge Latin

Although Quincy's swim team is only 1-3, it has impressed in each meet and has one of the top swimmers in the state in Jim Lahive, rated by his coach, Elaine Murphy, and Bill Walker, North Quincy coach and pool director at the Lincoln Hancock School pool as "amazing".

Lahive, whose first love has been track and who began competitive swimming only a year ago, has come along so fast Walker said, "He definitely is headed for the state championship meet. He can swim for any college he wants."

Lahive is unbeaten in the 100 freestyle and has done extremely well in the 200 individual medley.

Jim won both these events in a close 89-82 loss last week to Don Bosco. He did the 100 freestyle in 49.5 and the 200 individual medley in 2:13.5.

Pete Sullivan won the 500 freestyle and was second in the 200 freestyle, and Ed Regan won the diving with a total of 141 points.

Co-Capt. Ed Fenby was third in the 200 individual medley and the 100 backstroke. John Connolly took second in the 100 butterfly and the 100 breaststroke. Steve Jenkins placed third in the 50 freestyle and Alan Kenney was second in the 500 freestyle.

Earlier in the week Weymouth North had too much depth and toppled Quincy, 88-78.

Miss Murphy was pleased with the Presidents' showing despite the loss and hailed Lahive, who again won both the 100 freestyle and the 200 individual medley.

Sullivan won the 500 freestyle and was second in the 200 freestyle. Regan and Paul Palmer took firsts in diving and Regan was also second in the 500 freestyle. Connolly won the 100 breaststroke and Fenby and Mike Ducey were 2-3 in the 100 backstroke.

Meanwhile, Walker's North team, winner only over winless Quincy in its first season a year ago, defeated Cambridge Latin to make its record 3-0.

Ed Melanson and Kevin Green were double winners. Melanson winning the 100 butterfly and swimming with the winning 200 medley relay team, while Green took the one-meter diving and also was on the winning relay team. John Flate and Neil Quinn were the other members of the relay team.

Monday North will host Watertown at 3:30 at the Lincoln-Hancock pool and Tuesday Quincy will be home to Cambridge Latin at the same time and place.

● Hockey

North Upsets Brookline, Quincy Bows

Prospects of the Quincy or North Quincy hockey teams making the state tournament this year are dim but both are fighting teams and won't quit.

Last Saturday Ron Erikson's North team played one of its finest games to upset Brookline, 4-1, to make its record 2-4-2.

Paul Hurley scored twice for the Raiders, who scored three second period goals after a scoreless first period. Jim Moore and Paul Cooney had the other goals.

Moore had three assists, John Andrews two and Mike Smith and Dennis Doherty one each.

Bob Sylvia's Quincy team, trailing powerful Waltham, 4-0, after a period, dominated the rest of the game, scored twice in the final period and had a third goal voided.

Mark Giordani and Mike Van Tassel had the goals with assists for Tom Cahill, Billy Deitch and Mike Gulizia.

Earlier in the week Quincy, forced to play catchup again, was edged by Cambridge Latin, 4-3.

Cahill, Bob Brennan and Giordani had the goals and Sylvia praised Mike Furey, Brennan and Brian Jolley for their performances.

North was blanked by Newton North, 4-0.

Saturday Quincy will host Weymouth South at the Quincy Youth Arena at 6:40 and North will play Cambridge Latin at the Charles River Rink in Newton at 1 o'clock. Wednesday Quincy will play Brookline at McHugh Forum at Boston College at 3 and North will be home to Waltham at the Youth Arena at 6:40.

$28,394,505. Of that, 81.1 per cent was for salaries, 16.4 percent was for expenses, 1.4 per cent was for capital outlay, 1.1 per cent was for pensions and 0.1 per cent was for out-of-state travel. The difference is $405,495, or 1.4 per cent.

In its raw form, that would represent about $1.65 on the tax rate but other factors, such as federal and state reimbursements, are considered in setting the tax rate.

For instance, in the 1975-76 school year, the latest for which precise figures are available, the gross school budget was $26.1 million while the net budget after reimbursements was $19.7 million.

That figured out, says Dr. Creedon, to 46.4 per cent of the current $194.80 tax rate.

Some points made by Dr. Creedon in discussing the budget include:

Energy costs (heat and light) are $1,121,100 or 3.9 per cent of the 1977-78 budget.

Last year, energy took $1,095,600 or 3.8 per cent of the budget.

In 1970, it was $263,500 or 1.8 per cent.

The tremendous rise in energy costs came in spite of the fact that the consumption of fuel to heat the schools has decreased dramatically.

School furnaces consumed 1,882,000 gallons of fuel in 1971-72 and only 1,318,450 gallons in 1975-76, a decrease of almost one-third.

"We accomplished this by doing a lot of little things," said Dr. Creedon. "We kept the thermostats down; we pulled the shades at night; we kept certain doors closed."

"We have found that there would be a significant savings if we had a program of replacing the old windows in school buildings."

Maintenance costs [exclusive of salaries] on the school plant, which Dr. Creedon says has a replacement value of $150 million, is set at $946,000 in the 1977-78 budget. It was $968,000. And in 1970 it was $314,870.

"We are doing less work now with $900,000 than we did with $300,000 in 1970," says Dr. Creedon.

A total of $147,596 has been added to the 1977-78 budget to meet the cost of programs that are mandated by the state but not funded. Much of it comes under Chapter 766, the special education act.

"If we did not have to fund those programs our non-salary items would be down about $100,000 instead of going up $47,000," says Dr. Creedon.

The cost of the state-mandated programs has soared from $271,830 in 1974-75 to $479,729 in 1976-77 to $627,325 in the proposed budget for 1977-78.

The cost of instructional materials in the proposed 1977-78 budget is $1,161,315, a decrease of about $80,000 from the previous year's $1,247,440.

"Last year we spent $80.87 per kid on learning materials," says Dr. Creedon. "This year it's $78.62 per kid. We underspent last year and we are continuing to underspend."

"Actually, our buying power is $370,000 less than last year, based on the cost of living. We are eating the cost of living in this year's budget."

Dr. Creedon cited as an example of the cost of living increase in school supplies the rise in the price of a case of hydrochloric acid used in the science program. It was $17.01 in 1973-74, and $23.60 in 1975-76, and $35 in 1977-78.

"We are getting less supplies," said the superintendent. "Hopefully, one year of it will not have an effect on the school programs. We will be able to use existing inventories in some areas."

School Budgets Past 12 Years

Here is a rundown of the Quincy school budgets for the past dozen years and the per cent of increase in each over the previous year.

Year	Budget	% Increase
1966	$ 8,565,000
1967	9,932,000	15.9
1968	11,425,000	15.0
1969	13,013,000	16.0
1970	14,793,000	13.7
1971	16,618,000	12.3
1972	18,577,000	11.7
1973	21,104,000	13.6
1974	23,256,000	10.2
1975	25,527,000	9.8
*1976	28,394,000	11.2
1977	28,800,000	1.4

* Current budget

 Proposed budget

"Two years ago, for example, we were alerted that the price of paper was going to go out of sight. We were able to go to other parts of the budget for money to buy a year's supply in advance."

Dr. Creedon noted that Quincy received $566,108 in federal grants for its schools in 1966 and the figure rose to $1.8 million in 1975-76, despite the fact that the federal government closed out many federal aid to education programs.

"We must be doing something right," he said.

"We have never asked for supplementary money from the E and D [excess and deficiency] fund. We have always lived within our budget. We have returned money each year. In the year ending June 30, 1976, we returned $287,000, or one per cent of the budget."

"We think that's okay."

Firefighters Agree To Pay Hike Pact

Quincy firefighters have agreed to a two-year contract giving them a 5 per cent cost-of-living pay increase for the first year, starting Jan. 1, and an 8 per cent boost the second year.

The firefighters over the weekend voted to accept the same pact that was accepted by the policemen last month.

Key clause in the contract, one which caused the firemen to reject a previous offer, was a stipulation on minimum manpower. It was agreed that the stipulation be suspended between September and December as a compromise.

CITY HALL NOTES

LARAIA HOPES ALL BUDGETS READY FOR REVIEW EARLY FEBRUARY

Mayor LaRaia says he hopes to have budget proposals from all of his department heads ready for review by the first week in February.

"I anticipate some of the big departments will be a little slow but we won't experience the delays we had last year," he said.

The MDC is making overtures to the city about taking over Shea Skating Rink in West Quincy.

"They have inquired about leasing the rink to us," said Mayor LaRaia.

"It indicates that they are trying to unload some of their costs, unfortunately on the city."

"We'll look into it but we'll weigh it thoroughly."

Mayor LaRaia is considering purchase of the Boilermakers' Union building on Sagamore St.,

Atlantic, as a combination neighborhood center and Little City Hall.

"The building has two offices and a meeting facility that can handle up to 75 people comfortably," he said.

He said he envisions one office as headquarters for the Atlantic Neighborhood Association and the other "as an extension of the Mayor's office in that end of the city."

Kelly Urges Residents Attend Nut Island Proposals Hearings

Ward 1 City Councillor Leo J. Kelly urges all interested in the Nut Island sewerage proposals to attend public hearing to be held by the Environmental Protection Agency at City Hall, Wednesday, Jan. 19, at 7 p.m.

The hearing will be concerned primarily with environmental impact studies of a number of sewerage treatment proposals. They include the landfill at Nut Island, an alternative proposal suggested by Kelly that all secondary treatment be performed at Deer Island, and possible satellite treatment plants in Canton and Wellesley.

EPA officials and representatives of Greely and Hanson, the firm that prepared an impact study of the proposals, will be at the meeting which is open to all residents of the South Shore area.

Exceptional Imagination

Q. My son was born at 4:40 P.M. on Thursday, June 18, 1970 in Holyoke, Mass. Can you tell me how to guide him to make the most of his future?

A.D.

A. June in 1970 was one of the months during which Daylight Savings Time was in effect in Mass. Assuming that your Son's time of birth was recorded in Daylight Savings Time, the planet Neptune was Rising in the First House in the Sign of the Zodiac Scorpio which was on the Ascendant. This indicates one with exceptional imagination and keen sensitivity to conditions in his environment.

He probably will relax best when he is where there is subdued or soft lighting and a generally quiet atmosphere. Even as a baby and youngster, music of the right vibration, the kind that he likes may prove relaxing. He will have a magnetic personality and a dreamy look in his eyes. This may at times be intense and at other times there may be a faraway look as if he is dreaming of distant places and things.

His Sun in Gemini and his Moon in Sagittarius both Favorably aspected by the planet Jupiter adds additional possibilities that he will love to travel to distant places. If he does not find it convenient to travel physically, he will be inclined to do so mentally throughout his lifetime.

He is apt to be restless. He will benefit from mental training and from being taught to strive to be accurate mentally. His vivid imagination may express itself in quite original ways. He is able to believe in that which he feels although his feelings may not be supported by facts.

He should develop into a fluent speaker well able to express both his feelings and thoughts. He is likely to be somewhat of a romantic adventurer. He will be interested in stories about out of the way places even if they be fictitious.

For questions to be answered through this column, mail the year, month, day of the month, city of birth, time of day if known and question to Ask Oscar, Box 114, Canton, Mass. 02021. Please sign your name which will not be published. Selected questions can only be answered in this column.

Cerasoli, Ambler Spar Over District, Sheets, Morrissey Opponents

By TOM HENSHAW

Reduction of the legislature from 240 state representatives to 160 may pit Rep. Robert Cerasoli of Quincy against Rep. Robert B. Ambler of Weymouth, chairman of the powerful Government Regulations Committee, in a fight for survival - but not at the ballot box.

The plan announced last week by Rep. George Keverian of Everett would cut Quincy from 3 1/2 to 2 1/2 districts, placing Reps. James A. Sheets and Michael Morrissey in the same district and leaving Rep. Thomas H. Brownell unopposed.

Cerasoli, who currently represents the half district shared with Weymouth, would still have a half district under the Keverian plan, but the section of Weymouth that is included in the district is under attack from Ambler.

Right now, Cerasoli's district includes six of the seven precincts in Quincy's Ward 2 and Precinct 7 in Ward 4 plus Precincts 1, 2 and most of 3 in Weymouth, all of them in North Weymouth.

Under the Keverian plan, Cerasoli's district would include all of Ward 2 in Quincy plus Precincts 1, 5, 6, 9, 12, 13 in Weymouth. He would lose two North Weymouth precincts and pick up three in Weymouth Landing and two in South Weymouth.

The move would strengthen Ambler by giving him Precincts 2 and 3 in North Weymouth and would pit Cerasoli against freshman incumbent Rep. Mark Fitzsimmons, who lives in Weymouth's Precinct 9.

All that is fine with Cerasoli, even though his new district would have 19,451 people in Weymouth and 16,791 in Quincy. But apparently it is making Ambler uneasy.

"He is afraid that Fitzsimmons will move into his district and run against him," says Cerasoli. "He wants to create a district for himself in which he can run without opposition from an incumbent."

Ambler is trying, says Cerasoli, to add Weymouth's Precinct 17, which stretches almost to the Rockland line, to the Quincy-Weymouth district to make it more attractive for Fitzsimmons to stay put and run against Cerasoli.

Ambler, on the other hand, says he simply wants to give Weymouth a better crack at having two state representatives from the town.

The ideal district under the new 160-member plan contains between 32,500 and 39,700 people. That means that Quincy, with a population of 91,000, is almost eligible for three. Weymouth has a population of 54,000.

Cerasoli has suggested that the new district include Ward 2 in Quincy and Weymouth Precincts 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 would better maintain the integrity of Weymouth's neighborhoods, with 23,000 people in Weymouth and 16,000 in Quincy.

It would place Cerasoli on the ballot against Ambler, who lives in Precinct 4, Weymouth. But, says Cerasoli, Ambler wants no part of that.

"He checked the primary figures which indicated that voter registration in Quincy Ward 2, which includes Quincy Point, is much higher than Weymouth," he says. "We have over 70 per cent turnout in my ward."

"I'm going to run, no matter what," Cerasoli added. "Sure, I'd take him on."

The other Quincy districts would be:

• A Wollaston-North Quincy district including Ward 6, Precinct 3 of Ward 3, and Precincts 1, 4 and 6 of Ward 4. Both Sheets and Morrissey, a first term Rep. live in the district.

• A Houghts Neck-Quincy Center district including Ward 1 and 5, Precincts 1 and 2 of Ward 3 and Precincts 5 and 7 of Ward 4. Brownell is the only incumbent living in the district.

Rezoning Triggers Blast

Tobin Seeks Meeting On Hospital Land Dispute

City Council Principal Arthur H. Tobin says he is trying to set up a meeting between key City Councillors and City Hospital Director Anthony DeFalco to iron out their dispute over the rezoning of land adjacent to the hospital.

"I believe it can be resolved by getting Mr. DeFalco and Councillors Dennis Harrington and Daniel Raymondi to sit down and talk," Tobin told The Quincy Sun after a stormy Council meeting during which DeFalco and councillors traded charges.

The dispute centers around a plot of city-owned land on Whitwell St. that must be rezoned from Residence A to Residence C before it can be used temporarily for parking and later for hospital expansion.

The City Council has refused to act on the rezoning bid for the better part of a year.

DeFalco called the delay "a great disservice to the medical needs of this community... a major setback to the planning process."

Harrington called the request for rezoning for parking purposes "a total fraud. The

Double Sessions For NQHS Jan. 31

North Quincy High School goes on double sessions Jan. 31, with sophomores, juniors and seniors attending classes in the morning and freshmen going to school in the afternoon.

The scheduling is so tight that Principal Peter J. Chrisom has urged upper classmen to "leave school promptly upon dismissal" and freshmen to "be on time but not too early."

"We simply do not have the space at this time to have all students in the building for more than the overlap period (12:20-1:25 p.m.) indicated in the schedule," said Chrisom in a memo to North Quincy parents.

The double sessions became necessary when 14 classrooms were lost for construction of a fire wall between the present building and the addition which is under construction in the rear.

"The construction site is off-limits at all times," Chrisom said. "This area is fenced off and necessary precautions are taken at all times to insure the safety of students and staff."

Mid-year exams will be held at North Quincy next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday (Jan. 24, 25 and 26) after which all students will be released from school until the double sessions begin on Jan. 31.

Morning students report to their homerooms at 7:30 a.m. and are dismissed at 1:25 p.m. Afternoon students report at 12:20 p.m. and will be dismissed at 5 p.m.

"The schedule for all grades reflects 100 percent density which means that each student is scheduled into a class or study at all times with one lunch period," said Chrisom.

"This approach will enable the faculty at North to continue to offer each student a strong, viable academic program."

"Study halls will be assigned whenever a student is not in a

Blue Hills Quincy's New Supply

Local Legislators Seek Guaranteed Safe Drinking Water

Quincy area legislators will soon be meeting with MDC and other state officials to assure safe drinking water for Quincy residents.

Senator Arthur H. Tobin said the meeting, set for 11 a.m. Jan. 26, was called due to plans by the MDC to draw Quincy's drinking water from the Chickatawbut Reservoir in the Blue Hills, beginning in February. The Chickatawbut Reservoir has been a long time gathering place for sea gulls and other wildlife.

"This fact, coupled with the MDC's past history of not sufficiently chlorinating and purifying the Chickatawbut water means the people of Quincy will be drinking water only somewhat purer than that found in a backyard birdbath," Tobin said.

He said Dr. Samuel Solomon, City Health Commission, had informed him the MDC's use of the Chickatawbut water could cause a potentially dangerous health situation for Quincy residents due to the bacteriological quality of the contaminated water.

Dr. Solomon also told Tobin that on two prior occasions the Quincy Water Department had dealt with the presence of coliform in this water supply.

Due to an apparent stalemate, Tobin suggested all interested parties meet to see if the impasse can be resolved. As a result of Tobin's insistence, all area representatives together with representatives of the Quincy Water Department, the Quincy Health Department and the Quality Engineering Division of the state, will meet Jan. 26 in hopes of solving the problem.

LaRaia Signs $980,000 Merrymount School Contract

Mayor LaRaia signed a $980,000 contract with the Rochefort Construction Co. of Natick Tuesday for construction of an addition to the Merrymount School.

Suspended Public Works Commissioner Vincent LoCicero and Herbert Repucci, assistant director of RSVP, have been charged with extorting $7,000 from Rochefort in connection with the contract.

"There was some talk about putting the contract up for rebid," said the Mayor, "but the architect and the management firm both advised against it.

"Rebidding would have increased the cost to the city and delayed building of the important addition so we decided to go ahead."

Economic Forecast:

Better Times Coming In 1977 But...

By TOM HENSHAW

Better times are coming in 1977 but none of the four panelists who appeared at a recent breakfast meeting of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce at the Sheraton Tara, Braintree, was wildly enthusiastic about the prospects.

"The year will be better in construction," predicted Thomas R. Flatley, president of the Flatley Co., a development firm that he threatened to pack up and ship out of the state a couple of years ago.

"But we are not going to record any records. We hope we can look for major expansion in 1978-79."

Flatley forecast a definite improvement in the stagnant condominium field and a limited improvement in construction of single family homes. But office and retail store space, he said, will languish.

"Condominiums," he said, "have developed inventories. They are the best buy this year. I look for the inventories to be sold in 1977. There will even be some starts, a definite improvement in the field."

"Single family homes had their best recent year in 1976, but the field was limited. It will improve over last year but it will still be limited."

"There has not been much activity in the area of retail space lately, no major developments."

"Office space starts are very few and far between. Most of the insurance companies have cut back and space is plentiful. New offices have to get $8-9 a square foot and it's going for $6-7 along Route 128."

Avram J. Goldberg, president of Stop and Shop, said he looks for continuing improvement in 1977, adding that "food prices will remain stable in 1977."

"We have a new situation in 1977," he said. "We have a new consumer."

"People have gotten in the habit of economizing. They have learned in recent years that they didn't need the things that they had learned to love."

"Five years ago, people spent a fixed amount on food and the rest was spent at their discretion. People have learned that food also can be a discretionary expense."

"In 1975, for the first time since the war, the per capita consumption of food declined. People are managing their lives better."

"Between the expected tax cut in Washington and the fact that the Massachusetts economy has come back, I expect to see some improvement over 1976, which was up over 1975. The amount of discretionary money will go up."

Edward Gelsthorpe, president of H. P. Hood, Inc., was optimistic and pessimistic at the same time.

LaRaia Backs Housing Authority Request For 210 More Units

Mayor LaRaia has given his support to the Quincy Housing Authority's request for an additional 210 units under the federal rent subsidies program. The Mayor requested a favorable review of the Authority's proposal in a letter to Marvin Seflinger, acting area office director of HUD. He verified that the application and program increase is consistent with the local Housing Assistance Plan as previously approved by HUD.

The application requested

100 one-bedroom and 10 two-bedroom units for elderly, handicapped or disabled persons, and 70 two-bedroom, 25 three-bedroom, and five four-bedroom units for non-elderly persons.

As of Jan. 1, 1977, the QHA administered 226 units under program's provisions. Through the efforts of the leased housing staff and with the technical assistance of Dave Scott, Inc., consultants in the field, the Housing Authority scheduled 138 additional units to be leased.

$1.8 Million Contract For Hayward Creek Flood Control

A contract for $1,855,275 has been given to a Massachusetts firm to begin construction of the long-awaited Hayward Creek flood control project along the Quincy-Braintree line, Congressman James A. Burke announces.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers awarded the contract to the J. F. White Contracting Company of Newton. Construction is expected to commence in the near future.

The award is the culmination of over five years of effort by Burke, and federal, state, and local officials, and should take about a year and a half to complete. Burke obtained Congressional approval of the flood control project a year and a half ago, and the intervening time has been spent in obtaining clearances from the various authorities involved in the project.

"I can't think of a more opportune time for this money to come through," Burke said. "It will give a boost to employment for construction workers, and it will help control the flooding which has plagued the area round Hayward Creek for decades."

Chamber Boycotts Coffee, Takes Tea And Sees

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce announces that until coffee prices drop to a reasonable level, the new drink at committee meetings will be a hot cup of tea.

In joining what he hopes will be a massive consumer protest against soaring coffee prices, Eric Swider, Chamber, executive vice president, said, "We're putting away our coffee pots for the duration.

"When sugar prices were hiked to a ridiculous level the American consumer balked, stopped buying and pulled the rug from under speculators and profiteers. I believe we can take the upper hand in this coffee crisis."

"We're a non-profit organization and we have to be cost conscious. Right now, the net cost of a cup of coffee ... before boiling the water or considering the cup, sugar and cream ... is ten cents. From all reports, it will go higher than that. We've found that tea costs one cent per cup."

Swider said that members, guests and staff of the regional business organization will continue to be able to enjoy a hot beverage at meetings. "But, until coffee prices get down to a reasonable level, our meetings will feature a pot of brewed tea."

Legal Action Seeks Removal Of Smyth As Cemetery Superintendent

Legal action was mailed for filing in Norfolk Superior Court Tuesday night seeking to oust J. Vincent Smyth as Quincy superintendent of cemeteries and fill the post from within the department by a Civil Service exam.

The complainant in the suit is Raymond M. Gowdy, an employee of the Cemetery Department, who said he was one of six men who filed to take an exam for the post Dec. 18 but were refused the opportunity.

Defendants are Quincy Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia and Wallace H. Kountz, personnel administrator for Massachusetts, a job that once carried the title of director of Civil Service.

James A. Shannon of Quincy, attorney for Gowdy, said the suit charges that LaRaia cancelled the Dec. 18 examination, saying that the superintendent is the head of a department and thus exempt from Civil Service.

The exam was cancelled, said Shannon, "on a misstatement of law," since the Cemetery Board of Managers constitutes the head of the department.

Gowdy's suit seeks to terminate payment of salary to Smyth.

It seeks to compel LaRaia and Kountz to reschedule the examination and take no further actions to prevent Gowdy and the others from taking it.

It also charges that LaRaia and Kountz are guilty of "malfeasance in public office" by paying Smyth and seeks refund to the city of all payments to him.

The post was vacated in 1974 by the resignation of Anthony Famigletti. Then-Mayor Walter J. Hannon named Joseph Velozz interim superintendent. LaRaia appointed Daniel F. McGinley last Aug. 7 but McGinley resigned a day later. Smyth, a former City Councillor, was named Aug. 17.

On Aug. 20, Velozz petitioned for a Civil Service investigation on grounds that the appointment was not made from a Civil Service list and that Smyth was not qualified under the requirements set forth for the job.

Hearing was set for Oct. 18, but, said Shannon, no representative from Mayor LaRaia's office appeared.

The Mass Division of Personnel Administration then announced that an exam for the post would be held Dec. 18 but the Mayor cancelled it by declaring the superintendent the "head of a municipal department."

Gowdy's suit charges that LaRaia and Kountz ignored the law and allowed the "illegal" appointment of Smyth, acted in bad faith and "caused public funds to be expended illegally."

City Planning Energy Conservation Workshops

The Quincy Department of Planning and Community Development is compiling a list of commercial establishments that might be interested in attending a series of workshops in energy conservation beginning March 22.

The series is being conducted by the federal government to encourage adoption of effective energy management techniques.

The aim is to reduce significantly the energy consumption in four types of commercial buildings - supermarkets, high rise office buildings, department stores and restaurants.

Quincy, 12 Other Cities File Suit On PW Funds

Quincy and 12 other Massachusetts cities filed for a temporary restraining order in U.S. District Court Tuesday to prevent 31 other Bay State cities and towns from receiving or spending money under the federal public works and unemployment act.

The 31 communities and two special districts were awarded more than $52 million under the act which was designed to put jobless workers in areas of high unemployment to work on public works projects.

Quincy and the other 12 were shut out for funds.

City Solicitor Thomas F. Williams, who was one of those who appeared in federal court Tuesday, said if the restraining order is not issued in 10 days a hearing will be held on a preliminary injunction for the same purpose.

The suit complains that the Federal Economic Development Administration used a formula that discriminated against the larger urban areas and placed them in "an unequal position and improperly skewed the results to disproportionately favor the low density areas."

The suit holds that the formula was not authorized by the Act and asserts that "there will be immediate, substantial and irreparable injury to plaintiffs as a consequence of the loss of the federal grant funds."

The suit was filed in the name of Kenneth D. Lewis, an unemployed black laborer from Springfield, and Eddy L. Gomez, an unemployed Puerto Rican laborer also from Springfield "on behalf of all those similarly situated" in the 13 cities.

Edward Cronin Reappointed To Hospital Board

Edward Cronin has been reappointed to a five-year term on the Board of Managers of Quincy City Hospital, a post he had held for 10 years.

Cronin, 62, who lives at 1025 Hancock St., has been twice chairman of the Board and three times vice chairman.

A graduate of Boston College and the Bentley School of Accounting, he is currently a member of the Registered Public Accountants Association, and the National Society of Public Accountants.

He was formerly employed by the Mass Department of Corporations and Taxation, where he was supervisor of municipal accounts.

"Mr. Cronin has served on the Board of Managers of the hospital with great distinction," said Mayor LaRaia in making the appointment.

One little thing that makes us big:

Sending Frank Parker a check every month. Frank keeps his savings in a 90-day notice account with us.

We pay him 5 3/4% interest. Which he tells us is a pretty big thing.

But Frank likes to use those interest payments to buy the things he wants to buy. So we told him about a little thing we could do to help: sending him a check for his interest once a month.

Frank signed up right away. So now it's easier for him to spend the money his savings account earns for him. And this month it's a new fishing reel.

Hope you catch a big one, Frank!

FIRE SAFETY QUIZ

Every year 12,000 Americans are killed in fires and another 300,000 of them are injured. Take the following test to determine how well protected your family is.

Do you conduct periodic home fire drills so that each member of the family knows at least two escape routes, and knows of a designated meeting place outside?

Is your home equipped with smoke sensing alarms? Such devices sense the presence of even small amounts of smoke, at which time they sound a loud alarm?

Do you sleep with bedroom doors closed? In the event of fire, you will gain precious minutes to escape if you do.

Do you periodically check your home for such fire hazards as old newspapers, cartons, old furniture, oily rags, etc.?

Do you exercise care in the use of electricity? Do you refrain from loading outlets with too many appliances, using inappropriate fuses, and hanging electrical cords over nails or running them under carpets?

Political Campaigns Topic

Women's Political Caucus To Hear 3 State Representatives

By ALICIA COLETTI

The South Shore Women's Political Caucus will focus on political campaigns at its meeting Monday, Jan. 24 at 8 p.m. in the Adams Room of the Hollow Restaurant, Quincy.

The subject will be discussed by three state representatives, Michael Morrissey of Quincy, Caroline Stouffer of Hingham and Andrew Card of Holbrook.

Morrissey unseated incumbent Rep. Joseph Brett in the September primary in his first bid for political office. Morrissey is a life-long resident of Quincy and a graduate of North Quincy High School. He began his campaign for a seat in the legislature last May as soon as he was graduated from the University of Massachusetts with a degree in American History. Morrissey devoted full time to campaigning and will devote full time to his term as Democratic state Representative from the North Quincy-Wollaston area.

As a freshman legislator he has been appointed to the Urban Affairs Committee.

Mrs. Stouffer was elected to her first term last November in a hard-fought campaign in the Hull-Hingham district. She was active in local, state and national campaigns and served as a delegate to the Democratic National Convention in 1972.

During her campaign, Stouffer stressed as priorities: passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, a progressive income tax structure for Massachusetts, improvement in transit systems for the South Shore and continued vigilance in the matter of a citizen's right to privacy. She was one of only two candidates endorsed by the S.S.W.P.C. last year.

Mrs. Stouffer is married to John Stouffer, a science teacher at Hingham High School and is the mother of two children. She has been appointed to the Natural Resources committee because of her interest in environmental issues.

Representative Card, a Republican, was elected to his second term in the house in a close race and represents the Randolph-Holbrook district. He has recently been appointed assistant minority whip by Frank Hatch, House minority leader.

The South Shore Women's Political Caucus is a group which encourages greater political involvement by women and which holds monthly meetings

MICHAEL W. MORRISSEY

on a variety of political topics. There is no admission charge and the caucus welcomes all men and women to their meetings whether or not they are members.

South Shore At Quincy Antiques Show Jan. 22-24

The 22nd edition of the South Shore at Quincy Antiques Show January 22-24 at the Masonic Temple, 1170 Hancock St., will open to the public from 6-10 p.m. Saturday evening this year as well as the usual 12-9 p.m. Sunday and Monday.

General chairwoman, Mrs. Warren A. Hubley of Squantum, believes the new hours will prove popular with many whose work schedule is such that weekdays prevent them from attending the oldest show in continuous operation in Northern New England.

"Each year has seen more interest in quality antique furniture accessories and Arts with resulting record Sunday attendance each year," she said.

"A Saturday evening opening will give many the opportunity to enjoy the thousands of dollars worth of goods offered by the 29 exhibitors - some $350,000 worth!"

Mrs. Virgil L. Snell of Quincy, chairwoman of the South Shore Antiques Show Steering Committee for the sponsoring Wollaston Chapter O.E.S., said the snack bar, a favorite with area businessmen as well as showgoers because of home-cooked offerings by the Ladies of the Star, will open one hour before the show each day.

The South Shore at Quincy Antiques Show is managed by Compass Antiques Shows, Robert E. Mower of Marion, Coordinator, Philip A. Balcom, Manager.

Another little thing that makes us big:

Putting an end to the cashless Sunday. Fred and Jane Brandon tell us, "We wouldn't be here, if it wasn't for Plus 24."

"You see, we like to go out for dinner, especially on Sunday night. But it always used to seem that by Sunday, we were out of cash. But no longer, thanks to Plus 24, Quincy Savings' automatic teller."

SUNBEAMS

By Henry Bosworth

Overall, A Good Snowfighting Job

Paul Anderson, interim Quincy DPW commissioner, certainly got his baptism under fire.

He had hardly been named to the post by Mayor Joseph LaRaia when—wham!—he got hit by two bad snowstorms.

There was freezing and flooding to make things worse. A tough way to start a new job.

But Anderson and his DPW crews came through the ordeal pretty well, taking everything into consideration.

In storms like these, there is no perfect snowfighting performance. When Mother Nature kicks up her heels, she's got the upperhand.

No doubt there are some residents who will take issue with our overall observation: Anderson and his men did a pretty darn good job.

Some of his men worked 32-hours marathon without stopping. And a bleary eyed Anderson looked like he stayed right alongside them.

We, naturally, didn't see all the sidestreets. There were problems there. But fewer, we'll bet than in some neighboring communities.

Quincy certainly turned in a good performance, keeping its main streets and many of the secondary streets in good shape. And got down to bare pavement on Hancock St., School St., Granite St., etc.

If anyone has a gripe about Quincy's handling of these snowstorms, he or she should drive—or still try to drive—through some nearby communities.

Compared to neighboring Braintree, for example, sections of Quincy looked like Camelot. Days after the storms, motorists were still getting stuck in deep ice ruts on Braintree's main streets.

Braintree certainly wouldn't win any prize in any "How To Fight A Storm" contest. In fact, Braintree was so bad that a rumor circulated town that the highway department had gone on strike.

We are not trying to knock Braintree. But the truth of the matter is that an inexperienced 27-year-old interim DPW commissioner stepped into an emergency vacancy and his men in Quincy got out there and did a better job.

They got out there and really tried. And, they did it.

If you don't believe it, try driving through some other communities and you'll be glad to get back to Quincy.

COUNCILLOR Paul Harold has been invited to the inaugural ball at the Washington Armory Thursday night and to a reception for Democratic leaders at the White House. Saturday. He plans to make both.

WELL, the rumor mongers don't have Jack Salenius to kick around anymore. Salenius had hardly got comfortable behind his desk at City Hall as Mayor LaRaia's executive secretary than the rumor started spreading that he "was leaving". The inference was that his head was about to roll and that he was "out" of the Mayor's official family.

Salenius, as it turns out, is "leaving" but he's still very much an essential figure in the LaRaia administration as he heads up the first Little City Hall in North Quincy. And at the same salary he was drawing as LaRaia's right arm at City Hall. And, it could be a nice change of pace. He's got a lot of people rooting for him.

MILESTONE: Retired Msgr. John Mullarkey of Crescent St., West Quincy, turned a young 76 Sunday. Although officially retired, he still helps out celebrating Masses at his boyhood parish, St. Mary's, just across the street from the old family home where he still lives. A priestly priest, and one of the nicest persons you could ever meet in your life.

DON'T LOOK NOW, but is ballroom dancing coming back? Annette and Dan Berger will teach a 10-week course at the Quincy YMCA starting Friday.

Frankly, I always thought it a lot more enjoyable to hold a girl while dancing instead of having her running her motor at the other end of the dance hall.

Who knows, maybe the big bands will be back yet.

OBSERVATION via the Quincy Kiwanis Club newsletter: "Old age is that period in life that makes you wonder where you have been."

'Not Simply An Investigation'

Sheets Seeks Major Changes In City Dump Operation

By TOM HENSHAW

City Councillor James A. Sheets is seeking "major and far-reaching changes" in the operation of the Quincy city dump in West Quincy.

He told the City Council Monday night that his seven-month investigation of the disposal facility is not really an investigation in the sense that it is an attempt to uncover wrongdoing.

"The city of Quincy has gone through a long period of various investigations, incriminations, allegations, distortions and the fabric of our city has worn thin," he said.

"I want to do all possible to prevent our efforts in the area of disposal remedies from being labelled simply as an investigation or probe.

"However, conditions at the disposal are such that major and far-reaching changes are necessary if we are to prevent not simply the loss of a major resource but also to remove the temptation to illegally use the disposal in the future."

Sheets' investigation of the dump, and a probe conducted by the Police Department, turned up allegations of widespread illegal dumping that may have cost the city more than $130,000 in the past eight months.

Sheets presented to each City

Councillor Monday night a thick packet containing the information he has gathered on the dump, plus a copy of the Police report of their investigation.

City Solicitor Thomas F. Williams ruled that the City Council was entitled to read the Police report but that it should not be made public since the material could open the city to legal action.

Sheets also introduced a resolution asking individual councillors to turn over to the Council as a whole any information they might have concerning the operation of the dump and consider recommendations for improving operations.

Sheets told the Council:

"On Wednesday, Jan. 12, I attempted to hold the first of a number of Oversight Committee meetings concerning the operational problems at the Quincy Disposal Facility.

"It was my intention at that time to indicate to those Councillors present that the objectives of the meetings were to promote additional operational changes at the facility and to preserve fully the remaining life of the dump.

"I was of the opinion that there were three basic areas where policy change was necessary.

"The area of alleged illegal dumping of rubbish from outside the city of Quincy, the examination of policies governing the acquisition of solid fill and cover material, and looking into the policy of allowing trucks to enter the facility and deposit their loads without being recorded.

"In no sense was the study of these three areas to be an attempt to uncover wrongdoing or expand the police report. I want to do all possible to prevent our efforts from being labeled simply and investigation.

"Therefore, this evening I am presenting each councillor with all the information which I have gathered to date...

"Additional information which I hope to collect over the next weeks will be forwarded to each member of the Council and it is my intention to place on the agenda of a future regular Council meeting the question of recommendations for improving operations at the disposal.

"At that time each Councillor will have the opportunity to sum up his evaluation of the information on the disposal operation and to make positive recommendations for improvements.

"Each Councillor will also have the opportunity to make further requests for information or request that additional hearings be held."

Better Times Coming In 1977 But...

"The economy will really take off in mid-year," he predicted. "It will really go boom. President Carter, is determined to make it boom. It will boom from mid-1977 to mid-1978. There will be renewed expansion.

"But then inflation will catch up and we will end up paying the piper. So, make hay while the sun shines. It will hit you in the head in 18 months."

Gelsthorpe noted that the new three-year contract recently negotiated for the auto workers "will mean $300 more a car just in labor costs. Inflation will again pick up steam."

"Industry," he predicted,

"will not be able to absorb the number of new workers coming in. We can make more units with less people. We will have to learn to live with a higher unemployment level."

John R. Buckley, secretary of administration and finance for Gov. Dukakis brought cheery but cautious words from the state.

"State finances are not out of the woods but there have been terrific gains," he said.

"Fiscal 1977 has been light years ahead of fiscal 1975 and better than fiscal 1976. We expect to finish this year with a modest surplus.

"The fiscal 1978 budget, the first over $4 billion, will do most of the things we'd like to do.

"The debt situation in Massachusetts has improved, as is shown by our position in the bond market.

"Public capital construction programs have about come to a halt in the state. There are only four major projects in the budget. Capital outlay in the budget is less than $40 million."

Charles Pearce, president of the Quincy Savings Bank and the Chamber of Commerce, wasn't on the panel but he pronounced his benediction on the better times to come.

"Tell the Governor," he told Buckley, "that it must be encouraging for 1977 because Tom Flatley is still here."

Write First Letters For 'Young Ideas'

Atherton Hough 3rd Graders 'Advise' Carter, Ford, LaRaia

By CATHY CONLEY

"Now class, choose someone you love or admire and let's write our very first letters" — Mrs. Arlene Frank and Miss Mary McKenna said to their third graders at Atherton Hough School.

The children's first letters and several answers are the subject of this week's Young Ideas, the special children's four-page pull-out section which starts on page 13.

There are letters to grandfathers, mothers, a newspaper editor, President-elect Carter, Mayor LaRaia (David Casey, 8, has a few suggestions for him.), The Fonz and President Ford. This was NOT Barbara Urbanus', 8, first letter because she ends her letter to President Ford — "I wrote to you before. Remember".

One of the children, John Mann, 8, decided to write to a bank president. "I'm very interested in the financial structure of a bank," he wrote to Philip Lawrence, President of Colonial Federal Savings and Loan Association, which sponsors this issue of Young Ideas. Mr. Lawrence's letter to John is also featured and explains the banking business in the simplest terms for children.

Young Ideas also visits Jim Ducey's Business Education class which was studying money and banking, using visual aids supplied to them by Colonial Federal.

As part of their letter-writing project, the two third graders visited the Quincy Post Office. Joseph Presenzano, Supervisor of Delivery, took the children on a tour. They brought their first letters, bought stamps for them, cancelled their own stamps and then watched just what happens to a letter from the time it gets to the Post Office until it goes into the mail truck.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS

By Tom Henshaw

Police Officer Shoots It Out With Burglars

Patrolman John J. Sheehan shot it out with two burglars that he surprised trying to break into the office of the Quincy Coal Co., 156 Penn St., South Quincy. The officer fired six shots, the burglars three but no one was hit.

Sheehan said he was walking his beat and about to try the door to the coal company office when "the first thing that indicated anything was amiss was the report of a revolver and a bullet whizzing past my ear."

Sheehan is the brother-in-law of Patrolman Alfred Hollis, who was shot to death in 1927 by a man he caught cracking the safe in Pill Brothers Store on Hancock St. Stephen Hoppe later was convicted in the slaying.

QUINCY BOWS OUT WEST

Coach Jimmy LeCain's Quincy High School basketball team traveled west to absorb a 44-12 defeat at the hands of Fitchburg, which piled up a 30-4 lead at halftime. Gulino was high for Quincy with three points.

The Quincy squad included: Lloyd Craig, Toivo Nousio, Oliver Kangas, Fran Haynes, Spence Peel, Eddie Dunn, Vic DiGravio, Bill Pendergast, Johnny Ollila, George Pearson, Eric Almstrom, Gulino and McCollum.

North Quincy's five, coached by Curly Rogers, bested Taunton, 24-14, as star center Te Mitchell poured in 12 points. Other starters included Nobby Reilly, Dick Cooke, Bat Nelson and Walter Joly.

TEACHERS VOLUNTEER MONEY

Members of the Quincy Teachers Association volunteered to contribute a portion of their salaries, the amount to be decided by the School Committee, "to meet the economic needs of those less fortunate than themselves."

Last year, the teachers donated two weeks' salary to the same cause.

The Police and Firemen's Relief Associations were expected to join the teachers in making a contribution.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By Eric Swider

Argo Merchant No Valid Argument Against Off-Shore Drilling

The Argo Merchant incident cannot be used as a valid argument to further delay the leasing of sea-bottom tracts on Georges Bank for oil and natural gas exploration.

Unwarranted obstruction of such exploration under the guise of environmental considerations cannot be tolerated.

For the sake of the New England coastal environment we, in fact, call upon the U.S. Department of the Interior to speed up the off-shore leasing process to lessen the dangers of additional oil spills.

We've already lived far too long with spills caused by oil tankers, some accidental, but far too many by ships deliberately pumping tanks and bilges as they leave our ports. And with the present number of harbor masters and Coast Guard personnel, there is no way for all of them to be brought to task.

Each year, more than 11,000 tankers arrive at New England ports to discharge their cargoes. By the year 1985, that number is expected to be doubled unless we take positive steps.

Last September the Chamber led a group of business, civic, governmental and environmental representatives to Louisiana to observe first hand the oil drilling operations in the Gulf of Mexico. We came away convinced that the exploration, drilling, production and the piping ashore of crude oil was far cleaner and safer than transportation by oil tanker.

Drill rigs are inspected almost daily by air. Technology has advanced to such a degree that any problems encountered are corrected immediately. The chances of a major oil spill at an offshore oil drilling rig are infinitesimal.

For this reason, we must disagree with the opponents of off-shore drilling who have seized upon the Argo Merchant tragedy as a weapon against energy exploration that could revitalize the economy of this region in terms of new industries and expanded job opportunities.

Canada has moved to take advantage of the natural wealth that lies offshore. More than 80 per cent of the Canadian/Atlantic Continental Shelf has been leased for exploration and major natural gas finds already have been made off the coast of Labrador.

At the Chamber our Energy Resources Committee has been working for several years amassing information, developing policy and, through testimony and other means, provided extensive information to legislators and government agencies at the state and federal level.

We must go ahead, we must break New England's heavy dependence on foreign oil imports. We simply can't leave the fate of our regional economy so completely in the hands of an alien whim.

There is nothing under the sun about which more information cannot be demanded, about which another study cannot be done.

Offshore exploration is an item we can talk to death while appearing to be sanctionously concerned about the environment.

We understand the risks of making a decision. The very heart of business is taking and understanding risks. We also appreciate the propensity of government to study and therefore avoid the risks of decision-making.

Now is as good a time as any for our elected and appointed leaders to recognize that groups that are promoting delays, further study, and possible abandonment of off-shore drilling are badly motivated and are pumping out ideas and suggestions that they know themselves to be illogical and unsound.

We can no longer afford to do what appears to be the correct public relations move or politically expedient. We must simply do what is right. And what is right, what is environmentally sound, what is economically astute, what is in the best interest of our people [not the Arabs, Communists, Panamanians or Liberians, but our own American people] is to get on with the leasing and the drilling. And you can take that to the bank.

[Eric Swider is the Executive Vice-President of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.]

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

How Many Women In House Of Representatives?

"How many women will be serving in the U.S. House of Representatives when the 95th Congress convenes in January?" an interested caller asked the VOTER INFORMATION PHONE.

"Eighteen," replied the VIFone volunteer. Of the 435 seats, 18 are held by women. Margaret Heckler, who represents the 10th Congressional District, is the only woman in the Massachusetts delegation.

This is just one of hundreds of calls received by the VOTER INFORMATION PHONE, a statewide free public service sponsored by the League of Women Voters Lotte E. Scharfman Memorial Fund. Volunteers are on hand Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. to answer all kinds of questions about government - local, state or national. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880; callers elsewhere in Massachusetts should dial the toll-free WATS number, 1-800-882-1649.

Free Publications To Answer Taxpayers' Questions

Many free publications are available to answer nearly every tax question a taxpayer may have. IRS District Director Herbert B. Mosher notes. Some of the more popular

IRS publications cover moving expenses, sick pay, interest expenses, contributions, tax benefits for older Americans, medical deductions and earned income credit.

Free IRS publications can be obtained by filling out the order blank in the tax package mailed by the IRS, or from a local IRS office.

The Mail Must Go Through

The two third grade classes at Atherton Hough School are studying letter writing. Each third grader wrote a letter to someone he or she loved or admired. Then the children brought their letters to the Quincy Post Office and saw just what happens from the time you put a letter into your mailbox until it gets to its destination.

This Young Ideas features some of the letters the children wrote, some of the answers they received, and their trip to the Post Office.

Colonial Savings Bank is the sponsor of this issue of Young Ideas. John Mann, 8, decided to write to its president, Mr. Philip Lawrence, and ask how a bank works. John's letter and Mr. Lawrence's answer are featured on our front and back pages.

Who Would You

The President?

Your Grandfather?

Dear President Ford,

I am sorry that you did not win. I hope you did. I wish you still could be the president. I wish I could go down to your house. I wrote to you before. Do you remember?

Dear President Ford,

Did you have a Merry Christmas? I hope you did. I wish you still could be the president. I wish I could go down to your house. I wrote to you before. Do you remember?
Your friend,
Brenda Urbanus, 9

Dear Mr. Ford,

I'm a third grade student at Atherton Hough School. I'm writing to you because we are going to the Post office. We need a letter to get in so I said to myself I will write to the President.
I sat down and wrote a letter to you.
Yours truly,
Shawn Murphy, 8

Dear Young Friends:

Thank you for your thoughtful letters following the election. I will always remember the generous encouragement and goodwill which were extended to me and my entire family by our fellow Americans. It has been a tremendous honor to serve the people of our great country, and I will never forget this wonderful privilege.
This is an exciting world we live in, and you are lucky to be young at this particular time in America. You have the chance to see, to do and to be almost anything you want. I hope you will always believe in yourself, and believe in our country. Remember, whatever your dream, America is a land where dreams come true for young people who are prepared to accept the challenge.
I thank you from my heart for your friendship and wish you the best for the future -- for this Nation's future is closely linked to yours and other young people like you.
Sincerely,
Gerald R. Ford

Dear Detective Chenette,

I am writing this letter for a school project. My class is writing letters to important people. If possible could you answer this letter before Christmas? I think that your Detective work is interesting. Do you like it?
Yours truly,
David Chenette, 8
[your grandson]

Dear David,

I received your letter on December 16, 1976. It is always a pleasure for me to participate in a school project.
Most policemen have a great pride in their work and try to interest boys in becoming police officers for this reason as well as others.
There is a sense of achievement personally as well as the knowledge of contributing to society in general.
Many times policemen in this country are able to help some one and he might be the only one a person may turn to in a time of need, this is especially true in the case of the very old or very young.
The greater part of police work has nothing to do with catching or prosecuting criminals.

For an example, removing injured persons to a hospital. Restoring young children or older people to their families and assisting when babies are born the time people die.

Police work is to me the interesting work in the world policeman, unlike others, becomes bored.

Additionally there has never a day since I've been a policeman haven't arrived home with some of accomplishment and the know the job is worthwhile.

I think in our society there always be a need for capable, quick and educated people with a serious dedication to others to become officers.

I hope through reading, observation and good examples shown by working policemen you will soon also think of being a policeman.
Yours truly,
Robert L. Chenette

How Do You Balance Your Checkbook?

How do you write a check? How do you balance your checkbook? How do you apply for a loan?
These and many other money and banking questions are being answered in Mr. James Ducey's Business Education Class at North Quincy High School, with the help of a visual aid program provided by Colonial Federal Savings and Loan. The bank supplies students with records, slides and pamphlets -- all designed to make banking easier to understand. Above, Jane Westgate, 14, [left], Mr. Ducey and Sandy MacDougall, 14, study the pamphlets and records. Colonial Federal wants to help young people of all ages to understand the principles of banking. This is why they provide the Business Education Class with aids, and also why the bank sponsored this issue of Young Ideas.

Write a Letter To?

The Police Lady?

Dear Mrs. Rieman, [the Police Lady]

We are writing to important people and I picked you because I think you are important. You prevent kids from getting hurt. What school did you go to before you came to ours? How did you become a police lady? Did you have to take any tests? How do you like your job? How did you get to know everybody's name?

Thank you very much,
Your friend,

Denise DeCoste, 8

Dear Denise,

I was very delighted to receive such a lovely letter from you. I must say that I was very flattered! I waited till now to answer because I wanted time to think about the questions.

First of all I want you to know I like my work very much. In fact I love seeing all you children every day. When I first came to your school it was rather hard to learn the names of all the boys and girls, but now I know most everyone and I look to see who is absent and I wonder if you're getting a ride or not feeling well and every day is different.

Before coming to your school I was at the Lincoln Hancock School in South Quincy.

To become a School Traffic Supervisor, I went to the City Hall in Quincy Square and filled out an application. Then I had to take home some papers and fill them out and send them into Boston so that I could take a Civil Service test. About a year later I had to go to Hyde Park High School and take the test, which had 50 questions about traffic laws and rules and about first aid. The following summer the police captain called me to the police station and interviewed me and the next day he called me to start work at the Lincoln Hancock School. Then I received a letter that I had passed the test and I would be sent to your school because Mrs. Rae was called by God.

I hope that I've answered your questions clearly. Thank you for your letter.

Mrs. J. Rieman

The Mayor?

Dear Mayor LaRaia,

My name is David Casey. I'm a nine-year-old boy. And I'm going to be Mayor of Quincy someday. Is it very hard being mayor? I have two suggestions for you. Can you please stop the pollution in Quincy? I play hockey. And when I come out I cough because of pollution and cigarette smoke in the air. Also, maybe you should wait until people are twenty before you give them licenses. Some teenagers drive too fast. I almost got hit during Christmas vacation.

Your friend, David Casey, 9

Dear Fonzie,

Hi I am 8 years old. I am in the third grade. You are my favorite T.V. Star. I think you are really cool. Happy Days is my favorite show. Fonzie, do you really know Pinky Tuscadarow. Do you really have 150 girl friends?

Yours truly, Tammy Theodore, 8.

The Fonz?

Stephen Bottary, 8, and Tammy Theodore, 8, both have written to Fonzie. Stephen got a post card.

Dennis Doherty, 8, created this maze. See if you can find the route the postman takes to Dennis' house. Notice that the maze is in the shape of the letters P.O. which stands for Post Office. Very clever, Dennis!

Maureen's Word Search

Maura Caldwell, 8, did this word search about writing letters. See if you can find these words hidden in the block of letters: letters, mailman, mailbox, stamps, mail, post cards, mailbag, mail truck, post office envelope. Excellent job of hiding your words, Maura!

Mr. Lawrence Answers John's Letter

Mr. Philip Lawrence receives John Mann's letter which is featured on our front page.

Mr. John Mann, Jr.
Chief of Correspondence for Room 15
Atherton Hough Elementary School
1004 Sea Street
Quincy, Massachusetts 02169

Dear John:

It was with a great deal of pleasure and interest that I read your letter to me, asking about Colonial Federal Savings. I will try to answer your questions as best I can.

You asked if I liked being the President of a bank. Yes, John, I do. It has its problems as does almost everything in life, and it has its pleasures, among which are the receipt of letters such as yours.

"Is it a big bank?" you asked and "how much money do you have in it?" Well, how tall is tall? Our assets, as I write this letter, are in excess of forty-four million dollars. That's an awful lot of money if you piled it up on the floor in front of you - but no bank does that. We're just about middle size for all the Federal Savings and Loan Associations in New England. But while we are getting bigger all the time, we try never to get so big that we forget that our depositors are what make us big and it is they - and you - who make us successful.

We have four offices. Our main office is in Wollaston, next to the Post Office. It has been there since the building was erected in 1948. Before that we were nearby on Beale Street. Until January, 1970 we were known as Wollaston Federal Savings and Loan Association. We have three branches - one in Holbrook - one in East Wareham and one in East Weymouth. We have the branches so we can better serve the people living in those areas, by being closer to them and to the areas in which they shop.

First let me tell you what we do not do. We don't take in somebody's earnings and then put the savings in a vault and keep the money there until it is asked for. We, and every bank, keep a written record of all the money we take in from depositors or savers and also a record of all the money or interest that the deposited money earns. Any time a depositor wants the money he has placed with us, unless it is in a special restricted account, he can ask for it and we will pay the sum immediately, not with the same dollars placed with us, but with good, legal, American money.

"If we don't put the savings in a vault, what do we do with it?" you may ask. That's the reason we are a bank, John, and the reason every bank or savings association is in business. We gather together your savings, the savings of your friends, and all others who place their savings with us and we lend this money to people who want to buy homes. It enables families, such as yours, young families, old families, anyone who wants to buy a home, to do just that. Without the bank's help, these people might never be able to own their own homes. Houses today are terribly expensive and they are getting more so.

We also help people to repair their homes, to buy homes for others and to invest in homes. Many banks also help people to buy cars and boats, vacations and coats - all with the money their depositors place with them. They charge the people to whom they lend the money - interest. That is a fee or price for having the use of the money. The bank, in turn, pays interest to its depositors, which, also, is like a fee or charge for the use of the depositor's money.

Now this is a rather simple statement of what we do. We also do a lot of other things, such as providing other services related to money and its protection. We have special accounts - special checks - deposit boxes - special help to people who ask for it.

While we are a business and are responsible as business people to those who work for and with us - we also have the great added satisfaction of knowing that our product, money, allows us to help people to help themselves to a fuller, happier and more productive life.

John, it would be a pleasure for us at Colonial Federal Savings and Loan Association to show you our bank and what we do. Your interest deserves ours. If you and your classmates would like to visit us some time, together or separately, just let me know and we'll set a date.

Cordially,

Philip J. Lawrence

City Club Presents Third Color TV Set To Long Island Hospital

A third color television set has been donated to The Quincy City Club's charitable endeavors and will be presented to the Long Island Hospital in Squantum, announces Richard J. Koch, Club President.

Two color sets were purchased by the City Club in early December and donated to the two ambulatory wards [one men and one women] at the Long Island Hospital.

The third set is a console, and will be used in one of the recreation rooms. In "Thank You" letters received from nurses at the hospital, note is made of the enthusiastic response by patients. The staff is seeking a number of color sets for the remaining hospital wards, and organizations or individuals interested in participating in this program may contact Miss Meba Stanton at the hospital.

Koch said the City Club is presently obtaining clothes, toiletries, and other gifts for the Boston State Hospital to complete its charitable programs to hospitals for the season.

Major thrust of the Christmas endeavors of the City Club for its Christmas projects 1976, program included;

The two color TV sets for Long Island Hospital, a gift package containing a number of items for patients at the Long Island Hospital and a number of nursing homes; pillows, blankets, and pajamas for the Faxon House Detoxification Center and an exhaust fan for the kitchen, adjacent to the recreation room.

Also, $200 worth of gift certificates and food for a girl's home in Quincy during the Christmas season; and Christmas gifts for a Christmas party for retarded children in Quincy.

Koch said during the bi-centennial year the Quincy club also provided a $100 gift to the Quincy Historical Society, and a second $100 gift to the Quincy Symphony Orchestra.

Health organizations also receiving gifts from the Quincy City Club included, Muscular Dystrophy, The Kidney Foundation, and the Heart Fund.

Founded in September of 1974 and chartered by the secretary of state's office, major goal of the organization has been to serve and assist others. Approximately $4,000 has been expended for this purpose. In the two years of the club's organization, the club has a total of 85 members with 100 the maximum membership. Thomas R. Burke is treasurer and Joseph M. Lydon secretary and clerk.

Quincy CETA Office To Receive $2,143

The Quincy CETA office, which includes Quincy and 10 surrounding towns, will receive $2,143,912 in additional emergency public service employment funds to be used to hire eligible workers in public service jobs.

Quincy CETA currently has 446 workers in public service jobs with government and non-profit agencies and some of the new funds will be used to employ CETA-eligible workers in additional jobs of this type.

The rest will be used to develop new projects to provide both a new public service to the community and jobs to those with low income levels who are long-term unemployed or AFDC recipients.

The Quincy CETA will use all of its $2,143,912 to fund positions with or projects of non-profit and governmental agencies in Quincy, Braintree, Norwell, Hull, Cohasset, Hingham, Holbrook, Randolph, Scituate, Milton and Weymouth.

Projects will be solicited from non-profit and government agencies in the Quincy area.

Project proposals will be accepted until Feb. 18.

All projects must use CETA-eligible workers to provide a new public service to the community.

By POLLY DREDGE

Edgar W. Spargo of 17 Sherman St., Wollaston, was commended by the City Council recently for devoting much of his retirement time and his own funds to concerning himself with the health and welfare of others.

A resolve introduced by Councillor Paul D. Harold, praised Spargo and his 20-point diet and health plan approved by the Massachusetts Medical Society and other medical and nutritional experts.

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia joined the City Council in signing a scroll presented to Spargo, citing "the altruism in caring for others which the Spargo program represents."

A simplified version of Spargo's plan follows:

- Moderation in all facets of your lifestyle.
- Get adequate sleep, rest and fresh air.
- Exercise every day.
- Try to avoid stress-relaxation is essential.
- Reduce if overweight.
- No smoking.
- Sensible liquor consumption.

- A complete physical check-up annually.
- A flu shot every year.
- Lower total fat and cholesterol intake.
- Use margarine instead of butter.
- Cut down on eggs or use an egg substitute.
- Use less salt.
- Use sugar substitute.
- Eat roughage for a healthy diet.
- Cut down on starch foods and rich desserts.
- Broil or bake food instead of frying.
- Eat fish, poultry and veal more often.
- Include fresh fruits, vegetables and water in your diet.
- Do not overeat late at night before going to bed.

Spargo's plan, based mainly on articles by Dr. Jean Mayer, Harvard nutritionist and president of Tufts University, has been published in newspapers and magazines reaching an audience of more than 175,000.

He provides free copies of his health program to all who request them.

Morrissey Appointed To Urban Affairs Committee

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) has been appointed to the Committee on Urban Affairs by House Speaker Thomas W. McGee.

The Committee on Urban Affairs deals mainly with the concerns of the Metropolitan District Commission.

Morrissey said, "Urban Affairs was my first choice because of its value to the North Quincy-Wollaston area. The MDC has jurisdiction over Quincy Shore Drive, Wollaston Beach and the Nut Island Treatment Plant. Any legislation affecting these areas will come before this committee."

Sacred Heart Parish To Form Silver Citizen's Club

Sacred Heart Parish will begin a social club for all residents age 60 and over who are retired. The first meeting is scheduled for Friday at 1 p.m., in the lower parish house. The spiritual advisor to the newly formed group will be Fr. Tom Garrett. Fr. Garrett said, "the purpose of the club is to provide senior citizens and those who are retired with a primarily social atmosphere at least twice a month. In speaking with several of the older parishioners it is evident that there is both a high degree of interest and need for such a club to provide opportunities for day and weekend trips, health aids, and whatever needs the members decide they wish to pursue."

The Silver Citizen's Club is open to all men and women 60 or over or those men and women who are retired regardless of religious affiliation.

The first meeting will be primarily organization; however, as the need arises and interests demand, speakers and topics of interest will be presented at the following meetings along with coffee, tea and pastries.

Den 8, Pack 27 Visit The Quincy Sun

Cub Scouts from Den 8, Pack 27, visited The Quincy Sun recently and viewed the workings of a newspaper first hand.

The scouts, sponsored by Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, are David Brown, Christopher Cody, Eric Fano, Albert Hestlin, Kevin Ward and Thomas Ward.

Den leader, Mrs. Jan Shine, and assistant leader Mrs. Joann Fano accompanied the scouts on their tour.

Edward and Paul Shine also accompanied the scouts.

The boys first visited the editorial and advertising departments of The Quincy Sun.

They then toured the production department where they saw the story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer system. They saw news headlines set on a CompuGraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine. They also saw newswriters being set on the CompuWriter Junior.

The scouts watched a paste-up artist fix the story and headline into proper position on paste-up boards.

They watched photographs being reduced and screened for publication by an Agfa Gevaert Repromaster camera in the Sun's new camera department.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed the boys asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office, each scout received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

Last week the Governor delivered his State of the State Address before a joint session of the House and Senate. Governor Dukakis spoke of programs that had already been instituted and a comprehensive legislative package he would be filing in the coming months. The Governor then continued to outline the future of property taxes in the Commonwealth and promised to "mount a major effort to help local communities stabilize property tax increases." Outlining another area of reform, the Governor placed great emphasis on judicial changes.

The Governor's Select Committee on Judicial Needs, chaired by Archibald Cox, has recommended a series of solutions. "The courts of the Commonwealth are paralyzed, people often wait 3-5 years for their civil cases to be heard in Superior Court." Six of the worst twelve County Courts in the United States are located in Massachusetts. Although District Attorneys are taking action to correct the delays, the Governor outlined the need for legislative action.

Committee assignments were finally announced by Speaker McGee. I was appointed to the Committee on Urban Affairs. Committee hearings will begin this week. By law, every bill filed will receive a hearing before a committee.

For the past week and for the next two weeks, I will be undergoing a rigorous seminar on legislative procedures and indoctrination. These seminars are designed to help make the transition into legislative life easier.

I can be reached by calling 328-0900 or 727-2424.

ENC Loses Toughie To Suffolk

The Eastern Nazarene College basketball team still hoping to be ranked in New England NCAA Division III, just missed a big upset last Saturday night, bowing to Suffolk University, ranked third in N.E., 89-83 at Cambridge.

ENC trailed only 78-75 with three minutes left but the defense then collapsed.

Gordie Wetmore had 24 points and Mike Barefoot scored 22 to join Wetmore in going over 1000 career points.

Friday night the Crusaders host Babson and Saturday night are home to Southeastern Mass. Both games will be at ENC's Lahue Center at 8:00 o'clock.

"ENC has been trying to earn a ranking for several years," said first-year coach Ron Bradley. "We failed again last year despite a 21-18 record. We hope this will be the year."

ENC took a 5-2 record into this week's games.

Last Friday ENC defeated Barrington, 84-69, outscoring the losers, 16-6, to open, the second half. The Crusaders had led by only two points at halftime.

ENC's defense, spotty in the first half, made the difference in the second half.

Junior Mike Barefoot led the scorers with 20 points, and sophomore Mark Ribeiro had 12 points. Gordie Wetmore, who had passed the 1000-point career mark before the holidays, had only six to give him 1054, but the only senior on the squad played his usual strong two-way game.

ENC's women also topped Barrington, 73-46, giving them a 2-1 record.

Donna Fandel of Quincy led the attack with 20 points and Janet Ransstrom of Weymouth also starred.

GORDIE WETMORE goes up for a basket in Eastern Nazarene College's 84-69 win last week over Barrington. Mike Barefoot (22) waits for possible rebound.

Earlier in the week the ENC men had defeated Roger Williams, 86-76, with a well-balanced attack.

Ribeiro had 16 points, Wetmore, Barefoot and Jerry Perera, 14 each and Rick Ward 12.

North Swimmers Stopped By Weymouth

The North Quincy swim team suffered its first loss in four outings last week when it was edged by undefeated Weymouth North, 87-84, in a meet featured by several outstanding performances.

Capt. Kevin Greene continued his fine diving as he won the one meter event with 156.1 points. He has qualified for the Eastern Mass. tournament.

North swept this event with Dave Donovan in second place.

The Raiders won the 200-yard medley relay in 2:02 with Dave Palma, John Flate, Ed Melanson and John Conley.

Melanson also won the 100 butterfly and the 200 individual medley, and North's freestyle relay team of Mike Braun, Tom Nee, Dave Fowkes and Greene won when Weymouth was disqualified. Weymouth North won the race but the swimmers, in their glee, jumped back into the pool before North Quincy had finished, resulting in the disqualification.

Braun was second in the 200 freestyle and third in the 500 butterfly. Greene was second in the 100 backstroke. Flate took second in the 100 breaststroke.

Friday, North swims at Blue Hills Regional at 3:30 and Tuesday will be at Newton at the same time. Quincy will host Waltham at 3:30 at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool.

Jaguars Seek 4th In Row

The Quincy Junior College hockey team won its third game in a row last Saturday, defeating Holyoke, 4-2, to improve its record to 5-3.

Bob Barry had two goals and Bob Weddleton and Bob Boyle one each. Goalie Dick Wilson, all-star goalie at North Quincy High last year, was sensational with 40 saves.

Saturday Ken Hayes' Jaguars will host Tufts at the Quincy Youth Arena at 8:30 p.m.

QUINCY SUN

Takes Issue With Cerasoli

Ambler Opposes House Redistricting Plan

The recent proposed plan to reduce the size of the Massachusetts House of Representatives is meeting opposition from a local legislator.

Rep. Robert Ambler [D-Weymouth] openly opposes the plan which gives him a Weymouth district free of any incumbent legislators.

Under the announced proposal, the number of state representatives seats from Quincy and Weymouth is reduced from six to four seats.

In recent reports, it was noted that Rep. Ambler was slated for one district without incumbent opposition. However, Rep. Ambler informed Rep. George Keverian Chairman of the Committee on Redistricting, that he opposes the plan, and further said he will not vote for the plan as it currently exists.

Ambler said his opposition is based on his strong feeling that Weymouth deserves two representative districts and that no community within Weymouth [North Weymouth] should be split between districts.

Said Ambler: "My primary concern is for the good of my town. As a lifelong resident and taxpayer of Weymouth, I feel an obligation to see that the town is fairly treated, NOT that I personally am treated well."

"I did convey my feelings to Keverian as to how Weymouth should be dealt with. But Keverian's final plan was unknown to me until it was unveiled. I take issue with recent statements by Rep. Robert Cerasoli that infer otherwise." [The statements were made in last week's Quincy Sun].

"I just wish that I could deal with the Quincy Point representative strictly on the issues of what is best for each of our communities. Rep. Cerasoli's statements reflect that his personal concerns take precedence over his concern for his community's best interests. I refuse to do this.

"Twelve years as a legislator have taught me many lessons. One being, that a community cannot be adequately served by a representative who lives in another community. Such a position is fraught with such conflicts as Rep. Cerasoli experienced on the MBTA South Quincy Expansion issue. Quincy residents didn't want that new station so he voted against it, however, Weymouth residents looked forward to the convenience and jobs its construction would have generated. Any continuation of this divided district would only continue to compromise the interests of both communities. I am opposing the plan because I feel Weymouth need not and should not be the victim of conflicts as these."

Ambler objects to Keverian's plan as presently written. He said he will place all his support behind a plan which will achieve community objectives.

Ambler said he could support a redistricting plan that would place the minimum Quincy precincts with a maximum of Weymouth precincts in such a way as not to divide any Weymouth community. This type of plan would at least minimize the number of potential conflicts.

"The integrity of local communities and a strong legislative voice for the Town of Weymouth is my primary concern, here," said Ambler. "My hope is that debate can be limited to the issues. With many important matters before the legislature, I think Rep. Cerasoli and I will have many issues of importance to our districts to deal with this year. I hope that the interests of the people of the town of Weymouth and the City of Quincy, will be recognized and resolved favorably so that we can go on to other issues of greater importance to our constituents."

The drawing for the color television set will be held at 8 p.m. Registration for the drawing will be from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Tours of the new health spa will be held in order to explain the various individualized, group exercise and diet programs. "Visitors will also have the opportunity to learn about the many types of equipment we use," said Mrs. Buehler.

Facilities of Woman's World include the large exercise area, automatic steam cabinets, showers, dressing rooms, a lounge area, and Redwood sauna. "The sauna equipment was imported from Finland," said Mrs. Buehler, "Including a special type of rocks."

The new club owners are John R. Graham and Mary E. Wefer of Quincy. In addition to Mrs. Buehler, the manager, the staff includes Barbara Hopey of Hingham, Mr. Zaporetski of North Weymouth, Janice McArthur of Quincy and Heather Holmes of Quincy. They serve as program directresses.

"Each member of our staff is specifically trained in the field of exercise and weight control," according to Mrs. Buehler.

Serving the South Shore area, the Hingham spa is the seventh in the growing family of Woman's World Health Spas, according to Mr. Graham. "Other locations are in Billerica, Leominster, Marlboro, Reading, Gardner and Chelmsford, while clubs in Somerset and Acton will be opening shortly."

In addition to the drawing for the color television set, four 6-week introductory programs will also be given away. Presentation of the free courses will be made by Andres Yzaguirre, president of Woman's World Health Spas and Figure Salons.

classroom or at lunch. Students are expected to have adequate study materials or books with them and be prepared to study in a quiet atmosphere under teacher supervision."

Chrisom said the extra-curricular and athletic schedules will be continued with times and sites modified as necessity dictates.

North's physical education students will continue to be transported to other locations, a program that was begun at the start of the school year in September when the North Quincy gym was closed.

On the first day of the double sessions (Jan. 31), freshmen will report directly to the cafeteria at 12:20 p.m. for orientation and to receive programs. After that they will report to their first classes at 12:20 p.m.

All freshmen classes will be held in the main high school building in the afternoon to avoid the necessity of traveling to the Teal and Little Buildings. The freshmen also will have an 18-minute lunch period at 2:36 p.m.

"Transportation will be provided for all Grade 9 (freshmen) students at the 5 p.m. dismissal to insure student safety during this late dismissal in the early darkness of the winter," said Chrisom.

"Five buses will make stops at convenient locations in Squantum, Atlantic, Montclair, Norfolk Downs and Wollaston. The list of bus stops and bus safety rules will be given out during orientation."

"The most rewarding feature of the current school year," added Chrisom, "has been the extent of the cooperation of the student body and the staff at North Quincy High School."

"The seriousness of purpose, awareness of problems and high morale factor should be a deep source of gratification to all concerned."

Meanwhile, the North Quincy High School Newsletter sent its Roving Reporter out to sample student opinion on double sessions and found that getting up early was pretty well balanced out by getting home late.

"I won't really like it," said

Mary Harrington, freshman. "I'll be able to sleep in the morning but the morning is wasted otherwise."

"I'd rather go in the morning," said Elizabeth Santostefano, freshman. "I'll get out so late that most of the afternoon is gone."

"I'll like the afternoon session," said Mary McCulley, freshman. "I can stay up later in the evening because I can get up later in the morning. During bad weather it will be good."

"I don't like it," said Mary Tenny, freshman. "When the warm weather comes, you can't go to the beach when the day is hottest."

"It won't be easy getting up earlier until the body gets used to it," said Colin McEachern, junior. "But I can work more hours outside and make more money after school."

"I won't have any problem getting up earlier but I would rather not," said Maureen Santry, sophomore. "It will be good getting out earlier. You will have the rest of the day to yourself and can get homework done."

Tobin Hopes To Get Councillors, DeFalco To Meet On Hospital Land Dispute question is a $25 million expansion plan."

Raymond said the Council was being asked to "vote on a blank check and we have absolutely no say."

Tobin explained the Council's objections:

"They're afraid that if we rezone the land, the Mayor and everybody is going to come up with a $25 million bond issue. They don't want to obligate us to the $25 million."

"Expansion plans would first be submitted to an advisory board. They're nice people but they are appointed. Then it goes to the Board of Managers and they're appointed, too."

"Then it goes in to the state and federal officials and back to the Mayor's office and after everybody has decided what to do it finally ends up in the City Council and they tell us they want X-number of millions."

"The Council simply wants to be apprised of what they are suggesting all the way along."

He suggested that if DeFalco and Harrington and Raymond can work out some plan in which the Council is consulted on expansion plans the opposition to rezoning might end.

One of the problems is that in order to put together a plan, the city must have a certificate of need from the state and to get the certificate of need the land must be rezoned for hospital use.

Meanwhile, DeFalco sent a letter to City Solicitor Thomas F. Williams that cars are being illegally parked on the piece of land in dispute.

"To those who would suggest that the parcel is not necessary to this hospital I would strongly advise you to take a tour of the hospital parking at 8:30 a.m. on any morning and you will find that it is totally inadequate," said DeFalco.

Retail Store Coordinator Post Runs Out Of Funds

Quincy no longer has a retail store coordinator.

The post, which was occupied for most of the past year by Al Colella, was eliminated when its federal funding expired.

"It was a big loss to the city," said Mayor LaRaia. "Al did a remarkable job in relating the businessmen of the community to this office. I hope we can continue on a smaller scale but we will feel the loss."

LaRaia indicated that James Eddy, the new city development coordinator, will take up some of the slack.

LET A 'PRO' SELL IT

Selling your home yourself is no easy undertaking. Basically, it means attracting the right prospects - people who are ready, willing, and financially able to buy. Not those who are curious to see what your furniture looks like from the inside.

You can attempt to make this sale yourself, or you can have someone else handle the difficult negotiations. Frankly, the best way to market your home - probably your most valuable asset - is the professional way. Just as you would go to a doctor or a lawyer for medical or legal aid, you will want to go to a Realtor for assistance in selling your home.

His technical skill, business experience, list of bona fide prospects, contacts with financial institutions, and professional reputation are all at your disposal to expedite the sale of your home at the best possible price. This is the reason why - nationally - 75 percent of all homes are sold through professionals.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

Also, we have available a one year warranty on all plumbing, heating, mechanical, electrical systems and built-in appliances on homes that we sell.

FOR THE RECORD

In my Inaugural Address on January 5, 1976, I enunciated a series of programs and policies I intended to introduce as Mayor of Quincy. One year has gone by under my stewardship as the city's chief executive. I believe it is my duty to report candidly to the citizens about the progress we have made toward the achievement of those program goals and the implementation of those policies. This is the first of such reports.

Joseph J. LaRaia

MAYOR JOSEPH J. LARAIA

The Automotive Maintenance Division

It has been my observation, during 10 years of experience in the Quincy City Council that no appreciable savings could be made in the city budget merely by cutting jobs- or not filling vacancies. A reduction in personnel essentially leads to a reduction in essential services to the people.

To effect substantial economies, we need to restructure city government procedures and policies. Consistent with the message in my inaugural address, therefore, I have reorganized the program for the upkeep and repair of city owned vehicles by creating the AUTOMOTIVE MAINTENANCE DIVISION.

For the first time in Quincy history, we have centralized purchasing of equipment, centralized inventory control and a program of preventive maintenance. Where city vehicles were formerly housed for repair in 7 different garages, we have totally reorganized and centralized the repair and maintenance program for three distinct categories of vehicles and mechanized equipment. Automobiles, Lightweight and medium weight trucks, motorcycles and park landscaping and maintenance equipment are located at 64 Field Street. Snow removal vehicles and equipment such as plows and sanders are housed at 55 Sea Street, and heavy duty vehicles such as bulldozers, graders and other earth moving machines are serviced at the Sanitary Landfill.

The city's three hundred vehicles and fifty other motorized pieces of equipment are housed in these three locations and the condition of each vehicle is reviewed monthly in our newly instituted program of preventive maintenance.

Over the short term, my creation of the Automotive Maintenance Division will result in six figure savings. We have immediately reduced the budgetary request from last year's $571,000 by about $110,000 and we may realize even more savings by the end of the fiscal year.

Over the long term, we expect to extend the usable life of city vehicles by an average of 50%, thus drastically reducing the capital outlay budget.

Most importantly, this program has resulted in greater "service readiness." Our entire fleet of snow removal equipment was on the streets 100% to counteract the ravages of the three major snow storms we suffered in a ten day period and according to Police Chief Francis Finn police cruisers are back on patrol in record time whenever repairs are needed.

The Automotive Maintenance Division... an outstanding example of Service and Savings of the LaRaia administration.

Study Underway

3 Or 4 Elementary Schools May Close

By TOM HENSHAW

A study has been underway since last fall within the Quincy School Department that could lead to the closing of three or four of the city's elementary schools, possibly as early as the next school year.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon confirms that the study will be completed before the end of the current school year "in time for the School Committee to act on it in the context of the 1977-78 budget."

"We are exploring the notion of school closings through consolidation," said Dr. Creedon. "We are also exploring the possibility of better balancing the schools by changing the boundaries."

Dr. Creedon said studies suggest that an elementary school with an enrollment under 250 pupils is an inefficient operation.

"When a school reaches that figure," he said, "it needs to be examined. We are in that situation now in three or four of our elementary schools."

Quincy schools with enrollments of less than 250 are Beechwood Knoll 221, Gridley Bryant 242, Cranch 156, Great Hill 135, Hugling 149 and Myles Standish 144, including some 50 kindergarten youngsters based in from other sections.

Dr. Creedon said there is no way that the Beechwood Knoll and Gridley Bryant schools would be closed and he predicted that the enrollment of the Myles Standish will go up next year when the Navy moves more personnel into Squantum Gardens.

That leaves Cranch, Great Hill and Hunting.

The superintendent indicated that any school closings would not be an arbitrary action on the part of the School Committee but would require careful study

Sabotage?

By HENRY BOSWORTH

POWERFUL POLITICAL COMBINE THWARTING REFORM IN QUINCY.

That bold headline appears over a story in last week's issue of the Post-Gazette, a newspaper published in Boston's North End.

Theme of the article written by Joe Alfano is that a lot of people have ganged up on Mayor Joseph LaRaia to prevent him from carrying out "reform" in Quincy.

These people, according to Alfano, include former Mayors James McIntyre and Walter Hannon, Senator-Councillor Arthur Tobin, Rep-Councillor James Sheets, certain other non-identified members of the City Council, The Quincy Sun and The Patriot Ledger.

In fact, charges Alfano, The Sun and The Ledger are "sabotaging" LaRaia by not giving him honest news coverage.

Ordinarily we would let Alfano's story go by without comment. But the fact he charges The Sun with "sabotaging" Mayor LaRaia leaves us no choice but to respond.

Alfano starts out like this in his article:

"A bright young reform mayor in Quincy is finding out that it is one thing to beat a powerful entrenched political machine in an election and quite another to control the reins of authority to institute programs designed to get his city government producing effectively."

The use of the word "reform" would seem to be ill-timed, considering the fact that two of Mayor LaRaia's own high leveled appointees are now awaiting trial on federal charges they tried to extort $7,000 from the low-bidding contractor in connection with the $1 million Merrymount School addition.

Alfano reshapes the bitter 1975 mayoral election and the recount which showed 600 votes originally credited to Hannon should have gone to LaRaia. He says the discrepancy, attributed to "human error" is "a verdict many Quincy residents figuratively held their noses at."

He neglects to point out, however, that the election was thoroughly probed by [1] Atty. Gen. Francis Bellotti's office, [2] Dist. Atty. William Delahunt's office, [3] Judge Albert Kramer at a Quincy District Court inquest and [4] a citizens committee appointed by LaRaia himself.

And that all came up with the same answer: no one tried to steal the election. The fault was attributed to human error in the method of counting 50-vote blocks. Out of it all came recommendations for

Many Changes In 27 Years

Charles Ross Retires As Assistant Registrar Of Deeds

By TOM HENSHAW

Charles N. Ross has retired at 70 to resume the law career he set aside 27 years ago to enter the service of Norfolk County.

Ross, son of the late Mayor
Charles A. Ross of Quincy,
assistant Registrar of Deeds on Jan. 1.

He'll join his old friend,
Edward H. Libertine, in a law practice with offices at 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Sq.

"I haven't been inside a courtroom in 27 years," said Ross the other day. "But I think I'll remember what to do."

Most, if not all, Norfolk County offices were occupied by Republicans when Ross was appointed assistant registrar by the then Registrar L. Thomas Shine.

Since then there has been a complete turnabout but Ross survived all the shakeups, particularly the one that could have been when Democrat Barry Hannon became registrar on the death of Shine in 1970.

"Hannon made no changes when he came in," he says. "A lot of people make the mistake of cleaning house. Barry didn't.
It takes a lot of years to learn

City Receives

$372,452

Quincy has received $372,452 in the final payment of revenue sharing funds from the federal government under the law enacted in 1972, it was disclosed by the office of Cong.
James A. Burke (D-Milton).

It brings to $8,205,001 the total received by the city since the program began.

The first payment of revenue sharing under a new 3½-year extension enacted by Congress several months ago will be made April 1.

RETIREMENT PARTY was held recently for Charles N. Ross of Quincy, who served as assistant registrar of deeds for Norfolk County for 27 years. Left to right, Ernest Montolio, who baked the cake; Frank Viola of Quincy, president of the Haymarket Cooperative Bank; Ross, and Registrar Barry Hannon of Braintree.

the business."

During Ross' tenure, about
1960, the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds became the first in the country to go automated.

Also it was the first in Massachusetts to microfilm its files, which go back to 1793, and place them for safekeeping in an underground bunker at Iron Mountain, near Albany, N.Y.

The Registry had 72 employees when Ross joined the staff in 1950. It has 62 today, despite a steadily increasing volume of business.

"We have been having particularly heavy years lately," he says. "A lot of people are moving out of Boston to Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree, Dedham, Norwood. And a lot of our people are moving on toward the Cape."

Although he was the son of a former mayor who still holds the record for longevity in City Hall under the Plan A form of government [nine years], Ross ran for public office only once.
He tried for City Council in 1950 and lost.

"Seven were elected," he recalls. "I was eighth."

Among the seven elected to the first Plan E Council were such powers as Thomas S.
Burgin and Frank Orcutt.

"The big issue in those days was taxes," he says. "People were getting excited over something as small as a 20-cent tax increase. It's unheard of today."

Ross, who practiced law before becoming assistant registrar, is a former president of the Norfolk County Car Association and a member of the Board of Delegates of the Massachusetts Bar Association.

He was also a president of the Massachusetts Registrars of Deeds Association.

A veteran of World War II,
Ross is past commander of the Quincy Legion Post and the Quincy Veterans Council and a member of the Bryan VFW Post and the Quincy Disabled Veterans.

He enlisted in the Army on March 17, 1941, prior to America's entry into the fighting and went overseas with the Yankee Division.

He won the Bronze Star with two oak leaf clusters—the result of "seeing General Patton a lot of times."

"Every time we saw Patton," he says, "we knew we'd be jumping off in a few days."

Ross was in Czechoslovakia when the war ended, sharing occupation duty with the Russian Army, which he recalls as "a bunch of real hard drinkers."

A widower, Ross lives at 91
Washington St., Quincy.

His son, Charles N. Jr., is a staff announcer with Radio
WJDA.

LaRaia Seeks Approval To Keep 'Little City Hall' In Atlantic Building

Mayor LaRaia is seeking approval from the Department of Housing and Urban Development [HUD] to continue North Quincy's Little City Hall in a building occupied by the Atlantic Neighborhood Center.

Joanne Condon, president of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association, said last week that sharing the building at 150 East Squantum St. with the Little City Hall might jeopardize the Center's community development grant from HUD.

"We are getting a letter from HUD on the matter," said LaRaia. "I doubt very much if HUD will say no. We're not using the community development funds for the Little City Hall.

"We could always move to a new location if there is anything wrong but I don't anticipate any problems. The letter from HUD would erase the questions of those concerned, but we are satisfied."

The Little City Hall was opened Monday with John Salenius, previously the Mayor's executive secretary, in charge.

LaRaia said the Center was chosen because "people are familiar with the location and we wouldn't have to go through the experiment of occupying a new building which would cost us time in getting into operation."

The Mayor said he recognized the fact that some of those who question the use of the building as a Little City Hall are legitimately concerned.

But, he said, "some of those who raised the question did it for obstructionist reasons. They are more interested in obstruction than they are in seeing that city services are extended to the people in North Quincy."

STORM REMAINS - Intensity of the snowfall that struck Quincy in three storms around New Year's is attested by this pile of ice and snow that remained at the School St. entrance to the Ross Parking Area 11 days after the last flake fell. Quincy Soldier In Carter's Inaugural Guard Quincy was represented at President Jimmy Carter's last week inaugural ceremonies by Cpl. Leo Ekbon, 19, of 1294 Furnace Brook Parkway. Ekbon marched in the Army's Honor Guard Company which led the inaugural parade.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Ekbon, Corporal Ekbon enlisted in the Army in June of 1974 and under the unit of choice option, he selected the 3rd United States Infantry [The Old Guard] for assignment.

The Army's official ceremonial unit and escort to the President, The Old Guard is also responsible for the security of the nation's capital during times of national emergency or civil disturbance.

Traditionally, The Old Guard marches as the lead element in every inaugural parade. Major duties of the battalion include guarding the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, the Caisson Platoon used for funerals and pageants, the Army Drill Team and Fife and Drum Corps, the Continental Color Guard and the Salute Gun Platoon.

Soldiers from every section of the country are represented in The Old Guard. Those interested in more information about The Old Guard may contact the Quincy Army Recruiting Station at 1626 Hancock St. or telephone 773-6822.

3 Or 4 Elementary Schools May Be Closed

and input from parents and other residents of the school's area.

The matter of changing school boundaries was before the School Committee three years ago, he said, "the PTAs came and asked us not to do it and the report was filed."

Closing certain schools would not necessarily mean a saving of money.

"If we closed the schools we would have to transfer the kids elsewhere," said Dr. Crendon. "Would the expense of transportation justify the closing of the school? To date, the answer has been no."

The reason for considering school closings, of course, is the decline in enrollments in recent years, a phenomenon that is not confined to Quincy schools. Newton is closing two schools. Braintree is considering closing four.

The enrollment in Quincy schools, kindergarten through Grade 14, for the current year is 14,772, down from 15,426 last year and down from 17,080 in the peak year of 1971.

The biggest drop was in the elementary schools, which are down 412 pupils from last year, and the decline shows no signs of bottoming out.

"Two or three years ago I would have told you that enrollment would have bottomed out in 1980 or 1981," said Dr. Crendon. "But we are already at the 1980 projection."

A new projection for 1981 is being worked out and should be made public soon.

The study committee includes Wilfred [Fred] Nolan, coordinator of elementary schools, and eight school principals. They are:

Vincent Moscardelli, Central Junior High; Joseph Long, Point Junior High and Webster; Dennis Carini, Great Hill and Hunting; Edward E. Baccari, Atherton Hough; Katherine Norris, Merrymount; Ruth Haggerty, Squantum; Gerald C. Gowen, Snug Harbor; and Morrie Hibbard, Lincoln-Hancock.

Mayor's Commission Plans Series On Women And Money Management

By MARY WEAVER

On Wednesday, Feb. 2, the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Quincy Cooperative Bank will begin a monthly series of workshops on women and money management with a special seminar on developing "spending plans" and managing financial resources successfully.

The opening lesson will be at 7:30 p.m. at the Adams Shore Library.

Kay and Richard Buck, teachers of a 10-week course called the "Buckwatchers" at Quincy Junior College will be the guest speakers. The Buck's philosophy is that budgeting need not be confining, but can offer more freedom and provide more options and choices. They will discuss ways of getting more out of money by developing a unique spending plan.

"We decided to begin our series with this topic," said Elizabeth Van Twuyver, chairwoman of the Commission's Task Force on Women and Money, "because it is an issue facing everyone. Although some people may have a greater need to establish spending plans than others, setting goals for household expenditures, savings or a special purchase affects everyone, especially with today's inflation. People can benefit a great deal by knowing how to get the most from their money and we hope as many people as possible will attend."

In addition to the spending plan concept, the Bucks will discuss techniques of asserting yourself in the marketplace, buying life insurance, and how to cope with inflation. The program is free and open to the public. A question and answer period will follow the presentation.

Members of the Mayor's Commission who are coordinating this series with the Quincy Cooperative Bank include Elizabeth Van Twuyver, Pat Callahan, Linda Stice, Shirley Dunbar and Adrienne Clarke.

Natural Family Planning Class At Germantown Center

A class in natural family planning will be offered at the Germantown Service Center, 9 Bicknell St., on Thursday, Feb. 10 under the sponsorship of the Quincy Family Planning Project.

The natural planning method, preferred by many for religious or medical reasons, allows women to pinpoint their fertile days precisely.

The class is open to all residents of the South Shore and will include a follow-up in three months. Anyone interested in this type of family planning should contact Maureen Sullivan at the Germantown Clinic on Monday or Wednesday afternoons.

2 Quincy Girls In Special Program At Regis

Two Quincy girls are participating in the January Program at Regis College, Weston.

The program offers options for students to explore new and different areas of learning, to engage in experiences that are not feasible during the regular semester, and to provide the students with an opportunity to make career decisions based on experience gained during "Jan-Plan."

Joanne Keane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Keane of 226 North Central Ave., Wollaston, and Judith Murray, daughter of Mrs. Marilyn Murray Waywood, of 84 Albatross Rd., Adams Shore, are enrolled in a course entitled "Wall Street: The World of the Stock Market."

Sponsored by the Economics Department, the purpose of the course is to provide a basic understanding of stock market operations, their relationship to contemporary national and world issues, and the people involved in the workings of Wall Street.

Experts from the stock market world will give lectures at the Weston campus and participate in student discussions.

Miss Keane is a 1974 graduate of Fontbonne Academy, Milton, and Miss Murray a 1974 graduate of Quincy High. Both girls are juniors, majoring in economics at Regis College.

YOUR AMAZING SINUSES

You've got holes in your head, and you may be suffering because of them. These holes are called sinuses. They're in your cheekbones, above your eyes and behind your nose, and you have between 5 and 15 of them. They connect with the inside of your nose by narrow passageways, which can lead to trouble.

The membranes of the sinuses are susceptible to infection. If the infection blocks the opening, it will cause sinusitis, usually characterized by a headache and, occasionally, high fever. These symptoms can last for weeks.

Severe cases of sinusitis sometimes require special drugs or surgery. Persons with acute or chronic infections of the sinuses should avoid swimming, diving, and strenuous outdoor exercise.

Particularly obstinate cases of sinus infection may improve in a hot, dry climate.

While those holes in your head may sometimes be a pain, you certainly don't want their places to be filled by anything else.

2 Women Elected Readers At First Church Of Christ

At a recent meeting of its membership, First Church of Christ, Scientist, elected two new Readers for a term of three years.

Elected as First Reader is Mrs. Kathryn B. Selden of Milton. Second Reader is Miss June B. Wilson also of Milton. They succeed William Ellington of Rockland and Miss Barbara Beck of Boston, both formerly of Quincy, who have completed their term of service.

Churches of Christ, Scientist, have no ordained clergy but each branch church elects from its membership of laypersons two Readers who conduct the church services which feature selections from the King James Version of the Bible and the denominational textbook Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science. Prayer, hymns, a solo and organ prelude and postlude complete the service.

On Sundays, the Second Reader reads selections from the Bible, alternating with explanatory passages from the Christian Science textbook read by the First Reader who conducts the major portion of the service. The weekly Bible Lesson-Sermon in the Christian Science Quarterly which comprises the sermon on Sunday is also studied during the week by students of Christian Science throughout the world.

On Wednesday evenings, the First Reader conducts the service with selections from both books on a subject of her choice pertinent to the times. This is followed by a testimony period when members of the congregation share personal experiences of problems solved and physical healings brought about through prayer in Christian Science.

In addition to church services and Sunday School on Sunday morning and the Wednesday evening testimony meeting, First Church of Christ, Scientist, Quincy, also maintains a free public Reading Room in the Wollaston Theater building where the Bible and all authorized Christian Science literature may be read, borrowed or purchased. A church member is always in attendance to help and to answer questions. The public is cordially invited.

The newly formed Silver Citizen's Club of Sacred Heart, North Quincy began activities last Friday, with a turnout of 76 members.

Since meeting many persons, 60 and over, have contacted the parish house regarding the next meeting to be held at 1 p.m. Feb. 11.

Due to the interest and number of initial members it was decided that membership will be limited to 150.

The club, which is non-denominational, is a social club for persons who are retired or over age 60. Refreshments were served and 11 door prizes were awarded at the charter meeting. Rita Huber of Colpitt's Travel presented several possible trip plans to the group which has already decided upon a two-day trip to Cape Cod during the month of March.

Format of the club is informal. Speakers on various subjects and areas will be invited to give talks at each meeting along with various movies and presentations on many interest areas.

Due to the large number of members the next meeting will take place in the school hall rather than in the parish house.

New members are most welcome until the 150 limit is reached. Fr. Thomas Garrett is co-ordinator of the club.

Already in progress is a program of candidates for the members by confirmation who are required to donate 20 hours of time to service projects for which they may take no money.

President Carter Asks Favorite Verse Be Read At Quincy Service

President Jimmy Carter's favorite verse from Revelations was included in an ecumenical service held to pray for the leadership of the country on the eve of his inauguration in the Houghs Neck Congregational Church.

The verse, which the President asked to be read, is:

"Behold, I stand at the door and knock: if any man hear my voice and open the door, I will come in and sup with him, and he with me."

In a letter to City Councillor Paul D. Harold, Carter described himself as "really touched that the people of Quincy have chosen this week to do an ecumenical service to pray for the leadership of our country."

"As I move into this period of assuming responsibility for the direction of this nation, I am especially conscious and grateful for all the millions of individuals who have a real stake in the success of my administration."

Councillor Harold presented the letter to Houghs Neck Congregational Church.

Five clergymen of different faiths took part in the ecumenical service along with Revs Dr. Peter and Alicia Corea of the Houghs Neck Congregational Church.

They were Revs. Daniel Allen of Adams Shore United Methodist Church, Elmer Wilson of Bethel Nazarene Church, George Carlson and Gerald Osterman of St. Boniface Church, and Richard Uffring of Most Blessed Sacrament Church.

Other participants included Councillor Harold, organists Arden Schofield of Houghs Neck Congregational Church and Mrs. Esther Andrews of Bethel Nazarene Church and the Bethel Nazarene choir under Michael Bankston.

The evening's offering was sent to the Emergency Relief Fund of the Red Cross.

3 Special Events At Faith Lutheran

The worship service at Faith Lutheran Church last Sunday, Jan. 23, was an extra special one for three reasons: a baptism, a birthday, and an installation.

Rev. James L. Kimmell, pastor, officiated.

Baptized was Steven Roger Cook, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Cook of Quincy. Cook's four older children, Susan, Janet, Donald, and Donna, were sponsors for their baby brother.

Honored at the service and at a reception afterwards, was Mrs. Sadie Thoren of Braintree who celebrated her 90th birthday. After appropriate remarks by Pastor Kimmell who called the honored member before the congregation, Mrs. Kimmell presented her with a corsage. Despite her age, Mrs. Thoren is alert and active in the Lutheran Church Women's organization and in Faith Seniors.

Sadie, as she is known by all, has been a member of the same church for 73 years. She creates a number of gifts for shut-ins at Christmas time.

Also as part of Sunday's service was the installation of the members of the church council, who are as follows: for three years, Robert Barnes, Nandor Carlson, Robert Franceschini, John Hedlund, Miss Helen Heikkila and Robert Heikkila; for two years, Miss Barbara Berg, Alex Erikson, Mrs. Betty Franceschini, Harry Johnson, Mrs. Evelyn Lindquist and Mrs. John Mullaney; and for one year, Robert Blake, George Hirtle, Robert Kallstrom, Paul Kelley, Douglas Luoma, Donald Robinson, Robert Simpson and G. William Tuori.

Wollaston Baptist Church Annual Meeting Jan. 28

First Baptist Church of Wollaston will hold their annual meeting Friday, Jan. 28, at 7:45 p.m. at the church.

Annual reports will be given, and appropriations for the coming year will be made.

HESITATION CAN BE COSTLY

Once you put real estate on the market, you have to make up your mind to move when the right offer comes. Your asking price should come pretty close to your selling price if you have priced your property realistically. The right offer may be your first offer, and if you turn it down, you may never get another as good.

However, the offer should be a written one - the only kind that has any real significance and on which you can depend.

Just remember that a legitimate offer should be accompanied by a good-sized check depending on the selling price. Never accept a verbal promise and take your property off the market. The next day, a good sale may be lost if you are tied up in this type of questionable transaction. You'll never have to worry about this situation arising if the sale of your property is in the hands of a Realtor.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

Sabotage?

improving election procedures.

But Alfano—sitting in front of his typewriter in the North End—sees all and knows all in Quincy. Despite evidence to the contrary he calls it an "amazing shortchanging" and "not too surprising" because "after all he [LaRaia] was bucking a strong political machine that was entrenched in the mayor's office."

Alfano proceeds to charge that Tobin and Sheets and other members of the City Council have engaged in an behind-the-scenes political plot to roadblock all LaRaia programs...

And says there are indications McIntyre "is a major orchestrator behind the scene."

He claims Hannon is using his "clout" as an executive with the Chamber of Commerce to insure a one-sided perception of City Hall news at The Patriot Ledger.

There is no doubt behind-the-scene maneuvers are going on—but it is on both sides. And McIntyre certainly is still a powerful political figure.

As for Hannon's Chamber "clout", if he really has one, it has never reached The Sun and we would be willing to bet it's never been felt at The Ledger, either.

Alfano goes on to charge:

"Oddly enough, the printed media in Quincy—the Quincy Patriot Ledger [Joe, they dropped the name Quincy a good 10 years or so ago] and the weekly Quincy Sun—have not perceived the full dimensions of the battle.

"Whether this is because the newsmen the two papers have assigned to City Hall are too bemused by the entrenched political operation or it is the executives at the papers calling the shots—one thing remains clear. And that is LaRaia is getting short shrift as regards honest news coverage of his efforts."

"Whatever the reasons, Mayor LaRaia finds himself in the highly unusual position of a reform mayor who is being sabotaged by the press in his own backyard which plays steadily into the hands of the cartel opposed to him politically. An adversary role by the press in this context is beyond understanding and raises more questions than it answers."

Well, we've heard that song before. If things go wrong, blame it on the press. Nixon did. Agnew did.

Alfano isn't doing Mayor LaRaia any favor by blaming The Patriot Ledger or The Sun for problems at City Hall.

Many of the problems are there not because of the press but because of early administration mistakes made by the mayor and the actions of a few of those he appointed.

In addition to the two appointees facing extortion charges, another was convicted of stealing $500 and trying to steal $10,000 more in connection with a sought Quincy restaurant license. And another appointee was discovered to be under indictment in Suffolk County on two criminal charges.

These circumstances make you wonder how Alfano could come up with the theme that powerful forces are thwarting reform.

The LaRaia administration right now is trying to overcome these events, shore up its weaknesses, eliminate the negative and accent the positive.

The Sun has never said Mayor LaRaia hasn't tried to do a good job and it certainly does not blame him personally for other people's troubles with the law.

The Sun has been editorially critical of the mayor from time to time. But on occasion has supported him and even asked that he be given fair time to get his administration rolling.

And, for the record, The Sun in the past has criticized both former Mayors McIntyre and Hannon.

The Sun has been fair to Mayor LaRaia in its news columns—every week seeking him out for his comment on issues and for any information he deems news worthy.

Every week since he has been in office, our City Hall reporter has sat down with him to get his side on all issues.

Though Mayor LaRaia may disagree with some of our editorial stands, we are quite certain he will agree he gets fair news coverage from The Sun. In fact, Alfano should ask him about that.

The press hasn't sabotaged Mayor LaRaia.

If anyone has sabotaged him it is a few of the people he placed his faith and trust in only to have them let him down badly.

It would appear someone has fed Alfano a hunk of salami and convinced him it was editorial filet mignon.

THUMBNAIL THOUGHTS

By Senator Snuffy

The Carter Administration housecleaning will get rid of some rascals and a lot of innocent bystanders.

Lack of tuition money and low SAT scores do not worry the speedy 6'2" 210-pound running back.

The Nobel Prize committee still gives awards for economics but the cities, states and nations still seem to be in an awful economic mess.

The automobile thief isn't immune to mistakes. He swipes some clinkers, too.

CITY HALL NOTES

Special Effort To Clear Snow Near Schools

Mayor LaRaia says his administration is making a special effort to clear the snow and ice left by three storms from streets and sidewalks around school — but the job is going slower than expected.

"It's particularly difficult because the snow has formed into ice in the continued cold and that means we have to use heavy equipment to move it," he said. "But we're still working on it."

LaRaia called the program "unprecedented."

"I don't recall it ever being done before," he said. "We don't want students to lose time in school and we want to enhance their safety. The public was clamoring for such service so we initiated it."

Mayor LaRaia has laid down the law to department heads on the matter of getting their budget proposals to him on time.

"Any delay will only mean time taken from them in reviewing their budgets," he said. "In other words, the more time they take getting it in, the less time they'll have to defend their proposals."

"We've got to get the budget to the City Council in sufficient time. We don't want it to be handled on a crisis basis. We're not going to entertain a rush situation like last year."

Department budgets are supposed to be in the Mayor's office by the end of the month.

City Councillor James A. Sheets is being credited with saving a life in the aftermath of the snow storms in West Quincy.

Sheets, who was out in his Ward 4 helping to unclog drains, helped to route an ambulance through the Grove St. section on the other side of the Southeast Expressway with Temple Pinkham of Forest St., who had suffered a heart attack.

The City Council's Public Safety Committee has given its endorsement to a raise in taxi fares to 60 cents for the first one-seventh of a mile and 10 cents for each additional one-seventh.

That interprets into $1.20 for the first mile and 70 cents for the second.

Mayor LaRaia is planning to form a committee of residents of the Squantum-North Quincy area to provide public input into plans by Ron Courville to develop the land around the Boston Harbor Marina.

The nine-member committee is expected to be announced by the end of the week.

LIVING TODAY

By Dr. William F. Knox

Big Good Bob

Remember about "Big Bad John" in the song? I want to tell you about his brother "Big Good Bob" ... who has just as big a problem with goodness as John had with badness. Both brothers were poorly adjusted to the real world.

You see Big Good Bob always is good ... he's nice to everyone ... trusts everyone ... loves everyone. He's very responsible ... very peaceful. He's very honest. He always grabs the check in the restaurant when out with friends. He always tries to be his best ... he suffers if he isn't. He believes that "goodness" has its own rewards ... that to turn the other cheek is fulfilling in itself ... and that it pays off in the long run. He often goes the second mile ... in fact he even volunteers to go the third.

He grew up in an environment that was very religious ... was taught little songs as a child which stuck in his mind and formed his character. Like the one ...

"I'm pressing on the upward way
New Heights I'm gaining every day
Still praying as I onward bound
Lord, plant my feet on higher ground."

He really lived out the words of the song. But ... in spite of his goodness, Big Good Bob was never satisfied with himself. He had to use every moment to improve himself. He had little time for fun. He could forgive others their shortcomings usually ... but he was hard on himself ... demanding of himself almost superhuman behavior. If he asserts himself with others to demand his just dues often he over-reacts ... then he follows up with apologies ... and feelings of guilt. So usually he goes on ... and on being "good" ... trusting ... carrying his "burdens".

But now he's beginning to ask ... "when does my turn come? ... who's going to feed my soul?" He sees he's been masochistic ... and doesn't want to continue living this way. He's becoming more and more angry with the situation which his trust and goodness has produced.

Big Good Bob has been living with blinders over his eyes. He hasn't recognized the real world. He drives his car trusting that everyone else is careful too. He never wears his seat belt ... never locks his car doors. He never counts the change a clerk returns to him. Before making a purchase he doesn't ask "how much?" Usually he's lucky ... like when he hired his fine secretary without asking if she could type.

Big Good Bob wasn't so lucky in his marriage 11 years ago ... when he asked his girl to marry him she said she didn't love him. "But I love enough for both of us" ... he assured her. Soon he found that LOVE ISN'T ENOUGH to make a marriage work. Now it's difficult for Big Good Bob ... he doesn't want to hurt anybody ... certainly not his wife who's borne him three children ... but they're incompatible in their relationship except in bed. So ... Big Good Bob feels guilty about this. Every little sign of improvement in their relationship becomes to him enormous hope ... "Now maybe it will all be different?" ... he thinks ... but again he ignores the real world.

Big Good Bob's virtues have become his vices. He lives in his own traps ... spends much of his time getting out of the dilemmas he's created by his own "goodness". When he tries to get out of one of his traps he hurts other people. He has a value system which ignores the real world around him. He has not operated from wisdom ... not sound ethics ...

This is the sad story of many people ... many "good" people ... whose trust is not based on sound judgement.

Take a look at yourself through Big Good Bob. You just might be blaming someone else for your dilemmas in your state of silent anger and secret disappointment ... in yourself. Maybe your "goodness" gets you into dilemmas which you're now anxiously trying to get yourself out of. There is no real virtue in being vulnerable.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS By Tom Henshaw

Scramble On For City Clerk's Job

John R. [Jake] Shaughnessy, one of Quincy's most influential Democrats, was favored in the race to succeed the late Emery L. Crane as city clerk.

Republicans, however, were arguing that since Democrat Leo E. Mullin had been chosen city auditor a Republican should have a crack at the city clerk's job.

The City Council was said to be split with four favoring Shaughnessy, two for acting City Clerk Hattienay Thomas, two for Avery Gilkerson and Council President William W. Jenness undecided.

Dark horse candidates were Emery L. Crane's son, Donald, plus Dave MacIntosh, Charles Canavan, Tim Daly, John Savage, Charles J. McGilvray, William C. Edwards, George H. Bonsall and Arthur I. Burgess.

NORTH TIPS TRADE

Henry Hibbard contributed nine points and Eddie Cooke seven to lead the North Quincy High School basketball team to a 23-18 victory over Quincy Trade School. Bob Osborne had eight for Trade.

Trade was represented by Osborne, Bud Scanlon, Frank Donovan and Gino Pettiti, forwards; Al Papile, center; and Frank Gramazio and Glenn Jancaterino, guards.

Glenn Fleischer's nine points showed the way for Quincy High's eighth win in nine games, 30-27, over Medford.

Remodeling Boom Gives New Lease On Life . . .

Over 30 - And Better Than Ever

Changing houses as family needs change used to be almost as much a part of American life as changing cars, but today there's a new lifestyle in the making. Continuing economic uncertainties are honing a whole new generation of professional and amateur do-it-yourselfers.

Not moving, but remodeling has become the byword, and when you consider that the majority of our houses—43% of them—are over thirty years old, it's clear that there's plenty of scope for updating and customizing living units to meet changing family needs.

Home improvements can also return between 75% and 100% of labor and materials costs and if inflation continues even at a moderate rate, those improvements will be worth far more several years down the road.

One of the most effective "tools" for remodelers is also one of the easiest—prefinished interior paneling. It can cover unsightly or cracked walls; provide new storage or work space; unite or divide living space — and wherever it goes, create a brand new environment rich with the warmth of wood.

The standard 4' x 8' panels go up easily, requiring no special skill. And according to U. S. Plywood, major supplier for a wide range of paneling types and finishes, there are three basics to consider: your budget, your long-range purpose and the performance needs of the job.

Consider purpose: are you upgrading the house, perhaps doing a loving restoration—or just trying to make it more livable? Do you plan to stay, or are you looking ahead to resale? Are you re-doing the kitchen, or building a new wing? All these purposes will affect the kind of price decision you make.

Then too, consider the performance you need. If the project is a child's room, you'll want to choose a panel that can take hard wear. One good choice might be Weldwood Vinylgard with a woodgrain print and tough vinyl finish. But if you're refurbishing the foyer or re-doing the living room, then you might consider one of the choice Weldwood hardwoods like Charter Pecan or Victorian walnut.

The range of styles is so great that there is virtually a panel to suit any personality or decorating scheme. Textures are available with the look and feel of hand-hewn or weathered wood. There are panels that look antique, contemporary or rustic.

Plainly put, "value analysis" is the cost of a product over its life cycle. Paint and wallpaper cost less to apply but their life cycle is much shorter. Panels, properly installed and maintained, last indefinitely.

Finally, one of the most important incentives to remodeling has become the need for insulation. Attic insulation especially pays for itself many times over in energy conservation and for little added expense, homeowners are converting this traditionally wasted area to an extra guest bedroom or kids' playroom for rainy days, and vast amounts of literature and instructions so that no home project should be beyond the abilities of people who really want to tackle them.

Let a kitchen specialist help in planning of laundry center

For help in planning a laundry, consult a kitchen specialist. As a professional space planner, he's qualified to design laundries, baths — in fact, any room in the house that involves cabinetry and equipment.

First off, he'll help you decide where to locate a laundry center: should it be near the bath or the kitchen?

Each location has its advantages, and there are other options, members of the American Institute of Kitchen Dealers point out. These experts also note that a laundry center will be influenced by family size, age, style of life and, naturally, budget.

The "pros" take all of these factors into account when they do the planning — whether you, or they, are the installers.

The bedroom bath area is good because it's where the bulk of the laundry collects and where clean laundry is stored; the kitchen area, because it's where so many other homemaking activities center.

Kitchen bath laundry specialists frown on installing laundry equipment in the kitchen, contending that in this instance food and fashion don't mix! Preferable, they say, is a utility room right off the kitchen, where the two can share plumbing.

A spare bedroom might be converted into a combination laundry sewing hobby room. Or the family room might be made to accommodate laundry equipment by installing it

Keep in mind, AIKD members advise, that you need a bin for soiled laundry, a counter for sorting and folding, and facilities for hanging garments just out of the dryer. So it's better if you don't have to skimp on space when you remodel to accommodate a home laundry.

With 80 per cent of the fabrics in today's homes washable, a laundry center is no longer just a convenience. It's a necessity. A kitchen bath laundry specialist will help you plan and install it to perform double, triple or multiple duty.

behind decorative doors, either sliding or folding.

The newest theory about laundry location is that you shouldn't just put in a laundry. You should consider it a housekeeping room — a center of activity that consolidates functions of other rooms, and frees them of clutter.

You might have a potting table, a wrapping counter, a sewing center, storage for cleaning and gardening supplies — in addition to situating your automatic washer and dryer where there is supplementary storage for laundering aids.

Time To Fix Up Your Home --Inside!

A family room to suit your personal lifestyle

Does your family room look like the high school football squad used it for a practice field? If so, it could mean it's time to redecorate.

Basics for a family room often include a couch, recliner lounge chair, one or two stationary chairs, end tables with lamps and, perhaps, several small, portable cube tables or a coffee table.

Determine your family's needs—you might want to include a larger card table with matching chairs, bookshelves and cabinets, too.

Many styles are available in the new leather-look vinyls and in laminated and translucent plastics—good, durable materials for family room furnishings as they can be easily cleaned by spraying with Fantastik® spray cleaner and wiping with a clean cloth or damp sponge.

Chrome and stainless steel accessories may also be cleaned with the spray cleaner; on wood furniture surfaces, use a polish appropriate for the particular type of wooden finish.

A family room is meant to be used, not just looked at. By choosing furnishings for it that are stylish, functional and easy to care for, you'll have created a room the whole family can enjoy.

Here's what to look for in kitchen cabinets

More often than any other room, the kitchen ranks first on the homeowner's priority list of improvements, and the bathroom is second.

If you're among the kitchen-minded, chances are you've been studying the subject for some time. You've gone on house tours, clipped pictures from newspapers and magazines, made a list of things you like and don't like about your present facilities, and another list of things you want and don't want when you remodel.

Look of storage

Most everyone wants new equipment, along with improved storage. In a recent survey, the most commonly stated problem, and the reason 77 per cent of the respondents were contemplating remodeling, was lack of storage.

Fifty-four per cent termed their kitchens "not attractive," 43 per cent said their bugaboo was "poor lighting," 42 per cent complained of "poorly designed" or "not functional" facilities, and 19 per cent described their existing appliances as "too old."

Along with the cosmetic aspects of a remodeling, it's essential to consider the quality aspects of cabinets, equipment, flooring and wallcovering, too.

Look inside

With cabinetry, for example, you have to observe what's inside as well as the outside. Here are some guidelines from Riviera, a producer of kitchen and bath cabinetry, as to what you should look for.

1. Style, of course, comes first. Do you want classic or contemporary, sculptured Mediterranean or clean-lined American? You have to like what you're going to live with for the next several years.

2. Woodgrain and stain. No two trees are alike in grain and texture, and variations in color and grain are natural characteristics of all cabinet woods.

Manufacturers of quality cabinetry strive to obtain as uniform a tone as possible without disturbing the unique beauty and charm of the woodgrain. They hand-wipe their stains to accent the grain.

3. Construction. Check such details as twin-track drawer suspension, self-closing hinges, adjustable shelves to make your kitchen a help, not a hassle.

4. Hardware. It should be not only handsome in itself, it should be coordinated with style and stain color.

5. Choice of components. Such options as roll-out shelves, lazy susans and swing-out canned goods units give you freedom and flexibility, while a wide selection of cabinet sizes makes it possible to satisfy all manner of storage needs.

6. Ease of installation. If you're a do-it-yourselfer, make sure the cabinetry you select comes with instructions that are easy for a non-professional to follow.

Lastly, check price. Make sure it's commensurate with the quality of the cabinets. While some producers short-cut, others, like Riviera, offer made-to-order quality at a stock (ready-made) price.

Cerasoli Nominates Procter & Gamble For Clean Air Award

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli (D-Quincy) has nominated Procter and Gamble Co. of Quincy Point for the Norfolk-Lung Association's Clean Air Award for installing an "odor scrubbing system."

Said Cerasoli:

"I have lived within two blocks of the Procter and Gamble plant for the past eight years, and before I became a representative in 1975, everyone would complain about the air quality problems in our neighborhood.

"In the past two years, Procter and Gamble has made great strides in controlling air pollution and particularly odor pollution in the community. The company has obviously installed the basic environmental control required by federal and state law.

"Procter and Gamble has also gone beyond the use of normal environmental controls by developing, designing and installing an odor scrubbing system.

"The odor scrub system eliminates 99 percent of the odor discharge as measured quantitatively by an odor panel during the soap making operation. Evidence to support this statement may be found in the significant decrease in odor as perceived by the residents of Quincy Point and the Germantown section of Quincy.

"Further evidence to confirm these conclusions can be found in the 95 percent reduction in odor complaints received by Procter and Gamble, the Quincy Board of Health, and the State Department of Environmental Quality Engineering from the summer of 1975 to the summer of 1976."

MONEY TALKS

Here's An Antidote For That Itch To Speculate

By Philip J. Lawrence, President
Colonial Federal Savings
and Loan Association
of Quincy, Holbrook & Wareham
8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

We hear occasionally from people who take exception to our dim view of investment in the stock market as a means of building financial resources. Mostly, these objections come from those in the securities business or from individuals who are deep in the market and are worried that our observations may cause a decline in the Dow-Jones averages.

No fear. Those who are addicted to the market won't be influenced by us to get out. We are more concerned about those who may be tempted to get in. For them we have the words of wisdom expressed by Mark Twain: "There are two times in a man's life when he should not speculate: When he can't afford it... and when he can."

Paul A. Samuelson said the same thing in a slightly different way. Remember that he was awarded the Nobel Prize in Economics as head of a great center of economic study and research at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and author of a best-selling college economics textbook. This is the way Samuelson put it:

"I once said sagely to a colleague. 'The only money you should speculate with is the money you can afford to lose.' He reproved me with the words 'There isn't any such money.'"

Two pairs of professors at the University of Chicago came up with these conclusions after independent studies. Said John H. Lanben and Richard A. Posner: "There is an impressive amount of evidence that you can't consistently outperform the market; despite the enormous and costly amount of market analysis now employed, data show that success rests largely on luck." Reported Burton Malkiel and James H. Lurie: "No scientific evidence has yet been assembled to indicate that the investment performance of professionally managed portfolios as a group has been any better than that of randomly selected portfolios."

At various times we have quoted Forbes, the nationally respected business and financial publication. "Monkeys throwing darts can do as well as Harvard MBA's using computers." And "It may be fun, but there are very, very few, if any, hobbies more expensive than doing your own investing." And "If there is a lesson to be learned, it is that the stock market is a fickle mistress at best."

We thought we'd bring these quotes again to your attention on the possibility that betting speculative was among your 1977 resolutions. Better listen again to Samuelson: "It is even more true today than it was yesterday that most people should not quarterback their own investments. It is hard to beat the interest your local bank or savings and loan pays on fixed-principle savings."

James Kelley Retires

As DPW Maintenance Engineer

James F. Kelley of 63 Vershire St., North Quincy, retired as maintenance engineer of the division of highway maintenance for the State Department of Public Works recently, after 29 years of service with the state.

A lifelong resident of the Montclair section, Kelley joined the State DPW in 1948 after working in Quincy's Engineering Department and conducting highway design studies.

During his years at the DPW, Kelley was the first in the country to treat highways with an industrial blend of sodium chloride and calcium chloride during the winter months.

He trained engineers to become divers to conduct underwater bridge inspections.

As chairman of the transportation research board committee on roadside maintenance, Kelley encouraged the use of woodchip mulch on roadside banks along the highways. This was to avoid perpetual maintenance of grass and was fostered through a joint research contract with the University of Massachusetts.

He initiated the development of a maintenance management system in the Massachusetts

DPW. Kelley also pioneered many forms of contract maintenance including the practice of applying pavement markings.

He was featured on the cover of a public works magazine last August, and in 1973, he received a 25 year award from the American Association of State Highway Officials.

A member of several highway and public works associations, Kelley is also a member of the AMVETS, American Legion, Knights of Columbus, and Sacred Heart Holy Name Society.

A director of the Quincy Citizens association, he is also past president of the Montclair Men's Club and the Massachusetts DPW Engineers. He is a former committeeman for boy scout troop 28.

Kelley was graduated from North Quincy High School and received a certificate in surveying from Franklin Institute. He also was graduated from Northeastern's Lincoln Technical Institute.

He is married to the former Mary E. Kelly and has four children.

A retirement testimonial will be held for him Friday, March 4, at the Lantana, Randolph.

Zoning Changes Topic For QCA

The Quincy Citizens Association will meet Monday, Feb. 7, at 8 p.m. at the Montclair Men's Club, Holbrook

Quincy Nears Tourney Berth, Raiders Cold

The Quincy High basketball team, which made the Eastern Mass. tournament last season for the first time in 11 years, could clinch another early tournament berth Friday night when it hosts Weymouth South at 8 at Vo-Tech gym.

Tuesday at 7:00 the Presidents will play at Brookline.

Going into last Tuesday's game with North Quincy, Quincy had a 10-1 record and needs 12 wins to qualify.

Meanwhile, North Quincy will play at Brookline Friday at 8 and will host Brockton Tuesday at 8 at Vo-Tech.

Quincy, which has won 30 of its last 38 games, surged in the second half to wallop Weymouth North, 65-45 last Friday.

Jack Uhlar scored 23 points, 14 in the second half, had 13 rebounds, four block shots, three assists and two steals. Ed Callahan had 19 points and 10 rebounds, and Mike Kennedy was a standout defensively. High scoring Mike Lamie spent much of the time on the bench because of foul trouble and scored only two points.

North Quincy had a cold last period and lost to Waltham, 57-47. The teams were tied at 40 after three periods. The loss dropped the Raiders record to 5-6.

Dan Cuddy had 17 points for North, John White had 12 and Jim McGinley had 10.

Earlier in the week Quincy blew hot and cold but scored 22 unanswered points late in the third period and early in the finale to defeat tough Waltham, 62-53.

The Presidents took an early 11-4 lead but with three minutes left in the third period Waltham scored six points in 17 seconds to open up a 40-31 lead.

Here Quincy put together one of its best exhibitions of the year to score its 22 straight points only to have Waltham come back with 12 points of its own. The Presidents didn't clinch it until high scorer Uhlar sank four straight foul shots in the final minute.

Uhlar had 25 points, taking charge during the big surge, and Lamie scored 10. Amorosino also praised Ed Daley [seven points, four assists and six steals], and Ken Ames, who came off the bench and exhibited some fine ball handling and scored eight points.

North Quincy, tied at 32 after three periods, edged Newton North, 44-40.

Mike Gill led the way with 16 points and White had 12. A key basket in the final seconds by Cuddy and a jumper by White wrapped up the decision.

Hot North Meets Waltham, Quincy Shows Improvement

Lou Tozzi's North Quincy track team is enjoying another banner season and takes a Suburban League 4-2-1 record and an overall 8-2-1 mark into tonight's [Thursday] 7 p.m. big league meet against Waltham at Newton North.

Meanwhile, although Quincy, under first-year coach John Lavery, has only a 2-5 record, all in the league, Lavery is pleased with the improvement shown by his athletes. The Presidents face Rindge Tech today at 5:30 at Newton North.

Pointing to tonight's Waltham meet, the all-league meet Feb. 7 and the state meet, Tozzi left his top eight runners home and the Raiders still mauled Brookline, 60-26, a week ago with underclassmen scoring 49 points.

North's winners were Pete Regele, 600; John O'Donnell, 1000; Mike Ketzner, mile; John Ricciutti, two-mile; Dan McIntyre, high hurdles; Bob Ferrara, high jump, and Ted Koberski, shot put.

Quincy was wallowed by powerful Newton North, 56-30, but recorded some fine performances.

"I'm very happy with what my kids have done," Lavery said. "They've done an awful lot as far as improvement is concerned."

John Saville, defending state Class A two-mile champion, won his specialty, Don Jones won his fourth mile in six tries, Paul Ladas won the 1000 and the relay team of Ladas, Jones, Rich Glibody and Oriola also won.

There were other performances which pleased Lavery. Junior Kevin Murphy broke 5:10 in placing third in the mile, Ken MacPhee did 2:37.9 for third in the 1000, Mark Assad and Ray Alongi did well in the shot put, and Mark Buchanan lost in the high jump for the first time despite another fine effort.

"I think things are beginning to look up as we have a number of underclassmen and interest is on the rise," Lavery said. "Things should be better for us in the future."

North defeated Don Bosco and Boston Latin in a non-league triangular meet, scoring 46 points to 36 for Bosco and 25 for Latin.

North's winners were Tim O'Neill, 300; Dick Kennedy, 600; Jerry MacKenzie, 1000; Bob Levenson, mile; Mike Morin, two-mile, and Mike Gallagher, shot put.

Cullen Sets Track Club Record

Highlighted by Mike Cullen's record breaking performance in the 440, Quincy Track Club again made a good showing last Sunday at Franklin.

Mike's time of 68.6 broke the previous meet record of 68.9 set by QTC's Mike Williams who finished second in the event. Gerard McCormick took second and Frank Reynolds third in the high jump.

McCormick appeared to win the mile, but officials thought he was a lap behind the runners and was awarded no place. His time was an impressive 5:43.5. Denise Santo won the 13-under 50 in 6.6 and also placed second in the 440. Liz Wiot took third in the event.

The senior girls high jump was swept by Quincy as Cheryl Ayles and Loretta Gargan both cleared 4-7, but Miss Garrigan was awarded first on fewer misses. Kathy MacDonald placed third at 4-5.

Eileen McKenna and Karen McCarthy finished 2nd and 3rd in the women's hurdles. Miss McCarthy also took third in the 50. Harry Williams took a third in the 300.

Other good performances were turned in by Michelle Millane in the mile and Linda Morash, 1:49.7 in the 600.

● Swimming

Quincy, North Meet Saturday

The Quincy and North Quincy swim teams which have come along fast in only their second year of competition, will meet Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Lincoln Hancock School pool.

Coaches Bill Walker of North and Elaine Murphy of Quincy are hoping for a large turnout of parents and friends of the swimmers.

"There has been a great increase in interest both among the participants and the parents and it is paying off for us," said Miss Murphy. "There is great spirit among the swimmers. Both squads work out together and Bill Walker works with some of our swimmers and I work with some of theirs."

North Quincy, whose only win last year was over wireless Quincy, is 5-2 this year and, although Quincy is only 2-4, it has impressed in every meet.

North breezed past Blue Hills Regional, 119-53, last Friday as the Raiders set two records.

Ed Melanson won the 500 freestyle in a record 5:35.7. The 400 freestyle relay team won in the record time of 4:04 with Melanson, Neil Quinn, Mike Braun and John Connel.

Phil Golden won the 200 freestyle, John Flate won the 200 individual medley, Kevin Greene the one meter diving, Braun the 100 butterfly, Dan Fowkes the 100 freestyle, Dave Palma the 100 backstroke and John Strazulla the 100 breaststroke.

North Quincy suffered its second defeat at the hands of Brookline, 91-81, despite two wins by Melanson.

Melanson won the 200 individual medley and the 100 butterfly.

Braun won the 500 freestyle and was second in the 200 freestyle.

Greene won the one meter diving and took second in the backstroke.

Conley was second in the 100 freestyle and placed third in the 50 freestyle.

Melanson and Flate broke their own school records in the 500 freestyle and the 100 breaststroke respectively as the Raiders easily defeated Watertown, 116-50, in their previous meet, a non-leaguer.

Melanson, who also won the 200-yard individual medley and swam on winning relay team, covered the 500 freestyle in 5:43.2. His previous school record had been 5:59.8.

Flate, who also swam on a winning relay team, did the 100 breaststroke in 1:17.6, bettering his old mark of 1:17.9. Teammate Strazulla took second in that event.

Flate swam the second leg on the winning 200 medley relay team which also included Palma, Greene and Tom Nee. North also took second in that event with Keith Fountain, Thor Helledes, Strazulla and Jim Stockless.

Melanson swam with the winning 400 freestyle relay team which also comprised Braun, Quinn and Fowkes.

Greene continued his outstanding diving by winning the one-meter event with 155.90 points and also won the 100 backstroke with his brother John second. Dave Donovan was second in the diving.

Braun took two individual first, winning the 50 freestyle and the 100 butterfly. Quinn won the 100 freestyle.

Quincy defeated Cambridge Latin, 93-75, for its second win.

Standout Jim Lahive, as usual, won the 200 individual medley and the 100 freestyle.

The freestyle relay teams finished 1-2 with Alan Kenney, Ed Fenby, Pete Sullivan and Lahive winning.

40 Teams In Men's Bowling Tourney

Forty entries, the largest number in the history of the tournament, will step to the line Sunday at high noon for the opening round of the 24th annual Greater Quincy Men's Bowling Tournament, sponsored by the Koch Club.

This year's tourney has been transferred to the Wollaston Boulevard Bowldrome, 679 Quincy Shore Drive, Wollaston, in order to handle the increased number of teams. Last year, 32 teams competed.

Some 200 bowlers will represent the best of more than 1,600 bowlers in the 40 men's candlepin leagues in Greater Quincy.

Richard J. Koch, founder of the Koch Club and the tournament, estimated that about 2,500 bowlers have participated in the tournament since its inception in 1954, when eight teams and 40 bowlers competed.

Tourney winners receive a $100 cash award and a team trophy with a consolation prize of $25 going to the runnerup.

Koch said applications must be received by tomorrow (Friday) evening with no entries being accepted on Sunday. Teams are requested to report to the alleys at 11:45 a.m. to draw assignments.

Underestimates Capabilities

Q. I thoroughly enjoy your column. What would you suggest a young man born in Newton, Mass. on October 5, 1955 at 12:56 P.M., should consider for his life work? He has a high I.Q. and many abilities but claims he cannot achieve well enough scholastically to enter college. He is well liked by adults. His hobbies so far are mountain climbing and reading.

G.F.

A. This young man has considerable natural talent for the fine arts which should be considered as worthy of development as indicated by his Sun, Venus, Mercury and Neptune, all in the Sign of the Zodiac Libra. The last three of these in the Tenth House [recognition and profession] are all in Favorable aspect to the planet Jupiter in the Eighth House of Leo. These indicate that not only is a high degree of achievement possible but also that it should bring ample rewards.

There is an inclination towards independence and a will to do as he pleases. He does have high ideals and aspirations [Sagittarius Ascendant and Sun in the Ninth House], a progressive outlook and broad perspective [Sun Quintile Uranus].

Undoubtedly he enjoys his mountain climbing as indicated by his Sagittarius Ascendant and Sun in the Ninth House. Jupiter, ruler of his Ascendant in the Eighth House in Square aspect to Saturn in Scorpio, indicates that extreme caution is needed in this particular hobby.

This Aspect also indicates that he is apt to underestimate his scholastic capabilities, especially since his Favorable aspect of Mercury to both Jupiter and Pluto indicates a splendid intellect. His Mercury, Neptune Conjunction is symbolic of inspired ideas and an ability to express beauty in various forms.

LaRaia Proclaims YMCA Week

This is YMCA Week in Quincy, so proclaimed by Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, who cited the Y for its "program of inspirational, educational and recreational activities for youth, devoted to the achievement of high standards of moral and ethical conduct."

"The YMCA's of this country and the world," said the Mayor, "since inception have worked ceaselessly to bring about an improved quality of citizenship and a greater vision concerning public service.

"The YMCA of this city has served as co-worker in common enterprise with churches of all faiths, seeking to produce among all men and women a more conscious identification of personal religion as the basis for understanding that the sacredness of humankind is the foundation stone of the American Democracy."

New Dispute Ahead?

Council Votes To Rezone Land For Hospital Expansion

The City Council Tuesday night voted to end its dispute with City Hospital Director Anthony DeFalco by rezoning a plot of land on Whitwell St. to pave the way for expansion of the hospital.

But at the same time, the Council laid the ground for another possible dispute by rezoning the entire hospital area into a Planned Unit Development (PUD), making any subsequent changes subject to Council approval.

The decision was taken at a special meeting of the Council, requested by Councilor Daniel G. Raymondi and Dennis E. Harrington, following a week of skirmishing between DeFalco and the Councilors.

DeFalco wanted the plot of city-owned land rezoned from Residence A to Residence C, first to solve a parking problem at the hospital and later to be used for an addition.

He called the rezoning delays in the Council "patently political acts on the part of a small number of City Councilors" — Council President Arthur H. Tobin, Raymondi and Harrington.

DeFalco expressed "strong support" for the PUD proposal "because we need to share the responsibilities to meet the medical needs of this community ... and provide the plans necessary to accomplish these goals."

Then, in a statement issued before the Council meeting, he questioned whether the PUD plan would place ultimate decisions in the hands of the Council and he castigated Harrington for what he called an "arbitrary grab for power."

"Make no mistake, Councilor Harrington," DeFalco said, "I will not forget your words, nor allow you to forget them. The debate will be joined. There will be other forums in other places at other times."

Harrington said it wasn't politics at all.

"The question has been whether the LaRaia administration or the Council will have control over planning for the Hospital," he said. "Rezoning to PUD switches the leverage of power to the Council."

"PUD the Hospital Board of Managers will have to seek Council approval by a two-thirds vote on any plans affecting the existing site."

"The issue is not who controls the Hospital," said Mayor LaRaia, "but what services are to be provided. The public should be the beneficiary."

"Some people have registered fears that if the land is rezoned to PUD, development could occur there other than hospital. This City Council may not entertain the possibility but another City Council might have different plans."

Meanwhile, the Hospital Board of Managers expressed itself as "strongly in favor of the Planned Unit Development proposal" in a letter from Board Chairman Edward V. Cronin to Council President Tobin.

DiStefano Commended For Toys For Tots Program

The U.S. Marines have awarded Veterans Services Director Pasquale S. DiStefano a certificate of appreciation for his outstanding support of their annual Christmas Toys for Tots Program.

DiStefano and his staff distributed to children of needy Quincy veterans more than 200 toys that had been donated to the program sponsored by the Marine Corps Reserve of Weymouth. Each child received two gifts.

"Toys for Tots is a valuable and worthwhile endeavor in the Christmas spirit," said DiStefano. "We hope to be involved again next year and reach even more children through the program."

OFFICIAL GREETERS - Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia and School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon braved the cold to be on hand early Monday morning to greet North Quincy High School students as they began double session classes. 'A Major Accomplishment'

$10.9 Million NQHS Construction Contract Signed

The long-awaited addition and renovation to North Quincy High School took another giant step toward completion Monday.

Mayor Joseph LaRaia signed a $10,981,000 contract with Blount Brothers Construction Co. of Hingham for the construction. Blount was low bidder.

LaRaia said the signing "represents the culmination of 10 years of research and study toward the achievement of the highest in contemporary educational standards for the students of North Quincy."

"It also represents much thoughtful analysis on the part of the school administrators and educational consultants secured by this office.

"We thoroughly scrutinized cost figures in order to both maintain educational standards as mandated by the Massachusetts Bureau of School Building Assistance and a realistic awareness of our municipal economy."

"The original project envisioned a brand new four-year high school in several suggested areas in North Quincy but, at no sacrifice to quality, the project has been pared down with the result being a major addition on city-owned land."

"We believe, through the cooperation of all those involved, elected officials, school administrators and consultants alike, that we have achieved a major educational accomplishment which will benefit the residents of North Quincy for years to come."

Also present at the signing were City Councillor Dennis E. Harrington, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, Acting Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson, City Auditor Charles Shea, Fire Chief Edward Barry and Assistant City Solicitor Robert Fleming.

Also representatives of the Blount company; Coletti Brothers, the architects and Kent Corp., the management consultant firm on the project.

No Extra School Days Expected Despite Snow Storms

The heavy snow storms of January have brought the Quincy School System to the point where, by law, more school days should have to be added to meet the state requirement of 180 days of instruction.

But, says School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, even if a few more days are lost to inclement weather, it is unlikely that the state will demand strict observance of the law.

Right now, thanks to six days off due to snow, Quincy elementary schools are down to 179 days, one below the minimum, and secondary schools are down to 181 with one of the toughest months, February, still ahead.

"I doubt if the state would require us to make up one day, if that is all," said Dr. Creedon.

In 1969, Dr. Creedon pointed out, the worst of the recent weather years, Quincy lost nine days at the elementary level and seven days at the secondary level but the State Department of Education did not require makeup days.

"They gave us consideration because we tried to get the kids back in school," said Dr. Creedon. "We made the effort again this year. We got the high schools back in on Thursday and Friday after four days out. Not all systems did that."

McIntyre Urges Hospital Nursing School At QJC

Directors of the Community College Association of the South Shore are urging a merger of the City Hospital Nursing School into Quincy Junior College in time to accept a new freshman class in September, 1977.

Board Chairman James R. McIntyre said in letters to various city officials that any lapse in the program "could jeopardize the quality of nursing programs and health care in the city."

Association Directors said that the Mayor's office, the Board of Hospital Managers, the School Committee and the City Council "should consider taking immediate necessary action" to carry out the merger.

McIntyre's letter went to Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, Chairman Edward Cronin of the Board of Hospital Managers, Vice Chairman John J. Sullivan and City-Council President Arthur H. Tobin.

Police Counter-Action Seen

LaRaia Planning To Let Sergeants' Promotion List Die

Mayor LaRaia said Tuesday that he plans to let a Civil Service list expire Feb. 17 without making appointments to fill three vacancies for sergeant on the Quincy Police Department.

"I'm not going to appoint from the list," the Mayor told The Sun. "I'm going to ask that a new examination be scheduled and a new list be drawn."

Police sources indicated, however, that efforts will be made to prevent the list from expiring until the appointments are made.

LaRaia indicated there is no truth to reports that, after the list expires, he will appoint provisional, sergeants and then confirm them in the positions by a qualifying examination. He did not categorically deny it, though.

Asked the question, the Mayor said:

"I think I've answered that already."

Asked if that meant his answer as a "resounding no," he passed up the opportunity to comment.

He said the chief reason he is not making the appointments is to help Chief Francis X. Finn to live within the department budget.

"The police chief has requested $300,000 needed to replenish cuts made in his budget in the area of overtime," said the Mayor. "The City Council gave him $100,000."

"Since then I have instructed the Chief to live within his budget. It is difficult. In order to help the chief, I've tried to free up funds by not filling positions and make it easier for him to finish the year in the black."

"I don't plan to make any appointments until the new list is established."

MDC Delays Water Hookup With Blue Hills

The MDC Water Division has postponed for two months its plan to include in its system the Chickatawbut Reservoir in the Blue Hills, which helps to supply Quincy with water during peak use periods.

Sen. Arthur H. Tobin (D-Quincy) said the MDC also has assured him that the bed of the reservoir will be cleared of the remains of dead birds and fecal matter before it is placed on line.

"Clean water is a right of all the people," said Tobin. "I intend to see that the MDC Water Division carries out the mandate they are charged with in supplying only the purest of water."

The MDC originally planned to place the reservoir on its line last Tuesday (Feb. 1) but the date has been moved up to April 1.

State and Quincy officials held a meeting last Wednesday (Jan. 26) in the office of James Matera, director of the MDC Water Division, to discuss the Chickatawbut Reservoir plan in detail.

Attending the meeting were Sen. Tobin, Reps. James A. Sheets, Thomas Brownell and Michael Morrissey, Winthrop Wade of the Quincy Health Department, and Owen Eaton of the Quincy Water Department and state environmentalists.

Another meeting was scheduled for Tuesday (Feb. 1) at the Chickatawbut Pumping Station and an additional meeting is planned with MDC Commissioner John Snedeker.

TIME OFF FOR CITY EMPLOYEES IF THEY DONATE BLOOD

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia has proclaimed February "Gift of Life Month" in Quincy in an effort to spur donations of blood to relieve a shortage that has reached the critical point due to snowstorms and extreme cold.

The Mayor is sponsoring a drive to enlist the aid of city employees between the ages of 17 and 66 in a long-range Blood Bank program under which they will be given time off to donate a unit of blood at City Hospital.

They will also be given a bonus half-day off to be chosen at their discretion.

"The recent snowstorms and extremely cold weather," said LaRaia in a memo to all city employees, "created a severe blood shortage in the Quincy area by making it difficult for volunteer blood donors to get to the Hospital Blood Bank."

"The Hospital has asked for my assistance in encouraging the city's employees to donate one unit of blood."

"A donation of one unit of blood by you or any adult member of your household will assure all the blood required by all members of your immediate family for one full year for most hospitals in the United States."

Quincy Police Assisting In Bellotti's Economic Crime Program

Quincy Police have joined 196 other departments in Massachusetts in working with Atty. Gen. Francis X. Bellotti's Economic Crime Program, a statewide informational network formed to deal with white collar crime.

Bellotti said the program, which was announced in December, is now operational, with the state's district attorneys also extending their cooperation.

Bellotti said he plans to seek a grant of $495,000 to form a new Economic Crime Unit in the Attorney General's Department and file legislation designed to increase the penalties for corporate criminals.

The program is designed to bring all consumer complaints of a criminal nature to one central location so that an overall picture of that type of crime can be maintained across the state.

Bellotti pointed out that a person involved in an auto repair scheme or a home improvement firm-flam may sweep through a community, stealing money from consumers, but by the time a complaint is made to the local police, the person has moved on to another community.

The program goes beyond just consumer fraud, Bellotti said. It also includes such economic crimes as business opportunity schemes, con games, insurance fraud, and investment schemes.

The program is co-headed by Asst. Atty. Gen. Paula Gold, chief of the Consumer Protection Division, and Asst. Atty. Gen. Donald Zerendow, acting chief of the Criminal Bureau.

Brownell, Cerasoli Support Common Cause 'Sunset' Bill

Representatives Thomas Brownell and Robert Cerasoli of Quincy have joined a broad based group of state officials in support of a Common Cause proposal to force a periodic thorough examination of the usefulness of certain state agencies.

Under the Common Cause proposal, called "Sunset" legislation, the performance of state agencies would be periodically reviewed and evaluated under the threat of automatic termination if they did not measure up to standards. For those agencies which could prove their value, the legislature would be required to vote to re-establish, modify or continue their existence. Those not specifically continued by a vote of the legislature would automatically terminate on the July 1 following completion of the review.

The Common Cause bill calls for some 60 regulatory boards and commissions to be evaluated, on a staggered basis, over a six year period. Those agencies that were continued by the legislature would be given a new six-year life span, at the end of which they would again undergo the "Sunset" review. Those agencies that were terminated for lack of support from the legislature would have one year from the July 1 termination date in which to wind up their affairs.

The purpose of the "Sunset" bill is to institute a "zero-based review" of state agencies so that the legislature can determine what agencies are doing, what it costs and whether or not they are efficiently meeting their objectives. Each review would be under the control of the appropriate legislative committee and would include participation by the agency itself, the gubernatorial cabinet secretariat responsible for that agency and the Executive Office of Administration and Finance. The legislature, however, would have the final control over the agency's future.

The Mayor said delaying the appointments will boost department morale.

"It will give many members of the department an opportunity to compete for promotions," he said. "When you have opportunities like that it increases morale."

Top man on the list is Patrolman John McDonough, whose court suit halted the Mayor's bid to reinstate Robert Warmington to the sergeant's post from which he retired on a disability. Warmington was a LaRaia campaign worker.

The fourth man on the list is David Doherty, who supported McDonough's suit to bar Warmington.

Warmington, the retired sergeant, was not permitted to return to duty on grounds that it had not been cleared by the Retirement Board but McDonough's suit is still on the docket in Norfolk Superior Court.

The list includes the following patrolmen:

1. McDonough, 2. Robert Bird, 3. Robert Perchard, 4. Doherty, 5. Paul Madden, 6. Thomas Spillane, 7. Robert Wilson, Richard MacDonald and Richard DiGusto, who are tied.

There are 180 patrolmen on the Quincy force and slots for 26 sergeants, of which 23 are now filled.

A new lieutenant's post is expected to be created shortly.

This would make a fourth vacancy in the sergeant's ranks.

Brownell Appointed To 2 Important Committees

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy] has received two important legislative appointments to the Committees on Taxation and Education.

Brownell says he likes the tax post best.

"I have a long-standing interest in correcting many inequities in our property tax system," he said. "This new position will enable me to work with the Committee to begin to reform the existing system."

"One of my first concerns will be to convince the committee that we should provide state tax deductions or credits to homeowners for repairing and maintaining their homes.

Kelly Seeks MDC Roadway Repair At Rock Island Cove

City Councillor Leo J. Kelly has asked the MDC to consider repairing a roadway that it owns in the vicinity of the Braintree-Weymouth pumping station on Kilby St., Adams Shore, to enhance access to the Rock Island Cove area.

Said Kelly in a letter to MDC Commissioner John Snedeker.

"Motor vehicles from the Rock Island Cove area travel over this roadway to gain access onto Sea St. and the macadam is in deplorable condition, causing hazardous and difficult traveling conditions."

"The city of Quincy has scheduled Rockland St., which leads into the Rock Island Cove area, to be repaved in the very near future.

"It would be very much appreciated if this area maintained by the MDC could be scheduled for refurbishing in conjunction with the city of Quincy so that travel could be facilitated and safety for the motorist insured."

OUR REGULARS COME IN ALL SHAPES AND SIZES.

There's one thing our Regular Savings account customers have in common . . . common sense.

Because it's a shrewd move to open not only the most convenient of all banking accounts, but also one that pays a healthy interest on your money.

A Regular Savings account at Quincy Cooperative pays 5-1/4% interest. That's the highest rate allowable by law. The effective annual rate climbs to 5.47%. And your interest is compounded daily from day of deposit to day of withdrawal. Your money, of course, is insured in full. No wonder everyone from the milkman to the meter maid, the doctor to the dog catcher, has a convenient Regular Savings account with us. Why not join the regulars and watch your money grow? It's the very idea Josiah Quincy, Jr., the man we named the bank for, had in mind when he founded cooperative banking in this state. A Regular Savings Account. It's of interest to everyone.

And we know for certain . . .

JOSIAH WOULD HAVE LIKED THAT.

Women's Day Program Being Planned For March 19

The Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College are seeking groups interested in having literature and information booths at a special Women's Day March 19, 1977.

Plans for the Women's Day featuring six workshops were discussed at a recent meeting of the Mayor's Commission.

"The day is an attempt to bring many women together for some meaningful discussions and workshops," said Toby Felton who is coordinating the event with Janice D'Avignon.

"We feel that by focusing on a limited number of issues and providing programs involving panel discussions, role playing and evaluation we can help women determine what direction they want to take in such important areas as employment, aid for rape victims and battered wives, and credit."

Subjects to be covered include women who have started their own businesses, clarifying goals and objectives, and undertaking the job search. Workshops will also be offered on rape, battered wives and money management.

Interested groups should contact the Mayor's Commission at City Hall or the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College.

FACTS ABOUT YOUR BODY

Did you know that your skin, though paper thin, weighs about six pounds and that, in a square inch, it contains about 100 sweat glands, 72 feet of nerves, hundreds of nerve endings, 10 hair follicles, 15 oil glands and 15 feet of blood vessels? And those "goose bumps" you get on a cold day are a carry-over from the human species "furry" days, when skin muscles tightened so that hair would stand on end for better insulation and protection. The human heart is the body's workhorse, pumping blood through 70,000 miles of blood vessels and back in less than a minute. The heart beats about 70 times a minute, resting between beats. In a 70-year lifetime, that's about 2½ billion beats!

With each normal breath, you take in one pint of air - that's 12,000 quarts a day in the average adult.

Each day the nose cleans, humidifies and warms about 500 cubic feet of air for the lungs.

Today's Women

Not For Women Only

What Is A Women's Center?

By ALICIA COLETTI
Director

In the past few weeks since the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College opened, I have had that question posed to me many times.

Pardon me if I begin by saying what a Women's Center is not. It is not for women only. In accordance with Title IX of the federal laws and Chapter 622 of the state laws, no person shall be excluded from participation in, or benefits of, the Women's Center on account of sex. Equality of opportunity actually does cut both ways.

The Women's Center is set up "to provide a resource center that will offer information, guidance and support in the areas of counseling, education, employment, health and legal services, volunteer opportunities and personal needs."

The Women's Center will focus particularly on the needs of women who are returning to school or to work or who are remaining at home. In many instances, the woman over 35 has not benefited from recently passed legislation which assures younger women equality of opportunity in education, employment, etc. The Women's Center is committed to compensating the older woman for this past discrimination by offering a full range of programs designed to meet her needs.

The Women's Center was first opened in the fall of 1974 by a dedicated group of volunteers who assembled information for a resource and referral file, ran worked - for staideto introduce new courses of study about women to the college curriculum, ran fundraisers and awarded scholarships. The Open House held in November of 1974 elicited positive responses from women and brought in more volunteers.

After a year of activity, the Steering Committee realized that while they were filling a definite need in the community, the Women's Center would not be able to continue on a volunteer basis alone.

Therefore, the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women proposed to Dr. Lawrence Creedon that a part-time director be appointed to coordinate the activities of the Women's Center.

An advisory committee consisting of Marilyn Panaro, Pam Spring, Christina Morrison, Patricia Toland and Anne Kane worked together during the summer and presented a proposal to the School Committee which was unanimously accepted by them. The president of Quincy Junior College, Dr. Edward Pierce, who has been supportive of the idea of a Women's Center from its inception, agreed to contribute office space, clerical supplies, telephone, library resources etc.

Joan Sullivan, Advisor to Women at Quincy Junior College, gave many hours to the organization and direction of the Women's Center and will now assist the Center chiefly in her role as Advisor to Women.

Many people have worked very hard to assure that the Women's Center would be established on a permanent ongoing basis because they believe that the Center satisfies a need expressed by women in the community. We hope that many others will either take advantage of the services provided or volunteer to help provide them.

One of the best advantages of living in the city of Quincy has always been the presence of a large number of active organizations which contribute to the enrichment of this city in so many ways. Each of these groups plays a unique role and it is neither necessary nor desirable for the Women's Center to duplicate their efforts. Rather, the Women's Center will work with groups in the community to define areas of common interest and to accomplish specific goals.

Information and referral is available now by calling 479-8445 between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays, and between 9 a.m. and noon on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The Advisory Committee feels that the Women's Center should be open at least one evening a week. The Center's hours of operation will be determined ultimately by the women who use its services. A small library of books and pamphlets is now available for circulation and is being slowly augmented.

There are now about 50 women's centers in Massachusetts, most of them under the aegis of a university or community college. These centers offer many programs to meet particular needs - women alone, career counseling, continuing education, a widow's exchange etc.

We hope that the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College will, in the future, provide a full range of programs to serve both the needs of the students and the needs of the community. The Center will be most useful when it responds most closely to the needs expressed by women in the area.

On Sunday, Feb. 13, the Women's Center will hold an open house at Quincy Junior College from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. More complete information will be available in next week's issue of The Quincy Sun. We surely hope y'all come!

One little thing that makes us big:

A free "How to Buy a House" booklet for John and Mary Abernathy. Just last month, John and Mary bought their first home.

They're mighty proud of it.

We're mighty proud to have helped them with mortgage money—at an interest rate that will save them money for the next 25 years.

But we're also proud to have given them our free booklet that covers housebuying from roof to cellar. Before they even applied for a mortgage.

Sure, giving them a booklet is a small thing. But thanks to "How to Buy a House," John tells us, he and Mary managed to steer clear of a few problems that could have cost them a lot in both time and money.

William Spencer To Be Honored At Dinner Feb. 17

Quincy plans to honor its popular truant officer with a dinner-dance at the Lantana in Randolph Feb. 17.

William T. Spencer retired last Friday as chief supervisor of attendance for the Quincy public schools.

Spencer, who lives at 312 Fenno St., Wollaston, began working with the city's youth soon after he was appointed to the Quincy Police Department in September, 1943.

He was named Quincy's first full-time safety officer in 1950, working with traffic supervisors, presenting safety and crime prevention programs in classrooms and originating and presenting radio programs on safety.

The School Committee appointed him supervisor of attendance in 1956 and he was named chief supervisor of attendance in 1969.

Spencer was recently cited by the School Committee for his service to young people over the years. Said School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon at the time:

"Bill Spencer has been an extremely hard-working, dedicated, conscientious person, and while it is his lot to be constantly in contact with students who were in difficulty with the schools because of poor attendance, he never lost sight of the fact that our responsibility was to look upon each student in a positive way and to work with them and their families in order to overcome whatever difficulties they found themselves in."

Tickets for the Feb. 17 dinner-dance are available from the following members of the planning committee:

Luleen S. Anderson, Peter Chrisom, Carol Lee Griffin, Richard H. Haines, John W. Mahoney, Wayne Mirick, Stephen Moynihan, Frank Mullen, Tom Nestor and Fred Nolan.

Veterans Council Thanks Tobin On Amnesty Opposition

Members of the Quincy Veterans Council representing 11 veterans groups in Quincy, recently voted their thanks to City Council President-Sen. Arthur H. Tobin for taking a stand against amnesty for Vietnam deserters.

The Council also voted to send a telegram to President Jimmy Carter and letters to Cong. James A. Burke and Sens.

Edward M. Kennedy and Edward Brooke protesting such amnesty.

Civil Defense Chairman Edward Roberts and Commander Kenneth Taft attended a seminar at the State Civil Defense Headquarters in Framingham.

The next meeting of the QVC will be held Feb. 17 at the Bryant VFW Post, 24 Broad St.

Open House Feb. 10 For Parents Of QHS, 9th Grade Students

Parents and students of Quincy High School and ninth graders who will enroll in Quincy High School next September are invited to an open house Thursday, Feb. 10, from 6 to 9 p.m.

Focus will be on program selection and content for the 1977-1978 school year.

Guidance counselors, department heads, and selected subject teachers will be available to explain specific courses, scheduling procedures, graduation requirements, and college entrance requirements. The evening is designed to help both parents and students obtain information so that the courses selected for next year's program of studies will meet and satisfy that serve well under 250 students, the efficiency level.

The schools mentioned are the Cranch, the Great Hill, the Hunting and the Myles Standish elementary schools.

Harold said he was assured by Dr. Creedon that the possible closings were still in the planning stage and that no recommendations would be made to the School Committee for several months.

"Dr. Creedon said the proposed closings were only one of a number of alternatives that are available to him in his efforts to cut costs in the city's schools," Harold said.

Ward 2 Association To Meet Feb. 8

The Ward 2 Civic Association will meet Tuesday, Feb. 8 at 8 p.m. in the Fore River Clubhouse to discuss the agenda and form committees for the coming year. President James Lyons will preside.

GROUND BREAKING -- Ground was broken last week for the $1 million addition to the Merrymount School. Getting Down To Work

My three weeks of freshman orientation are now over. The orientation included schooling in legislative procedures, the judiciary, the executive branch and governmental agencies. I have been assigned to an Office, Room 20, in the State House and my telephone number is 727-7035.

The full session and hearings of the Legislature are under way. The Committee on Urban Affairs, to which I recently was appointed, begins its hearings this week and one of the pieces of legislation that is being discussed, has to do with building an M.D.C. sub-station on Quincy Shore Drive, [Senate Bill 1360].

Other hearings that are under way include the Blue Law and Judicial Reform. The Committee on Public Administration will begin hearings on a binding arbitration bill. The Committee on Commerce and Labor began hearings on Discrimination and Pregnancy. This same Committee, Commerce and Labor, is hearing testimony on the Blue Laws and is waiting for the Supreme Court to rule on their constitutionality. The Legislature can request that the Courts provide guidelines on how these laws could be constitutionally constructed.

The Governor filed the State Budget last week. The Budget was submitted at a record $4.1 billion but the Governor promised no new taxes. The Budget [House Bill No. 1] is now being considered and discussed by the Ways and Means Committee. Any questions concerning the budget or state spending, please don't hesitate to call me. If I don't know the answer, I'll try to find it out.

The M.D.C. has plans to utilize the Blue Hills Reservoir. The M.D.C. hoped to re-open the facility by mid-February. The Quincy Health Department and Quincy Legislative Delegation expressed great concern over the pollution and high bacteria count that is present in the Reservoir. The M.D.C. has promised to clean up the facility before it will be put in use. Future meetings are planned to help iron out any other problems.

There has been a lot of discussion regarding the Nut Island Treatment Facility. The Quincy Legislative Delegation met with the Environmental Protection Agency to express their concern on future plans for the facility.

Any constituent concerns or problems, please don't hesitate to get in touch with me. I can be reached by calling me at my new telephone number at the State House, 727-7035 or 328-0900 or write to me at 88 Colby Road, N. Quincy, 02171 or in the State House, Room 20, Boston, 02108. Look forward to hearing from you.

One Sided And Down Hill

A Boston [North End] newspaper continues its Sir Gallahad-like profile on Quincy Mayor Joseph LaRaia in its current issue and portrays the City Council as an obstructionist dragon.

The article, carrying a "Joe Alfano" by-line, couldn't be more one-sided if it were a political paid advertisement.

It may make great reading in some places.

But in Quincy—where most people still have a sense of fair play—this type of journalism could very well boomerang and hurt Mayor LaRaia more than help him.

Throughout the two articles, "Alfano" has woven a theme that just about everyone who is not pro-LaRaia has ganged up on him to prevent him from carrying out "reform" in Quincy.

The first article, under the headline "Powerful Political Combine Thwarting Reform in Quincy" started out like this:

"A bright young reform mayor in Quincy is finding out that it is one thing to beat a powerful entrenched political machine in an election and quite another to control the reins of authority to institute programs designed to get his city government producing effectively."

In it, "Alfano" blames former Mayors James McIntyre and Walter Hannon, Senator-Council President Arthur Tobin, Rep. Councillor James Sheets and certain other members of the City Council he does not identify.

And, he claims The Quincy Sun and The Patriot Ledger are sabotaging LaRaia by not giving him honest news coverage.

The latest article carries a Page One streamer headline: "Quincy Council Charts Obstructionist Course". And the story begins:

"Six ward and three at-large members of the Quincy City Council seemingly have banded together in opposition to Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia to try to hamstring his administration to the point of ineffectiveness, and the chief victim will be governmental reform in the South Shore community of 91,000."

In this one Tobin—who at this moment looks like LaRaia's major threat to a second term—is singled out as "spearheading the opposition" and distributing "a phony poll meant to discredit Mayor LaRaia..."

Police Chief Francis Finn is reported getting "into the act" in a dispute over authority. And, accused of launching an investigation into the city's dumping operations without the mayor's knowledge "in an unsuccessful effort to tarnish the mayor."

And, for good measure, there is this sentence which names no one and thus casts suspicion on all nine councillors:

"Oddly enough, one councillor whom the mayor had granted permission to do what he wanted at the administrative level double-crossed LaRaia on this matter with the chief."

"Alfano" again cites what he calls the "strange stance by local newspapers against a reform mayor..." And then asks:

"In the days ahead, will governmental activities at Quincy City Hall receive the fair and impartial scrutiny of the city's two newspapers?"

Let's stop there.

"Alfano" [and we have a reason for putting quotes around that name] should have asked himself that very same question before authoring his articles.

Did he give fair and impartial scrutiny to Quincy's political scene? He takes editorial pot-shots at McIntyre, Hannon, Tobin, Sheets, Finn, The Quincy Sun, and The Patriot Ledger by name and the entire City Council by group.

And the way he writes it, he'd have the reader think it is documented fact.

But no where does he give any one he attacks the opportunity to respond. He accuses but allows no defense.

The way he paints Quincy's political scene, Mayor LaRaia is always right and anyone who differs with him is always wrong. The LaRaia forces wear white hats and the other side has the black hats according to him.

Mayor LaRaia from time to time has been—and probably again sometime will be—unhappy with what he reads in the Quincy press.

But he can never say he isn't given the opportunity to state his case. But none of his opponents or critics get that privilege from "Alfano".

Yet "Alfano" has the gall to ask if Quincy's two newspapers will give "fair and impartial scrutiny" to activities at City Hall.

He should practice what he preaches.

The reform theme, we noted last week, seems ill-timed considering two high level LaRaia appointees are awaiting trial on extortion charges. And, another appointee has been convicted of larceny and attempted larceny. And another was discovered to be under indictment in Suffolk County.

These facts are conspicuously absent from the two "Alfano" reform theme articles.

If anyone is "sabotaging" Mayor LaRaia, it is not the Quincy press. And not the opposition. A few people out of his own camp have hurt him the most.

The FBI reportedly has been poking around Quincy for weeks. And right now the city is rampant with all kinds of rumors. We hope they are not true.

And there is all kinds of speculation about the two articles out of the North End. Speculation mainly as to why and how they came to be written.

The articles at the very least violate the time honored journalism principle that there are two sides to every issue.

And from there they go down hill—fast.

LIVING TODAY

By Dr. William F. Knox

Stretch Your Mind

"When the mind is stretched with a new idea it never returns to its former size." I first heard that from a college professor in sociology. He had watched that principle at work in society in general ... I've watched it at work in myself and other individuals. Only when one realizes what freedom really is can he say with Patrick Henry, "Give me liberty or give me death." Only when one realizes the power of love can one say with the Apostle Paul, "So faith, hope, love abide, these three; but the greatest of these is love." [I Corinthians 13:13]. When my farmer friends back in Kansas learned to use fertilizer they found the corn and wheat crop greatly increased. Once the mind is stretched life changes ... the total man is emerging.

One of the problems with mind stretching is that MOST PEOPLE RESIST CHANGE. Some farmers continued to farm as they always had without rebuilding the soil. They gradually became poorer and poorer and lost their farms. One can see new ideas on television, read new ideas from newspapers, magazines and books, even see what happens in others with a new idea. But real change comes when the idea is accepted in one's own mind ... when one's own mind is stretched to appropriate the new idea. Take cigarette smoking. The new idea from the surgeon general is that cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health. But, when recently I was hospitalized the three men in the other beds of my room all smoked. From one I saw a gallon and a half of fluid drawn from the cavity of his stomach. Yet, with diagnosed tuberculosis and heart problems, he was still smoking, in spite of all warnings. He has that right. He resisted the "new idea". He would not let his mind be stretched.

A second problem with mind stretching is that WE USE SO LITTLE OF OUR MINDS.

Even though we grow through our minds and although we know that the power of the human mind is unfathomable and that its limits have never been reached, psychologists find that the average person uses less than six percent of his mental powers. What a terrible waste. Why is this?

One reason is that growth takes place largely at the time of crisis. By crisis, I mean from simple hunger and doing something about it, to a struggle to save one's life when in severe danger. In crisis, there's the opportunity for keenness of one's powers to surge into action and relieve the need or danger. Or, in crisis one can panic, give over to fear, anger, be controlled by old set patterns of thinking [which may have got you into the crisis]. The list is endless of attitudes and feelings which prevent one from using the crisis as an opportunity for new growth. The emerging total man even looks for such opportunities. Man is a problem solving animal. I believe that for any growing person, there must be problems to solve ... even if it's no more than improving one's golf score when in retirement.

From conception to the grave the potential for growth is in us. Don't resist the stretching of your mind by new ideas. It's a mark of a Total Man.

The Blood Line Must Be Kept Open

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Blood in a Blizzard!!! This is becoming a very serious problem. On Dec. 29, 1976, the first of many major storms hit this area. That was the date scheduled for the sixth annual Horne Memorial Bloodmobile. It could not be cancelled, in spite of the weather, because every single pint of blood is needed. Thirty pints of blood were collected that day, instead of the usual 100 pints. This precious donation was processed and used that very night - but 30 pints cannot do the work of 100 pints.

The donors and volunteers who braved the snow and wind are to be highly commended. They understand the basic fact that blood is needed daily and a stormy day is no exception. The constant battering of storms since then has had the same sad effect on all blood centers in every city. The supply is at a dangerously low level.

The weather has slowed down the transportation lines, the communication lines, and the Blood Line. All these lines must be kept running for normal living, and we, the people, are responsible for the blood line. As sure as healthy blood must flow through our veins, fresh blood must flow daily into the blood line. If the reservoir runs dry, people will die.

It is said that it is impossible to get blood from a stone. It seems almost as difficult to get blood from a storm. We can help in this shortage by making haste when the sun shines so the blood will flow when it storms. Ask yourself: "Can I give a pint of blood now? Can I influence someone else to give a pint?" If you were the patient, would you answer be the same? Please contact your nearest blood center as soon as possible. You have the ability to save a life.

Thank you, in the name of all who are waiting.

Exit, Entrance Of Presidents Symbolically Significant

Letter to the Editor:

The exit and entrance modes of our Presidents on January 20, are symbolically significant.

The names of Ford and Rockefeller connote automobiles and oil. Leaders with those names exited from the capital by helicopter.

Helicopter transportation won its fame in Vietnam. It was the American exit vehicle from that tragic debacle of military-industrial conquest.

With ideological contrast, the opening biblical quotation of President Carter's inaugural address mentioned humble walking. Then the new President and his family performed his entrance transit to power as a pacemaking, symbolic rite.

In "Tales of Philosophy," Felix Marti-Ibanez, M.D., discusses historical events within their context of simultaneous philosophies and religions. It is his firm belief that the man on foot can always think better and more democratically than the man who rides.

Is it not better and more democratic thinking to name as our enemies - poverty, ignorance and injustice? And to love the Earth, rather than celebrate man's domination and exploitation of it, by technology, seems to be a hopeful omen.

Argo Merchant Lesson Should Not Be Forgotten

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The lesson we've learned from "The Wreck of the Argo Merchant" is one which should not be forgotten.

The staff at WROR spent many exhausting hours putting together a documentary special entitled "Troubled Waters: The New England Oil Spill [And How You Can Help]" Within the program we recommended action be taken to:

[1] Require that oil transported into New England ports be done so only on American ships so as to place accountability and responsibility for any similar mishaps within U.S. jurisdiction;

[2] Require that all ships transporting oil into New England ports be of the double-hull or bottom variety so as to provide an extra measure of insurance against oil spillage should a vessel run aground; and [3] Establish a public fund for relief of fishing industry personnel whose sole source of income might be wiped out should another oil spill destroy our fishing grounds. This fund would be administered by the Commonwealth and other New England states [much like Maine's fund is] and would place responsibility for retrieving damages from negligent parties on the shoulders of the government, thus eliminating lengthy and costly litigation for those who can least afford it:

the fishermen.

WROR is currently soliciting postcards of support for these [and similar] concepts. We would be most grateful if you could print our address.

Lewis Submits $16,194,947 City Budget

City Manager Edward T. Lewis submitted to the City Council a $16,194,947 budget, an increase of $1,940,000 over the previous year.

Lewis' budget contained no general salary increases for city employees but City Councillor Charles L. Shea was leading a movement to provide a general 10 per cent wage hike with a ceiling of $500.

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa estimated that the budget would mean a $4.40 increase in the $60.60 tax rate without pay raises and $7.77 with them.

Lewis said the bulk of the budget increase was due to an $882,000 rise in school costs.

BANK CHANGES NAME

Directors of the Granite National Bank voted to change its name to the South Shore National Bank, the second name change in two months for what was once called the Granite Trust Co.

"The directors were of the opinion that the new name better describes the area now being served by the bank," said President William J. Martin.

Granite Trust Co., which was founded in the days when granite was the big industry in Quincy, changed its name to Granite National in December as a prelude to an intended merger with the First National Bank of Boston.

GRUTCHFIELD PACES NORTH

Doug Grutchfield threw in 25 points to lead North Quincy to a 60-44 victory over Arlington without the services of Dick Mann, the second member of the Raiders' dynamic duo who was out with a virus.

The North lineup included Grutchfield, Jim Baldwin, Pete Frederickson, Fran Scanlon and Eddie Deane, who replaced Mann in the starting five.

Quincy guards Eddie Dunham and Tommy Connors scored 34 points between them but the Presidents bowed to Malden, 71-62, in a Greater Boston League game.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By Eric Swider

The Real Employer: YOU

Time is now ripe to divulge the identity of the real employer: the true source of jobs.

The real employer is YOU.

By your choices.

By your decision to purchase or not, you, in concert with fellow consumers across the land and across the globe, decide what is to be produced and who will produce it. In effect, you decide who will be employed, how much they will be paid, who is to be promoted, who demoted.

Mind you, you pay all wages including those for Dave Cowens, Howard Cosell, Mike Dukakis, Jimmy Carter and the board chairmen of General Dynamics, IBM and GE. You also pay the union scales of the railroad workers, airline pilots, bricklayers, and truck drivers. Moreover, if there is "featherbedding" on the job, you pay for that, too.

By the same token, you pay all other business expenses as well—energy costs, raw material charges, interest payments, corporate taxes...everything.

The reference to taxes bears on jobs. Many believe that much of the government's revenue needs can be met through the simple expedient of "soak the corporations." Basically, however, corporations don't pay taxes. In the long run, they pass on these taxes to the consumer in the form of higher prices. They have no other viable choice. In the short run, though, present business taxes gum up capital formation and job creation.

Businesspeople, you see, are agents of you, the consumer. They must do your bidding -- or else. They must produce the quality you demand -- or else. They must turn out goods and services at the price you are willing to pay -- or else.

In all this, you are a veritable dictator. You make big businesses small, small businesses big, and going concerns gone concerns. At the same time, you lay off literally millions of workers and hire millions of other workers, not only in this country but around the world.

And you do all this democratically. Everyday is Employment Day in the marketplace, and every business candidate is running scared, fearful that he will not get your vote. What happened to famous "American" corporate giants, for example, like American Ice, American Locomotive, American Woolen, American Molasses? They're gone, and you (or your forebears) did them in -- democratically, voluntarily.

So, too, do you control workers. Indirectly, you hire and fire the dental hygienist, restaurant chef and the industrial tycoon. All workers are agents of the sovereign consumer. What happened to the blacksmith, pony express rider, cotton picker, hand-loom weaver and the Buggy-Whip King? They, along with hundreds of other occupations, have been eliminated. Again, by the consumer -- your forebears.

Who, then, did in the iceman? Your mother, grandmother or great grandmother -- depending on your age -- did [economically speaking, of course] when she bought an electric or gas refrigerator in the 1920's and 30's.

In similar fashion, you, the real employer, have called forth new occupations to satisfy your changing preferences -- occupations like computer programmers, jet pilots, disc jockeys, tennis pros, nutritionists and nuclear physicists.

You, as a consumer-employer, are most demanding as a price.

Price is it. Ever bargain-conscious, you will pay only so much and no more in wages and salaries. You do this by demanding the most for the least, and every now and then you go on a buyer's strike. In a sense, you struck American-produced home radios by rejecting American prices and unit-labor costs in favor of Japanese, Korean, Taiwanese and Hong Kong prices and unit-labor costs.

You're the real employer; and as Baretta would say, "That's the name of dat tune."

QJC Receives $209,786 Basic Educational Grant

Dr. Edward Pierce, President of Quincy Junior College, announces the college received official notification of a $209,786 authorization under the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant Program.

This is an increase of $92,066 over last year's award, Dr. Pierce noted.

Purpose of the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant is to assist students in furthering their education. Both part-time and full-time students are eligible to apply for this grant from the Federal government.

Anyone needing help meeting educational expenses is urged to apply. Many are not aware they may be eligible for this kind of financial assistance, Dr. Pierce said.

QJC students can receive up to $1,100 a year to cover tuition, books and part of their living expenses. However, the grant award varies depending upon an individual's financial situation. Applications for the BEOG grant are available at high school guidance offices as well as at the College.

Sheets In Major Confrontation On Education

Rep. James A. Sheets [D-Quincy] and his fellow members of the House Committee on Education are emerging as key figures in a coming major confrontation between Paul Parks, state secretary of educational affairs, and the State Board of Higher Education.

Parks indicated to a recent meeting of the Committee that he is drafting a bill to reorganize higher education in Massachusetts -- which would eliminate the Board of Higher Education entirely.

At another meeting, members of the Board complained that if Parks did not cease interfering with the Board's duties and stop raiding its budget and give it a more positive role to play, then there was really no need for the Board even now.

Any reorganization of higher education in the state must pass through the Committee on Education before becoming law.

S. Quincy Civic Association To Hear Paul Anderson

The South Quincy Civic Association will meet Tuesday, Feb. 8, at 8 p.m. at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School.

Speaker will be Paul N. Anderson, chairman of the Industrial Development Finance Authority. He will explain the low-interest monies available to Quincy business -- existing and new.

Ernest Aristide, Association President, said the membership also will discuss current plans of the South Quincy area.

Anderson is also Interim City Public Works Commissioner.

A funeral mass was concelebrated Wednesday at St. John's Church for M. Joseph Sweeney of 68 Elm St., Quincy, president of the Sweeney Funeral Service, Inc., of Quincy. He died Sunday in City Hospital at the age of 69, after a long illness.

A resident of Quincy for 60 years, he began working in the family business in 1931 and took over as president in 1948 following the death of his father, Dennis F. Sweeney, founder of the funeral service.

He was a graduate of the Boston School of Anatomy and Embalming and a member of the National and Massachusetts Funeral Directors Associations.

He was also a member of the Quincy Knights of Columbus, the Quincy Kiwanis Club, the Quincy Elks, the Quincy Eagles and the Holy Name Society of St. John's Church.

Mr. Sweeney is survived by his wife Margaret E. (McDonald); three sons, Dennis F. and

M. JOSEPH SWEENEY

William H., both of Quincy, and Michael J. of Rockland; two daughters, Mrs. Rosemary A. McLaughlin of Orlando, Fla., and Mrs. Margaret M. Jones of Hanover; six grandchildren, and a sister, Mary Sweeney of Quincy.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Munich Theatre Group To Present 'Mystery Of The Holy Mass' At St. John's

The Ernst Jurina Theatre Group from Munich, Germany, will present the 17th century medieval play entitled "The Mystery of the Holy Mass" at St. John's Church, Quincy Center on Thursday, Feb. 17, at 8 p.m.

The content and thrust of the "Mystery of the Holy Mass" are religious and catechetical. Ernst Jurina, director and founder of the Munich Mystery Players, said that "through this dramatic presentation people begin to understand that the Mass is a synthesis of sacrifice and meal."

"It brings people closer to the meaning of the Mass. Ultimately, people see that the essence of the Mass has not changed, although in recent years there have been many liturgical changes."

Publicity material for the play states that "perhaps never before has theatre art been used more effectively in realizing and vitalizing religious truth."

"Young people and adults all find it a deeply moving personal religious experience. After viewing "Mystery of the Holy Mass", no one will ever again be able to say that the Mass is monotonous and boring, unintelligible and uninteresting."

Jurina and his theatre troups have performed many of the mystery plays in several European countries all in German. "The Mystery of the Holy Mass" is the only one they present in English. It appeared for the first time in the U.S. in 1971. Since that time they have performed in New Jersey, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Washington, D.C., and Michigan.

"The Mystery of the Holy Mass" is done with exquisite dignity, devotion, beauty and professionalism. The mystery play will be performed in St. John's Church and is sponsored by the Parish Adult Education Committee. Tickets are $2 for adults but $1 for senior citizens and students. Tickets may be purchased at the door on the evening of Feb. 17, or may be purchased from ticket chairman, John Daly: (479-2451) or Rev. Joseph Byrne at St. John's Rectory (773-1021).

'Roots' Topic Sunday At First Parish Church

"Roots" will be the topic for the 10:45 a.m. service Sunday at the United First Parish Church. Rev. Keith Munson said:

"The impact that this lengthy historical novel has had upon the nation, due in large measure to the TV series of last week, will be felt for some time to come."

He expressed belief if the TV series had been shown during the summer heat, "we would no doubt have experienced riots in our cities"

He said he believes the nation has accepted this revelation with a great deal of maturity and is handling the material in a mature way. "Still, the reaction to presenting the brutalizing effects of slavery on both the blacks and the whites in such a dramatic fashion will have a lasting impact upon millions of people."

Members of the congregation have been invited to participate in this "Dialogue" service. The public is invited. A discussion time has been set up for the social hour after the 10:45 service.

'France's Foreign Affairs'

South Shore U.N. Council Topic

"France's Outlook on Foreign Affairs" will be discussed by Madame Georgiana Powell-Pouzzner when the U.N. Council of the South Shore meets Thursday, Feb. 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the Parish Hall of the Church of the Presidents, Quincy Square. The public is welcome.

Madame Powell-Pouzzner has spent most of her adult life in Paris and knows personally many of France's political figures who are presently in the news. This news is often puzzling to Americans, such as the recent release of Mohammed Daoud Audeh and the business-political scandals reported in the French press. Madame Powell-Pouzzner can provide a bridge of understanding since she is the daughter of a New England publishing family, a graduate of Radcliffe College with a certificate from the University of Paris. She has also been consultant for heavy industry in France and has acted as advisor for the Chairman of Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd. and for the Managing Director of Air France, and other managing Directors. Following the talk there will be a question period.

Before the meeting there will be a catered dinner at 6:30 p.m. For reservations and information about the charge, call Miss Eleanor Brown, 59 Andrews Rd., Quincy, before Feb. 7. There is a reduced price for students.

Wild Life Rescue Course At Trailside

A wildlife rescue course will begin at the Blue Hills Trailside Museum, Milton, Wednesday, Feb. 9, at 7:30 p.m.

Bob Stanhope will teach the course. Minimum age for enrolling is 14. For more information, call 333-0690.

What's A Funeral All About?

It's about someone who lived among friends and relatives. Someone who has made impressions on other people. Someone who will be remembered by them.

In short, a funeral is about a human being.

And that's why we believe it should be special.

No Extra School Days Expected Despite Snow

"In 1969, some school systems were out 11 or 12 days and most of them had to make it up.

"Also we have a calendar school year of 185 days while many other schools fit their instruction into 183 days. We build in the extra days in anticipation of snow days. They give us consideration for that, too."

The State Department of Education requires 180 days of instruction. State aid to education is figured on the basis of average daily attendance over that period. In Quincy, that amounts to about $6.5 million.

As an alternative, some five or six years ago the state also permitted schools to calculate instruction time in hours rather than days, with 990 hours the minimum for secondary schools and 900 hours for elementary schools.

"With the alternative schools and open campuses that were becoming popular in the late 1960's, it was difficult to determine what constituted a school day," says Dr. Crendon.

"A system has to choose at the beginning of the school year whether it's going to be days or hours. Traditionally, Quincy has gone by days. There has never been any demand for hours."

In the unlikely event that the state demands extra days in Quincy, those days would be patched together from existing vacations and days off.

"First," said Dr. Crendon, "we have a day of inservice training, Institute Day, in the spring. We would eliminate that."

"Schools are scheduled to close Thursday, June 23, at noon. If we needed another day, we'd go to the end of the week."

"If we needed still more, we would go into the following week (June 27) or we would pick up a Saturday or two along the way."

Dr. Crendon said he would be reluctant to tamper with vacations during the school year, particularly the April week off.

"The April vacation is the most important," he said. "This has been a difficult winter. Kids have been confined to their homes. Their physical activity has been limited."

"April will be more pleasant. They can get out more. That means they will come back to school more inclined to settle down for study. I don't see interfering with the April vacation."

Quincy has required its school children to have 180 days of classroom instruction for many years, even though as recently as 25 years ago the state requirement was only 160.

"Some annual reports that I have seen from around the turn of the century show that the schools were open only 120 days," says Dr. Crendon.

But don't feel persecuted, kids. In Florida, the minimum is 210 days.

1976 'Banner Year' Jack Conway Reports

The Jack Conway Company, New England's largest residential-commercial real estate brokerage firm, reported at its recent annual meeting that 1976 was a banner, record-breaking year.

The firm set an all time sales record and, in addition, finished up 1976, 29.3 percent ahead of the same period one year ago, Company President Jack Conway announced.

"The thing that pleased me most about 1976," said Conway, "was that total sales for the year were 6.5 percent ahead of 1973, which had been the best previous year in the history of the company."

The year 1974 was a real bad year for our industry and 1975 one of regrouping and regaining lost ground, and we were just thrilled to see 1976 come out so favorably."

Conway, speaking to 166 of the sales people for the 17 office South Shore and Cape Cod brokerage firm, said he attributed the increased sales to a number of items: (1) a regaining of the public confidence after Watergate and the Nixon administration; (2) a built-up demand for housing caused by the lack of sales in 1974 and 1975; (3) an abundance of mortgage money in the local markets make possible the purchase and the financing of almost any sound property; (4) the reduction in the interest rates to a more palatable level of about 8 1/2 percent to 9 percent.

"I predict that 1977 will be another good year for housing with new housing starts, in America approaching the 1.8 million mark, which certainly will give the builders confidence to move ahead, and a continuation of moderate interest rates and an ample supply of mortgage money," said Conway. "My goal for 1977 is for a 25 percent increase in Conway Country Sales."

"In order to make our goal we will, naturally, spend more in advertising dollars and I have budgeted $260,000 this year for a combination of newspaper, magazine, direct mail and radio advertising," he said.

President Real Estate

A REALISTIC APPROACH

During inflation [and we're in it], there's an excellent case for investing in real estate. Most of the investment is paid for with borrowed money. Someone else's fixed-dollar savings provides your mortgage money. Even though interest rates are up several notches from where they were, a mortgage loan is the only way the average consumer can borrow long-term money.

This, then, is your big chance to turn inflation to your advantage. Your mortgage gives you full-price dollars to work with today. You then pay them back with cheaper dollars you will be earning for the next 20 to 30 years.

This isn't a cynical approach. It's realistic. In fact, it's one of the main reasons why many wealthy individuals continue to make big real estate investments. And you can do the same with a home that you own and need anyway.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Quincy Hosts Cambridge, Raiders Face Newton

This has been a so-so season for the Quincy High Hockey Team, but coach Bob Silvia has had no trouble getting his Presidents up for rival North Quincy.

Last Saturday, Quincy turned in one of its finest performances of the season to defeat the Raiders for the second time, 6-1. The win raised Quincy's record to 6-7-1 and dropped North's mark to 5-7-2.

Saturday Quincy hosts Cambridge Latin at 6:40 at Quincy Youth Arena and North plays Newton at 5 p.m. at Boston College. Tuesday, North plays Brookline at 3:00 at Boston College and Wednesday Quincy will be home to Waltham at 6:40 at the Youth Arena.

"Quincy pride, that is what I like to call it," said Sylvia.

"These kids were as high tonight as I have ever seen a Quincy Team."

Mark Richiardi had two goals for Quincy as did Mark Giordani. Brian Jolly and Mike Gulitz had one each. Billy Deitsch himself had three assists. Jack Campbell two and Pat Bamberry, Mike Van Tassell, Tom Cahill and Jolly one each. John Andrews had the only North goal, with Mike Smith assisting.

Earlier in the week, North had lost a last second heartbreaker to Weymouth South, 2-1, ending a three-game win streak.

With a minute to play and the score tied at one, Weymouth's Jim Merlin went in on North goalie Ron Bereszniwicz all alone but the Raider goalie made a sensational stop.

However, with 23 seconds left, Merlin went in alone again, this time faked Bereszniwicz and scored the clincher.

It was an excellent game with both teams playing well. North's only goal was scored by Mike Marks at 10:30 of the opening period, tying the score. Frank McGinnis and Mike Smith had assists.

Quincy lost to Newton North, 8-4, as Coach Bob Sylvia admitted, "we played poorly."

Tom Cahill, the Suburban League's top scorer, added two goals and two assists. Dan Barry and Jack Campbell had the other goals. Sylvia lauded Campbell for what he termed "his best game of the year."

Presidents Clinch Tourney, Raiders Host Cambridge

It took Quincy High's basketball teams 11 years to make it back to the Eastern Mass. tournament last year, but last Friday the Presidents became early qualifiers once again when they defeated Weymouth South, 78-55, to make their overall record 12-1, and their Suburban League mark 10-1.

Weymouth South stayed close for three periods but Quincy outscored the visitors, 28-11, in the final period.

As usual, 6-6 Jack Uhlar had a big second half, scoring 16 of his 26 points then to pace the attack. Coach Joe Amorosino rates Uhlar as "probably the greatest player in Quincy's history".

Mike Lamie and Ed Daley had 12 points each and Roger Kvan had 11.

Quincy plays undefeated league-leader, Rindge Tech, Friday at 3:30, hoping to avenge its only loss. Tuesday the Presidents host Brockton at 8 at Vo-Tech gym.

Meanwhile, North Quincy had a cold shooting night and, in spite of dominating the boards, lost to Brookline, 59-52. The Raiders led 41-39, going into the last period.

Dan Cuddy had 18 points and Mike Gill 16 for North in a losing cause.

North will be home to Cambridge Latin, Friday at 8 at Vo-Tech and Tuesday, at 7 will play at Weymouth North.

Earlier in the week Quincy staged one of its better two-way performances to outclass North Quincy, 61-36.

The Presidents came up with a nearly flawless offensive and defensive game as they out-rebounded and out-finished the smaller Raiders from the start.

North wasn't able to get the ball to the basket and the usually composed Raiders lost their cool early and Quincy pulled away to a big 27-11 halftime lead.

"They have a great defensive team and the big guy (Uhlar) was just too much," said North Coach Eddie Miller.

BILL MCINTYRE (35) gets a lot of help from Keith Lindberg (53) and an unidentified teammate in taking a rebound away from Quincy's Ken Ames (14) during North Quincy's 61-36 loss to the Presidents.

"Defense is my game," added Amorosino. "It keeps improving with each game. We don't have any individual players out there.

they all play together as a team." The Presidents have held the opposition to under 46 points a game.

Uhlar had 17 points and 16 rebounds. Lamie had 12 points and Ed Callahan 10 points and nine rebounds. North had no one in double figures but, although sparkplug John White had only four points, he turned in some superlative plays. Keith Lindberg had eight points and Bill McIntyre seven.

North, Quincy Meet Thursday

The North Quincy track team winds up another outstanding Suburban League winter season tonight (Thursday) when it meets Quincy at 8 at Newton North.

Lou Tozzi's Raiders are 5-2-1 and tied for third place in the Suburban League and have a 9-2-1 overall mark. Quincy, under first-year coach John Lavery, is only 2-6 and the Presidents, although showing a lot of improvement, appears to finish the same as last year, 2-7. Lavery seems to lack the depth to upset North.

Monday, both North and Quincy will compete in the all-Suburban League meet at Newton at 6:30.

North's Mike Gallagher, Bob Levenson, Mike Morin and Jerry MacKenzie all turned in their best personal efforts last week as the Raiders defeated Waltham, 53-33, in a league meet.

Gallagher did 49 feet, nine inches, to win the shot put. Levenson won the mile in 4:35.8, Morin took the two-mile in 9:57 and MacKenzie's 1:18.4 won the 600.

Other North winners were Russ Chisholm in the 50, John O'Donnell, 1,000, and Bob Ferrara, high jump.

FOR THE RECORD

In accordance with my belief that it is my duty to report fully to the citizens the progress we have made toward realization of the programs and policies instituted by my administration, this is the second in a series of messages relating to important issues that affect the City Of Quincy. Of paramount concern has been the problem of providing a modern educational environment for the high school students of North Quincy. In this message, I have set forth both in words and in chart form, the essential facts and figures that were pertinent to our quest to secure quality educational facilities for North Quincy at a realistic cost to the taxpayers.

Joseph J. LaRaia

Joseph J. LaRaia, Mayor

MAYOR JOSEPH J. LARAIA

The New North Quincy High School Addition Quality Education at a $2,000,000 Savings

For a period of ten years, it has been evident that students at North Quincy High School need and deserve expanded educational facilities in order to meet current standards of educational excellence. Unfortunately, constant political bickering and biased judgements had delayed construction over this same period. Finally, last year it appeared that our city government and educational officials had devised a plan acceptable to state authorities...a $15,000,000 plan that would have necessitated citywide double sessions and citywide busing for two years.

It appeared that your Mayor had no alternative but to approve this plan in order for Quincy to qualify for the 65% reimbursement of costs from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

It would have been politically popular to "rubber stamp" the proposed $15,000,000 plan, but I had pledged to you a prudent administration...one which would scrutinize every expenditure to determine whether, through creative thinking, we could provide necessary services and simultaneously reduce costs. The North Quincy High School construction project was the first such major test that confronted us.

The application of innovative thinking and sound judgement by my advisers and the diligence of Quincy School Department officials led to a new plan which would save the citizens of Quincy $2,000,000 in construction and operating costs without diluting the standards of educational excellence we had sought. In two separate face to face conferences with officials of the Massachusetts School Building Assistance Bureau, I convinced them of the merits of my program, thus insuring that we would receive from the Commonwealth 65% reimbursement of costs.

The LaRaia program, in addition to its financial advantages, also brought vital social benefits. We eliminated the need for double sessions at Quincy High School; we eliminated citywide busing and we preserved the traditional identity students feel toward their own school. Our plan won from our esteemed School Superintendent Dr. Laurence Creedon the commendation, "Mayor LaRaia's willingness to constantly review his position to arrive at a solution today provides us with an adequate facility for the indefinite future."

Our plan also involves a contractual arrangement with a firm of construction management consultants whose expertise and experience with "fast track" building techniques hopefully will effect further dollar savings and expedite construction schedules by at least six months. Both our school officials and city council members concurred in this decision to utilize the services of construction management specialists, a feature never before introduced into a major city construction program.

The chart below illustrates graphically the economic and social benefits to all citizens of our City which were achieved by the application of our credo of Service and Savings for Quincy.

Previous Plan*

COST	$15,000,000
SESSIONS	All North Quincy and Quincy High School students attending Quincy High in double sessions
BUSING	Citywide
CAPACITY	2,000 students
COST OF NEW TEACHING POSTS, SECURITY, BUS TRAVEL	$500,000

LaRaia Plan

COST	$13,500,000
SESSIONS	Only North Quincy High students attending staggered sessions
BUSING	Minimal
CAPACITY	1,800 students
COST OF NEW TEACHING POSTS, SECURITY, BUS TRAVEL	Minimal

Our emphasis on Service and Savings has also been realized through a further reduction of the School Department Budget by $476,000 ... a figure which represents a $3.23 savings on the tax rate.

Hancock St. Mall Doubtful

Comprehensive Plan Underway For Downtown Development

By TOM HENSHAW

Architects have been instructed to come up with a comprehensive plan for the future of Downtown Quincy to show potential developers by April 1, says Planning Director L. Norman Lundin.

"We have instructed the architects to devise six different concepts ranging from bold strokes to small renovations but I think the plan will be something in between," Lundin told the Quincy Business Council last week.

"We want a comprehensive plan to show developers. If we don't do something in the near future, Downtown Quincy will be on the back side of the curve."

Lundin said developers have always been interested in Quincy "but the bottom line has always been access to the downtown area. Because of the Upland Rd. Extension developers are more interested than ever now."

Lundin said his approach to Quincy Center is to keep Hancock St. open for vehicular traffic rather than convert it to a pedestrian mall as some have suggested.

"The store owners need the exposure of people driving up and down the street," he said. "If you have only pedestrians you cut down the exposure. Big cities that have malls also have a captive audience of office workers that smaller cities do not have."

"If we close Hancock St. to auto traffic it would be a disaster."

Lundin indicated that there may be some rocky times ahead for the Upland Rd. Extension, which is planned in conjunction with the South Quincy MBTA Station, ramps to the Southeast Expressway and the Town Brook Flood Control Project.

"The problems we see involve coordinating the timetables for funding all the projects," said

Boston Newspaper's Censorship Charge Called 'Complete Fabrication'

Attorney for Caradonna's News Stand, 1500 Hancock St., has branded as a "complete fabrication" charges by a Boston newspaper that City Council President Arthur H. Tobin pressured Caradonna's to stop selling the paper.

Thomas N. Byrnes Jr. demanded that the Post-Gazette, a weekly paper published in Boston's North End, print his letter and retract a story, entitled "Censorship in Quincy," which ran in the Feb. 4 edition of the newspaper.

Said Byrnes:

"I have talked with the owner, manager and other employees of Caradonna's and it is apparent that this article is a complete fabrication."

"At no time did anyone, and more specifically, City Councilor Arthur Tobin, ask, demand, or request Caradonna's News Stand or anyone employed by it to stop selling your newspaper or any other newspaper."

"Senator Tobin is a highly respected and dedicated public official and would not, and I repeat again, did not apply pressure or attempt directly or indirectly to coerce, as your article states, my client or any of its employees from distributing or selling your newspaper."

"He also did not violate anyone's constitutional freedoms, as your article so states."

The North End newspaper has been running a series of articles on Quincy's political scene highly complimentary to Mayor LaRaia and unfavorable to his opponents and critics.

Norfolk Dist. Atty. William D. Delahunt plans to go before a Norfolk County grand jury next week with evidence gathered in his investigation of the apparent theft of approximately $24,000 from the treasury of the Quincy Police Betterment Association.

Patrolman John Tocchio, president of the association, has been suspended without pay for five days pending a hearing by Mayor LaRaia into any possible connection with the disappearance of the funds.

Tocchio is assigned to the Mayor's office.

"Preliminary indications are that evidence in this matter will be presented to a Norfolk County grand jury next week," Delahunt told The Sun.

He said the investigation is being conducted by the newly formed Economic Crime Unit, headed by former FBI Agent Jack Connors. The unit was formed to probe so-called "white collar" crime.

Delahunt told The Sun:

"I was contacted by the Chief of Police [Francis X. Finn] and members of the Quincy Police Betterment Association, who indicated that there were discrepancies relating to financial matters within the patrolmen's union and requested this office to review the situation."

Police sources said the discrepancy was first noted last week when a $150 check, drawn on the Quincy Savings Bank and made out as a gift to the Quincy Youth Hockey Association, bounced.

Alarmed, members of the QPBA checked their savings account at the Quincy Credit Union and discovered only $8,722 in an account that should have held about $25,000.

Officers of the QPBA informed Chief Finn of the discrepancy and, together with Finn, they went to see Delahunt. The district attorney, sources said, told Finn to suspend Tocchio.

Police sources said a rough audit of the QPBA books indicates that at least $22,000 is missing.

The money represents union dues deducted from police officers' pay checks by the city and given to the QPBA in a $375 weekly check. The check is picked up at City Hall and deposited into the bank or the credit union.

"They don't know whether the man who picked up the check never deposited them into the accounts or whether he put them in and took them out in a lump sum or in nickels and dimes," said one police officer.

"They're still not sure at this point how the mechanics of it worked."

Sources said agents of the Internal Revenue Service and the FBI were investigating the matter in Quincy Monday night.

Hugo Fabrizio Replaces Bertolon As Assessor

Hugo P. Fabrizio of 11 Emerald St., West Quincy, proprietor of Flips' Oil Service, has been named to the Board of Assessors by Mayor LaRaia.

Fabrizio, who resigned Monday from the Board of Managers of City Hospital, succeeds Henry Bertolon in the assessor's post.

His place on the hospital board will be taken by Robert F. Denvir Jr. of 111 Spring St., Rock Island, who works for Action for Boston Community Development in Boston.

Raymondi Requests Study Into Widening Chestnut St.

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi, Monday requested the City Planning Board to study the feasibility of taking land on Chestnut St. to allow the congested street to be widened to enable passage of two-way vehicular traffic and parking.

Raymondi made the request after consultation with City Engineer Edward Leone.

According to Raymondi, the city only owns part of the sidewalk area in front of the businesses located between 18

Chestnut St. easterly to Foster St. To widen the street, a land taking of eight feet from each owner would be necessary, he said.

Raymondi noted: "There recently has been much controversy concerning parking and traffic on Chestnut St. and this proposal may well be the solution to this problem. In addition, it would preclude the need for making Chestnut St. one way. I would welcome any other ideas or suggestions for improving the traffic flow and parking in this area."

Food Consultant Firm Moving To North Quincy

An international food consultant firm has purchased office and manufacturing space in the Boston Gear Co., building at 14 Hayward St., Norfolk Downs, and plans to move in with 60 employees during the summer.

The firm is Dr. Herbert V. Schuster Inc., which advises supermarkets, drug store chains and chemical companies. It's head, Dr. Schuster, holds a doctorate in food sciences from MIT.

Chamber Urges Expansion Of Nuclear Power Plants

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors calls for immediate expansion of nuclear power plants as first priority toward meeting this nation's future power generation needs.

"We are convinced," said Chamber President, Charles A. Pearce, "that nuclear power is the best available alternative for large scale generation of electricity from the standpoint of economics, reliability, safety and environmental impact."

Pearce said nuclear plants currently are providing New England with almost 40 per cent of its electrical requirements. These six plants, he said, are operating at about 70 per cent of their rated output and are generating electricity at about half the cost of the region's oil and coal-fueled power stations.

The Chamber's Energy Resources Committee, under the chairmanship of David Priestly, Pearce said, made a carefully detailed study of the energy situation and was aided in this endeavor by knowledgeable individuals and expert scientific data. The Board concurs with the Committee's findings, he said.

"Nuclear power offers not only the lowest cost energy of available alternatives," Pearce noted, "it has a built-in price stability not present with other methods of power generation. It is also the safest form of power generation, with no fatalities to date and no injury to the public."

"We can say that nuclear power has shown what it can do...generate electricity cheaply, safely and cleanly. We need this energy source, particularly in New England, to remain a viable economic entity as a state and as a region."

No Date Set Yet For LoCicero, Reppucci Trial

Motions have been filed in U.S. District Court in Boston in the case of suspended Public Works Commissioner Vincent LoCicero and Herbert Reppucci, assistant director of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program [RSVP], charged with extortion and conspiracy in connection with the $1 million Merrymount School addition contract.

But no date has been set for their trial before Federal Judge Walter J. Skinner and the U.S. District Court Clerk's office said "it may be months" before the trial gets underway.

LoCicero and Reppucci are free "in $5,000 personal recognition each after being arrested by the FBI Dec. 23 on charges they took $7,000 from Rocheford Construction Co. of Natick in return for the Merrymount contract. They have pleaded innocent.

Army Engineers Seek $80,000 To Continue Flooding Studies

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has asked for $80,000 to continue its studies of the coastal streams in Quincy, it was disclosed by Congressman James A. Burke (D-Milton).

The Corps has been conducting flood control studies of the Hayward Creek, Furnace Brook and Town Brook watersheds and the new funds would enable preliminary work to be completed on the last two.

A Burke-backed appropriation for flood control work on Hayward Creek was passed by the Congress and a $1.8 million contract for the construction was awarded earlier this month.

The Corps has determined that a flood control project on Furnace Brook is financially feasible and detailed recommendations are expected soon. Construction is expected to begin in 1981.

Any work that the Corps does on Town Brook in South Quincy is to be tied in with the construction of the South Quincy MBTA Station and the Upland Rd. Extension with its ramps leading to and from the Southeast Expressway.

The Corps expects to issue a preliminary report on Town Brook in April but it has already been determined that flood controls in the area would be justified economically.

Construction involving Town Brook would have to be approved by Congress, probably not until 1979. Target date for completion of the entire project is 1985.

Tobin Would Exempt Elderly From Meals Tax

A bill to exempt elderly persons 60 years of age or older from the payment of taxes charged on meals has been filed by Senator Arthur H. Tobin (D-Quincy).

Tobin said the payment of the tax by senior citizens has become one more intolerable burden to them. Many are forced by circumstances to eat some of their meals outside of their homes, he noted. The present tax of eight percent is causing extreme hardships on them and they should be exempted from the tax, he said.

"These people, have given so much of themselves to our country and the Commonwealth and should not be asked to continue to shoulder the unfair burdens of our present tax structure," Tobin said.

Behind, from the left are, Miss Katherine Norris, Merrymount School principal; Senator City Council President Arthur H. Tobin; Councillors Leo Kelly, Dennis Harrington, James Sheets. OUR REGULARS COME IN ALL SHAPES AND SIZES.

There's one thing our Regular Savings account customers have in common... common sense.

Because it's a shrewd move to open not only the most convenient of all banking accounts, but also one that pays a healthy interest on your money.

A Regular Savings account at Quincy Cooperative pays 5-1/4% interest. That's the highest rate allowable by law. The effective annual rate climbs to 5.47%. And your interest is compounded daily from day of deposit to day of withdrawal. Your money, of course, is insured in full. No wonder everyone from the milkman to the meter maid, the doctor to the dog catcher, has a convenient Regular Savings account with us. Why not join the regulars and watch your money grow? It's the very idea Josiah Quincy, Jr., the man we named the bank for, had in mind when he founded cooperative banking in this state. A Regular Savings Account. It's of interest to everyone.

And we know for certain...

JOSIAH WOULD HAVE LIKED THAT.

'The Job Search' One Of Seminars At 'Woman To Woman Day'

By MARY WEAVER

"The JOB SEARCH - How to look for a Job" will be one of the seminars being presented at the March 19th Woman to Woman Day sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College.

Miss Toby Felton of Quincy Junior College will lead this two hour workshop for women who are seeking employment. "Looking for a job is a full-time occupation," notes Miss Felton. "In order to be successful and use her time wisely, a woman must have a plan of action."

In this workshop women will learn what goes into the job search and how to create their own plan of action. Among the areas to be discussed are different sources of information, from newspapers and telephone books to employment agencies and referrals; the pros and cons of using the telephone or letter writing to make contacts; resume writing styles and do's and don'ts, and cover letters. Special emphasis will be given to the interview process, how to prepare for it, what to say, and different interview styles.

The seminar is designed for anyone who is seriously looking for employment. The workshop is one of a series to be held March 19, focusing on issues of particular interest to women. Among other workshops to be held on the "Woman to Woman Day" are Women and Money, Goal Setting for a Career, Rape, The Battered Wife, and Women in New Business.

The conference is open to the public at no charge. Its purpose is to bring women together to learn from and teach other women. Further information can be obtained by calling the Mayor's Commission at Quincy City Hall or the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College, 479-8445.

Stay Alive!

EPILEPSY FIRST-AID

If you have never witnessed an epileptic convulsion, you may allow a friend to be injured by inaction because the only real danger of convulsion is the chance of injury from falling. You can help prevent it.

For example, say a fellow employee has epilepsy. Normally it's controlled by medication, but one day he forgets to take his pills and has a seizure while you're talking to him. He starts thrashing and having convulsions. What should you do?

Do not try to restrain a person who is having convulsions. Instead, ease him to the floor, put a coat or other soft cushion beneath his head and remove chairs and other obstructions which could hurt him. Do not try to jam a pencil or other hard object between his teeth because the pencil could damage the tissues or it could break and be swallowed. Instead, use a clean, rolled-up handkerchief or other soft cloth to prevent the victim from biting his tongue. Make sure it does not obstruct his breathing.

Comprehensive Plan Underway For Downtown Area Development

Lundin. "It doesn't look as if the Army Corps of Engineers will be able to start the flood control project until 1983 with completion time slated for 1985. "The MBTA Station wants to be completed in 1985 and the ramps to the Expressway are to be finished in the spring of 1981.

"Timing is a monumental task. When the state and federal governments are involved you always have to get in there and spur the bureaucratic process.

"We thought that we were 50 per cent complete in our plans for the Upland Rd. Extension but then we decided not to go the city-funded route.

"Once we got involved in the federal process we found that we had to go all the way back to step one. We had to go back and determine the need for it all over again.

"It's hard to say what the timetable is now on Upland Rd. The federal route is not an easy one. Hopefully we will have the extension under construction at the time the ramps are being built."

Paul Anderson, who became interim Commissioner of the Public Works Department last month just in time to be hit by two major snowstorms a few days apart, conceded that some improvements could be made in city snow removal.

This despite the fact that the job done by Anderson and the DPW received an accolade from Robert Mahoney of State Street Realty, the chairman of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce Transportation Committee.

"There is need for changes in the snow removal process," said Anderson, "and organization is the main problem.

"For example, the city is divided into 47 routes but there are only 35 pieces of equipment capable of working them, and some of the pieces are simply not the type to do the work.

"Some of the pieces of equipment that we hire are sent to different areas each time and they have to spend seven or eight hours learning the route.

"If you ask, 'Why do we do it this way?' you get the answer, 'Because we've always done it this way.'

"We are setting up ward hearings to find out what we are doing now and what we should change for more efficiency.

"We are still doing work that we should have done a long time ago, like cleaning up the parking lots."

Anderson said the department is currently working on two plans for snow removal.

"One is a crisis plan to deal with problems if we get hit now with more snow," he said. "The second is a long range plan of organization for next year."

Gino Marini, proprietor of a North Quincy cleansing firm, reported to the Council on a trip he and several other businessmen made to Newburyport to study its downtown renovation project and how it could be applied to North Quincy.

He called the Newburyport project "absolutely fantastic."

"They didn't tear down," he said. "They fixed up the old. North Quincy has never had any help. It's a part of the city no one has cared about. We're orphans out there. We should go the route Newburyport went."

He said some North Quincy businessmen went to see Frank Keefe, head of the Office of State Planning, and "it seems possible to get something for North Quincy if there is enough interest."

"If some of the bankers get behind us we can do it," said Marini.

Keefe was scheduled to come to North Quincy yesterday (Wednesday) at 9 a.m. for a walking tour of the district.

Lundin quoted Keefe as saying that before the state can participate in any North Quincy project there will have to be a block grant from the federal government setting out the target area.

"There is not enough money to do it in fiscal 1977," said Lundin. "The new grant starts July 1, 1977. We can program money for it."

"Mayor LaRaia is the only one who can sign for the grant. I suggest you see him and convince him to include the program in. We are in the process of getting our applications together now."

Thomas F. Plouffe, general manager of the Hudson Bus Co., told the Council that Hudson is ready to provide limousine service through Quincy to Logan Airport when a license is granted by the state and permission is obtained from the MBTA to use the Quincy station.

He said the route would go over Fore River Bridge to General Dynamics Shipyard, up Des Moines Rd. by 1000 Southern Artery, through Washington St. to Quincy Square and thence to State Street South and the Carlton House in North Quincy.

The fare for the trip, he projected, would be $3.50 to $4.50.

ALFRED W. ARCHIBALD PRESIDENT

SUNBEAMS

By Henry Bosworth

Harrington Mayoral Or At-Large Candidate

The attention of most political observers has been riveted on the mayor's office as far as this year's city election is concerned.

But there could be some interesting action along the City Council front.

Right now a strong possibility is that the Ward 6 City Council seat will be open.

Incumbent Dennis Harrington reportedly is leaning strongly toward a run for the mayor's office or for a city council at-large seat.

If Council President Arthur Tobin decides to challenge Mayor Joseph LaRaia this fall, Harrington is certain to make a bid for Tobin's at-large seat.

It is highly doubtful Harrington would buck Tobin for the mayor's job.

In fact, if Tobin decides to run it will probably be strictly a LaRaia-Tobin confrontation. Nobody else-nobody of stature anyway-is going to get into the middle of it.

If Tobin doesn't run for mayor, then Harrington is almost certain to be a mayoral candidate. He has been one of LaRaia's harshest critics and would certainly conduct a hard-hitting all-out campaign.

Almost certain to run, that is. Something could happen between now and the deadline for filing nomination papers to make him decide to seek re-election in Ward 6.

But right now, Harrington is weighing two choices: a bid for mayor or council at-large.

IF HARRINGTON gives up his Ward 6 seat, businessman Walter Hickey who made an impressive bid two years ago would have to be considered a strong contender.

Two bonnets could also go into the ring: One belonging to Joanne Condon, president of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association and Mary Collins of Squantum.

MEANWHILE, Jerry Noble who has a West Quincy sporting goods store, is thinking of running for the Ward 3 City Council seat now occupied by John Lydon. He's the son of the late Vincent Noble who was one of Mayor LaRaia's key campaign workers. Young Noble says he's considering running because he believes "more can be done" for the ward.

AND THERE'S speculation that Stephen McGrath, one-time aide to former Atty. Gen. Robert Quinft and currently a student at Suffolk Law is giving serious thought to running for the Ward 3 seat now held by Warren Powers.

THAT NORTH END newspaper's articles on Quincy's political scene seem to be getting more ridiculous-and sloppier-each week. For example:

In its apparent haste in the latest saga to discredit The Patriot Ledger, it blames that newspaper for a story that actually appeared in The Quincy Sun.

That was the story about the reported shoving, shouting match between Mayor LaRaia and Councillor Leo Kelly.

The North End paper, blaming The Ledger, said the story was printed without checking the mayor's staff for accuracy.

The truth of the matter is that [1] the story appeared in The Sun, not the Ledger. [2] LaRaia himself was asked to comment on the report and was so quoted in the article. [3] after the story appeared, however, he complained to The Sun. He was offered the opportunity to give his complete version of the reported incident but declined to do so.

WHEN Russ Johnson of Merrymount was in Washington for President Carter's inaugural, he came within inches of the President. Seems Johnson was in a cab going to one of the inaugural balls when the cab and a limousine got stuck side by side in traffic. In the limousine, also heading for one of the balls were his two friends: the new President and First Lady. Because of Secret Servicemen, all they could do was to exchange waves.

FORMER Dist. Atty. George Burke also invited to the inaugural saw his second President take office. The first was Dwight Eisenhower when Burke was a Coast Guard cadet.

THEY'RE CALLING City Clerk John Gillis "Slim" these days. He has shed more than 50 pounds at a Diet Workshop in recent months. But won't say what he's down to. Really looks good.

LIVING TODAY

By Dr. William F. Knox

The World's A Banquet

"The world's a banquet and people are starving." Who said it first? I don't know ... but I believe it. I believe that there's enough of everything to meet human needs if we manage our resources sensibly. Our problem is the lack of human love ... greed ... selfishness.

I have observed this fall that on many days the temperature in my living room has been extremely high ... although the heater wasn't burning. The sun was beaming so warmly through the big glass windows that the room was heated ... Solar heat ... an untapped and unharvested source of energy. Solar heat is being utilized in some homes. It could be utilized much more broadly. Why isn't it? "The cost?" ... I am told. But we found the 50 billion dollars to carry on a war in Southeast Asia. How far would that have gone in research to have found new sources of energy. What is lacking is a primary concern for people.

I think the same applied to food. I have seen starving people by the thousands in my travels in India and around the world. Yet ... the waste in our nations is so great that it would feed millions of starving people. The problem isn't shortage of food ... it's shortage of human love for other human beings. The world's a banquet ... and people are starving.

I'm thinking also of the spiritual ... emotional starvation as well as the unmet physical mean: I've watched and worked with a young man who has had everything. Almost any man would have exchanged places with him ... lovely family ... good position ... good education ... beautiful wife ... three healthy children ... all the things that many people strive for a lifetime and fail to get. His situation was really a "banquet". But he wouldn't eat. He couldn't leave the bottle alone. Gradually he began to drink ... evenings at first ... then at lunch ... then through the afternoon. He began to miss work. Step by step he went down ... lost his family ... then his job ... all his property ... then his health. His wife warned him ... and warned him that he was destroying their relationship ... that she wouldn't go on living with his drunken violence. But he denied having a drink problem. Consequently he did nothing to overcome the disease. Now he's trying to recover what he's lost. He had a banquet but he's starving.

People starve themselves when they don't love themselves ... deprive themselves of love relationships with others. Love frees ... selfishness imprisons the human soul.

THE READER SPEAKS OUT

He Scored The Winning Point For Trojans

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Recently, Mr. Warren Corbett sent me a clipping from The Quincy Sun entitled "Quincy's Yesterdays - Nov. 25 - Dec. 1, 1928 - 48 Years Ago This Week". One of the feature stories in this clipping was the 7 to 6 Victory by the Trojans over the Wanderers on Thanksgiving Day, 1928.

The story was correct in every detail including the lineups, the touchdown by "Huck" Histman for the Wanderers and the intercepted pass by "Ebby" Collagay for the Trojan touchdown, but was conspicuous by one glaring omission. The author of this story had failed to relate the most important part of all, which was the difference in the score. This was the one point margin that spelled victory for the Trojans, defeat for the Wanderers and how this point was scored.

The point in question, the point after the Trojan touchdown was scored by myself on a forward pass from "Bub" Waish into the north end zone. Just as I caught the football I was thrown into the cinder track from a tackle by Histman but managed to hold onto the ball. The track is out of bounds but the referee ruled that I was inbounds when the ball was caught, thus, sweet victory.

This is not a letter of protest but merely to complete a story that had only been partially told. Warren asked me to write it to you so I am complying with his request.

Prisoner Seeking Mail

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

My name is, Drake A. Davis, and I would sincerely appreciate a few moments of your valuable time to read my letter.

Sir, I realize what I'm about to request may not be your policy. However, being incarcerated here at London Correctional Institution, without friends to relate and exchange thoughts and ideas with has left me at a complete standstill - all alone, with much misery.

Sir, it is very depressing to find yourself all alone without friends, and especially being in prison where you are forced each day to witness others receive mail while you are left with none. Loneliness in any position [most emphatically my own] is almost unbearable. The experience has to be felt to be understood.

In a desperate attempt to emerge from this eternally morbid-pit on a mental level I have written you this letter in an attempt to reorient myself to the outside world, and to manifest myself in a more honest and productive manner to someone, anyone.

Sir, I sincerely hope you will be kind enough to publish my letter in your newspaper.

Thank you very much for at least the time spent reading this.

North Dakota Under Construction At Fore River Shipyard

The annual report of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. for 1907 showed cash receipts of $5.3 million and a work force that averaged 3,340 men.

Under construction at the yard in Quincy Point were the battleship North Dakota, the scout cruisers Birmingham and Salem and seven submarines.

Francis T. Bowles was re-elected president and Frederic C. Dumaine vice president by company stockholders.

Meanwhile, cracks noted in the ground at the shipyard near the new blacksmith shop were associated by some with recent earth tremors that struck New England.

But Prof. Jagger of MIT discounted the theory.

"These cracks in the ground are to be expected at this time of year after a cold snap," he said. "They are due to frost and are like what occurs when a pond cracks and thunders when freezing."

GRANITE STRIKE LOOMS

President Miller of the Granite Manufacturers Association said it was unlikely that demands by the Granite Cutters Union for a 7 per cent wage hike could be met by the March 1 deadline.

A strike was feared by both sides.

The Granite Cutters also were seeking to limit the number of apprentices to one for every four quarrymen and an end to the open shop in the industry.

ASSESSOR FIRED

Mayor William T. Shea fired Charles H. Johnson from the Board of Assessors after he refused to resign "for the good of the service." Johnson, who had held the job for eight years under three mayors, called the ouster political and consulted his attorney, Asa French.

John A. Duggan, 25, an Atlantic lawyer and real estate man and member of the School Committee, was named to succeed Johnson.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

OSHA And Noise Control

If you found yourself too far out on a limb, you'd probably crawl back to the safety of the trunk. In the same position, however, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration would undoubtedly recommend building a new tree under the outer end of the limb.

That's the impression you're left with after reviewing OSHA's proposed noise control regulations.

At issue is how best to protect workers' hearing from noisy machinery.

Employers want to use a hearing-conservation program built around ear plugs or special ear muffs (like hi-fi headphones), at a cost of $42 per worker per year.

OSHA wants to redesign or cover up noisy machinery, at a cost of $8 billion, or $267,000 per worker benefited. And that's just OSHA's estimate of the cost, which was reached by "revising" the work of its own consultants until the figure looked low enough. Industry experts believe true costs would be many times higher.

OSHA's first study, done in 1974, put the cost of machinery redesign at $31.6 billion, to achieve noise levels no higher than 85 dBA (about as noisy as a busy urban street corner.)

The same consulting firm that conducted the first study for OSHA did another, in 1975. The economic impact figures were still embarrassing, so the study was resubmitted to the consultant for "revision." After "revision", the cost figure was $18.5 billion for an 85 dBA limit, or $10.5 billion for an easier-to-meet, 90 dBA limit. And, interestingly enough, much less was said about the effect on inflation and unemployment.

OSHA then reasoned that since it had proclaimed a 90 dBA limit in 1971, it could be assumed industry has already absorbed the $10.5 billion cost of that. Therefore, moving to an 85 dBA limit would cost only an extra $8 billion [$18.5 billion minus $10.5 billion.] Thus, the $10.5 billion this excessive program is already costing industry was conveniently dropped out of the total cost figure.

In other words, it doesn't matter to OSHA what costs are in the real world, as long as they can be made to look low enough on paper.

Through cross-examination during OSHA's hearing on the proposed regulations, it was learned that OSHA's consultant used old data on some of the industrial sites it claimed to have visited in the course of its studies, and made off-the-cuff estimates of the noise level in those plants it did visit. That is, noise levels were estimated without the benefit of scientific measuring instruments—a notoriously unreliable procedure because the human ear is easy to fool.

In another instance, this consultant selected an arbitrary figure as the "cost" of noise-proofing machinery that cannot-at the present state of technology—be made to operate quietly. In fact, the consultant's witness admitted his cost figures were often based on "intuition."

Under the circumstances, it's easy to see why OSHA has refused to provide documentation for all of its claims, even after the National Chamber filed a formal Freedom of Information Act request for it.

Noise control is important. Continued exposure to high levels of noise can cause permanent loss of hearing in susceptible individuals. But how on earth can an expenditure of $267,000 per worker be justified when adequate protection is available for $42?

OSHA is up a tree trying to fabricate a convincing answer to that one.

Creedon Chairman Superintendents Special Committee On Basic Skills

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon has been asked to serve as chairman of a blue ribbon committee on basic skills formed by the Massachusetts Association of School Superintendents.

Dr. Robert P. Fox, president of MASS, said Dr. Creedon's appointment "recognizes the high regard in which he is held in the field and the experiences of the Quincy school system which he can bring to bear in chairing the basic skills committee."

A key part of the committee's task will be to give school superintendents "a baseline to move forward consistently throughout the state" in teaching the basic skills, Dr. Fox said.

Results of the committee's investigation into the teaching of basic skills will be a "white" paper to be presented to the 450 members of MASS for their comments.

"Contrary to some popular opinion, school systems have not stopped teaching children how to read, write and spell," Dr. Creedon said.

"What many people seem to forget are the ever increasing duties forced on school systems by the state — such as feeding children breakfast and lunch, caring for the special requirements of handicapped children, and taking affirmative action to correct inequalities between boys' and girls' athletic programs.

"Our major task will be to identify how schools can better monitor and protect the integrity of their basic skills programs, as they have ever-increasing duties."

Other administrators on the committee include Dudley Supt. John F. Canavan; Hamilton Supt. William Fisher; Chatham Supt. Paul M. Mitchum; Attleboro Asst. Supt. Bart O'Connor; Westborough Asst. Supt. Roger Thurston; and Barre Supt. Corridon Trask.

Library Receives $5,000 Grant To Aid Blind

The Thomas Crane Library has received a $5,000 grant from the LSCA Special Grant Program and the Massachusetts Bureau of Library Extension.

The grant will be used to start a Library-Volunteer Recording Center to record materials for the legally blind, not available elsewhere. The materials include "talking books".

Resources currently available to visually impaired persons are often neither timely nor specialized enough for the specific needs of the individual. In an effort to remedy this, money has been made available to the library to determine the information needs of this area and to produce quality tapes which will supplement materials available from other sources.

Anyone wishing more information, or wanting to volunteer, or to make suggestions concerning material to be recorded should contact Ann Aronson, Adult Services Supervisor [471-2400].

Adams Shore Association Studying Hunting School Closing Possibility

The Adams Shore Community Association has formed a committee to review recommendations and suggestions by more than 100 parents at meeting held earlier this week to discuss the possible closing of the N. S. Hunting School.

The neighborhood elementary school was one of three elementary schools recently named by School Superintendent Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon with enrollments below 250 pupils which might be closed as early as next fall.

Other schools named were the Cranch and Great Hill

Schools.

Recommendations reviewed by the committee will be given to the school committee later.

According to Dr. Creedon, enrollment at the Hunting School is 149. But a new figure of 153, plus 40 head-start pupils was introduced at the meeting, for a total enrollment of 193 pupils.

Dr. Creedon said a study currently underway suggests an elementary school with an enrollment under 250 pupils is an inefficient operation.

He indicated, however, that any school closing would require careful study.

Dr. Creedon Commends Tarabelli For Survival, Inc. Work

Kenneth Tarabelli, executive director of Survival, Inc., has been commended by School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon for making Survival a "more vibrant social agency."

Dr. Creedon, who is retiring from his second term as president of Survival, observed that Tarabelli's performance has "exceeded that of any of his three predecessors."

"In the past year that we have worked together, I have come to respect your ability, dedication and hard work. You not only have demonstrated a commitment to the goals of Survival, but also have shown a sensitivity to the needs of the young people serviced by the organization," Dr. Creedon wrote in a letter to Mr. Tarabelli.

"In addition, you have exhibited a keen business sense and a willingness to act in a strong leadership position when the situation so required. Survival today is a more vibrant social service agency due to your association with it and I would like to thank and commend you for your contribution", Dr. Creedon wrote.

Cost Of Living Improves But Still Has A Long Way To Go

By Philip J. Lawrence, President
Colonial Federal Savings

and Loan Association
of Quincy, Holbrook & Wareham
8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

It is gratifying to note that a steady decline in the Consumer Price Index [which measures the cost of living] has taken place since December 1974. In that month, the index recorded a shocking increase of 12.2 percent in the cost of living above its level a year earlier.

Throughout 1975 the index reflected a gradual tapering off from 11.7 percent in January to 7.0 percent in December. The declining trend continued at slower pace in 1976 from 6.8 percent in January to 5.6 percent in August.

Another cause for gratification is the report from the U.S. Department of Agriculture that disposable personal income rose at a higher pace in the first half of 1976 than did expenditures for food. In fact, the percentage of disposable personal income allocated to food expenditures declined for the fourth consecutive quarter since mid-year 1975.

With more moderate rises in food prices, the rate of increase in food expenditures has slowed in comparison to the three previous years, according to the U.S.D.A.

Lest we get complacent about inflation, we should realize that a 6 percent annual increase in the cost of living is not "moderate", as some economists would have you believe. Not, certainly, if you take an historical look at the monetary picture.

In the 18 years from 1948 through 1965, the annual rate of inflation, excluding the Korean War years of 1950 and 1951, was 3 percent or less. In 13 of those 18 years, the cost of living gains were less than 2 percent, in six of them less than one percent. Two years actually recorded declines of 1.8 and 0.5 percent in living costs.

Retired people can cope with rises such as these in the cost of living. But a 6 percent annual rate of inflation means that a person retiring with a monthly income of $500 will need $650, even without compounding, in five years to buy what $500 purchased at retirement.

Anyone, therefore, who tells you that a 6 percent annual rate of inflation is "normal" and can be coped with is insensitive to an increasing percentage of this nation's people who must survive on fixed retirement incomes.

Morrissey Opposes 3 Comfort Stations At Wollaston Beach

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey [D-Quincy] has expressed his opposition to the MDC's plans to build three comfort stations on Wollaston Beach.

Morrissey met recently with MDC engineers to look over the master plan for the Quincy Shore Drive area.

The MDC plans comfort stations on the beach at Rice Rd., Bayfield R., and across from the Beachcomber parking lot. They are scheduled to be completed in the fall.

An MDC substitution also is planned on the site of the old Kimberley's Restaurant between East and West Elm Aves.

Morrissey said he is all in favor of the substitution but not the comfort stations.

He said the MDC engineers expressed a willingness to meet with area residents to discuss the comfort station plans.

LaRaia Nominee For Housing Authority Runs Into Council Delay

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor LaRaia, wittingly or not, tossed a tiger into the ring with the City Council Monday night.

Her name is Ellen Nieters and she lives at 219 Taffrail Rd, Germantown, and even the City Council agreed that she was well-screened and well-qualified for a post on the Quincy Housing Authority.

But the Council refused to confirm her, nevertheless.

Instead, they set 5:30 p.m. Monday [Feb. 14] for a hearing by a special committee of the whole into her qualifications, and those of at least three other losing applicants for the job, with a confirmation vote promised for Feb. 22.

Mrs. Nieters, a blunt, outspoken mother of six and a longtime tenant advocate who has fought the QHA on rent increases and grievances, refused to play the role of supplicant before the Council.

At one point in the long, acrimonious debate she told the Council that all it needed was "a recess of 10 or 15 minutes to read and digest" a screening committee's report on her qualifications before taking an immediate vote.

"It won't take long," she told the Councilors, who declined her invitation.

Mrs. Nieters' sole defender on the Council was Paul D. Harold, who was accused by Council President Arthur H. Tobin of "playing to the audience" when his efforts to obtain quick confirmation was greeted with applause from the largely tenant crowd.

Harold even clashed with the usually placid City Clerk John Gillis over a ruling by the Council parliamentarian.

"I've been here 23 long years and I've never had a ruling questioned by a Councilor before," said Gillis angrily.

Mrs. Nieters' name was at the top of a list presented to the Mayor by a screening committee of four tenants, headed by James Miller of the Harborview Residents Committee. There were 12 names on the list, four of them "fully acceptable."

Mayor LaRaia said he chose Mrs. Nieters because "she was the top one selected."

"I've talked to her on several occasions," he said. "It's my analysis that she is very knowledgeable about public housing, exceptionally knowledgeable. I'm satisfied that she can step right in as a director without going through a learning process.

"Some people might say that she would be too much the tenants' representative. I don't believe that is so. I think that, if she is confirmed, the board will be extremely well balanced.

"There would be a lot of 3-2 votes, instead of unanimous or 4-1 votes. That's healthy. Mrs. Nieters is an aggressive person, no doubt about that."

LaRaia likened the Council's handling of Mrs. Nieters' appointment to the "U.S. Senate reviewing a candidate for the Supreme Court." The review took up so much of the Council's time that the meeting droned on until nearly 1 a.m. Tuesday.

"They could have cut it short by saying at the beginning that they were not going to approve the appointment then and there," he said. "It would have been much easier on everyone.

"It appears that there are other people they would rather see on the board than a representative of the tenants."

"Maybe they think I'm a little too outrageous," said Mrs. Nieters. "People have told me that I'm an activist. There's nothing wrong with being an activist until you open your mouth. Then they think you're a lunatic.

"It could be part of the political struggle. I'm not political. I don't belong to anybody. I've never had any trouble with Arthur [Tobin]. I don't know what's wrong with him.

"I'm very disturbed about what happened to my people. I'm floored that the screening committee picked me. They did it right. They did it impartially. They did not deal in personalities. That's all this city seems to do is deal in personalities."

She said she thought Mayor LaRaia was committed to choose among the top three on the list.

"Joe LaRaia decided to go with their top choice, probably to play it safe because I'm that qualified. The only thing he was concerned about was who would slide through the Council the easiest and you can't blame him."

Mrs. Nieters said she thought the Council "was unhappy with the screening process because it got Corea out," a reference to the Rev. Peter Corea, whose term on the Housing Authority expires Feb. 26. Mrs. Nieters would fill the vacancy.

Rev. Mr. Corea was on the list of 12 but the screening committee described him as "totally unacceptable."

The City Council denied that it had any complaint with the screening process or with the people who conducted the screening or even with the choice of Mrs. Nieters for the post.

Their chief gripe appeared to be that they had received the report of the screening committee in a packet of 33 pages just before the start of the meeting and had not had time to review Mrs. Nieters' qualifications.

"I'd like some time to evaluate the report so that I can vote intelligently," said Councilor Warren E. Powers. "We're not obligated to rush into this thing."

LET HOUSE CUT TAX BILL

Your home should be, besides your nest of dreams, an income tax saver. From the moment you take title to the day you turn over the key to the next inhabitants, you are endowed with opportunities to minimize your tax bill.

While you own the home, your two major annual deductions are property taxes and the interest on the mortgage. These can be considerable deductions.

Keep in mind that it doesn't matter whether you pay property taxes directly or through an escrow account held by the bank. In either case, you deduct the sum actually paid to the local taxing authority.

Also, using part of your home for business purposes constitutes a deduction for that portion of the home expenses used for the business. It is based on the square footage of space used for business.

Thinking of selling your home?

Quincy At Newton, North Hosts Weymouth S.

This has been another outstanding year for the Quincy High basketball team, which again became an early qualifier for the Eastern Mass. tournament.

However, the Presidents seem doomed to the role of bridesmaid to Rindge Tech in the Suburban League for the second year in a row following their second loss to the champs, 71-64, last Friday at the Rindge gym.

The loss dropped Quincy to 11-2 in the league and 13-2 overall. Rindge remains undefeated.

Friday, Quincy plays at Newton and Tuesday hosts Cambridge Latin at Vo-Tech gym. Both games start at 8.

Quincy turned in another gallant effort against Rindge and nearly pulled out a win despite losing 6-6 ace Jack Uhlar and Ed Callahan on fouls.

Just as they did in the first game, the Presidents hopped away to an early 10-2 lead and this time stayed in front until midway in the third period. Quincy led, 31-25, at the half but Rindge came back to go ahead, 47-44, after three periods.

Quincy tied it at 59 with 3:25 left but Rindge then came on strong to win it.

Uhlar scored 17 points, Mike Lamie had 15 and Ed Daley and Callahan 12 apiece.

Due to an apparent misunderstanding, there were no Quincy students at the game.

Quincy officials maintain that Rindge Athletic Director Ed Culhane suggested no Quincy students attend because of the fear of possible disturbances. Rindge coach Tim Mahoney, however, said Culhane made no such recommendation but suggested all Quincy fans should get off the buses and go into the gym in a group.

North Quincy swept its series with Cambridge Latin, 77-56, Friday, to improve its league record to 6-8 and its overall mark to 7-8.

Friday, the Raiders will host Weymouth South at Vo-Tech gym at 8 and Tuesday will play at Rindge Tech at 3:30.

John White had 18 points against Latin, 16 in the first half. Keith Lindberg and Dan Cuddy had 14 each and Mike Gill had 10.

Earlier in the week, Quincy Coach Joe Amoroso admitted he "picked up a nervous breakdown" as Quincy staggered to a 57-54 win over Brookline.

Uhlar picked up three early fouls and fouled out early in the fourth period after scoring only nine points. Daley fouled out in the third period; Lamie, who had 13 points went ice cold shooting, and Callahan suffered a bruised foot early in the game.

Lyle Morrison came to the rescue and bailed the Presidents out with 15 points and four-for-four from the foul line down the stretch when Brookline was threatening seriously. Amoroso lauded Morrison, Mike Kennedy and Ken Ames.

North Quincy, which had lost to Brockton in overtime, gained revenge by nipping the Boxers, 69-66 in OT.

Brockton's Paul Martin scored at the buzzer to send the game into OT after North had missed some foul shots which could have won it in regulation time.

Jim McGinley sank two foul shots with 35 seconds left in the extra period to give the Raiders a 67-66 edge, then scored from closeup to clinch it.

Cuddy had 21 points, White 18, Lindberg and McGinley 12 each.

Quincy Bay Race Week July 20-24 This Year

Quincy Bay Race Week 1977 will be held from Wednesday, July 20, through the 24th.

The event has been pushed ahead so as not to interfere with the different classes holding their own special events in August and also not to conflict with Marblehead Race Week.

In past years QBRW conflicted with these events and attendance was down drastically. QBRW officials hope that classes holding annual meetings this month will consider the Quincy dates.

The Mass. Bay Inter Club Race Committee recently met and the members are of the opinion that a central starting area would be the answer to a lack of attendance during past years.

How to work it out will be decided at a general meeting of the class representatives and the Race Week chairmen

Cross Country Skiers On Norfolk County Slopes

The effect of the 1976 Winter Olympics in Innsbruck, Austria, is being felt in Quincy in the winter of 1977.

Cross country skiers, taking part in an Olympic sport popularized on television, have been turning out in droves on the 95 acres of the Norfolk County Recreational Facility, the old Wollaston Golf Course.

"This is the first year we've really noticed the cross country skiers," said Richard J. Koch, who is chairman of the Wollaston Recreational Advisory Board that supervises the facility.

Two natural ice surfaces in the area are also popular.

They are the three-acre rink at the corner of West Squantum St. and Granite Ave., West Quincy, and the smaller one adjacent to the facility's clubhouse. Sledding and tobogganing are also popular on the course.

Independent But Considerate

Q. I was born on September 24, 1903 at 4:00 A.M. in Brookline, Mass. and would be interested in your analysis of my horoscope.

A. A horoscope calculated for that time shows the planet Venus in the First House in the Sign of the Zodiac Virgo and this usually indicates one with a fine sense of what is right and proper. Little pleasantries and nice things can make a deep impression upon you which you are apt to remember with warm feelings for sometime.

Those born with Venus Rising on the Ascendant, are likely to have a dimple located in the cheeks, on the chin or visible some where on the face when smiling.

Your Sun and Mercury were in Libra; the Moon in Scorpio; Mars and Uranus were in Sagittarius; Saturn in Aquarius; Jupiter in Pisces; Pluto in Gemini and Neptune was in Cancer. These indicate an excellent mentality. While you try to be fair and considerate in dealing with others, you think for yourself and are not likely to submit easily to the control of your thoughts or the activities by others.

You are inclined to be broad minded, possess progressive ideas [Mercury in Favorable Aspect to Uranus] and you apply these in practical and useful ways [Virgo Ascendant]. When you are over active physically or when you generalize instead of paying attention to details, you try to move faster than you should and show poor judgement.

"Mind Power" is important to you. You are apt to be interested in the intellectual development of others as well as having respect for your own mental awareness. You are capable of serious contemplation, can concentrate on objectives and practice self-restraint.

For questions to be answered through this column mail the year, month, day of the month, city of birth, time of day if known and question to Ask Oscar, Box 114, Canton, Mass. 02021. Please sign your name which will not be published. Selected questions can only be answered in this column.

Small Bird To Make Boston Garden Debut With Ice Follies

Move over, Big Bird, because Small Bird is coming to town.

That is the latest word among the characters of Sesame Street these days as the 41st edition of Ice Follies heads for two weeks of 24 performances at the newly renovated Boston Garden, starting Tuesday, Feb. 15.

Small Bird [shown above with big brother, Big Bird, and Follies star Karen Kresge] is the newest member of the Sesame Street Muppets with Ice Follies. He will make his Boston area debut at the Garden along with popular and familiar friends like Big Bird, Cookie Monster, Grover, Bert and Ernie.

In addition to the area debut of Small Bird, the Sesame Street gang will do their own colorful parody of Ice Follies itself. Cookie Monster will be doing his version of Richard Dwyer's "Mr. Debonair" and the rest of his pals will put on a Muppets' rendition of the famous Ice Follies chorus line routine.

This year's Ice Follies engagement at the Garden is the only New England appearance of the show outside of New Haven, Conn. Tickets are on sale now at the new Garden Box Office, all Ticketron outlets, and can now be charged by phone [742-0200] to your Bank Americard or Master Charge account.

Special group sales are also available by calling 227-3206. The show will run from

Second Edition Demand

'Due Process' Rights For Students Booklet Being Updated

By TOM HENSHAW

A booklet first published in 1973 has proven to be in such demand that the Quincy School Department is bringing out a new and updated second edition.

It's titled "Student Rights and Responsibilities".

It spells out in detail for school kids the same rights that are granted to the rest of us under the 14th Amendment to the Constitution — the so-called "due process" amendment.

Due process for students was approved by the School Committee in the fall of 1973 after a decade of often riotous nationwide challenge to the arbitrary authority exercised by school officials.

Right now the School Committee is considering recommendations by a committee of principals that would tighten up a few of the due process procedures in the light of the past three years' worth of new court findings.

In Quincy, due process for students charged with violations ranging from smoking and malicious mischief to arson and assault and battery takes the form of a hearing before a hearing officer with the right of appeal from an adverse decision.

The hearing officer is an assistant principal or the dean of men or women and the three-member appeal board is composed of a student, an administrator and a teacher. The accused may have legal representation.

The procedure is used quite often.

In the first quarter of the 1976-77 school year, 370 formal hearings were held on the high school level. None of the accused asked to bring a lawyer along. And since 1973, only one of those suspended has appealed.

"It has been going quite smoothly," says Arthur S. Woodward, coordinator of secondary education who oversees the process. "But it is time-consuming and taxing on the personnel. The hours of preparation and hearings have created a lot more work."

"It's worth the effort," says School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, who has evidently been asked the question before since he has a ready answer.

"The school is a microcosm of a democratic society and environment. The young should see due process of law being followed in the schools. There are additional burdens but it is consistent with what this nation is all about."

Landmark decisions by the Supreme Court in due process for students involve cases growing out of suspensions for racial disturbances in an Ohio school and the spiking of the punch at a school function by the home economics class in an Arkansas high school.

In the Ohio case, the Court ruled that education is a "property interest" protected by the Constitution and, in the Arkansas case, it was decided that school officials can be held liable for damages for depriving students of their rights.

"Our due process procedures are more demanding than the Supreme Court requires," says Woodward. "And Lloyd Hill, assistant principal of North Quincy High, who is also a lawyer, has been appointed to keep abreast of the latest court decisions."

"Recently, a subcommittee of secondary principals and assistants has looked at our due process procedures and recommended changes to make them more workable, consistent with the latest rulings."

"For instance, the Supreme Court has ruled that a principal can suspend a student without a hearing under certain conditions."

As a result, the next edition of "Student Rights and Responsibilities" will contain the clause:

"The school official, in charge, shall have the authority to immediately remove from school a student who poses a continuing danger to persons or property or an ongoing threat of disruption to the education process. The necessary notice and hearing shall follow as soon as possible."

Woodward notes that there is "a more conservative trend now in interpretation of the 14th Amendment."

The basic rules of due process in Quincy are these:

"When the infraction is of such serious nature that the penalty of suspension may be imposed, the student shall be informed that there will be a hearing on his case."

"The notice of the hearing will inform the student of the infraction, of his right to be represented by an attorney, and the time and place of the hearing."

"Separate and apart from notifying the student, the parent[s] or legal guardian[s] shall be informed of the date, time and place of the hearing." The actual hearing is similar to a court of law.

"First the teacher or administrator calling for the suspension shall put forth his case. Secondly, the aggrieved party, or his representative, shall put forth his case."

"There shall be no provision for rebuttal or contradiction of statements by either party during these presentations."

"The hearing officer will ask questions and call for points of clarification. He will then permit opportunity for informal questions and statements of clarification by each party."

The hearing officer may recommend no penalty at all or he may recommend an approach to the problem other than suspension but in no case will the suspension exceed five days.

A SERIOUS Jerry Lewis reads story of "Little Boy Blue" written by Quincy Sun Publisher Henry Bosworth [right] in 1957 when a Boston Traveler reporter, that resulted in more than 500,000 pieces of mail, gifts and money, for a lonely muscular dystrophy patient at Lakeville Hospital. As a result of Bosworth's story, Lewis staged a closed circuit TV show to the boy on his ninth birthday. The show was the forerunner of the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon which raises millions of dollars each year to fight the incurable disease. Lewis and Bosworth got together at Children's Hospital recently where the comedian dedicated a Muscular Dystrophy clinic.

GOOD HI-FI SYSTEMS DO NOT COMETH CHEAP

Fortunately, great ones sometimes can be put together relatively inexpensively. We at the Quincy Tech Hi-fi store are offering a $299 system that rivals many systems selling for a good deal more. The key to the system is the truly astonishing performance of the Advent/3 speakers - displaying the accurate, widerange sound that the name "Advent" is synonymous with. The Technics 5060 AM/FM receiver provides plenty of power for the Advents [12 watts RMS/ch.] and has a VERY sensitive and clean-sounding FM section. The precision-made Garrard 440m has a Pickering magnetic cartridge which takes fine care of your records, just like Tech Hi-fi's six point warranty program [printed on the back of your sales slip] takes great care of your Hi-fi investment.

To hear this system and any other fine components, visit us at 464 Washington St., [corner of the Souther Artery] any weekday from 11 a.m. - 9 p.m., and Saturday from 11 - 6. Wants World Peace

Japanese Exchange Student Finds 'Marvelous Experience' In Quincy

By POLLY DREDGE

Since her "marvelous experience" with Quincy people, Quincy High School's Japanese exchange student Madoka Etoh has decided to do something, for world peace, "no matter how small."

She says: "I was moved deeply when I found people helped me—not because they expected something from me—but simply because they wanted me to be happy, and my happiness made them happy at the same time. This discovery has made me decide to do something, no matter how small, for world-wide peace to share this marvelous experience of love with all the people in the world."

"My hometown, Funabashi, Chiba, is very similar to Quincy," she says. "It is a fairly big suburb of Tokyo and has its own industry. They have iron and food factories and merchandising there."

"I have one younger brother, Ejii, who loves McDonald's shakes, Dairy Queen ice cream, and Shaker's pizza. Though many people won't believe it, we have those restaurants in Japan."

"Our daily life is not very different from the American life style: food, clothing and housing are getting closer and closer. Some people have been disappointed to see me, a Japanese girl, in regular clothes. But we hardly ever wear our native costume, the kimono."

"This year in Quincy will be a beautiful memory of my life as well as a source of courage to explore the future. I will come back to Quincy after this year to see the people again."

Madoka is living with Mr. and Mrs. Carlisle Jacob of 118 Presidents Lane, Quincy Center. Their daughter, Wendy Jacob, was an American Field Service exchange student a year ago last summer. She spent the summer in two parts of West Germany.

says Hospital Director Anthony DeFalco, it would first be used as a parking lot and then as a site for building expansion.

The plan has been under fire from the City Council since some Councilors feel that they have not been consulted adequately on building plans that could result in a multi-million dollar bond issue.

LaRaia, Finn Fight For Police Control In Court Feb. 22

By TOM HENSHAW

The fight between Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia and Police Chief Francis X. Finn for control of the Quincy Police Department reaches a climax Tuesday [Feb. 22] when the chief's bid for a preliminary injunction against the Mayor is heard in Norfolk Superior Court.

"Irreparable harm may very likely occur if I am to follow the orders of Mayor LaRaia," said Finn in his motion for the injunction.

"This is a plan to handcuff my authority as mayor," said LaRaia through his press secretary, Jean Umana.

The Mayor himself was unavailable for direct comment as The Sun went to press. Miss Umana said he was tied up in conference.

Chief Finn obtained a restraining order last Friday ordering Mayor LaRaia to cease and desist from:

- "Making any order with respect to the divulging of records or information regarding the records of the City of Quincy Department of Police.

- "Making any order regarding the suspension of the plaintiff [Finn]."

Tuesday three more items were added to the list, preventing the Mayor from:

- "Making any order regarding transfer of officers within the City of Quincy Department of Police."

- "Making any order regarding duty assignments for officers within the Department of Police."

- "Making any order with respect to the divulging of information obtained by undercover agents or police informants."

Chief Finn declined to comment on his legal maneuvers and so did his attorney, Martin S. Cosgrove, who did say that "the thing has gotten too much publicity anyway."

The chief obtained a temporary restraining order Saturday preventing Mayor LaRaia from examining police department records or suspending Finn from his post. Attempts by City Solicitor Thomas F. Williams to have the order lifted were rebuffed.

The case erupted Friday [Feb. 11] when the Mayor demanded an immediate written statement from Finn regarding

Ellen Neiters Confirmation Hung Up

Council Feels Seniors Should Have More Say In QHA Appointment

"I don't see why the City Council can't act on this," said James F. Miller Jr. after the Council, acting as a special committee, held a hearing Monday night into the appointment of Mrs. Ellen Neiters to the Quincy Housing Authority.

Miller, who lives at 54 Yardarm Lane, Germantown, was chairman of a screening committee set up by Harborview Residents Committee to examine the qualifications of candidates for the post held by Rev. Dr. Peter Corea until Feb. 26.

"Mrs. Neiters has gone through a process that no candidate for a city position has gone through before," he said.

"She has gone through our screening process which was intensive and honest. Now she has gone through the committee screening process which never existed before."

"There is no reason why they can't agree that she's a qualified candidate."

But the Council, it appeared during the 3½ hour hearing, was not hung up on Mrs. Neiters' qualifications.

They were more interested in why the senior citizens who live in the buildings administered by the QHA were not given a more active role in screening prospective candidates for the opening on the authority.

'Options Abused'

Student Privileges Cut Back Sharply

Quincy school authorities have cut back sharply on student privileges because, says Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, some students "have abused the options" that have been open to them when they were not in class.

Previously, students at the high schools were permitted to go to a resource center or the student lounge or take elective "mini-courses" at those times when they were not scheduled into classrooms.

"We gave it a try for four or five years," says Dr. Creedon. "We were disappointed. Enough high school students abused the option to make student accountability difficult."

"In September, we eliminated the options and scheduled the students back into compulsory study halls."

Creedon said the problems growing out of the options were particularly strong at Quincy High School, which is near Quincy Center, the Junior College and the Thomas Crane Public Library, which is used as a resource center.

"Kids going off the school grounds were a particular problem at Quincy High," he said. "They mix with the Junior College population and it is hard to tell who is who. We are responsible for their whereabouts during the school day."

"We had to eliminate the abuses but we would like to reinstitute the resource centers."

Many resource centers are specialized study halls presided over by teachers with special skills where students can go for help in certain subjects.

"It is difficult to go to a study hall to study math and find a foreign language teacher who is no help," said Dr. Creedon.

"We had to go all the way back to the beginning in the rules but I hope we will be able to work it out and make the options available again to selected students."

Penalties for violations are different at the high schools with Quincy using a demerit system leading to a disciplinary review board.

"We have also reinstituted detention halls with volunteer teachers as monitors for flagrant violators in both high schools," says Dr. Creedon.

Public Hearing March 1 On Hospital Expansion Rezoning

The Quincy Planning Board will hold a public hearing March 1 at 7:30 p.m. in the City Council Chamber to consider a proposed zoning change on Whitwell St. that would clear the way for future expansion of City Hospital.

The land, currently owned by the city, would be changed from Residence A to Residence C and,

Feb. 28 Deadline For Chamber Awards Nominations

South Shore Chamber of Commerce President Charles A. Pearce reminds area residents, and business people, the deadline for nominations for the Chamber's first annual Leadership Awards is Feb. 28.

Nominations for the three awards will be accepted up to the close of business on that day.

"You are asked," Pearce said, "to name those individuals whom you believe best represent the qualities of leadership in three fields: Citizenship, Legislation and Business."

Presentation of the awards will be made at the Chamber's annual meeting Friday, March 18, at the Lantana in Randolph. The awards are:

- * South Shore Legislator of the Year
- * South Shore Citizen of the Year
- * South Shore Businessperson of the Year

Pearce said hundreds of nominations already have arrived, but he urged broader participation by all residents of the South Shore area.

"We want the selections to be made by the largest possible number of persons," he said, "and representing all sectors of the region's communities."

"We at the Chamber are committed to building a 'sense of community' and we believe it is our role and function to recognize those individuals who are providing leadership in South Shore communities."

Nomination forms can be obtained at the Chamber offices, 36 Miller Stile Road, Quincy, 02169.

Chamber Legislative Workshop To Explore S.S. Area Issues

Issues of concern to the area south of Boston will be explored in depth at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce sixth annual State Legislative Workshop Friday, Feb. 25, at the Sheraton Tara, Braintree.

Twenty-three legislators, representing districts in Norfolk, Plymouth and Suffolk Counties, will be seated at a breakfast beginning at 7:44 a.m., to enable participants to exchange ideas and express opinions with the lawmakers at a personal level.

Following the meal, the legislators will move to the center platform to field questions from those present. Among other things, the lawmakers are expected to be asked about property tax relief, state energy policies, transportation, creation of new jobs and the attitude of the Legislature toward improvement of the business climate of Massachusetts.

Legislators expected to attend the workshop are:

Senators Arthur H. Tobin, Quincy; Allan R. McKinnon, Weymouth; Anna P. Buckley, Brockton; Joseph F. Timilty, Mattapan and Joseph B. Walsh, Dorchester.

Representatives Robert A. Cerasoli, Thomas F. Brownell, Michael W. Morrissey, James A. Sheets, all of Quincy; Mark Fitzsimmons and Robert B. Ambler, Weymouth; Elizabeth N. Bids Due Feb. 24 On Rock Island Cove Work

Bids are due Feb. 24 for work on an MDC-owned roadway that provides access from the Rock Island Cove area to Sea St. in Houghs Neck, announces MDC Commissioner John F. Snedeker.

The work plan calls for replacing an existing wooden guard rail with a steel beam and repaving the roadway in Kilby St. along the sewer embankment and partially down the slope toward Rhoda St.

City Councillor Leo J. Kelly recently complained to Snedeker of the "deplorable condition" of the roadway, causing hazardous driving conditions for motorists in the area of the MDC's Braintree-Weymouth pumping station.

Atty. Fred Liss Hospital Patient

Atty. Frederick Liss of 26 Ridgeway Drive, Quincy, is a patient in Intensive Care at University Hospital in Boston, after suffering head injuries in a fall down stairs last week.

A founding citizen in Germantown, General Joseph Palmer strived for industrial development and founded one of the country's earliest glassworks.

Kelly made his recommendations for the park in a letter to Heritage Society president, Harold S. Crowley. Kelly also recommended the development of community garden plots by senior citizens and Quincy youth.

Elaine McGrail, 77 Shed St., has agreed to assist in such a project if it is implemented.

'Store-On-Wheels' For Seniors, Handicapped Makes Debut

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia announces a new concept in shopping for Quincy seniors, handicapped and others.

A "Store-on-Wheels", conceived primarily to benefit Quincy's elderly citizens, but also the handicapped, infirm, or others who find travelling to supermarkets a great inconvenience. Commercially, it will be known as Dar-Mi's Mobile Market. Previously, the council on the aging, which will supervise the operation of the store, has provided free transportation to individuals who experience difficulty getting to and from supermarkets. However, the store-to-door will more efficiently service shoppers.

"This is a relatively new idea and Quincy is one of the first communities to take advantage of it," said Mayor LaRaia.

"It is a non-profit effort intended to benefit primarily our senior citizens, but we will welcome everyone's patronage and hope for their support," he said.

Gerald Cipriano, builder of the 27-foot long, 8-foot wide vehicle will manage, maintain, and procure goods for the supermarket. Some profits will be channelled to the mayor's charity fund.

Prices will be competitive with those of other supermarkets, with the exception of a five per cent discount offered to senior citizens.

The store will provide everything other supermarkets provide, except for frozen goods and meats.

"Initially, there will be one mobile market," said Cipriano, "but we hope to eventually expand to seven vehicles."

The Store-on-Wheels will circulate throughout Quincy on a regular route.

Monday, the mayor was

I signed up right away. Now my check goes straight into my N.O.W. checking account every month. I earn 5% interest, and I never have to worry that my check will be lost or delayed. So thanks, Quincy Savings. Thank you very much."

Today's Women

200 Attend Workshops

Assertiveness, Career Guidance, Legal Rights Top Women Interest

By KAREN WEBBER

Assertiveness training, career guidance, and women's legal rights proved to be important topics to 200 women in the Quincy area, when the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College held its Open House last Sunday.

These subjects were the basis for the three most popular workshops held during the Open House.

The program for the Open House included a half-hour introduction to the Women's Center, a variety of one hour workshops, and a refreshment and social hour. Literature was provided by many organizations in the Quincy area.

Opening remarks in the student lounge started the program. The audience was welcomed by Jean Sullivan, Advisor to Women at Quincy Junior College, Pam Spring and Christina Morrison, co-chairmen of the Open House. Dr. Edward Pierce, President of Quincy Junior College, Alicia Coletti, Director of the Women's Center, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon, and School Committeewoman Patricia Toland.

Participants in the Open House could attend two of eight workshops which were run simultaneously and repeated once during the afternoon.

The Assertiveness Training Workshop was lead by Jody Shapiro of Goddard College.

"To be assertive is to be able to respect your own feelings and also to respect the feelings of others," Miss Shapiro said. "The goal of assertiveness is to communicate your feelings."

Jane Ford, chairman of the South Shore Women's Political Caucus, led the Career Guidance Workshop. Mrs. Ford used an article on "How to Find More Time For Yourself" adapted from the Alan Lakein Plan as a basis for her discussion.

This plan says establishing priorities and spending 15 minutes a day on projects in connection with them are essential to reaching your goals. Mrs. Ford cited self-doubt, resistance to change and unrealistic expectations as reasons for failing to reach goals and offered suggestions to overcome these barriers.

Women's Legal Rights, a workshop conducted by Attys. Ruth Paven and Susan Doucette and lobbyist Susan Slater, was a preview for similar workshops to be held all over Massachusetts. Included in the workshop was a resource kit prepared by the Civil Liberties Union explaining further legislation which will spell out specific applications for the Equal Rights Amendment.

Other workshops held included:

The "Rewards of Volunteering" by Christina Morrison, Women's Commission and Anne Kane, League of Women Voters. "Women in Literature" by Anne Kautzmann, instructor at Quincy Junior College, "Women Returning to School" by Toby Felton, assistant to the President, Quincy Junior College, "Women Returning to Work" by Virginia Waller, chairman of the Secretarial Department Quincy Junior College, and "Questions From Senior Citizens" by Marion Andrews, director of Senior Citizen Activities and Kay Healey, Field Representative of the Social Security Administration.

Displaying material on health, voting, social security, and employment were the League of Women Voters, Quincy Family Planning, South Shore Women's Political Caucus, Quincy Public Library, Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, Quincy Junior College, Atlantic Neighborhood Center, Quincy Council on Aging, Quincy Community Action, and Division of Employment Security.

The Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Women's Center had information on an upcoming all day program, "Woman to Woman", to be held March 19 at Quincy Junior College.

A questionnaire by the Women's Center was circulated to find out what services people want most. Currently, the Women's Center is an information and referral center open between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays and 9 a.m. and noon on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Call 479-8445 for more information.

The Open House was made possible by a committee chaired by Christina Morrison and Pam Spring. Other committee members were Sheila de Bettencourt, Anne Kane, Ann Keating, Dorothy Manni, Marilyn McLaughlin and Rhonda Merrill.

GOOD HI-FI SYSTEMS DO NOT COMETH CHEAP

Fortunately, great ones sometimes can be put together relatively inexpensively. We at the Quincy Tech Hi-fi store are offering a $299 system that rivals many systems selling for a good deal more. The key to the system is the truly astonishing performance of the Advent/3 speakers - displaying the accurate, widerange sound that the name "Advent" is synonymous with. The Technics 5060 AM/FM receiver provides plenty of power for the Advents [12 watts RMS/ch.] and has a VERY sensitive and clean-sounding FM section. The precision-made Garrard 440m has a Pickering magnetic cartridge which takes fine care of your records, just like Tech Hi-fi's six point warranty program [printed on the back of your sales slip!] takes great care of your Hi-fi investment.

To hear this system and any other fine components, visit us at 464 Washington St., [corner of the Souther Artery] any weekday from 11 a.m. - 9 p.m., and Saturday from 11 - 6. Bring this Ad with you when you purchase this or any other complete component system from us, and we'll give you $10 off the regular selling price of any pair of head phones in stock. Offer expires February 19.

Van For Handicapped Children, Seniors Gets Initial Approval

Handicapped South Shore children and senior citizens may soon have a new, specially equipped van for transportation according to Senator Arthur H. Tobin.

Tobin, who also serves as a director of the Quincy based Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc., reports that the non-profit agency's proposal for the new van had received initial approval by the state's Executive Office of Transportation and Construction.

The application for funding along with the Transportation office's recommendation will be sent to the Federal Urban Mass.

Transit Authority for acceptance. If accepted, the Federal Government will provide 80 percent of the van's estimated $12,500 purchase price.

The organization's proposal calls for a specially equipped van which would be utilized to provide transportation for handicapped children under three years of age who are attending the Infant Stimulation Program sponsored by the Cerebral Palsy group.

Transportation for handicapped Senior Citizens and retarded individuals would also be provided, if the van grant is approved.

Tobin said that although the funding process is a long and complicated one, the Executive Office of Transportation and Construction's initial approval was a vital and necessary step.

Smyth Supports Bill To Deter Theft Of Cemetery Metal Ornaments

City Cemetery Supt. J. Vincent Smyth, supports a bill filed by Rep. M. Joseph Manning [D-Milton] requiring foundries to notify police before melting or altering certain pieces of metals.

The bill would require all foundries and junk dealers to "notify in writing the chief of police in the respective city or town prior to the melting or altering the size or shape of such material concerning the number and description of all plaques, monuments, memorials, vases and gutter spouts presented to them.

"Prior to the melting or altering thereof, the police chief shall cause to have made an inspection of such material and make a record of all such material. Foundries and junk dealers not complying with the notification procedure of this section shall be punished by a fine not to exceed $1,000."

"This positive action should prove to be a deterrent to those who desecrate holy and sacred grounds and places of historical heritage," Smyth said.

LOCAL RESIDENTS participating recently in the Search For Christian Maturity at CYO Headquarters, Wollaston, were Ken Borden, Anita Horne, John O'Brien and James Pettinelli of St. John's Parish in Quincy.

Keohane's In Golden Rule Order For 13th Consecutive Year

Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., has been accepted for membership in the International Order of the Golden Rule for the 13th consecutive year.

Announcement was made by Executive Director Dale L. Rollings.

The Order is the world's largest limited-membership organization for funeral directors. Before being admitted, a firm must be recommended by families it has served and by other professional people in the area. To remain affiliated, a firm must requalify annually.

"Over the years," Rollings said, "the Order has become a more and more professional group. There are now nearly 1,300 members throughout the world, and the knowledge and experience they share make them uniquely able to serve their respective communities."

Rollings pointed out that regional meetings and an international conference are held each year to offer members sources of new information relative to the profession.

"Our entire concept of what is 'relative to the profession' has changed in recent years," Rollings said. "With the growth of thanatology, grief therapy, and other fields of study in the universities, we are able to obtain speakers with new and valuable things to say. The emphasis is now placed upon making funeral service truly helpful and meaningful to the survivors, to those who are left behind and must go on."

Continuous research is conducted at the Order's home office, and information is made available to members through newspapers and newsletters.

"Our continuing goal," Rollings said, "is to work with our members for the improvement of the profession and the benefit of the families they serve."

"PEOPLE HELPING PEOPLE"

Bill Could Bring Quincy Hospital

$3 Million For Welfare

Patient Reimbursement

A bill is pending before the legislature that could bring up to $3 million in state funds to Quincy City Hospital to make up for the Dukakis Administration's refusal to reimburse for general welfare patients.

The bill would mandate that the state return to the cities and towns that operate municipal hospitals a sum of money equal to 15 per cent of the annual appropriations for operating expenses.

It was filed by Sen. Arthur H. Tobin and Rep. James A. Sheets [both D-Quincy] and City Councilor Dennis E. Harrington, who is chairman of the Council's Public Health and Hospital Committee.

"This would mean $2-3 million annually for the city of Quincy to offset revenues lost to the Hospital by the refusal of the state to pay any further general relief payments and loss of federal funds because of the lack of an extended care facility at the Hospital and bed utilization," said Sheets.

"If this bill is not passed into law it is possible that as much as $2 million or more will have to be made up by an increase in the property tax."

Hearing On Brownell's

Nut Island Plant Bill

A committee hearing was held Tuesday in the State House on Rep. Thomas F. Brownell's bill to prohibit land fill operations at the Nut Island Sewerage Treatment Plant in Houghs Neck.

Current plans by the MDC call for converting the Nut Island facility into a secondary treatment plant which would mean that 28 acres of water surrounding the existing building would have to be filled in.

"The citizens of Quincy have voiced their overwhelming opposition to any plan that involves substantial land fill of Quincy Bay," said Brownell. "My bill, if it becomes law, will be a guarantee that this will not happen."

Historic District Commission Confirmed

Seven full-time and seven alternate members of the Quincy Historic District Commission have been confirmed by the City Council. They are:

A Hatchet Job

The hatchet job on Mayor Joseph LaRaia's opponents, critics and the Quincy press continues from Boston's North End.

Whether you believe what the Post-Gazette is peddling in Quincy, is up to you.

But if you have read any of it and have a sense of fair play, one thing stands out loud and clear: the articles have been all one-sided—Mayor LaRaia's side.

Everyone else gets editorially butchered. But the mayor emerges week after week as Mr. Good Guy and everyone else Mr. Bad Guy. One man is always right and everyone else is always wrong. Not a single word detrimental to the Mayor has appeared in the articles. Nothing about appointees being arrested on charges of extortion, larceny, etc.

Strange?

Not so when it is quite evident the Post-Gazette didn't just happen to pluck the series out of thin air. The series was planted—or at least the seeds were.

The fact is that Mayor LaRaia himself went to the office of that newspaper in the company of his press aide and furnished information for the series.

It would be fair to assume that the mayor certainly presented HIS version of what is going on politically in Quincy.

And it would be just as fair to assume he wasn't in there to toss bouquets in the direction of James McIntyre, Arthur Tobin, Walter Hannon, James Sheets, etc., etc. — all of whom coincidentally have been attacked in the articles.

Now, the mayor of Quincy has all the right in the world to sit down and pour out his problems to a newsmen. But when that newsmen accepts everything he is told as gospel fact without even attempting to hear the other side, then the result, in our book, is a hatchet job.

Since the series started, we have pointed out the glaring lop-sidedness of the articles, all of which are tailor-made to benefit the mayor and damage anyone else who opposes or criticizes him.

And apparently that message has finally hit home because in its latest article the Post-Gazette tries to worm around that guilty point by asking if Tobin, Hannon and McIntyre [get this] "have been struck mute?" can none of them write to this newspaper? can one master the simple skill required in dialing a phone?

The Post-Gazette seems to have a talent for getting things backwards. The reporter is supposed to contact the other side and do it BEFORE he writes an article. Any high school journalism class can tell you that.

And just whom would they contact at that paper anyway?

The series until now has carried the by-line "Joe Alfano." And maybe now is the time to ask: "Will the real Joe Alfano please stand up?"

The reporter Mayor LaRaia huddled with in the Post Gazette office was not named Joe Alfano. The closest to it is the first letter of the first name.

Incidentally, the latest article carries an editor's note: "Reporter Joe Alfano is ill, so his continuing series on Quincy this week is covered by his investigative side-kick Kevin Connolly."

"Joe" took ill since our last reply when we started putting quotes around his name. So now we have his sidekick picking up the trusty hatchet and playing "Joe's Song".

Connolly wants to know how come the opposition doesn't write to his paper if they want their side told.

Would it really do any good? Even someone on neutral ground seems to have trouble getting a few words in that paper. For example, whatever happened to the letter sent to the Post-Gazette by Atty. Thomas Byrnes, counsel for Caradonna's newsstand in Quincy?

The letter was in response to the Gazette's accusation that Senator Tobin and two other councillors [not identified] had pressured Caradonna's newsstand to stop selling that paper.

Byrnes called the accusation "a complete fabrication" and demanded that the Post Gazette print the letter. We haven't seen it yet.

Interestingly, a brief letter criticizing the Post Gazette doesn't make print. But a several-page tirade against Councillor Dennis Harrington by Quincy Hospital Director Anthony DeFalco makes it, word for word. Harrington, coincidentally, has been one of LaRaia's severest critics.

Who's kidding whom?

Our lone accusation is that The Post Gazette is trying to pull off a hatchet job in Quincy. And actually, we don't have to prove it. The Post Gazette convicts itself.

The latest article also contends:

"Recently, the mayor had to resort to paid ads to get across to the voters of Quincy his responsible, money-saving efforts in the North Quincy High and central maintenance facility controversies."

The fact is that The Sun has carried in-depth newstories on both of those issues presenting the mayor's side and his comments.

But the Post Gazette's mention of paid ads reminds us: at least in The Sun, the reader knows where the paid ads end and the news stories begin.

"Joe Alfano," Kevin Connolly, Snuffy Smith or anyone else can write all they want but when you get down to the final line, it still smacks of a hatchet job.

In a two-column Page One box in the latest issue, the Post-Gazette finds it necessary to defend itself regarding its Quincy articles:

"This newspaper was founded 81 years ago and committed—then and now—to the search for truth and justice."

Someone should send them a compass.

LaRaia, Finn Fight For Police Control Goes To Court Feb. 22

the alleged involvement of three police officers in a bookmaking operation.

Lt. David F. Rowell, head of the Organized Crime Unit in the Police Department, refused to submit the report "since the information you are requesting is in the hands of Dist. Atty. William D. Delahunt, who has complete authority over the entire investigation." Delahunt also turned down the Mayor's request.

Saturday, Mayor LaRaia ordered Rowell removed from his post and transferred to uniformed street duty. He was replaced by Lt. William Murphy on Monday.

At the same time, it was learned that on Feb. 1, City Solicitor Williams had written to Finn requesting "the reports or all the worksheets" submitted by an undercover officer who had reportedly infiltrated organized crime.

It too was refused.

"The Mayor feels that like any other public servant a police officer is responsible to the citizens," explained Press Secretary Umana.

"The Mayor feels it is his obligation and privilege to determine whether those activities are legitimate."

In his motion for a preliminary injunction, Chief Finn said he began the action "because I was unsure as to certain duties, responsibilities and authority of myself and Mayor LaRaia in the light of relevant statutes, case law and experience as Chief of Police prior to the taking of office by Mr. LaRaia."

"Maximum efficiency has been made impossible without the resolution of such issues."

"Within the past week, Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia has made requests to me to divulge information relevant to certain highly secretive investigations being made by the Department of Police."

"Mayor LaRaia has, in particular, made requests as to information to certain officers within the Department who have been the subject of investigation."

"Additionally, Mayor LaRaia has issued a directive as to the position within the Department and duties of an officer presently engaged in such investigations."

"It is my opinion, as Chief of the Department of Police, that such officer should be retained in his position as Special Services Unit Investigator, in order to efficiently pursue the investigations with which he is familiar; and in order to have his expertise available for further investigations."

"Mayor LaRaia has also requested divulgence of information available to the police only through informants."

"Additionally, Joseph J. LaRaia has requested that I turn over to him reports of undercover agents on sensitive investigations."

"The effectiveness of the Police Department depends on the police officers, as well as police informants, being able to rely on the confidentiality of their information and reports."

"Irreparable harm may very likely occur if I am to follow the orders of Mayor LaRaia."

"No perceivable harm will occur if I do not follow the orders of the Mayor."

Mayor LaRaia responded to the restraining order obtained by Chief Finn on Saturday by calling a hasty Sunday night news conference in which he accused Finn of "using the power structure of the law to obstruct justice."

He also indicated that the investigation into the bookmaking operation may have been pressed less than enthusiastically by Finn because "it involves a political figure," whom he declined to name.

The Mayor's Statement On Police Dept. Battle

The Mayor's Statement follows:

"I have received information this week which indicates to me the possibility of a cover-up of an investigation regarding illegal activities of three Quincy police officers."

"When I attempted to investigate the matter by requesting access to information regarding these activities, a restraining order was sought by Chief of Police Francis X. Finn and issued by Judge Vincent Brogna ordering me to desist and refrain from seeking information regarding all records of the Quincy Police Department and preventing me from suspending Chief Finn."

"The events leading up to this are as follows:

"Questions were addressed to me this Wednesday [Feb. 9] by members of the police force as to what action had been taken by the Chief regarding alleged bookmaking activities of three officers discovered well over one year ago."

"Lt. David Rowell of the Investigating Unit was summoned to my office whereupon he verified that there is sufficient information for possible indictments of at least one individual involved. City Solicitor Thomas Williams was present at this meeting."

"When questioned, Chief Finn informed me that this case was an on-going investigation and that release of this information had to come from the office of Dist. Atty. William Delahunt."

"Thursday, I requested and received a written report from Lt. Rowell at which time he repeated that permission to obtain information had to proceed from the District Attorney's office."

"After futile attempts to contact Chief Finn, I became aware of a restraining order late Friday evening by a local news reporter which arrived at my home Saturday morning."

"The Chief, Lt. Rowell and I met late that morning at which time I ordered Chief Finn to reassign the lieutenant and to replace him with another officer of his choice."

Tocchio Returns To Duty, Goes On 3-Week Vacation

Patrolman John Tochio, suspended for five days last week during an investigation of an alleged shortage of some $25,000 from the Quincy Police Department Association accounts, has been returned to duty and gone on vacation.

Jean Umana, the Mayor's press secretary, said that Tocchio, who is president of the QPBA, is taking three weeks of accumulated vacation time and then will be granted an indefinite leave of absence without pay.

"Patrolman Tochio requested this of Chief Finn and the Mayor concurred with it," said Ms. Umana. Tochio is Mayor LaRaia's cousin.

Morrissey Urges 'Go Slow' On New Courthouse

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey [D-Quincy] has urged Norfolk County to proceed slowly and thoughtfully in its plans for a $19.5 million new courthouse in Dedham.

"The project should be carefully examined to see if it meets the needs of Norfolk County before committing any state or federal monies," said Morrissey.

Morrissey recently attended a meeting with Norfolk County

Commissioner's, legislators and residents to discuss the proposed plan.

The county commissioners are asking $1.3 million to get the project off the ground.

The five-day suspension without pay was to have lasted until the Mayor could set up a hearing under the Civil Service law. But no hearing was set and Ms. Umana indicated that there may not be a hearing.

"There is no need for a hearing because he is not in uniform," she said.

Some fears were expressed at the meeting about possible land takings and traffic problems that might be created by construction of a new courthouse.

In his racing career, Man o' War won 20 out of 21 starts and broke five track records.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS By Tom Henshaw

Strike Of 13,000 Shipyard Workers Enters Third Week

A strike of some 13,000 workers at the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Fore River Shipyard entered its third week with Quincy and the South Shore beginning to feel the pinch of the loss of a $2 million weekly payroll.

Mayor Amelia Della Chiesa asked the state to reimburse Quincy for its share of money paid to veterans during the strike, payments which amounted to $15,696 between Feb. 5 and Feb. 17.

The Shipbuilding Workers Union informed the U.S. Navy it would not permit its members to do any work whatsoever on the $35 million cruiser Springfield, which was 95 per cent completed at the Yard.

The Navy had asked the union for its help in moving the missile cruiser from Fore River to the Boston Navy Yard for completion.

ANDERSON ASSAILS CRITICS

City Councillor Carl W. Anderson responded testily to critics on the School Committee, who called him a frustrated school committeeman.

"They still have not answered my main question," he said. "Why can't they make more than 30 per cent of their high school graduates eligible for college when they are spending $6 million a year?"

MAYOR OPTIMISTIC ON TAX RATE

Mayor Della Chiesa reported that Quincy Could handle the proposed "West of the Tracks" project and absorb an expected $215,000 increase in MDC sewer assessments and still lower the tax rate and the city's bonded debt.

His figures indicated a $73.42 tax rate for 1960, down 58 cents from the previous year.

The Mayor said, however, that if the strike at the Fore River Shipyard continued much longer the rise in welfare and veterans' aid payments could boost the rate well above the 1959 level.

Council Feels Seniors Should Have More Say In QHA Appointment

"The problem is," said Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi, "that the screening process wasn't widespread enough. They ignored a good part of the population that resides in public housing."

"There is some question in my mind whether their screening process truly represented the public housing tenants or just a certain faction of them."

And the Council also appeared to feel that naming Mrs. Nieters who is a tenant herself, to the QHA would give tenants a 3-2 majority on the five member board.

"I think the Councillors are looking at it with a sense of fairness and balance," said Councillor John J. Quinn, who chaired the special committee.

"The Housing Authority needs a balance of thinking on it."

"I don't want to see it stacked one way or the other in favor of the tenants or in favor of the taxpayers. You need somebody there to represent the taxpayers, the guy who is going to be paying all these bills."

Mrs. Rosemary Wahlberg, who was named to the authority by the state as the tenants' representative and who lived in public housing for 19 years, and Alphonse [Pop] Papile, a resident of senior citizens housing, both are members of the authority.

Miller said he was upset by charges that senior citizens were not represented on the screening committee.

"The Harborview Residents Committee is the citywide organization representing the tenants," he said. "We have seats open for the senior citizens to fill if they want to participate."

"They withdrew from our organization in 1973, saying that they didn't want to participate because they felt we weren't going the way they wanted us to go, I guess. They won't let us represent them."

Miller said the seniors were invited to take part in the screening process "so they could go back to their own individual groups and give them the information we had about the individual candidates."

"The seniors were involved if they wanted to be and I don't see why the Council is questioning that," he added.

Miller said it was more or less incidental that a tenant was placed at the top of the list by the screening committee.

"We weren't looking for a tenant," he said. "What we were doing was finding someone who is qualified."

"Mrs. Wahlberg was not a tenant when she was appointed, although she was a tenant at one time. Pop Papile is a senior citizen tenant."

"If they want to talk about getting a tenant on the authority it's a different story from someone who is qualified."

"Irregardless of where you come from, if you're qualified to serve you should be serving."

Quinn said he didn't think that the senior citizens had adequate notice of the hearings by the screening committee.

"They evidently were given only a few days notice," he said.

"I think the older people feel that the younger people are trying to dominate things and that the younger people's problems are not the older people's problems."

"The others are involved with schools, recreation and that sort of thing. The seniors are more concerned with food and health."

Raymondi said he received a letter from Bertram Campbell, who he said represented 1,000 or 1,200 senior citizens, and Campbell told him the seniors heard about the screening committee two days before its meeting was held.

He said they were told that "you can come down and observe the process but you won't have any official intake or any vote."

"It was Mr. Miller's opinion that Harborview did not represent senior citizens because they have their own organization but that is not the issue," Raymondi said. "The issue is that they were ignored in the process itself."

Miller said he feels the dispute will be settled in one of two ways.

"Either they will honestly conduct a vote on the confirmation," he said, "or they'll just get involved in politics and try to attack the process [of the screening committee]."

"In that case, God only knows who's going to be the next member of the Housing Authority."

The hearing was recessed until 7 p.m. Tuesday [Feb. 22], a half hour before the next meeting of the City Council.

Historical Society Releasing Wollaston Expedition Research Results

The Quincy Historical Society is now releasing the results of its six-year research project on the Wollaston Expedition that resulted in the first settlement here.

At a meeting to be held at the Society's Adams Academy Building Saturday, at 4 p.m., H.

Hobart Holly, historian of the Society will discuss the research project, and reveal some of the new facts that have been discovered about Captain Wollaston and his expedition. The meeting is open to the public. The full report is being published in "The American Neptune". The Society will shortly have reprints available.

This is considered a most significant addition to the understanding of early Quincy history that has come forth in many years. It is also seen as an "enlightening story" on the European activities in very early New England.

Absent from the tour were Ann Marie Smith and Diane Drobia.

Also in attendance were younger brothers and sisters: Daniel, Matthew, Mary, Philip Jenkins; Karen Miller, Robert and Paula Sullivan, and John Rodophele.

Troop Leader Mrs. M. Jean Jenkins, and assistants Mrs. Eileen Miller, Mrs. Patricia Rodophele, Mrs. Pauline Sullivan, Mrs. Roseann DeBeneditto, and Mrs. Kay Bent, accompanied the scouts on their tour.

The girls attend several different schools in Wollaston and their visit to The Quincy Sun will help them earn their "My Community Badge."

The girls first visited the editorial and advertising departments of The Quincy Sun.

They then toured the production department where they saw the story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer system. They also saw newstories being set on the CompuWriter Junior.

After seeing news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine, they watched photographs being reduced and screened for publication by an Agfa Gervat Repromaster camera in The Sun's new camera department.

The scouts watched a paste-up artist fix their story and headline into proper position on paste-up boards.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed, the girls asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office, each scout received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

The First Test

The Massachusetts Legislature is facing one of its first tests. The Big Issue of the Day is the Boston Charter Petition now being heard by the Local Affairs Committee. A slim majority of the Boston delegation and the House Leadership are supporting the bill. Strong lobbying efforts are underway by both opponents and proponents of the Charter. The Local Affairs Committee has only limited powers to make technical changes to the Charter which will completely change the face of Boston's government. If you wish to oppose or support the Charter, please feel free to call me.

Last week the Legislature had a roll call on a bill that would require County Officials to post all job vacancies for at least 30 days in advance. The bill passed 160 for to 80 against. I voted for the bill.

The Committee on Governmental Regulations is hearing bills on Casino gambling. The Committee on Health Care is hearing testimony on a bill [H-651] that will require nurses to return to school for refresher courses. The Committee on Public Safety heard testimony on a bill I filed, which would allow motorists to make a right turn on a red light. There is no word as yet as to the outcome of the bill.

The Committee on Insurance heard testimony yesterday on another bill I filed, that would do away with under 25 auto insurance. The bill would require all insurance companies to charge all drivers on a merit basis.

The Committee on Counties is now hearing testimony on two bills that would allow the construction of a new $19.5 million Norfolk County Superior Court House. Counties is also hearing testimony on a bill that would allow the construction of a $4.5 million addition to the Norfolk County Agricultural School.

There is still no word on the Blue Laws and the future of binding arbitration.

If anyone has any feelings on any of the above pieces of legislation or any other bills, please don't hesitate to call me at 328-4900 or 327-7035.

LOWEST RATE OF INFANT MORTALITY

In 1974, some 90,000 more boys were born than girls. While the number of male births has exceeded that of females for many years, most population experts prefer not to refer to this preponderance of boys as a trend.

Statistical shifts notwithstanding, the good news to the happy parents of an infant is a baby's chance of survival in the United States are better than ever before.

Government figures reveal a dramatic drop in the nation's infant mortality rate, from about 60 deaths per 1,000 live births in the early '30s to less than a third of that toll today, or 17.7 per 1,000-the lowest annual rate ever recorded for the nation.

Responsible for the lower death rate among infants as well as small children are improved medical and sanitary conditions, advances in prenatal and postnatal care and the reduction of birth defects through comprehensive maternity and infant care provided by public and private health programs in recent years.

Still another little thing that makes us big:

The drive-up teller at our main office. The big reason Dave Martin comes to Quincy Savings is the interest we pay him on his regular savings account - 5.25%, compounded daily for an effective annual yield of 5.47%.

But Dave says there are a few little things we do that matter almost as much. One of them's convenience. For Dave that means five offices in Quincy and one in Hanover. Saturday hours from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at our five branch offices. And Plus 24, our round-the-clock automatic teller.

For Dave, however, the biggest little thing is the extra-hours drive-up teller at our main office. Why? "Because I get a chance to show off my new car. Which I bought with a loan from Quincy Savings."

Glad to help you get the wheels to drive up to our drive-up window, Dave.

Quincy Co-operative Acquires Land For Hanover Expansion

Acquisition of 46,000 square feet of land adjacent to its Hanover branch is announced by The Quincy Co-operative Bank.

The property was bought by the bank for future expansion of its rapidly growing facility in Hanover.

The stores on the property were recently razed and the site cleared, but final grading and beautification will be delayed until the weather improves. Present for the demolition start were Bank President John R. Herbert, Administrative Vice President Francis J. Mitchell, Senior Vice President and Treasurer Ronald A. McKee, and Marketing Director Jeremiah Foley.

On the acquisition, Bank President Herbert said:

"We had an opportunity to purchase this sizable piece of property between our branch and the Cardinal Cushing Training Center, and we feel that our owning this property will give us two opportunities: to enlarge our present operation in Hanover, and to beautify the corner of Columbia Road and Washington Street. When spring comes we will be able to have the area landscaped. We feel this will be a major contribution to

CURIOSITY SEEKERS

If you intend to implant a "For Sale by Owner" sign in your front yard, be prepared for the inevitable "curiosity seekers". You'll probably spend more time tampering through the house with curiosity seekers than showing it to firm prospects.

Your "For Sale by Owner" sign leaves you open to all types of people and problems. For example, a visitor may present an offer to buy on which he doesn't intend to follow through. You may make plans based on accepting it, only to learn that the "prospect" had no intention of completing the agreement.

A Realtor has the experience to unmask the insincere offer and turn it away before it does any harm. In fact, the presence of a Realtor usually will discharge any attempts of that sort. He will qualify prospects in advance and allow only those who are definitely prospective buyers - not curiosity seekers - to inspect your home.

Quincy Matmen Defeat North

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy and North Quincy wrestling teams ended fantastic seasons Saturday night when the Presidents defeated the Raiders 26-17, before 1,000 fans at Vo-Tech gym.

This is only the third season of wrestling at the two schools but Carmen Mariano's Quincy grapplers finished with an amazing 19-1 record (6-1 in the Suburban League). North, under first year coach Vaughn Lovejoy, finished 15-6 (5-2 in the league).

Both teams will enter one wrestler in each weight class in the sectional tournament Friday and Saturday at Marshfield. Qualifiers will move on to the state championship tournament at Waltham Friday and Saturday, Feb. 25 and 26.

A highlight of the Quincy-North meet was the Presidents' Len Picot's win over North's Karl Knudsen in the heavyweight bout. It was Knudsen's only loss in two years.

Other Quincy winners were Dan Madden, 100 pounds; Gary Oriola, 140; Wayne Gardiner, 147; Joe Moran, 157 and Brian Kelly, 188. Winning for North were Ed Beck, 107; unbeaten Rich Schiarizzi, 114; Art Dorgan, 121 and Butch Montoya, 135. Tim Cahill of Quincy and North's Ed Hanrahan battled to a draw at 167 pounds.

North defeated Catholic Memorial, 36-27, for its 15th win, as the winners were Rich Donna, 100 pounds, and heavyweight Knudsen for forfeit; Andy Provost, 108; Schiarizzi, 115; Montoya, 135 and Ed Evanston, 158, by pins. John Minukas, 129 pounds.

Quincy topped Duxbury, 28-18, for win number 18. Winners were Madden, 101; Steve Notarangelo, 107; Jim Mullarkey, 122; Moran, 157; Kelly, 167, Tony Luongo, 188 and Picot, heavyweight.

Quincy's junior varsity won, 30-6.

North has done a particularly outstanding job, considering Lovejoy has one of the Suburban League's smallest squads, 19 men (Quincy has 35 and some schools even more).

"The smallness of the squad is compensated for by the type of young people wrestling," Lovejoy said.

Tri-Capt's Schiarizzi, Knudsen and Beck have been outstanding. Beck is undefeated over two years.

Also looking forward to the sectionals are Montoya, Dorgan, Brian Donaghue, Steve Ketches, Evans, Hanrahan and John McKillop.

Wrestling out of their weight classes throughout the season were John Minukas and Dan McGuigan, who had to contend with many unusual situations.

Donna pinned his man against Newton North for his first varsity win setting up a 28-28 tie to help Knudsen win the meet for the Raiders, 33-28.

Provost, an outstanding sophomore, won eight matches and Wayne Smith, Charlie Mathews and Chris Little, all juniors, have done a good job filling in for the varsity. Rounding out the squad are Frank Costa and James Kyranos, other juniors.

First-year coach Lovejoy is assisted by Art Fallon, the Raiders' coach the first two years, and Martin Sainsbury, a student teacher at North.

BABSON VIA QUINCY -- Ken Marsters, left, Jay Nelson, center, and Mike Cullen, right, all of Quincy, played last week when Babson upset favored Bryant by a score of 106-86. Marsters and Cullen are both juniors and guards. Nelson, a freshman, plays center. Marsters is co-captain and averages about 10 points per game, third highest scorer on the team. Cullen was an all-scholastic and an eastern Massachusetts all-star at Quincy High. Nelson was a suburban league all-star last year at North Quincy High.

Track North Eyes Class C Title

A year ago the North Quincy track team won the state Class B championship.

This year, due to a drop in enrollment, the Raiders were moved down to Class C and appear to have a good chance at another state title.

The finals will be held Saturday at Reading and Lou Tozzi's North team, following last week's trials, which included three finals, leads Class C with 14 points, one more than Fitchburg.

Mike Morin won the two-mile with his best time ever indoors, 9:43.6, and Mike Gallagher added valuable points with a fourth in the shot put.

Jerry MacKenzie in the 1000 and Bob Levenson in the mile qualified for Saturday's finals, each placing third in the trials.

"We have 39 teams in our division, and, with the wide spread of points, I feel we have a chance, especially if our relay team comes through," Tozzi said. The relay team includes Matty King, Tim O'Neil, Rich Kennedy and MacKenzie.

North had earlier finished the regular season with a win over Quincy. Tozzi's teams have never lost to Quincy in winter or spring track or cross country since joining the Suburban League. Tozzi paid tribute to his assistants, Jeff Strungis and George Liset.

In the Class A trials, Mark Buchanan gave Quincy its only points, placing fifth in the high jump.

In the recent Suburban League meet, North's MacKenzie was the lone Quincy or North winner as he broke the league record in the 1000 with a time of 2:20.8. Jerry is the defending state Class B 600 champion.

Another bright spot was the performance of Quincy's Mark Buchanan, who cleared six feet to finish second in the high jump. Buchanan has been jumping only about two months, making his performance all the more impressive.

North's Bob Levenson was second in the mile, Gallagher third in the shot with his best toss, 49-3; Sophomore Bob Ferrara fifth in the high jump with a 5-10 leap in his first year of competition. The Raiders' relay team of King, Kennedy, O'Neil and MacKenzie placed third.

Quincy Coach John Laverty, who lauded Buchanan, also had good words for Capt. Don Jones and Ken MacPhee.

Women's Candlepin Tourney To Open Feb. 27

The 22nd annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling Tourney, sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy, will open Sunday, Feb. 27, at noon, at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome, Wollaston Beach.

Applications are now available at the alleys and teams from organized women's candlepin bowling leagues are invited to participate. No "pickup teams" are allowed.

Leagues should submit their top five bowlers as of Feb. 15, to bowl in competition with the sixth and seventh bowlers in the standings listed as alternates. If one or more of the top five bowlers are unavailable, the league officials may choose down in the league standings for the complement of five bowlers and the alternates.

Bowlers participating must have bowled half the season thus far with their respective leagues and may only bowl for one tourney entry.

All matches are based on total pinfall in tourney play and teams must win each match to continue in competition.

The championship team will receive a $50 cash prize and each member will be awarded a trophy emblematic of the victory. Trophies will also be presented to the women scoring high tourney average, high three string total and high tourney single string.

The candlepin bowling competition, one of the oldest on the South Shore, was founded in 1956 by the Koch Club of Quincy with eight teams participating. Last year, 24 teams were involved with the Alley Cats the champions.

In the lowest scoring match of the afternoon St. Mark's VFW jumped off to a 19-pin first string lead, but Walsh's cut the lead to 10 pins at the end of two. However, St. Mark's got hot while Walsh's ran cold in the final to give the VFW the victory.

St. Mark's key scorer was Steve Cioffi with 377 while George Johnstone posted a 338 for the winners.

Walsh's top man was Jack O'Donnell with 345, followed by Ed Bryant's 335 in a losing cause.

The sponsoring Koch Club of Quincy will present the winning tourney team with a trophy emblematic of the championship and $100 while the runnerup team will receive a $25 consolation award.

Downtown Quincy: Where The Price Is Right And Service And Variety Are, Too

On a given day it is probably the most exciting half mile on the South Shore.

It begins at Dimmock St., where historic Wollaston has dissolved into Quincy, and runs the length of Hancock St., branching out into those little byways that are the delight of the earnest shopper and serendipitist alike.

Within its compact confines the widest possible variety of goods and services are available at prices designed to fit the broadest range of family budgets and pocketbooks.

It is called Downtown Quincy.

"Our people in Downtown Quincy offer one of the greatest selections of wares anywhere, plus easy access to their places of business and good customer service," says Charles Ryder, proprietor of Ryder's Curtain & Drape Shop and president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

"The business environment of Downtown Quincy is strong and healthy, which is a fine thing for businessman and customer alike," says Charles Pearce, president of the Quincy Savings Bank and the South Shore Chamber of Commerce. "We are encouraging new business for the convenience of the shopper."

Chances are you'll be coming to Downtown Quincy by car since most of America moves on rubber tired wheels.

For you, there is parking space for 7,000 automobiles in supervised lots and a three-storied parking garage located right in the heart of the shopping area within comfortable walking distance of most of the stores.

Spanking new cars of the MBTA's Red Line bring shoppers from Boston and bus lines connect Downtown Quincy to the southern suburbs such as Braintree, Weymouth, Hingham and Milton.

What is the attraction in Downtown Quincy?

First of all there are the retail establishments, ranging from large fashionable department stores with their wide assortment of goods to the smaller shops that specialize in such things as lamps, records, drapes, hockey pucks, the latest best sellers, even something for the pet cat, dog or canary.

There are restaurants where the hungry shopper can get anything from a full course meal of steak, lasagna or baked stuffed lobster to a quick tunafish on rye or a submarine sandwich [or hero or grinder, depending on where you're from]. Or perhaps it's just a place to rest aching shoppers' feet over a cup of coffee and a piece of homemade pastry or perhaps a glass of beer.

Doctors and lawyers [but, regretfully, no Indian chiefs] also are fixtures in Downtown Quincy and there may be more banks [no less than 11 of them] than in any other similar area in the country.

And for those who find leisure time on their hands, there is browsing in the book stores and thrift shops, a swim or a sauna at the YMCA or a stroll through America's past at one of Quincy's many historic sites.

The 150-year-old First Parish Church, where the two Presidents Adams are buried, and the Hancock Cemetery, dating back to Colonial times, are in the heart of Downtown Quincy and the Adams Birthplaces and their Mansion are only a few steps away.

Leaders among the merchants, business and professional people of Downtown Quincy are the 99 members of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

CHIEF FRANCIS FINN

"...no winner or loser in a thing like this."

In sporting terms, Mayor LaRaia and Police Chief Francis X. Finn came out of their legal duel in Norfolk Superior Court Tuesday with a draw -- advantage to Chief Finn and the District Attorney's office.

"I don't feel that there is a winner or a loser in a thing like this," said Chief Finn, who was granted an injunction preventing the Mayor from obtaining certain confidential information and making assignments in the Police Department.

"As far as I am concerned, the meat of the decision is in my favor," said Mayor LaRaia. "I have access to the records that I want, exclusive of matters under ongoing investigation."

"The District Attorney feels greatly vindicated and relieved on behalf of all the District Attorneys in the state," said Asst. Dist. Atty. Charles Hely. "This favorable decision sets a lasting precedent."

"It means that hereafter reports of ongoing investigations cannot be disclosed to a mayor or a selectman except in an unusual situation by special request to the court."

The immediate results of the modified injunction granted by Judge Vincent Brogna are these: Lt. David Rowell, head of the Quincy Police Special Services Unit who was reassigned to uniformed street duty by LaRaia when he refused to give the Mayor confidential information, may be returned to his old job.

"Lt. Rowell has been through a lot," said Chief Finn. "I am happy that he will be able to go back to his job but I want to talk to him about it first. Hopefully, we'll be able to get together very soon."

Mayor LaRaia will be given access to the records of the hearing and the punishment meted out to three Quincy police officers who were [Cont'd on Page 10]

New Fore River Bridge Needed But Where Is The Money Coming From?

A new Fore River Bridge is needed in the next 10 years but even those most closely involved in its planning have no idea where the money, probably around $35 million, is going to come from.

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce Bridge Replacement Action Team [BRAT] was told last week:

• The only federal source of funds would be the Federal Highway Administration and Massachusetts gets only $9-10 million a year to serve the whole state. Also, it is doubtful if the bridge would qualify for FHA money.

• A $349 million state bond issue approved last year has already been spent on highways and railroad bridges and a $500 million bond issue this year has been committed for similar projects over the next five years.

"The only way we're going to get the money is if the bridge gets knocked down," said George McCall, representative of Local 5, Shipbuilding Workers Union, on the team. "I don't want a tanker to hit the bridge but that may be the only way."

Should that happen, said Robert Horgan of the State Department of Public Works, there might be funds available under a federal disaster aid program known as the Truman-Hobbs Act.

The problem is that those who built the bridge back in 1934 did too good a job. It's still in excellent shape, but, in 10 years, it will be too small to permit future ships built at the General Dynamics Shipyard to pass through.

The Shipyard, now booming with contracts for 12 liquefied natural gas [LNG] tankers, employs 5,000 and, says GD spokesman Alex Piranian, "we'd like to get up to 8,000 in the next 10-12 years."

"If that number of jobs is going to go down the drain," said Horgan, winding up on an encouraging note, "then I'm sure [Cont'd on Page 10]

South Shore Bank Denies It Will Sell Main Office

By TOM BRADY

A spokesman for the South Shore Bank denies reports the bank is considering selling its 10-story central office building in Quincy Sq. to Norfolk County for use as a courthouse.

Eric Porter, vice president in charge of property for the bank, formerly the South Shore National Bank, told The Quincy Sun the bank is not interested in selling its building and that he had informed Geoffrey Davidson, of the Norfolk County District Attorney's office that the building was not for sale.

Porter said that Davidson had previously contacted him by telephone to attempt to set up such discussions and was informed that the building was not for sale.

The Patriot Ledger reported Tuesday that discussions have been carried on between Porter and Davidson concerning the sale and that county officials were planning to inspect the building to see if it was adaptable for courthouse use.

But Porter said he told Davidson, "Take a look. It's not going to do you any good, we don't want to sell the building."

He said no meetings had been held beyond Davidson's initial inquiry by telephone and that no meetings are planned for the future.

3,000 Apartment Complex

Plans Unveiled For $120 Million Squantum Project

Plans for development of the old Squantum Naval Air Station site call for a 3,000-apartment complex, complete with spaces for 4,531 cars, recreational facilities, a "boathel", and housing for the elderly.

The waterfront development would cost $120 million, all of it in private funds, and would be completed in three phases, each consisting of 3 1/2 to four years of construction, over a period of at least 10 years.

The proposal, outlined last week, has been presented to the Quincy Planning Board which has taken it under study to determine if the concept merits detailed consideration as a Planned Unit Development [PUD].

The development team consists of Carabetta Enterprises of Meriden, Conn., construction and management; Glaser/deCastro/Vitols of Boston, architects; and H. W. Moore Associates of Boston, engineering.

The complex will be built around the Boston Harbor Marina, with its skating rink and tennis courts, owned by Ron Courville, and oriented toward Dorchester Bay, possibly with commuter boats going to Boston.

The developers presented this picture of the facility that is to be called "Marina Landing":

It will have 3,000 new apartment dwellings, including 112 hotel rooms, 200 apartments for the elderly, 1,024 one-bedroom apartments, 1,631 two-bedroom apartments and 33 two-bedroom plus family room apartments.

The median rental probably would be $350 per unit.

The buildings, increasing in height as they go back from the water, would consist of wooden two- and three-story town houses, four-story duplex town houses, two- to seven-story continuous facade apartment buildings, and seven- to 10-story apartment buildings.

There would be a one-story nursing care facility able to handle 120 elderly persons, along with a 10-story apartment building for the senior citizens.

Some 1,860 automobiles could be parked on the site, with [Cont'd on Page 25]

Chamber Calls For 5-Year Freeze On Auto Emission Control

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce board of directors has called for a five-year freeze on the automobile emission control standards reached in 1976 for the hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide factors.

Charles A. Pearce, Chamber president, said that the National Academy of Sciences, the Environmental Protection Agency and Congress are reported recognizing that some current auto emission standards, and others that have been proposed, are impossible to meet.

"If we were to freeze the emission standards at the 1976 level," he said, "automobile manufacturers would have the opportunity to plan ahead, instead of being faced with constantly changing standards which add hundreds of dollars to the cost of each car and exact a penalty in gasoline consumption.

"Consumers will, in effect, be asked to pay more money for a car which will cost them more to operate. It's obvious that there will be an adverse impact on auto sales and a concurrent adverse effect on the nation's economy in general."

Pearce said that the Chamber's Energy Resources Committee, under the chairmanship of David Priestly of Boston Gas, has studied two current bills before Congress to amend emission laws.

The committee members, he said, have concluded that the Senate version is much more stringent than the one introduced in the House and will have a more negative impact on the economy.

"The House version," Pearce said, "is known as the Dingle/Broyhill Clean Air Act bill. We feel that support of this measure would be consistent with the policy position approved by the Chamber's Board of Directors."

In addition, he said, a study by the Chase Econometric Associates, Inc. estimates that unless the House measure is approved the loss in automobile sales could be nearly eight million units, and the loss in jobs to be 820,000 between 1980 and 1985.

CETA Youth Work Program Requests Summer Project Proposals

In anticipation of federal funds for summer jobs for youth, the Quincy CETA Youth Work Experience Program is issuing a request for project proposals.

All public and private non-profit agencies in the Quincy CETA area are encouraged to submit a plan for a summer work project which would provide full-time [30 hours per week] constructive work experiences to groups of young people ages 14-21.

Plans should outline the need for the service, number of employees required and the method by which the work will be completed. Project supervisors and youth wages will be provided by the Quincy CETA Program.

All projects concerned with community improvement and social services provision will be given priority consideration.

Ideas such as Drama groups to entertain the elderly, park construction and tutoring programs have already been proposed.

The summer youth program operates through July and August and serves the following cities and towns:

Braintree, Cohasset, Hingham, Holbrook, Hull, Milton, Norwell, Quincy, Randolph, Scituate and Weymouth.

The funding of any project is contingent upon the receipt of appropriate federal funds by the Quincy CETA Program.

All project outlines should be sent by March 15 to:

Program Manager, Youth Work Experience Program, Quincy CETA, 1073 Hancock St., Quincy, MA. 02169.

WE'RE OFFERING AN 8½% MORTGAGE.

BUY IT.

Ours is probably the lowest mortgage rate being offered by any bank on the South Shore. With no strings attached; all we ask is a minimum down payment of 20%.

If you can't manage that amount at this time, come in to Quincy Cooperative anyway.

We'll help you save for it. And you'll have the down payment sooner than you think.

Our low interest mortgage is in keeping with the spirit of Josiah Quincy, Jr., the man for whom our bank was named. He felt strongly that every family should have the opportunity to own its own home.

We agree 100%. That's why there's a mortgage here for you at 8½%.

And we're confident ...

JOSIAH WOULD HAVE LIKED THAT.

Women's Workshop's To Focus On Income Taxes And Credit

By MARY WEAVER

The second and third workshops in a series on women and money management sponsored by the Quincy Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Quincy Cooperative Bank have been scheduled.

"Taxes and How to File Your Income Tax Return" will be featured at the second workshop to be held Wednesday, March 2, at 7:30 p.m. at the Adams Shore Public Library.

A panel discussion will focus on the tax-related concerns of women from different life situations, including widows, single women, female heads of households, and married women. Such subjects as exemptions for children, benefits for surviving spouses, income credits, and business expenses will be covered.

Leading the discussion will be Nancy Traverso and Josephine McKay, tax specialists. Both women had seven years experience in tax preparation prior to forming their own business.

"Through this workshop, we hope to identify the most important aspects of income tax preparation and to help women file their returns in the most advantageous way," said Elizabeth Van Twuyver, chairwoman of the Commission's Women and Money Task Force.

The program is free and open to the public.

The third workshop - which will focus on credit, will be one of six workshops at the special Woman-to-Woman Day on March 19. This workshop will also include a panel discussion on all aspects of credit.

"Credit is a multi-faceted subject," said Miss Van Twuyver. "People are concerned about how to get credit, when to use it, and what one's legal rights are regarding credit. For this reason, our panel will include women speaking from three different points of view - banking, consumer, and legal."

According to her, the panelists will include: Jean Kelleher, mortgage department of Quincy Cooperative Bank who will speak on what credit is, and how to get and manage credit. Atty. Danielle deBenedictis, former assistant attorney general will discuss the legal aspects of credit, including the credit bill of rights and what to do if you have been discriminated against. Speaking from the consumer point of view will be Patricia Nurse from Consumer Credit Counseling who will talk about how to keep credit good and what happens if it goes bad.

This two-hour workshop will be held from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., March 19, at the Method Center, Quincy High School. Other workshops which will be held during the Woman-to-Woman day include: Career Workshop and Goal Setting, Services for the Rape Victim, The Job Search, Women as Entrepreneurs, and Resources for Battered Women.

Following the close of the program at 4 p.m., the Quincy Cooperative Bank will sponsor a social for participants at the Neighborhood Club. The Woman-to-Woman program is open to the public and free of charge. Additional information can be obtained from the Mayor's Office, City Hall or the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College.

GREASE BURN

You're taking a pan of bacon off the stove when you accidentally pour hot grease on your hand. The pain is tremendous. What should you do? Stick your hand in cold water. Have someone make up an icebag and keep your hand in that on the way to the hospital.

Butter, oil and burn ointments are no longer recommended for first aid treatments of burns. A doctor will have to remove these applications before he can treat the burn, and removal can be a slow and painful process.

Fast application of cold water is the best way to halt destruction of tissue in first or second degree burns. Just as a roast beef continues to cook inside after the oven is turned off, so the underlying layers of skin on your hand will continue to cook unless you take immediate steps to cool

it. The ice pack or ice water will do that job.

A medical journal published photos of a burn victim, four years after the accident. Her left arm [which was soaked in cold water] showed no scars. The right arm [which was not immersed in water] was completely scarred and disfigured - vivid proof that this first-aid works!

Several recognitions will be made to persons or organizations assisting The Quincy City Club in its charitable achievements.

Incorporated by the Secretary of States office on October 29, 1974, the Quincy City Club has been a community service oriented organization providing over $3,000 in project and donations.

Thayer Lists SSAT Schedule

The Secondary School Admission Test [SSAT] for students interested in applying to Thayer Academy will be given at the academy on Saturday mornings, March 5, April 16 and May 21.

Closing date for registration with the Educational Testing Service at Princeton, N.J. for the March 5 test is Feb. 11. To be sure of being considered for financial aid, applicants should plan to take this admission test March 5 and to submit the Parents Confidential Statement by the end of March. Assistant Headmaster Marshall Litchfield notes a change in the admissions pattern. Due to the number of students in present grade eight and grade nine classes a less than normal number of students will be accepted into grades nine and 10 for next fall. At this point it appears that a maximum of 25 new students will be accepted as freshmen for next fall and only 15 sophomores. Openings for only a few well qualified juniors will exist.

Time Getting Late For Mayoral Challengers

Don't look now, but isn't the time getting a little late for mayoral candidates?

February is about to say goodbye and there isn't one official candidate pumping hands on Hancock St.

Two years ago in comparison, Joseph LaRaia had announced his candidacy on Jan. 19.

Speculation was that Arthur Tobin would run but on April 17 he officially bowed out.

Then on May 18, incumbent Walter Hannon officially announced he would seek re-election to a third term.

This year there are a number of prospective candidates in the wings but none at center stage.

Two years ago, LaRaia tossed his hat into the ring early and immediately mounted a campaign that brought him an upset victory in November.

As the incumbent, LaRaia now has the time luxury in his favor. He can wait until nomination paper filing deadline to say he is or isn't a candidate. That's an incumbent's privilege.

But how long can a challenger wait to get going?

Tobin, because of the limelight he gets as City Council president in a bitter political year, probably can afford to wait awhile longer before announcing.

But if Tobin decides not to run, another candidate could find time against him: not enough of it to get an effective campaign rolling.

Possible candidates like, for example, James Sheets, Thomas Brownell or Dennis Harrington would need more time than Tobin to get a campaign into high gear.

Someone is going to have to make a move soon. It's later than they think.

DEPARTURE OF Atty. Joseph McParland as city labor negotiator, may be followed by others.

City Hall sources who knew Mayor LaRaia had the axe out for McParland -- and even the hour it would fall -- wouldn't be surprised to see two or three more going -- including an appointee or two of his own.

JOAN PICARD of Rogers St., West Quincy, is anxiously waiting for nomination papers to become available. She says she will definitely run for the School Committee. The 37-year-old mother of three Girdley Bryant School youngsters says she thinks the School Committee not only needs another woman on it but a mother with school age children. She's the daughter of City Purchasing Agent Agatha Deschenes, and owner of a nursery school. Her husband, Tom, is in the school department maintenance department. Word is that Joan already has her bumper stickers on order.

CITY COUNCILLOR Paul Harold is in Israel on a seven-day tour. Returns at the end of the week.

ON THE MEND: Charlie Kane, campaign manager for Rep. Michael Morrissey and a casualty of that election, is recuperating at his Warwick St., North Quincy home after surgery at St. Elizabeth's Hospital to remove torn cartilage from his right knee. He suffered the injury while campaigning door-to-door with Morrissey last fall. Charlie, who is active in Quincy Youth Hockey, too, now knows how Bobby Orr really feels.

DAN CUPID IS putting together a Quincy-Holbrook Beacon Hill "redistricting" of his own. Ron Kaufman, legislative aide to Rep. James Sheets [D-Quincy] and pretty Alison Card will wed June 25. She's the sister of Rep. Andrew Card [R-Holbrook] and a pre-law school student at Salem State.

involved in a bookmaking incident last year.

"The Mayor will not get the other information he requested," said City Solicitor Thomas F. Williams, "but he really does not want much more than this. All we are trying to get is accountability for the police officers on the job."

The preliminary injunction granted by Judge Brogna restrains Mayor LaRaia from:

"Making any orders regarding the suspension of the plaintiff [Chief Finn] for complying with the terms of this preliminary injunction.

"Making any order regarding transfer of officers within the City of Quincy Department of Police pending a final determination of the petition for a declaratory judgement.

"Making any order regarding duty assignments for officers within the Department of Police pending a final determination for declaratory judgement.

"Making any order with respect to divulgence of information obtained by undercover agents or police informants subject to a court determination, at the request of the defendant [Mayor LaRaia], that the disclosure of such information would not be prejudicial to effective law enforcement.

"The plaintiff [Finn] shall provide the defendant with verification to support the fact that an undercover agent is or has been working the hours for which he is or has been paid."

The preliminary injunction will last only until a declaratory judgement is handed down in Norfolk Superior Court, said City Solicitor Williams, who estimated that the action will take place within a month.

Terms of the injunction granted by Judge Brogna were modified considerably from those requested by Chief Finn.

A bid to prevent LaRaia from "making any order with respect to the divulgence of records or information regarding the records of the City of Quincy Department of Police" was denied.

As a result, records of the hearing and punishment of the three officers involved in the bookmaking case were delivered to the Mayor by Chief Finn at 4 p.m. Tuesday.

A request by Finn to halt LaRaia from "making any order regarding the suspension of the plaintiff [Finn]" was amended by adding the words "for complying with the terms of this preliminary injunction."

LaRaia acknowledged that "the Judge found in favor of the plaintiff but this does not indicate that in the future the Chief is not subject to suspension for failing to comply with legitimate requests by the Mayor."

The Chief also tried to prevent the Mayor from access to any information turned up by undercover agents or informants and Judge Brogna agreed that such confidential information should not be disclosed indiscriminately.

If Mayor LaRaia wants such information, under terms of the injunction, he will have to appeal to the court and the judge will look over both the request and the information in closed session.

In a commentary on the injunction, issued through his Press Secretary Jeanne Umata late Tuesday afternoon, Mayor LaRaia said:

"Point one of the motion for preliminary injunction enjoined the Mayor from making any orders with respect to the divulgence of records or information regarding the records of the City of Quincy Department of Police.

"The judge found in favor of the Mayor on point one. Information is expected immediately regarding the disciplinary action taken by the Chief of Police with respect to the bookmaking activities of three Quincy policemen.

"In addition, the Chief is to furnish affidavits and materials which would indicate that the undercover agent in question did indeed work during the time he claimed he did.

"Point two would enjoin the Mayor from suspending Chief of Police Finn for complying with the terms of the preliminary injunction.

"The judge found in favor of the plaintiff, but this does not indicate that in the future the Chief of Police is not subject to suspension for failing to comply with legitimate requests by the Mayor.

"Points three and four of the preliminary injunction would enjoin the Mayor from making any orders regarding the transfer of officers or duty assignments for officers within the Department of Police.

"The judge enjoined the Mayor from doing the above until the case is brought to court for a declaratory judgement which will take place in approximately four weeks.

"Point five would enjoin the Mayor from making any order with respect to the divulging of information obtained by undercover agents or police informants.

"The judge granted this with the stipulation that the Mayor may at any time in the future go before the court to gain access to information he deems necessary to protect the public good.

"In summary, the issue was to obtain information regarding the activities of three officers said to have engaged in bookmaking activities. On this issue, the judge found in favor of the Mayor.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Hely told Judge Brogna that the district attorney's office "put the Chief of Police and Lt. Rowell on the spot when we advised them to keep their records confidential" from the Mayor.

The case, he said, "already has seriously compromised the effectiveness of the undercover agent."

The Judge said he saw the case as "a balance between the Mayor's right to know and the district attorney's right to protect an ongoing investigation."

Asst. Dist. Atty. Matthew T. Connolly, in an affidavit filed in support of the injunction, said the DA's office and the Quincy Police Special Services Unit were working together developing information regarding organized crime and illegal gambling.

Finn, Rowell and other Quincy police officers, he said, "are in possession of notes, memoranda, worksheets and reports on these investigations involving serious criminal offenses relating to gambling operations, loan sharking and other organized crime activities.

"These investigations are presently active, continuing investigations which may result in felony indictments by the Norfolk County Grand Jury if the investigations can be successfully continued and completed with absolute confidentiality."

Connolly said the undercover agent in Quincy made "specific surveillances of named target persons. These target persons are named in the reports that were submitted by this undercover agent as well as the locations under surveillance."

When LaRaia asked Rowell for information on Feb. 11, Connolly said, Rowell refused "because the investigation in question was under the direct supervision of the district attorney's office."

Fore River Bridge

a new bridge will be given high priority for future federal or state funding."

Duncan Hughes of the engineering firm of Parsons, Brinkerhoff, Quade and Douglas, reported that they are 25 per cent of the way through the Environment Impact Statement and should be finished in three months.

One public meeting was held in Weymouth in January, he said, and another is scheduled for next Thursday [March 3] at 7:30 p.m. in the Fore River Clubhouse. In all, there will be four public meetings leading up to a public hearing, if all goes well.

Hughes said his firm is now developing alternative bridge plans, including one of the type that spans the Mystic River with approaches starting near the intersection of Washington St. and Southern Artery.

Indications are that such a bridge, which has drawn the bitter opposition of the Quincy Point community, would not be seriously considered but, said Horgan, "to drop that as an alternative without examination is not good."

Hughes said the March 3 meeting at Fore River Clubhouse is expected to dwell on plans for a "lift bridge", similar to the railroad span over the Cape Cod Canal at Buzzards Bay.

Piranian, who is public relations map for the General Dynamics Shipyard, explained the need for the bridge and the commitments that the company will make if the bridge is built.

"By 1986 or 87," he said, "possibly there will be a need for ships that could be built at the General Dynamics Shipyard but that could not pass beneath the present bridge."

"The 12 tankers now under contract takes us to the first part of 1982. We are going after Navy

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS By Tom Henshaw

New Haven Cuts Service

The New Haven Railroad dropped 114 trains, reducing service on its Old Colony line to 87 trains, despite frenzied attempts to prevent it in the State House and in the courts.

The Massachusetts DPU first decided that the railroad did not need state permission to cut service, then changed its mind at the urging of Atty. Gen. Francis A. Kelly.

The New Haven, however, obtained an injunction in U.S. District Court in New Haven, Conn., that blocked the DPU's move only hours before the midnight deadline to drop the trains.

Meanwhile, Gov. Paul A. Dever and New Haven President Lawrence F. Wittemore met to discuss the future of the Old Colony Line and the effect of recent layoffs of workers in the railroad's Readville repair shop.

QUINCY VS. ATTLEBORO

The Quincy High School basketball team, with a 16-2 record, drew Attleboro in the opening round of the Eastern Massachusetts Tournament.

Members of the Quincy team included Al Pasquale, Bob Keefe, Doug Campbell, Walker Wheelock, Capt. Pete Lura, Ralph Beaton, Leo Andronico, Bob Pettinelli, Gus Lawrence, Bob Steele and Dick Salvaggio.

FIRE LADDERS OUT

Mayor Charles A. Ross fighting to keep the tax rate down, slashed the Fire Department's new equipment account from $88,280 to $3,630, enough, said Chief Thomas F. Gorman, to buy gas masks and a few filing cabinets.

However, Ward Four Councillor John B. O'Connor said the Mayor told him he would send a supplementary budget to the Council for $35,000 to purchase a 65-foot ladder for the West Quincy station, which has been operating with one engine for six years.

Chief Gorman had also asked for $40,000 for an 85-foot ladder to replace the 21-year-old ladder at the Atlantic Fire Station.

EDWARDS FOILS BRAINTREE

City Historian William C. Edwards sprang into action with a quick rebuttal when Braintree Town Counsel Richard A. Hunt suggested, on the basis of old maps, that the Fore River Shipyard was in Braintree, not Quincy.

Edwards pointed out that the land known as Braintree Neck, on which the Yard was located, was officially annexed to Quincy on April 29, 1856.

Year's Supply Of Toothpaste Contest Prize

'Young Ideas' Spotlight On Dental Health Month

By CATHY CONLEY

"Use an egg-timer."
"Make posters for over the sink."

"Think of something happy while you're brushing."
"Hum a whole song while you're brushing."

"Ask your mother if you can get out of taking the garbage out if you brush for three minutes."

These are just a few of the suggestions that Mrs. Linda Monaco's second and third graders at Myles Standish School have for children to help them brush their teeth longer. Their suggestions are features in this week's "Young Ideas" The four-page pullout section starts on Page 13.

February is Dental Health Month. Young Ideas, sponsored by Lever Brothers Company, Aim Toothpaste Division, explores children's dental health. In addition to sponsoring the issue, Lever Brothers Company has sent 1,700 tubes of Aim toothpaste and pamphlets on dental health to be distributed in the Quincy elementary schools.

Also in this issue of "Young Ideas", Dr. Richard Gavin, head of the dental clinic at Kennedy Health Center, visits Mrs. Monaco's class and discusses with the children how, when, why and how long to brush their teeth. "Children should brush their teeth for three full minutes after every meal," Dr. Gavin explained. Then, with a huge mock-up of teeth, he showed the children the proper way to brush.

"Young Ideas" also features games, puzzles and interviews on dental health—all done by the children. Highlight of the issue is a Draw Billy Brushlonger Contest. There is an entry blank on which the child can draw a smiling face. The winner will receive a year's supply of Aim toothpaste, and his or her drawing will be made into a poster and will hang at the dental clinic at the Kennedy Health Center.

The contest is open to all elementary school children. Deadline is March 11.

Memorial Service March 12 For Judge Kenneth Nash, 88

A memorial service will be held March 12 at 11 a.m. at the Old South Union Church, Weymouth, in memory of Judge Kenneth L. Nash, a justice of the Quincy District Court for 52 years until his retirement in 1970.

Judge Nash, who was also a professional baseball player with the Cleveland Indians and the St. Louis Cardinals, died Wednesday [Feb. 16] at the age of 88 at his retirement home in Epsum, N.H.

He was appointed an associate justice of the Quincy District Court in 1918 by then Gov. Samuel W. McCall and 45 years later he was named first chief justice of all the district courts by Gov. Endicott Peabody.

Judge Nash was an outstanding athlete at Brown University, from which he was graduated in 1912, and he was signed as a shortstop by the Cleveland Indians. He played 20 games for the Indians in 1912.

When he went to bat for Cleveland for the first time he used the name "Costello" and, until the official Encyclopedia of Baseball was published in the late 1960's, the mysterious

JUDGE KENNETH L. NASH

"Costello" was carried as a separate listing in the record book.

He was signed by the St. Louis Cardinals in 1914 but he was elected to the Massachusetts Legislature at the same time and was forced to give up his baseball career for politics and the law.

Judge Nash was graduated from Boston University Law School in 1916 and named to the bench two years later. It was a part time job until 1933 when he was designated a full time judge.

He was also town counsel of Weymouth from 1932 to 1953.

He coached baseball at Milton Academy from 1918 to 1920 and at Tufts University for 21 years. He was one of the first nominees to the Brown University Athletic Hall of Fame in 1971.

His regime at Quincy District Court saw him set up one of the first alcoholic clinics in the country, one of the first district court psychiatric clinics in the state and one of the state's first deputy probation officer programs.

Judge Nash was a former director of the South Shore National Bank and the Shipbuilders Cooperative Bank. He was chairman of the Trust Committee of the South Shore National for many years.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Herberta (Stockwell) Nash and two brothers, Clayton W. Nash of Weymouth and Arthur B. Nash of Morris Plains, N.J.

A NEWSPAPER BY AND FOR THE CHILDREN OF QUINCY

Do You Want A Beautiful Smile?

February is Dental Health Month. In this issue of Young Ideas, we visit Mrs. Monaco's second and third graders at Myles Standish School. Dr. Richard Gavin came into the class and discussed good dental health with the children. Dr. Gavin is the head of the dental clinic at Kennedy Health Center which is open for all the school children of Quincy.

Our issue is sponsored by Aim Toothpaste Division of Lever Brothers Company. Aim's theme is "brush longer". So the children give their suggestions on how to get kids to brush longer.

Lever Brothers Company also sent 1,700 tubes of Aim and pamphlets on dental health to be distributed in the Quincy schools.

Through nice, bright, white teeth, the children of Quincy say

"Thanks, Aim!"

See our beautiful smiles! We brush after every meal, avoid sweets and visit our dentist regularly!

By Kerry Gearin, 7

Miss Beautiful-Smile is Susan Shaheen, 9.

Dr. Gavin Shows Us How To Keep Our Teeth Healthy

"Always take good care of your teeth," Dr. Gavin tells Robert Fiasconaro, 9. "These are my horse's teeth," he joked. Actually they were an enlargement of adult teeth which Dr. Gavin showed the class how to brush. "Most cavities are formed in the back biting surface, so you must be particularly careful there," Dr. Gavin said. "And make sure you brush before you go to sleep. Everything in your body slows down at night. And there is very little saliva to rinse your teeth."

"Let me show you the proper way to brush your teeth," Dr. Gavin tells Carolyn O'Reilly, 8. To brush your teeth and gums the right way, angle the bristles toward your gums. Use short, back-and-forth strokes. Brush the insides and outsides of all your teeth. To brush the insides of your front teeth, hold the brush vertically, angle the bristles toward your gums, and use short, up-and-down strokes. Then, keeping the brush flat, brush the chewing surfaces of your teeth. Remember to brush gently and brush one or two teeth at a time.

"I believe children should brush their teeth for three full minutes," Dr. Gavin tells Melissa Perry, 8. "I'll bet you think you know how long three minutes is," he said. Then he asked the class to put their heads down for three minutes. Heads were popping up in 30 seconds. "An egg-timer is an excellent way to help you know when three minutes is up. Just turn the egg-timer over when you start brushing and brush till all the sand has gone through," he said.

Here Are Our Suggestions To Help Kids Brush Longer!

Make a poster for over the sink that tells you to brush your teeth for three minutes. Then, even when you think three minutes is up, brush some more!

Mike Stewart, 7

When you start brushing your teeth, think of something happy like going over to your grandmother's and getting a surprise. If you're thinking about something happy, your mind will be busy and you'll brush longer.

Carolyn O'Reilly, 8

Artwork by Susan Shaheen, 9

I like my teeth because they're white. I want to keep them white. If you don't brush a long time, they'll get yellow. Think about yellow teeth. Yuck! Then you'll brush a long time to keep them white.

Robin Couturier, 7

Make brushing fun. Either hum a whole song while you're brushing. Or tell your brother to set up a game while you're brushing your teeth. You brush all while he's setting up the game. Tell him to call you when he's ready. You'll brush for three minutes and you'll be happy thinking about the game.

Susan Shaheen, 9

Say your job after supper is taking out the garbage. It takes three minutes. Ask your mother if someone else can do your job for a week. You brush your teeth all while they're doing it. You'll get used to brushing for three minutes. And you won't have to take out the garbage either.

John Rein, 7

Before you start brushing, look in the mirror and smile. Just think of what you would look like if you didn't have any teeth or if they were all rotten. Then you will want to brush them a long time so they'll always look nice.

Patrick Fox, 7

Dennis,

What Did You Learn From Dr. Gavin?

We should brush our teeth right after we eat. If we can't brush, we should rinse our mouth. We should never go to bed without brushing. We should change our tooth brushes when they get soft. He told us about the flouride in Quincy's water. He said it's like if I was going to build a tower with blocks, if I put cement between my blocks, my tower would be stronger. Flouride makes our enamel stronger like that.

Questions To Ask Your Banker About Your Savings Account

By Philip J. Lawrence, President
Colonial Federal Savings
and Loan Association
of Quincy, Holbrook & Wareham
8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

Some persons who read these columns have expressed incredulity at a statement that there can be as much as 171% difference in the amount actually paid in interest by financial institutions advertising the same interest rate.

This was the discovery of a Kansas State University research study after applying to a hypothetical savings account 40 variables used by institutions in computing interest. The best combination of variables on the same advertised interest rate yielded $79.13 to savers, the worst only $29.25.

We invite the disbelievers to ask their bank or savings and loan these questions concerning their regular passbook accounts:

1. What is the minimal balance required to maintain the stated interest?
2. How often is the interest compounded and how often credited to the account?
3. What method is used to compute interest—Last-in-the-first-out or first-in-first-out, the average daily balance or the smallest balance for the quarter, a 360- or 365-day year?
4. Do you allow "grace" days—savings in by the 10th of the month earning from the 1st—and "dead" days at the end of a quarter?

5. What is the true annual percentage rate paid to the saver?

6. Is there any limitation on the number of withdrawals that can be made without penalty in a given period of time?

7. Are there any penalties for inactive accounts?

8. Do you have penalties for "premature" closing of accounts?

9. Is a minimal balance required to obtain free auxiliary services?

Some of these questions may be asked about certificates of deposit. Others can also be illuminating:

1. Do you mail quarterly interest checks to savers if requested?
 2. Do you notify savers when the certificate of deposit has matured?
 3. If you don't hear from them, do you automatically renew on the same terms? Convert to a passbook account?
- This may be the Age of the Consumer, but the consumer still has much to learn about getting his money's worth from his savings account. He could benefit from his wife's experience in comparison-shopping at the supermarkets.

Den 9 Pack 27 Visit Quincy Sun

Cub Scouts from Den 9 Pack 27, visited The Quincy Sun recently and viewed the workings of a newspaper first hand.

The scouts, sponsored by Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, are: Louie Guarente, Gary Stein, Franklin Langille, Brian Ostiguy, James McAdams, Anthony Pytlinski and Herbert Parsley.

Den mother Barbara Guarente, and assistant leaders Ann Pytlinski and Frances Langille accompanied the scouts on their tour.

Mascot Danny Guarente also accompanied the scouts:

Scout Matthew Ostiguy was absent from the tour.

The boys first visited the editorial and advertising departments of The Quincy Sun.

They then toured the production department where they saw the story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer system. They saw news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine. They also saw newswriters being set on the CompuWriter Junior.

The scouts watched a paste-up artist fix the story and headline into proper position on paste-up boards.

They watched photographs being reduced and screened for publication by an Agfa Gevaert Repromaster camera in the Sun's new camera department.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed the boys asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office, each scout received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

Charter Defeated

By now, most people have heard that the Boston Charter Reform Bill has been defeated. The Charter was a Home Rule Petition which would have completely changed Boston politics and its power structure. The Speaker and Leadership of the Massachusetts House favored the Charter as long as a majority of the Boston delegation supported it. Last Thursday, that coalition of Boston Legislators fell apart and the House Leadership withdrew their support. The Charter had many problems dealing with elections, taxes, school autonomy and the executive branch. I felt the Charter lacked citizen input.

Two of the bills I filed have had committee hearings. The bill allowing automobiles to turn right on a red light was placed in a study. If the Legislature undertakes a serious feasibility study, there is a chance it will pass. If they choose to do nothing, putting it in a study is a polite way to "kill the bill". The bill I filed to do away with "under 25 auto insurance" is still in the Committee on Insurance.

There is a bill filed by the Quincy Delegation that would force the MBTA to depress the tracks in the downtown Quincy area. It should help the downtown economy and traffic patterns. This is to be included as part of the MBTA's South Quincy Extension.

Future bills to watch - The Committee on Taxation is having hearings on bills that would return more lottery revenues to the cities and towns. On March 9th, the Committee on Public Safety will be hearing testimony on Hand Guns.

If you have any opinions on any of these bills or any other bills, call me at the State House 727-7035 or 328-0900. Look forward to hearing from you.

Raiders Upset Rindge, Presidents Bow--4 Overtimes

Tuesday was "do or die" day for the gallant North Quincy basketball team.

Faced with the unenviable task of winning their last seven games in order to qualify for the state tournament, the Raiders, surprising Suburban League champion Rindge Tech earlier in the week, won its sixth in a row Friday night, 59-48, over a good Newton North team, setting the stage for Tuesday's finale at Revere, a non-league game. North was an easy winner over Revere in the season's opener.

Meanwhile, Quincy, which had lost only to Rindge, was upset by Waltham, 75-74, in four overtimes, the season's longest schoolboy game.

After North Quincy had defeated Rindge, first year coach Ed Miller had told his players, "This game means nothing without a win Friday."

The Raiders, 5-8 at one time and with their tournament hopes fading, trailed Newton, 31-30, at halftime after losing an 11-point lead. But a big third period clinched things for North.

Miller kept the same five players, Mike Gill, John White, Dan Cuddy, Keith Lindberg and Jim McGinley, in the lineup throughout the second half and each performed admirably.

Gill scored 16 points, Cuddy 15 and White 14. Lindberg and McGinley played well on defense and scored some key baskets.

At Waltham Quincy looked to be in good shape with a 10-point lead after three periods but the Presidents got careless in the fourth period and Waltham rallied to tie it in the final seconds. The Presidents had a four-point lead in the third extra period but couldn't hold it.

Jack Uhlar had one of his best nights with 39 points and another strong game on the boards, dominating the first three periods, but was held to four points in the fourth session.

Roger Kvam, with 10 points, was the only other Quincy player to hit double figures. The Presidents now are pointing for next week's state tournament, for which they were early qualifiers.

The high point of North's season came earlier in the week with its great 54-50 win over Rindge at Cambridge. The win ended and 18-game winning streak for Rindge's previously undefeated league leader and the defending champion.

"This is just great," said an elated Miller. "The kids knew they could beat them. In our first game they just beat us by a point in the final few seconds. We weren't as cautious offensively as we were in the first game. We were taking it to the hoop more, beating them at their own game."

Everyone was a hero for the Raiders. Cuddy scored 18 points, 10 in a big second period. Gill had 11 points, White had nine and played his usual dazzling floor game, breaking Rindge's press and directing the offense. Lindberg scored eight and did an exceptional job on Rindge's 6-7 Rudy Williams. Joe Deane came off the bench to top the team in rebounding, and McGinley and Wink Phelan sparked on defense.

Quincy continued to roll along and defeated Cambridge Latin, 71-59, as Coach Joe Amoroso gave some of his jayvees a lot of varsity action.

Uhlar had 15 points and snagged 17 rebounds. Mike Lamie and Ed Callahan scored 11 a piece and jayvees Dave Casey and John Connolly had 10 and eight points respectively.

Quincy Takes South Sectional Tourney

Quincy's wrestling team, which finished its season with a 19-1 record in only its third season, won the South Sectional tournament last weekend at Marshfield and qualified nine boys for the state championship tournament to be held Friday and Saturday at Waltham High School.

North Quincy, which had a 15-6 record, placed fourth among the 14 teams in the sectionals and qualified five for the state tournament.

Quincy and North wrestlers won 6 of the 12 championship bouts. Winning for Quincy were Dan Madden, 100 pounds; Tim Cahill, 167; and Lenny Picot, 188. North winners were Ed Beck, unbeaten over two years, 107 pounds; Rich Schiarizzi, 114, and Karl Knudsen, heavyweight. Knudsen won the title with three straight pins.

Picot, who earlier had handed North's Knudsen his only defeat in two years in the final regular season match, was named the tournament's outstanding wrestler.

Other Quincy qualifiers were Steve Natarangelo, 107; Lou Venturini, 114; Jim Mullarkey, 121; Ed Towers, 134; Gary Oriola, 140, and Joe Moran, 157.

Also qualifying for North were Brian Donaghue, 100, and Butch Montoya, 128. Art Dorgan is an alternate in the 121-pound class.

North Wins Class C Title

The North Quincy track team, which last year won the state Class B championship, last Saturday won the Class C title at Reading with 40 points to 31 for Fitchburg and 31 for Dartmouth.

Thirty-nine teams were entered in Class C.

North was moved down to Class C because of a drop in enrollment.

Co-Capt. Jerry MacKenzie won the 1000-yard last week in 2:20.4. Co-Capt. Bob Levenson placed second in the mile with a clocking of 4:32.2. The relay team of Matty King, Rich Kennedy, Tim O'Neill and MacKenzie edged Dartmouth for second place with a timing of 3:41.7, just missing the school record of 3:41.3 set last year.

Earlier Mike Morin had won the two-mile for North and Mike Gallagher had placed fourth in the shot put.

MacKenzie had a big year, winning the State Coaches Meet and the Suburban League crown and Levenson was unbeaten in dual meet competition. Morin also had a fine season.

The relay team's time was the fastest of the season. MacKenzie ran an outstanding anchor leg.

"The seniors gave us outstanding leadership," Coach Lou Tozzi said. "We had no facilities for indoor practice but the boys had a lot of pride. I honestly hadn't expected to do so well after losing four boys who had scored more than half our points last year."

The North Quincy track team completed another successful regular season recently when it defeated Quincy, 57-29, to finish 10-2-1 overall and 6-2-1 in the Suburban League.

North tied Weymouth South for third place in the league.

Quincy, under first year coach

John Laverty, finished 3-5-1, improving on last year's record. Quincy's future looks bright under the enthusiastic Laverty, who last year was assistant to North Quincy coach Lou Tozzi.

North Quincy's winners were, Matty King in the 50 yard dash, Tim O'Neill, 300; Rich Kennedy, 600; Jerry MacKenzie, 1000; Mike Morin, mile; Dan McIntyre, high hurdles, and Mike Gallagher, shot put.

Quincy's John Saville, the defending Class A two mile champion, won that event setting a new school record of 10 minutes flat.

Mark Buchanan, a newcomer to track this year, won the high jump at 5-10.

Quincy's big moment came in the relay as Paul Ladas, John Milani, Rich Gilbody and Jim Oriola upset the Raiders.

"This was an excellent year for us," said Tozzi. "We lost four boys who scored more than half our points last year and this year the kids really pulled together. John (Laverty) did a fine job at Quincy. He got the program started and going in the right direction. They should be strong next year."

"I was very pleased with the season," said Laverty. "All the boys worked hard, and our captain, Don Jones, has been tremendous."

Cellini, Williams Break Track Records

The Quincy Track Club's Linda Cellini set two club records, one of them a meet record, and 11-year-old Mike Williams broke a club record in last Sunday's Franklin AAU Development Meet.

Linda, a standout for Abp. Williams High School, ran away with the 880, breaking the meet and club marks with a timing of 2:27.4, and set a new club record of 6.3 placing second in the dash. She recently ran a 2:24 880 in a high school meet and Friday she will run the mile for Williams in the girls' state meet at Lexington.

Mike Williams set his record of 68.2 in the 440 and would have done even better but was tripped on the final turn. He also placed third in the dash.

Denise Santo won the 13-under dash, Gerard McCormick took third in the 13-under mile and second in the high jump. Eileen McKenna broke the club record in the hurdles, Michelle Millane did 6:12.2, lowering her time in the mile for the fifth straight week.

Harry Williams was third in the men's 440 and Jeff Hennessy third in the men's 880.

The boys and girls' teams of the Quincy Track Club scored big wins and three club records were set last weekend in the first of three Holy Cross College development meets sponsored by the Marine Reserves.

Sheila Barrett broke the 11-under 880 mark with a timing of 2:58.3, and she also placed third in the 13-under long jump. Michelle Millane tossed the shot put 26 feet, 3 inches, easily breaking the old 12-13 mark of 23-7. She also won the 880.

Bob Pound easily broke the 12-13 boys' shot put record of 33-7 with a fine throw of 36-8 1/2.

Denise Santo was second in the 13-under long jump and third in the 600. Patrice McDermott was second in the 12-13 shot put and 880, and Linda Kennedy took third in the 11-under 600.

Cheryl Ames placed second in the 14-15 mile, Linda Morash second in the 14-15 long jump and the relay team of Millane, Santo, Kelleher and Morash also won.

In boys' action, Mike Williams won the special 11-under one-lap (176 yards) run, won the long jump and placed second in the 13-under hurdles and 600.

Jim Flaherty won the 11-under 880 and took third in the one-lap run, Gerard McCormick won the 13-under hurdles, Steve Healy was second in the 14-15 600 and third in the hurdles and long jump. John O'Hare took second in the 14-15 hurdles and third in the 600 and Jeff Hennessy was second in the Open (18-over) 1000.

The club will run Sunday at Franklin. Practice is held every Friday night at 6:30 at Central Junior High School. Dues are 25 cents.

Recently the Track Club made another good showing in the Franklin AAU meet. Mike Williams and Sue McLaughlin came up with double victories.

Carlyle High Rollers In Men's Candlepin Quarter-Finals

Carlyle of Whitman bowled high for the day to defeat Colonial Bowl of South Weymouth 1823-1776 in the quarterfinal round of the 24th annual Greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tourney Sunday at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome.

In the other two matches of the day St. Mark's VFW topped the Quincy Merchants 1729-1699 while the Wollaston Men's League ousted Supreme 1692-1657.

Whitman's high score gave them a bye into the championship round March 6, and assured them of no less than a $25 consolation award and a shot at the $100 top prize.

Whitman and South Weymouth knotted the count at 598 each at the close of the first string. Carlyle fired a 621 second string to pick up a 32-pin lead going into the last string.

Colonial closed the gap even in the eighth box of the final round, when Bill Robbins fired a spare and triple strike to put the match out of sight.

Dave Landry led Carlyle with 394, followed by Robbins 390, Ken Turner 363, Bob Crowley 339, and Dennis Chick 337. Colonial's top scorer was Paul Vickers 384, Ron Brewer 373, Marty Martell 351, Jim Powers 335, and Lou Pagnani 333.

St. Mark's jumped off to an 8-pin lead over the Quincy Merchants on the strength of Joe Corbett's triple strike in the last two boxes of the match. The Merchants came back to win the second string by 25 pins and carried a 17-pin lead into the final, but St. Mark's fired a 612 string in the last string, for the victory.

Steve Cioffi showed the way for the winners with a 381, aided by George Johnstone 362, Corbett 330, Bob Krim 329 and Tony Kovalski 327. Wes Cobb was top for the losing Merchants firing a 373 while John Catrambone posted a 354 and Ron Johnston 341.

The Wollaston Men ran up a 23-pin first string lead over Supreme, added 30 more in the second and hung on for the victory.

Wollaston Men leading scorers were Walter Finn 356, Bob Reynolds 353, Ron Walker 345 and Dan Finn 326. Ken Hanson led Supreme with 364, followed by Tony Alibrandi 338, Joe Alibrandi 335, and Bob Donahue 320.

The Wollaston Men and St. Mark's VFW will meet Sunday in the semi-final round of The Koch Club sponsored event with the winner bowling Carlyle of Whitman March 6 in the finals. Three teams remain of the 44 entered in the 24th annual tourney.

Dystrophy

Bowl-A-Thons

The Quincy Little Loop and St. Brendan's Youth League will hold their second annual sports event to benefit the Southern Massachusetts Chapter of Muscular Dystrophy Association.

The 150 youngsters involved are primarily from Quincy and Dorchester, and are conducting Bowl-A-Thons to strike out Muscular Dystrophy Feb. 19 and Feb. 26 at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome.

The young bowlers' aim is to convert each candlepin they down during the three official strings of their Bowl-A-Thon to "pennies" for neuromuscular research. To do this they are currently asking residents to sponsor their efforts by pledging the pennies that last year resulted in $2,000

Mass. Electric Suspends Elderly Customers Shutoffs

Massachusetts Electric Company announces it will not shut off a customer's electricity for nonpayment, where all residents of a household are 65 years of age or older.

Company President William J. Cadigan said the new policy will continue until April 1.

"This winter is straining to the limit the physical and economic resources of many people," Cadigan said, "but it is often the elderly who fare the worst in these kinds of situations. Therefore, we have decided against shutoffs in homes where all residents are 65 or over."

"In addition," Cadigan

continued, "we have instructed our field personnel that absolutely no other shutoffs will be made without contacting the customer either in person or by telephone. We believe this will give customers an opportunity to talk with us and make payment arrangements to keep their electricity on."

Cadigan urged all customers who are having difficulty paying their electric bills to contact the company's local office. "We are making every effort we can to help," he said. "It is important that customers call us before they get so far behind on their bills that it is impossible to pay. We are always willing to listen to problems and to work out some sort of reasonable arrangements."

Telephone Co. Declares Dividend

A BETTER BUY

Sure mortgage interest rates are higher than they were, but so are the market values of homes and land. Please believe me when I say that even at today's inflated prices and interest rates, real estate is a better buy than anything else you can go after with borrowed dollars.

Financing for other purchases often costs twice as much - and these things depreciate while a house usually grows in value. Check the trade-in value of your car when you turn it in for a new one. Also for the past ten years, real estate values have doubled the increase in the Dow Jones average.

In this sense, real estate is the most worth-while investment you can make, and your best protection against inflation. And don't forget the priceless dividends your family will enjoy as you live in your growing investment.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

Also, we have available a one year warranty on all plumbing, heating, mechanical, electrical systems and built-in appliances on homes that we sell.

Phone or drop in. We are here to help.

2,671 more in a parking garage, for a total of 4,531 cars.

About 178,000 square feet of building area would be devoted to stores, restaurants, offices, indoor tennis courts and an ice rink, and community and marina-related facilities.

Outdoor recreational facilities would include tennis and paddle tennis courts, swimming pools and baseball and softball fields.

The entire area of 318 acres, including 133 acres of tidal water land, would be landscaped with a lagoon, parks, avenues, courts and gardens.

Arnold Koch of Newsome and Co., Inc., Boston, public relations spokesman for the group, made these points in his presentation:

- Marina Landing will generate about $4 million a year for the city in property and excise taxes.

- It will generate a "significant number" of jobs, both in the construction stage and in long-term employment.

- It will convert a site that has major physical limitations into a productive one.

- It will have a negligible impact on Quincy schools since the people who live in such semi-luxury developments are not usually those who have children of school age.

- It will not endanger the ecology since a full EPA review would be part of the approval process.

- It will be an asset to residents of Squantum in that it will provide an alternative route off the peninsula to the often flooded East Squantum St.

business in the meantime that does not entail doing anything with the bridge.

"We are still trying to get the refurbishing contract for the Long Beach. It is a $900 million deal that would mean two or three years work. We hope to get more than that in Navy work."

"We would go up in the work force from 5,000 to 6,000. We would like to get up to 7,500 or 8,000 in the next 10-12 years."

"By that time, possibly there will be some tankers that we will not be able to bid on because of the bridge. So we need a new bridge within a 10-year period."

"We believe that we have the finest shipyard in the world and we are not going to let any business go by us that we can handle. We are leaving no stone unturned in getting business."

Piranian said General Dynamics is building as large a ship as any shipyard in the world - 140 feet by 936 feet. The bridge opening is now 175 feet wide, but that's not the only problem.

There is a hook in the channel just outside the bridge and ships have to begin their turns before they clear the opening or risk crashing into the Proctor and Gamble Pier or Germantown Point.

There is also a problem in bringing ships in through the bridge depending on the height of tide and the amount of daylight. Lately, General Dynamics has faced that problem while bringing in the spheres for the LNG tankers.

"We can't tie up out there," said Piranian. "A ship has to stay out in Hull Gut to wait the right time and tide. If we run into rough seas out there we can be in trouble."

"One of our tankers could lay out there for a week before the tide and daylight are right to bring her in," added Gene Pomfort of Cities Service, which also passes ships in through the bridge.

Piranian said General Dynamics is ready to make a commitment of $60 million if the new bridge is built and "we're talking about $30-43 million in new construction in the Shipyard."

These points also emerged from the BRAT meeting:

- A new bridge built slightly upstream from the current structure might remove Basin No. 4 from the Shipyard, thus cutting down on the number of ships that can be under construction at one time.

- The number of times the bridge is opened to permit passage of sailboats during the summer sailing season far outstrips the number of openings for commercial use year round.

"We are considering raising the elevation of the bridge so that sailboats can get by without a bridge opening," said Hughes.

- General Dynamics says it is as interested as anyone in preserving the integrity of the Quincy Point community.

"P. Takis Veliotis [general manager of the yard] does not want to hurt the community," said Piranian. "A lot of his people live there. A lot of them work at the yard."

- The deficiencies in the Fore River Bridge played a part in the design of the LNG currently under construction.

The BRAT meeting was chaired by Walter Hannon of the Chamber of Commerce. Others in attendance included:

John Blake of Colony, Inc.; Gregory Pendergast of the State DPW; Clara Yeomans of the Quincy Conservation Commission; Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli and Congressmen James A. Burke and Gary Studds and Sen. Allan McKinnon.

sell the building and preliminary discussions were held at that time. However, he said since then the plans have been scrapped.

Porter speculated that The Ledger story may have been based in part on the plans made a few years ago.

COLONIAL RESTAURANT owner Constantine Kechris encourages customers to join in a coffee boycott as waitress Helen Moutros pours him a cup of tea.

Tea Sales Up

Coffee Boycott Perking At Downtown Restaurant

By KAREN WEBBER

"Join us in boycotting coffee. Take Tea And See Coffee Prices Come Down!" reads a sign over the counter in the Colonial Restaurant, 1600 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

According to the Colonial's owner, Constantine Kechris, the boycott is working.

"Customers seem to be in agreement. I'd say tea sales have increased 25 per cent," he said.

"When you ask customers what they'd like to drink, many say 'give me tea,'" said Mary Monash, a waitress at the restaurant. She estimated tea drinking has gone up 35 per cent.

Kechris started the boycott three weeks ago and expects it will continue as long as coffee prices remain high.

"I resent the fact that the cost of coffee has increased so much," he said. "I see no justification for it. In the food business it's always something, claims were a problem in the past and meat was, too."

Kechris entices his customers to drink tea with his low 20 cent price and five cent discounts when tea is ordered with a breakfast special, such as ham and eggs. Kechris said some people have switched to tea with their morning muffin.

Although customers are still buying coffee, Kechris said he is purchasing less coffee from his supplier. Currently he pays $3.20 per pound for coffee, but expects that prices may soon be up to $4 per pound.

"I've held my coffee price at 30 cents a cup because of the competition. We may have to raise our price to 35 cents a cup. We use only french cream. I won't change to a non-dairy substitute and therefore our prices may go up."

The profit Kechris makes from one cup of coffee has gone down in recent years. Four years ago, Kechris used to buy coffee for $1 per pound and sell it for 15 cents a cup. Now his buying price has tripled, yet the customer's price has only doubled.

"The customers won't want to pay 35 cents for a cup of coffee," Kechris said. "The boycott is working out well. The customers are with us and that's all that matters."

Not Satisfied With Police Information

LaRaia Thinking Of Higher Court Action In Finn Feud

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor LaRaia is not satisfied with the information turned over to him by Police Chief Francis X. Finn under a court order.

But he is not going to press the point until Norfolk Superior Court hands down a final judgement in their dispute, probably in a month.

And, if he is not satisfied with that, he is going to take the matter to a higher court.

"Chief Finn may have satisfied his obligation to the court but I am far from satisfied," said the Mayor Tuesday, a week after the records of three Quincy police officers allegedly involved in bookmaking cases were delivered up to him.

"I would have been satisfied if I had been given them at the outset," said LaRaia. "But in the light of what has happened there is a lot more research to be done."

"I am just waiting for the matter to be resolved when the judgement comes down in about a month."

Chief Finn obtained a temporary injunction Feb. 22 to prevent the Mayor from obtaining certain confidential information from the Police Department but it directed the Chief to give the Mayor certain other facts.

A declaratory judgement is expected about April 1 to clarify the Mayor's authority over the Police Department.

LaRaia called his request for information on the bookmaking investigation and the worksheets of a man who has been working undercover "routine".

"The problems surfaced because of the Chief's reluctance to make any reports on what transpired," LaRaia said.

"This is just a routine application of administrative duties to make sure that money is being spent in the full interest of the people who are paying for the service—the taxpayer."

"Instead of simple routine; it has become a matter for public discussion because of the Chief's action in pursuing a preliminary injunction to limit the Mayor's authority."

"Unfortunately, they are winning the battle of time."

"I foresee having to appeal this to a higher court if the decision that is handed down turns out to be detrimental to the authority of the mayor's office."

"The interesting thing," [Cont'd on Page 12]

First Announced Candidate

Joanne Condon To Seek Ward 6 Seat

The first hat-a-bonnet-is in Quincy's 1977 city election ring.

Mrs. Joanne Condon of 70 Botolph St., North Quincy announces her candidacy for the Ward 6 City Council seat now occupied by Dennis E. Harrington.

Mrs. Condon resigned as president of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association in a letter to members this week, to seek the Ward 6 seat.

She said, however, she will continue to be active in the Atlantic Neighborhood Association and will retain her position as chairman of the Atlantic Self-Help Paint Program.

"This program has noticeably improved our neighborhood," she said. "Not only have we painted over 80 homes, but we have encouraged other homeowners to improve their homes and maintain a pride in our neighborhood."

In announcing her candidacy, she said:

"Through my efforts with the Atlantic Neighborhood Association I have found that being involved is a very rewarding experience. I would like to continue my involvement in a broader scope and, therefore, I am running for City Councillor from Ward 6."

Mrs. Condon thus becomes the first to officially announce her candidacy in this year's municipal election.

A life-long resident of Quincy and a 1957 graduate of North Quincy High School, Mrs. Condon is employed as an administrative assistant by the Quincy Community Action program. She is married to Thomas Condon and has three children. She is president of the Catholic Women's Club of North Quincy until June of this year. She is also a member of the Sacred Heart PTO, the Mother's Guild of Fontbonne Academy and the Mother's Guild of Boston College High School.

LaRaia In No Hurry For New Sergeant's List

Mayor LaRaia indicated Tuesday that he is in no hurry to have a new civil service list drawn to fill three vacancies for sergeant on the Quincy Police Department.

The old list expired Feb. 17.

"We are trying to economize," the Mayor said. "The position of sergeant pays $22,000 plus on the average. That represents a lot of money. The city just doesn't have it."

"I'm not in any hurry to get a new list. The department is operating satisfactorily now. There are no staff restraints because of it."

The Mayor denied that he plans to make any provisional appointments to the posts from outside the civil service lists.

Sheets Bill Would Require

Majority Approval On Charter Changes

Rep. James A. Sheets (D-Quincy) has proposed an amendment to the Massachusetts Constitution providing that any municipal charter change be approved by a majority of the people of the community as well as the State Legislature.

"This recommended constitutional change is the direct result of a recent effort of a majority of the Boston City Council and Mayor White to seek major charter changes for the city without approval of the people," said Sheets.

The amendment is co-sponsored by Rep. John A. Businger (D-Brookline).

Sheets, who was one of five Democrats to oppose the Boston charter change in the Local Affairs Committee and also on the House floor, said at the time he was against making substantive changes in the Boston charter without a vote of the people.

If the effort to amend the Constitution is successful, the change would go into effect in 1982.

$67,546 Contract For Germantown Mini-Park

Construction of a mini-park off Bicknell St. in Germantown, including Little League baseball fields and gardens for the elderly, will begin this spring and is expected to be completed in early summer.

Mayor LaRaia signed a $67,546 contract with L. Russo Construction, Inc., of Fitchburg for construction of the park, which has been planned since 1969. It will be funded jointly by the city and the federal government.

LaRaia called it "a much-needed facility in an area which has only Snug Harbor School for recreation purposes.

"The park will see a new Little League field, community gardens, beach reconstruction, walk-ways, benches, picnic tables, picnic grills and landscaping.

"The city's Planning Department has worked extensively with the Germantown neighborhood's senior citizens and tenants groups to solicit their input in the development of the park."

Sheets Sees 'One Huge Jam'

Expressway Lane Shutdown May Dump MBTA Commuters On Quincy

The southbound lane of the Southeast Expressway is about to be shut down while the overhead section at the Mass. Ave. exit in Boston is replaced.

As a result, thousands of new MBTA commuters may be dumped on the streets and stations of Quincy.

And no one is doing a darn thing about it.

"We are going to run into one huge traffic jam in April," says City Councillor and State Rep. James A. Sheets. "And I haven't seen any effort really made to handle this."

The Mass DPW plans to start preparing April 6 to reroute southbound traffic onto northbound lanes and northbound traffic onto the frontage road while construction of the new overhead, starting in late May, is going on.

"Traffic delays are expected to develop on the Expressway," says the DPW.

Sheets said last week that, in an effort to spur the state into alternative commuting plans, the South Shore legislative delegation will meet with Transportation Secretary Frederick P. Salucci and MBTA Chairman Robert F. Kiley next Tuesday in the State House to discuss the problem.

"I'll present a resolution to the City Council next Monday [March 7] asking a meeting of the Transportation Committee at 6 p.m. March 10 to deal with the specific impact of the Expressway closing on Quincy," said Sheets.

"I see two major problems for Quincy resulting from the overuse of our three MBTA stations as people seek alternative means of getting to work.

"One will be a substantial increase in traffic on the city streets as these people try to find places to park or are driven to the stations by members of their families. We are going to have to explore the public safety aspects.

"Second, we're going to have an increased boarding count of passengers, on which our MBTA assessment is figured."

Sheets said special legislation is now being drawn up for filing by March 10 which would freeze the boarding count at the three Quincy stations at April-October, 1976, levels.

City Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. asked support for such legislation at the last meeting of the City Council.

"The state is ill prepared for this emergency," said Sheets.

"The legislative delegation is going to have to take the ball and run with it to see that the MBTA and Transportation Department make a meaningful effort to provide for it.

"The only talk I've heard so far is the use of diamond lanes for car pools. It hasn't worked in California and we can't assume it will work here.

"We have one month from the date of our meeting to get any program implemented."

The latest report on the situation from the Mass DPW was dated Dec. 16.

It described a series of "voluntary measures" planned to reduce traffic delays - including limited improvements in MBTA service, additional fringe parking lots for buses and carpools and incentives for carpools.

DPW Commissioner John J. Carroll said most of these "voluntary measures" would begin in the spring.

Work Now On Contract

LaRaia Releases Fleming As Assistant City Solicitor

City jobs held by Labor Negotiator Joseph McParland and Asst. City Solicitor Robert Fleming have been eliminated as fulltime posts and the work will be done on a contract basis, Mayor LaRaia has announced.

The Mayor said Sandford Kowal, a partner in the Boston law firm of Sallop, Kowal and Davis, will handle labor negotiator chores on a fee for services basis. McParland was paid $18,000 for the job.

Alphonse Query, who is town counsel for Walpole, will fill Fleming's old $16,000 post, also on a fee for services basis. Query represented the Mayor during the cemetery investigation in 1971-72.

Fleming, who was a holdover from the administration of former Mayor Walter J. Hannon, was retained by LaRaia for a term that expired Feb. 7. He was not reappointed and will be terminated tomorrow [Friday].

The city still has two fulltime solicitors, Thomas F. Williams and his assistant, Louise Bertucci. LaRaia branded as "completely false" reports that Williams and Bertucci also are due for the axe.

LaRaia called the elimination of the two jobs an economy move.

Kowal, who is considered an expert on labor law, served as labor negotiator for the city during the administration of former Mayor James R. McIntyre.

Another little thing that makes us big:

Keeping the Security in Social Security. Mrs. Ruth Staple has lived in Quincy all her life, and she's been a customer of ours for over 32 years. Last August she came to us and asked... but we'll let her tell it in her own words:

"What I needed was a safe, convenient way to get my Social Security check to the bank once a month. So Quincy Savings told me about Social Security Direct Deposit.

I signed up right away. Now my check goes straight into my N.O.W. checking account every month. I earn 5% interest, and I never have to worry that my check will be lost or delayed. So thanks, Quincy Savings. Thank you very much."

Thank you, Mrs. Staple.

Former Delivery Room Suite

For Patients, Nurses Quincy Hospital's Rice Pavillion: 'A Happy Place To Be'

By KAREN WEBBER

A friendly, community atmosphere with a touch of home can be found in the Rice Pavillion at Quincy City Hospital.

The pavillion, located in an older section of the hospital, houses mostly women with gynecological problems. It offers a different approach to patient care. The patient areas are in a cluster with the head nurse. Being the clearly visible center. A special comradery among patients develops.

"It's a happy place to be," said Marjorie DiMattio, one of the nursing supervisors who works in the ward. "It has real atmosphere."

The Rice Pavillion was once the old delivery room suite at Quincy City Hospital. It's connecting annex served as the hospital's nursery. For a period of time the area was used for storage. It was gradually changed into a center for GYN patients and has been housing these patients for the past three to four years.

The old delivery room suite now accommodates nine patients. Each patient has her own tiny alcove, complete with brightly colored curtains. The nurse's desk is in the center of the room with necessary medical equipment nearby. The area also has a nourishment center, where patients can have a cup of coffee or small snack. The annex now has a similar set-up with room for six patients.

Mrs. Martha Zenopoulos, director of nurses at Quincy City Hospital, feels the pavillion's set-up is very special.

"It's an intimate, small setting that lends itself to a certain approach to care. The tone is set by the nursing personnel."

Mrs. DiMattio and Mrs. Zenopoulos agree one reason for Rice Pavillion's success is its head nurse, Miss Linda Anderson.

"It's really her that makes the place," Mrs. DiMattio said. "She does so many little things. During the holidays she dresses up the ward with decorations. Most important, she has a real feeling for people."

Miss Anderson has strong feelings about Rice.

"It's a nice ward, best in the place!" she said. "But," she added, "I'm a little bit prejudiced. The patients are good. They help each other and give each other support. We usually have time to give them a little extra care."

An important part of patient care at Rice is the effect patients have on each other. Since most of the women have similar problems, the head nurse can discuss problems and treatments in a group. A group discussion often brings up questions that may not have been thought of if the patient had been dealt with individually.

The patients can also give moral support. Patients often relate their experiences to those just being admitted.

"There's a real sense of caring for others," Mrs. DiMattio said. "You can get a lot of support when discussing similar kinds of problems."

A cluster set-up like Rice Pavillion is being considered in building plans for other hospitals. This may be the floor plan of the future for hospital care.

"We're going back to remembering the importance of the visibility of the nurse as an emotional support for the patient," Mrs. Zenopoulos said.

Mrs. DiMattio feels patients in the cluster setting recuperate faster.

"The nurse is very aware. Everything is right there. She doesn't have to run up and down the halls to semi-private rooms. Patients can see others with the same problems progressing at a certain speed."

"Sometimes it's almost like a game or competition to get well quickly," Mrs. Zenopoulos said.

The Rice Pavillion philosophy seems to work. Many patients who need to return to the hospital for additional care request the ward rather than a private or semi-private room.

"Sometimes it doesn't matter if you have the most glamorous setting. The little things count. The most important thing is the nurses' attitudes and dedication. They really do care," Mrs. Zenopoulos commented. "It's a very beautiful thing to see."

FIRE PREVENTION TIPS

Taking steps toward fire prevention should be second nature. Our families and homes are important.

1. Check your wiring system often. Make sure it's adequate to handle appliances, especially the new larger ones. Frayed cords should be repaired.
2. Remember, built up grease can catch fire on the stove.
3. Store gasoline and other flammables in tight metal containers. Oil soaked rags also go in these types of cans.
4. Use flammable liquids outdoors or near enough ventilation to disperse vapors. Don't use flammable liquids near heat or while smoking.
5. It's dangerous to smoke in bed. Don't do it even if you think you're wide awake. When emptying ashes into wastebaskets, check that all butts are out.

6. Keep a fire extinguisher handy. You may never have to use it...but it's smart to have one around - just in case.
7. Keep bedroom doors closed when you sleep. The closed door will keep most of the deadly gases out for a while, giving you a chance to escape.

A funeral is no place for on-the-job training.

Someday you will be called on to arrange a funeral and have to make a lot of important decisions with little time for deliberation.

A new booklet tells you much of what you will need to know...about funeral costs, optional services available, and the countless little details that could add to your grief...if you're not prepared for them. Offered as a public service by National Selected Morticians it tells you now what someday you'll have to know. And it could keep you from spending more than you should, or may need to, for a funeral.

Mail the coupon or telephone us for your free copy. Because the more you know about funerals, the better we, or any other funeral director, can serve you.

FBI Still Probing Here

Quincy, which has had its clean community image tarnished the past few months, is now a city full of rumors and speculation.

If even one or two of the current rumors turn out to be fact, Quincy will be wearing a black eye for years to come.

Quincy residents who work in Boston or west or north of it now have to endure such needling as having their hometown referred to as "The Revere of the South Shore" or "Quincygate".

It's not a pretty scene. It's not a very proud chapter in Quincy's history.

Is there more to come or are those fast spreading rumors just that—rumors?

Time will tell. But, there is basis for the rumors.

The FBI is still poking around Quincy carrying out an investigation into certain areas. Agents were definitely here up until a few days ago—and may still be here.

They seem to be most interested in a certain appoint book, in certain figures and in a certain period of time during December.

Hopefully, the FBI probe will soon be concluded and if sufficient evidence is uncovered than it will be presented to a federal grand jury as soon as possible.

Until the investigation is completed, the rumors will persist. Quincy, we hope, will get the truth—and the whole truth—soon.

CITY HALL sources think Senator-Council President Arthur Tobin is very close to announcing his candidacy for Mayor.

A LOT of people in Quincy would like to see a "fresh" political face in this year's mayoral election. Well, it looks like they may have one.

Atty. Thomas Barron, 39, of Summit Ave., Wollaston, with an office in downtown Quincy is warming up to a run.

A political unknown, he has had one campaign social held for him on Edwards St., Quincy Point and a couple more are being planned. "I plan to take out nomination papers," he confirms.

Right now he's conducting what he calls low-profile, grass-roots get-togethers with voters who feel the city needs a fresh face at City Hall.

"If I can get enough people with me I think I can be heard," he says. "I am disturbed at some of the things in the city right now and think a political unknown could help solve them. I have no political connections with anyone."

Tom Currier of Hum 'n Strum fame underwent open heart surgery in Falls Church, Va., last week. Harry Carlson, the Dorchester tire dealer checked with Tom's wife, Helen, and reports the operation was successful and Tom is coming along fine. He's going to be in the hospital about six weeks. If you would like to send him a card send it to:

Tom Currier, Fairfax Hospital, 3300 Gallows Rd., Room 278, Falls Church, Va., 22043.

He'd love to hear from you.

CONGRESSMAN James A. Burke will be honored on his 67th birthday Saturday, March 26 at the Chateau de Ville, Randolph. Tickets are $20 per and reportedly are going fast. Rep. Michael P. Feeney is general chairman, former House Speaker John McCormack and present House Speaker Thomas O'Neill are honorary co-chairmen. And the rest of the committee reads like a local political "Who's Who"—Democrat, Republican and Independent.

FRESHMAN Rep. Michael Morrissey intends to stay close to his constituents. He plans to open a district office in the Norfolk Downs area in a few weeks. He will be available to constituents there personally three or four days a week and will have the office staffed daily. He has not yet pinpointed the exact location.

POLICE Lt. David Rowell must have been a bit shocked reading a Boston newspaper that identified him as the undercover agent involved in the Mayor LaRaia-Chief Finn court battle. It was a typo boo-boo on the part of the newspaper. Rowell is not the undercover man.

THERE WERE SOME anxious moments before the Kiwanis International Youth Hockey Tournament got underway at the Quincy Youth Arena last week. The day before the tourney was to open, the zamboni conked out.

A couple dozen or so hectic phone calls were made trying to find a replacement engine. But no go.

Finally, someone got the word to Senator-City Council President Arthur Tobin. In short order he was in contact with MDC Commr. John Snedeker who rounded up a repair crew. And they got the zamboni working—just 20 minutes before the first game started.

"It was," said Beverly Reinhardt, rink manager, "a nail chewing experience."

ALE: Alternative Learning Experience

'New School' To Open Here Next Fall

There is a new school opening in Quincy next fall.

It's called an Alternative Learning Experience (ALE) and it will open to 125-150 volunteer and selected Quincy High School students from Grades 10 through 12 in the old Quincy Courthouse on Coddington St.

"It is designed for students who find the high school too big and impersonal," says School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, "and who prefer to work in a smaller, more personal and more structured environment."

The Quincy school system is accepting applications now.

The school will be a tightly knit community of six teachers and 125-150 students who will study a curriculum similar to that of Quincy High School, except that the ALE youngsters will not have to move around to classes.

Everything will be concentrated in the old courthouse building, except the laboratories, gymnasium and art and music classes which will be taken at Quincy High.

The new ALE schools, says Dr. Creedon, is a step toward both ends, conservative and liberal, of the educational scale.

"It is highly structured in that there will be the same six teachers all the time," he says. "They make up a team structure like we have on the junior high school level."

"It is liberal in that they get to know the teachers and share in the planning. The demands on the students are tighter and there is a closer relationship to the teacher."

Dr. Creedon says he is not sure how many of the students who are in need of alternative learning experience will volunteer.

"If there are more than 150, we will have to set up some type of screening process," he says. "If there are too few, we will have to reassess our plans to see if it is worth having a full time staff."

Teachers assigned to ALE are Ron Martin and Wayne Hamilton, language arts; Charles MacLaughlin, science; Carol Wayne, social studies; Elaine Zajchowski, mathematics and Harry Carter, business education.

"Every student will be known on a personal basis by an adult who will guide the student's educational and social progress," says the brochure that was sent out recently to the parents of Quincy High and Vo Tech Schools students.

"The teacher-advisor will be in a position to aid the student by changing a program, planning an individual course of study, providing information on career opportunities, and finally, be someone who cares enough to listen and respond."

"The student's needs and goals will determine what particular plan of action will be employed to insure the maximum success of a student in the ALE program."

The students enrolled in ALE will be considered members of the Quincy High School student body and thus eligible to participate in all extra-curricular activities.

"The concept is not new," says Dr. Creedon. "It has been in the professional literature since the late 1960s. Increasingly, high schools are doing it. Two or three towns in the general area are trying it."

"It's not our first effort to install something like this in the Quincy school system. Hopefully, we have learned by our mistakes of the past."

On a broader plane, the ALE school is a tentative step toward the "public schools of choice" concept first advocated by Dr. Creedon on a position paper published in May, 1971.

The rationale to "public schools of choice" is that the schools within a city should not necessarily be organized on a geographic basis but rather on the needs and desires of the students and their parents.

Wrote Creedon in the 1971 paper:

"Although Quincy is no longer a one approach school system and alternative patterns are emerging, there is still little real choice offered students and parents."

"We are tied to the neighborhood school concept and enrollment is based on geography and street address, rather than on identification with and commitment to a particular process of education."

"We must be prepared to take the next logical step and open enrollment in each school beyond the traditional neighborhood lines to the entire city."

"As each school faculty continues to interpret the goals and organize independently to realize those goals, then each has an obligation to state not only their goals and objectives but also their organizational pattern."

"Then students and their parents should be able to select from among the various alternatives, city-wide, the school of their choice."

A similar choice, Dr. Creedon points out, is offered to the parents of students who choose to attend private schools.

Tobin Urges Mayor Establish Energy Policy Committee

Sen. Arthur H. Tobin has urged Mayor Joseph LaRaia to establish an energy policy committee to direct the attention of the citizens of Quincy to the nation's severe energy problems.

"Our new President," said Tobin, "is obviously very concerned about our energy needs and supplies and it seems to me that those of us in policy-making positions at the local level must join forces with him and move forward locally to help ourselves."

Tobin suggested that a five-member committee be established utilizing the expertise available in the city departments and private industry.

This committee would concern itself first with energy conservation in schools and public buildings and then expand to the private sector.

Tobin said that an Energy Committee could call on existing state and federal resources, such as the Massachusetts Energy Policy Office, to formulate an energy program which would cut costs for the city and conserve fast diminishing fuel supplies at the same time.

Revaluation Topic For Ward 2 Civic Association

The Ward 2 Civic Association will meet on Tuesday, March 8 at 8 p.m. in the Fore River Clubhouse, 17 Nevada Rd. Speaker will be Anthony Grasso, Chief of the State Property Tax Bureau.

Grasso will discuss the new mandate requiring all cities and towns to re-evaluate their existing property so as to equal 100 percent of its market value by 1978. In particular, he will explain why this re-evaluation is warranted and how the expected increase in property tax will affect the taxpayers of Quincy.

The association's April 12 meeting will feature James Stone, Commissioner of Insurance for Massachusetts. Stone will discuss automobile insurance rates and the new merit system.

The public is invited to attend both meetings.

the temporary injunction.

"He is equally enjoined from reviewing the records," said the Mayor. "Why is the Chief restricting his own officer, someone who works in his own department? Is he afraid of something?"

Mayor LaRaia was reluctant to give details of his latest clash with the Police Department in which he sought signed releases from eight police officers giving LaRaia added, "is that the issue is not the Chief against the Mayor. The issue is between the Chief on one side and one of his officers and the Mayor on the other."

The name of Lt. Corady Solimini, whom LaRaia named inspector of divisions in the Police Department in the first controversial appointment of his administration, also appears on access to their academic records at Northeastern University.

"It is an ongoing situation that has just begun," he said. "We won't be able to complete that for another two weeks."

"It's just a matter of accountability of time being spent and whether money being spent is spent for the purpose for which it has been authorized. We want to see if they were working exclusively on their jobs."

Around The Clock Emergency Service At Hospital

Mayor LaRaia has signed a contract with Emergency Medical Services, Inc., of Boston to provide emergency services 24 hours a day at Quincy City Hospital.

The agreement, which runs until Jan. 1, 1978, means that a maximum staff of 15 permanent full-time physicians will be available at the Hospital for emergency treatment and first aid.

The services will be provided on a fee basis with charges to the patients subject to approval by the hospital director and board of managers. Fees for services beyond emergency treatment will be assumed by the hospital.

"Specialists for emergency services are becoming a trend for hospitals in Massachusetts," said Mayor LaRaia. "The services for which the hospital has contracted will greatly enhance preparedness for accident-type cases."

The first lighthouse in the U.S. was built in 1719 on Little Brewster Island to guard Boston Harbor.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS By Tom Henshaw

Popularity, 1927 Style: ‘Smoking, Drinking, And Petting’

Miss Edith Chapman, president of the Wollaston Women's Christian Temperance Union, warned members at a meeting in the Union Congregational Church that "popularity today means smoking, drinking and petting."

"Mothers and older people of today should realize that there is something else besides being popular. Popularity is only a passing thing, anyway. There is such a thing as being distinctive and belonging to the aristocracy of decency."

CITY VS. NEW HAVEN RAILROAD

The city of Quincy and the New Haven Railroad were fighting on several fronts.

Mayor Thomas J. McGrath filed suit in Norfolk Superior Court to force the New Haven to eliminate grade crossings on its Old Colony branch at the Quincy and Quincy Adams stations.

"The procedure may be somewhat expensive," said the Mayor, "but it is undertaken in behalf of a long-suffering city and in the interest of public safety and convenience."

Meanwhile, the Montclair Improvement Association demanded that the New Haven construct a bridge over the tracks at the Norfolk Downs station where 5-year-old Margaret Rogers was killed on March 1.

"A life was snuffed out the other day at Norfolk Downs railroad station," said MIA Secretary Drury W. Engley. "There is no protection at present and there will be more fatal accidents."

Engley suggested that, if not a bridge, then a bell and red light at the crossing or the "tracks could be fenced off and a subway built." Sixty-six trains a day stopped at the station.

DOWN WITH HOMEWORK!

School Supt. James N. Muir told members of the Massachusetts Field School PTA that he was all for a longer school day and less homework for youngsters in the Quincy school system.

"After a child has done his day's work in school," he said, "he should not be expected to carry a barrel of books home and pore over them."

Despite Council's Reaction

Central Maintenance Facility A Success, Says Casey

The Central Maintenance Facility is a success, says acting Director Arthur Casey, despite an almost total lack of enthusiasm on the part of the City Council, which holds the purse strings.

The Facility was set up by Mayor LaRaia to maintain city-owned vehicles in one place but the City Council has refused to authorize a salary for its director. Casey, who is also the Mayor's executive secretary, has been acting director since November.

The facility, which has operated on a budget of $461,000, may be in a position to return money to the city treasury at the end of the fiscal year, said Casey, and if it just breaks even, it will have saved the taxpayers about $137,000.

"We could have saved a lot more money if the facility had not been denied a fulltime director," said Mayor LaRaia. "But instead of getting support from the City Council we got opposition. That's why I'm happy it's a success."

Casey said he invited all nine members of the City Council to inspect the facility around Christmas but only Councillors Paul D. Harold and John J. Lydon Jr. accepted the invitation.

Councillor Warren Powers received an unscheduled tour of the building when he came down during a snowstorm, Casey said. "When we turn money back to the city at the end of the year, they can't dispute its effectiveness then," added Casey.

Cerasoli Opposes Proposed FR Bridge Closing Restriction

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli [D-Quincy] has joined the chorus of disapproval of proposed Coast Guard regulations that would keep the Fore River Bridge closed during commuter rush hours to all but vessels with a draft of more than 30 feet.

The First District Coast Guard is listening to comments on the proposal until March 14 when they will be forwarded to Washington for final action.

The Coast Guard proposed last September that the bridge, which carries busy Route 3A across the Fore River, not be open during rush hours for any vessel but it was withdrawn as possibly "detrimental to the marine interests located above the bridge."

Two of those interests, the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard and the Cities Service Oil Co. terminal in East

Stratree, have denounced the new proposal, too.

Cerasoli, in a letter to W. J. Naulty, chief of bridge operations for the First Coast Guard District, suggested that the ban "be solely one of preventing pleasure and recreational vehicles from passing through the bridge during the hours you listed."

Said Cerasoli: "I agree that the exclusion of all marine traffic through the Fore River Bridge during morning and afternoon rush hours would be detrimental to the marine interests located above the bridge."

"I can understand how commuting motorists might be upset in waiting for the drawspan to open during rush hours for pleasure and luxury boats. I think you recognize the inconvenience of this kind of boat traffic."

But, Cerasoli pointed out, the proposed regulation would also ban most commercial traffic, too.

"You should be aware of the fact that the draft of barges that carry LNG spheres through the bridge to the shipyard have a draft of approximately six feet which means that no barge would be able to pass through that bridge during rush hour."

"You should also be aware of the fact that there are vessels that traffic to the Cigo terminal that have a draft of less than 30 feet. Therefore, you are targeting for prohibition commercial traffic that you did not want to disrupt."

Cerasoli called for a meeting among the Coast Guard, the industries on the river and elected officials "to discuss an equitable solution in this matter."

QCA To Hear Harold Proposed Charter Changes

The Quincy Citizens Association was scheduled to meet Wednesday, at 8 p.m. at the Montclair Men's Club, Holbrook Rd., North Quincy.

Councillor Paul Harold was to outline his proposal for changes in Quincy's charter. A business meeting with reports from the dinner-dance committee, the program book committee, the Citizen-of-the-Year Award committee and the Scholarship committee were also on the agenda.

Tickets for the 10th annual anniversary dinner-dance to be held April 16, are available.

Point-Webster Advisory Board To Discuss Parking

The Quincy Point Junior High-Daniel Webster School Parent Advisory Board will hold a public meeting Tuesday, March 8, in the Webster School to discuss parking problems around the D & M Products building on Lancaster St.

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli [D-Quincy] said the meeting will seek "guidelines needed to prevent D & M Products from parking trucks and other vehicles across streets and sidewalks used by school children."

"This meeting is necessary in order for us to strike a compromise with D & M Products, so that our school children will not be adversely affected in the months to come," he said.

Morrissey Helps Rescue Traffic Bill With Maiden Speech

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) delivered his maiden speech on the House floor Monday and helped to rescue a bill from the brink of defeat.

Morrissey, a freshman legislator, spoke out against an adverse report by the Public Safety Committee on a bill that would permit motorists to make right turns on red lights with suitable caution.

Speaking off the cuff for two minutes, Morrissey listed the benefits of the bill, including fuel savings, and the fact that 45 states have already accepted the philosophy behind it.

Reps. Barbara E. Gray of Framingham and Belden G. Bly, Jr. of Saugus also spoke in favor of the bill, which was sent back to the committee for reconsideration.

Monday was also notable in the State House for the return to duty of House Speaker Thomas McGee of Lynn, who was out with broken ribs and a punctured lung suffered in a skiing mishap. He used the gavel with his left hand.

Gulls Still Problem

Chickatabot Reservoir To Be Drained When Weather Warms Up

Draining of the Chickatabot Reservoir in the Blue Hills will be completed as soon as we get an extended spell of warm weather, possibly this week, says Water - Commissioner Owen Eaton.

Flushing the water from the 17-acre reservoir is the first step in preparing it for inclusion in the MDC Water Supply System.

"The reservoir has been drained as much as possible now by gravity," said Eaton. "As soon as the weather breaks for an appreciable length of time we'll start pumping out the gullies in the bottom."

Once Chickatabot is drained, the bottom will be cleaned and treated with granular chlorine; then a new flow recorder and sensing device will be installed at a cost of about $12,000.

The Quincy Health Department is beginning a study of legal means to rid the area of sea gulls who have made it a resting place over the years, leaving their wastes to be drained into the water.

"The reservoir will not be placed in service until it is cleaned and the monitoring equipment is in place and the sea gulls are disposed of," said Winthrop Wade of the Health Department. "We project that for May or June."

Still another little thing that makes us big:

The drive-up teller at our main office. The big reason Dave Martin comes to Quincy Savings is the interest we pay him on his regular savings account - 5.25%, compounded daily for an effective annual yield of 5.47%.

But Dave says there are a few little things we do that matter almost as much. One of them's convenience. For Dave that means five offices in Quincy and one in Hanover. Saturday hours from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at our five branch offices. And Plus 24, our round-the-clock automatic teller.

For Dave, however, the biggest little thing is the extra-hours drive-up teller at our main office.

Why? "Because I get a chance to show off my new car. Which I bought with a loan from Quincy Savings."

Glad to help you get the wheels to drive up to our drive-up window, Dave.

BUSINESS / REAL ESTATE NEWS

John Herbert Appointed To Consumer Affairs Committee

John R. Herbert, President of Quincy Cooperative Bank, Quincy, has been appointed to the 1977 Consumer Affairs Committee of the United States League of Savings Associations. The appointment was announced in Chicago by John A. Hardin, president of the League. The U.S. League is the principal trade organization for the savings and loan business and represents over 4,500 associations throughout the country. Savings and loan associations are the second largest type of financial institution in America that specialize in attracting savings accounts for investment primarily in mortgage loans on residential property. Last year, savings associations provided approximately twice the amount of funds for home mortgage financing as all other lenders combined.

Conway Reports Record January Sales

Despite snow storms and deep freezes, sales activity at Jack Conway Co., Realtors for January was a record setting 35 percent ahead of the record best previous January in 1976 according to Vice President John R. Reardon.

Company leader was Richard Cahill, manager of the Conway Wollaston office, who made five sales for a gross of $213,000. Cahill, a former mutual fund manager, was the No. 3 person in the entire organization in 1976 and continues his solid sales pace. "We have been amazed at the response to our advertising and direct mail", said Reardon. "We had felt that the bad weather would slow the industry to a halt, but the opposite has happened."

"As I predicted a month ago, there seems to be an acceptance in America of Jimmy Carter and people are moving ahead confidently in an improving market fueled by an ample supply of mortgage money at sensible rates", added Reardon.

Charles Pearce Nominated As Vice-President Of NAMS

Charles A. Pearce, president of the $217 million Quincy Savings Bank, has been nominated as vice chairman of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, in New York.

His nomination is scheduled for approval by NAMS's membership during the organization's 57th Annual Conference May 15-18 in San Francisco, Calif.

Pearce is currently a member of the board of directors of NAMS, the trade organization of the $135 billion mutual savings bank industry. In addition, he is chairman of the Savings Bankers Washington Committee.

Also active in industry affairs at the state level, he is past president of the Savings Bank Association of Massachusetts, and is currently a member of the state association's executive committee and chairman of the SBAM Legislative Committee. He also serves on the Steering Committee of Massachusetts Purchasing Group and on the Education Committee of the Savings Bank Life Insurance Council, Mass.

Pearce is actively involved in electronic funds transfer activities at the state and regional level. He is a director of both the New England Automated Clearing House and of the Massachusetts Automated Transfer System, where he also serves on the executive committee.

CHARLES A. PEARCE

In addition, he is president of Mutual Advisory Corporation, a consortium of six Massachusetts savings banks organized in 1973 to provide marketing, accounting and other services to the participating institutions.

Pearce joined Quincy Savings Bank in 1967 as executive vice president, and was elected a trustee and president in 1968. Prior to joining Quincy Savings Bank, he was a top officer of the Ware (Mass.) Savings Bank. His background also includes extensive teaching and guidance work in various Massachusetts public school systems.

His current affiliations include: president, South Shore

Chamber of Commerce; director and member of the executive committee, Massachusetts Taxpayers Association; director, American Association of Industrial Management, Quincy YMCA and the William B. Rice Eventide Home in Quincy; trustee, Economic Education Council of Massachusetts; president, Progress for Downtown Quincy; and member, the Quincy Mayor's Task Force on MBTA and the Quincy Cultural Commission.

Pearce is a graduate of Ricker Junior College and Colby College, and received an M.Ed. from Boston University in 1954. He is a graduate of the Graduate School of Savings Banking at Brown University. He is a member of the faculty of School for Supervisory Personnel of the Savings Banks Association of Massachusetts, and of a similar school operated by the Savings Banks Associations of Maine and New Hampshire.

Other NAMS nominations announced include those of Norwick R. Goodspeed, president of the People's Savings Bank-Bridgeport, Conn., as chairman of the trade organization, and of Vincent J. Quinn, chairman and chief executive officer of the Brooklyn Savings Bank, New York City, to a second term as treasurer.

INGREDIENTS FOR INVESTMENT

Housing prices have gone up steeply since the mid-60's for two basic reasons. First, the shortage of new savings made it difficult to finance private housing, and the number of new housing units built each year was far below that what it should have been. Since there is a steady growth in population, this puts pressure on our housing reserves and prices rise.

Second, there have been inflationary increases in the labor and material costs that go into building a house. In most urban areas, land values continue to go up each year, too. Historically, real estate values have always increased faster than the cost of living. Thus, it is an excellent inflation hedge.

So here are the ready-made ingredients for a good investment.

We all need housing of some kind, and according to the experts, the price of housing will continue to go even higher, though perhaps, not as dramatically as in the past few years.

Quincy Early Qualifier

Miller Follows Nolan's Footsteps Into State Tourney

Ed Miller, first-year North Quincy head basketball coach, followed the example set by his former boss and has taken his first varsity team into the state tournament, joining cross-town rival Quincy.

In Tuesday's tournament opener North faced Boston Tech and Quincy met Catholic Memorial. If it won, North plays Framingham South at 7 tonight (Thursday) at Braintree.

Miller's predecessor, Bob Nolan, took seven of his 11 North teams into the tournament and several of those teams faced the pressure of being forced to win their six or seven games to qualify.

Miller was Nolan's assistant and junior varsity coach the last four years.

So, in his year as varsity coach, Eddie saw his team fall to 5-8 at midseason, meaning one more loss would eliminate it from the tournament consideration.

Playing under constant pressure, especially with unbeaten Rindge Tech's Suburban League leader among the teams to be faced, the Raiders went on to win their last seven games and make the 59 percent tourney qualifying figure with a 12-8 record.

North made it last week with a 64-47 win over non-league rival Revere.

"I'm delighted for the kids, they performed extremely well under constant pressure," Miller said. "We are a better team than our record shows and we could surprise someone in the tournament."

Dan Cuddy paced the attack with 18 points, John White, the team's sparkplug and "quarterback," and Mike Gill had 16 each and Jim McGinley, who played his usual strong two-way game, had nine.

Quincy, an early tournament qualifier, finished up with a 65-61 win over Brockton in a game previously snowed out, to clinch second place in the Suburban League with a 15-3 record. The Presidents were 17-3 overall.

Jack Uhlar finished a brilliant season with 18 points and a bundle of rebounds and Mike Lamie and Roger Kvam had 10 apiece.

Uhlar, named the league co-MVP with Rindge's Rudy Williams, and Lamie were selected on the first all-star team, North's White made the second team and Quincy's Ed Daley the third team.

Matmen Win 5 Medals

The Quincy and North Quincy wrestling teams didn't win any championships in last weekend's state meet at Waltham but did come away with five medals.

Quincy, which had qualified nine for the states, finished seventh and North, with five qualifiers, 11th among 43 teams.

The Presidents took two medals as Gary Oriola was second in the 141 pound class and Len Picot third in the 188 pound division.

The Raiders took three medals. Rich Schiarizzi was third at 115 pounds, Ed Beck fourth at 107 and Karl Knudsen fourth among the heavyweights.

LaRaia Seeks Way To Link East, West Downtown Areas

Mayor LaRaia has named three department heads to study ways of linking the two areas of downtown Quincy that will be created when the MBTA tracks are laid through the middle of the central business district.

Named to examine alternatives were Planning Director L. Norman Lundin, Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson and Downtown Development Director James Eddy.

They have been given two weeks to come up with recommendations.

The Grossman-Turnstyle shopping area, now separated from the main part of the business center by the old New Haven Railroad tracks, will be all but totally sealed off when the MBTA line to South Braintree is in operation.

One plan that has been advanced is to depress the tracks so that traffic will be able to pass over them between the two shopping areas. But the MBTA has been reluctant to do so.

"If this attitude continues," said Mayor LaRaia, "and the tracks are not depressed then the Quincy Square area would be permanently divided. We must have other feasible alternatives to unite the areas."

He said the MBTA has indicated it would favor working out a plan "which would solve our access problem at no cost to the city while at the same time allow the MBTA to avoid any delays in its construction program."

"I have instructed Messrs. Lundin, Anderson and Eddy to examine the plan to depress the tracks as well as develop other possibilities to keep the unity of Quincy Square intact," said the Mayor.

Work To Start On John Adams

Statue For Freedom Park

Work will get underway shortly on a statue of President John Adams to be placed in Freedom Park, possibly before the end of the year, according to Dr. Donald MacLeod, president of Freedom Park, Inc.

The statue, contracted for with the A. Monti Granite Co. of Quincy, is to be located about 150 feet north of Dimmock St., on a foundation laid during construction of the first section of the park.

The base of the statue will be about five feet high and made of Quincy granite. The statue itself will be some seven feet tall and made of Westerly granite, similar to the statue of Robert Burns at the corner of Granite St. and Upland Rd.

The statue will be financed by $8,000 from the Bicentennial Commission and matching funds of $5,000 raised through gifts from the business community and individual donors.

Rev. John D. Banks was finance chairman and Charles Pearce, president of the Quincy Savings Bank, headed the fund raising effort among Quincy financial institutions, who provided almost half the matching funds.

Development of the park has been under the general direction of C. Richard Mead of the Quincy Planning Department. It was dedicated in ceremonies July 5, 1976.

Antonelli, Koch, McKinnon Win First Chamber Leadership Awards

South Shore Chamber of Commerce President, Charles A. Pearce, announces winners of the Chamber's First Annual Leadership Awards in three categories representing the qualities of leadership in their respective fields.

The winners are:
Larry Antonelli of Quincy, president of L. Antonelli Iron Works, as South Shore Businessperson of the Year; Sen. Allan R. McKinnon of Weymouth, South Shore Legislator of the Year, and Richard J. Koch, executive secretary of the Quincy Recreation-Park Board, South Shore Citizen of the Year.

Pearce said the selections were made by the Executive Committee in line with the Chamber's role to recognize and commend those individuals who are providing leadership in South Shore Communities.

Presentations of the three awards will be made by Pearce at the Chamber's annual meeting Friday, March 18, at The Lantana, Randolph.

Antonelli opened the L. Antonelli Iron Works in 1947 in a small shop on Willard St., West Quincy. There were only four employees and the output was light structural steel and small iron products.

Today, there are 100 employees, and the firm fabricates huge steel beams, intricate joists and a variety of steel products and ornamental iron. The original plant has been increased 10-fold, with a second plant location on Penn St., South Quincy, for the manufacturing of steel bar joists and longspan joists.

The Antonelli Iron Works also has moved with the technology of the times. Where once the fabrication of the steel products, drilling and welding, was done slowly by hand, computerized machines now carry out the processes with the speed and accuracy demanded by today's competitive market.

Pearce said credit for this growth, and its example of leadership for other South

Election Warming Up

Tull In Mayoral Ring, 2 Women Announce For School Committee

By TOM HENSHAW

The Quincy election pot started to bubble this week and indications are that it will soon be in full boil.

Nomination papers are not yet available and the September date for the preliminary election has not yet been set but already four candidates have made their appearance:

For Mayor — George M. Tull, attorney and former member of the Board of Hospital Managers and the Board of Zoning Appeals.

For City Council, Ward 6 — Mrs. Joanne Condon, administrative assistant in the Quincy Community Action program and former president of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association.

For School Committee — Mrs. Mary Collins, housewife and member of the Educational Development Committee of the Quincy Public Schools; and Mrs. Joan Picard, Quincy businesswoman and mother.

The big hat is expected in the mayoralty ring in a couple of weeks.

Sources close to City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, the leading critic of Mayor Joseph LaRaia on the Council, say that Tobin is "99 per cent sure" to announce his candidacy, probably within two weeks.

Mayor LaRaia has not said either way but he is expected to run for re-election.

The municipal election is scheduled for Nov. 8 but, says Assistant City Clerk Thomas Burke, the date for the preliminary election that narrows the field to two candidates for each seat probably will be set by the City Council sometime in June.

The date of availability and deadline for nomination papers also is dependent upon the Council action.

Two years ago, Tobin was on the verge of announcing for mayor but changed his mind. Some observers think he may yet do the same this year.

Then incumbent Walter Hannon was upset by LaRaia in one of the city's bitterest mayoral campaigns.

LaRaia, whose administration has been beset by problems and rocked by the arrest of two of his high level appointees and the conviction of a minor one, would be seeking his second term if he makes a re-election bid. Some observers think he may not be a candidate, however.

Others being mentioned as possible candidates are Rep.-Councillor James Sheets, Rep. Thomas Brownell and Hannon.

Tull Sees:

'City So Divided, No One Is At The Helm'

The first hat sails into the mayoral ring Thursday afternoon.

Atty. George M. Tull, 63, former member of the Board of Hospital Managers and the Board of Zoning Appeals, is announcing his candidacy during an open house from 5-7 p.m. at Caesar's Restaurant and Delicatessen, 16 Cottage Ave., Quincy Center.

"The political situation in Quincy is so divided that there is no one at the helm," Tull told The Sun. "No one is planning for the future of our city."

"I feel that we have gotten away from the old theory that a politician should be a public servant. Representatives of the people should be just that."

"Any man holding public office, especially that of Mayor, should serve his constituents and he isn't doing that when he is raising taxes.

"The planners of the city should emphasize its natural assets and use them to bring in new enterprises to broaden the tax base."

Tull was born in Boston but lived his early years in Quincy, then became a ward of the state for several years after his parents died. He relocated in Quincy after World War II, in which he served in the Navy.

He opened the first coin-operated laundry in Quincy, on Washington St., Quincy Point, after the war.

He attended the Staley College of the Spoken Word and, after he completed the curriculum, he had to backtrack in his education when it was discovered that he had no high school diploma. He obtained one from South Boston High School in 1954. [Cont'd on Page 10]

Groans, Hisses, Applause

The Saga Of Ellen Nieters: To Be Continued

The latest chapter in the saga of Ellen Nieters vs. the Establishment unfolded amid groans, hisses and applause in the City Council Chamber Monday night and it ended as have all the others — with the line "to be continued."

Apparently, it was to have been the final chapter. Somehow word got around that the Council at last was about to vote on the confirmation of Mrs. Nieters as a member of the Quincy Housing Authority.

A film crew from Channel 7 [alerted by an anonymous letter, said Council President Arthur H. Tobin] was even on hand to record the historic moment but it had to settle for a few interviews in the Mayor's office.

Councillor John J. Quinn, chairman of the special committee reviewing Mrs. Nieters' qualifications, noted that only eight of nine councillors [James A. Sheets being in Washington] were present at the meeting.

"If the vote came out 4-4 the nominee would fail on a tie vote," he explained. "I want to be absolutely fair with the nominee that she has every opportunity of all members of the Council voting at one session."

He recessed the meeting until 5 p.m. today [Thursday] but not until both opponents and proponents of Mrs. Nieters' appointment had another round of verbal shots, some impassioned, some angry, at the Council and at the Harborview Residents Committee.

By way of synopsis, it was a committee from the HRC that screened 12 candidates for the post on the Housing Authority and gave Mrs. Nieters the highest mark. She was appointed by Mayor LaRaia Feb. 7 but the Council has refused to confirm. Monday night there were these developments:

• Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi introduced petitions signed by "in excess of 600 or 700 names ... protesting the method of selection of a potential member of the Housing Authority because more than 1,000 Senior Citizens were excluded."

• James Miller, vice chairman of the HRC and a member of the screening committee, charged

Reppucci, LoCicero Trial Probably In April

Diane Mackie of 1 Canton Rd, North Quincy, who has been active in elderly affairs in Boston, has been named interim assistant director of the Retired Senior Volunteers Program [RSVP] by Mayor LaRaia.

She will hold the post pending disposition of the case against Herbert Reppucci, who was suspended after his arrest on charges of extorting $7,000 from a Natick construction firm in connection with the Merrymount school addition contract.

A spokesman for Federal Judge Walter A. Skinner said a trial date for Reppucci and suspended Public Works Commissioner Vincent LoCicero, who faces the same charge, has not been set but it probably will be sometime in April. Both Reppucci and LoCicero have pleaded innocent.

Miss Mackie, who is 28, has been employed by the Boston Housing for the Elderly Commission, the Boston Commission on Elderly Affairs, the Visiting Aides Program and the Boston RSVP.

She is currently studying for a degree in business administration at Quincy Junior College.

Said Mayor LaRaia: "I have carefully reviewed Miss Mackie's qualifications in the field of social work and concur with the Council on Aging that she is the best qualified applicant for the position of assistant director of the RSVP."

Joan Picard School Candidate

Mrs. Joan Picard of 61 Rogers St., West Quincy, owner and director of the Let's Have Fun Nursery School in Quincy and mother of three children who attend the Gridley Bryant School, has announced her candidacy for the School Committee.

The preliminary election will be held in September.

"I feel that another woman should be on the School Committee to better represent parents of school children in Quincy," said Mrs. Picard. Mrs. Patricia Toland is the sole woman on the Committee now. "As a mother of three young children," Mrs. Picard continued, "and as a professional business person, I feel I have a closer association with the needs of the children in Quincy."

Mrs. Picard plans to obtain an associate degree in Early Childhood from Quincy Junior College in June. She also attends Bridgewater State College and was a student at Wheaton College.

She is secretary of the Wollaston Business and Professional Association and recently served as secretary of the Election Reform Commission in Quincy, which was set up by Mayor LaRaia at the suggestion of Judge Albert L. Kramer.

A life-long resident of Quincy and a 1957 graduate of Quincy High School, she is married to Tom Picard. She is a member of the PTCC at Gridley Bryant School, where their three children attend school.

Republican Panel Discussion

A panel discussion, "The GOP in Massachusetts, What Now?" will be sponsored by the Quincy Republican City Committee, Monday, March 21, at 8:15 p.m. at the Hollow Restaurant, Adams St., Quincy.

Chairman Leo Meady.

Prior to the program, the Committee will hold a business meeting at 7:30 p.m. Results of an informal straw poll taken among committee members concerning issues such as abortion, marijuana, welfare, environmental concerns, national defense, minorities, balanced budgets, and tax preferences will be announced to the public.

To Prevent Splitting Downtown

LaRaia Tells UMTA MBTA Tracks Must Be Depressed

Mayor LaRaia met with officials of the Urban Mass Transit Administration in Washington Monday to impress upon them the importance of depressing the MBTA tracks to avoid splitting the Quincy Center Business District in two parts.

On the same day, the Mayor released the report of his special committee that has been studying alternatives to depression, including bridges, tunnels and a pedestrian plaza constructed over the tracks.

Mayor LaRaia said he stressed to the UMTA officials, Richard Doyle and Ki Mana, "that the city's comprehensive downtown development plan is in jeopardy" unless the issues of environmental impact, funding delay and cost to the city are settled.

"Without a positive, definite, final decision by UMTA of these three questions," said the Mayor, "the city cannot begin to complete a comprehensive design and cost study to implement the most acceptable alternative."

He said he told Doyle and Mana that the best plan "is to depress the tracks through the square, provided that the depression will not cause a delay on the entire MBTA project, thereby jeopardizing 2,500 much needed construction jobs."

The Mayor was in Washington to attend the annual Congressional-City Conference of the National League of Cities. He was accompanied by Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson.

Anderson, Planning Director L. Norman Lundin and Downtown Development

Director James Eddy were members of the Mayor's special committee to consider alternatives to depression. Some of the alternatives they considered were:

- A pedestrian walkover bridge - "the unsightly design and unpopularity of this bridge does not appear to be a proper solution."

- A pedestrian tunnel - "prohibitively expensive...a security risk as a hideout for undesirable elements...this solution is definitely not desirable."

- A pedestrian plaza over the tracks - "a very attractive element...an attractive spot to stop and enjoy...however, cost effectiveness and integration into the overall downtown comprehensive plan would ultimately dictate how large an area would be constructed."

- Buildings on either side with a cross bridge - "entirely feasible...as the comprehensive plan is advanced to the design stage, this solution can be developed further."

- A vehicle ramp over the tracks and the Upland Rd. Extension - "such a structure would require a large amount of real estate to effect a proper solution...very difficult, if not impossible to execute."

- Parking structures with roadway connection - "a garage structure could be built on both sides of the road and track with a vehicular bridge spanning over them to effectively link the two

Council Transportation Committee To Meet

The City Council's Transportation Committee will meet tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. at City Hall to discuss impact on Quincy of the plan to sides together."

- Raise the Upland Rd. Extension - "possible to execute but would also require a large wall to be built on the Granite St. side causing a loss of visual linkage and a psychological barrier between the two halves."

The study also explored the possible "development of a crossroad from McGrath Highway across Hancock St. across the tracks and Upland Rd. Extension to Granite St. provided the necessary cross link with many peripheral benefits."

"It could help relieve the School-Granite-Chestnut St. traffic problem."

"It could provide the direct access route to the heart of the downtown core for the easy access to and from parking spaces or structures."

"It could provide the pedestrian link with broad sidewalks or plazas."

"It could provide another avenue of development for new anchor stores to broaden the retail base."

"It could provide the necessary vertical separation to provide for controlled parking for employees and service vehicles separate and distinct from the retail shoppers parking."

"This new road is eligible for 100 per cent federal and state funding, similar to Upland Rd. Extension with the only cost to the city being in the preparation of the plans and environmental statements."

Sidewalk Plowing Meeting March 16

City Councillor James A. Sheets has called a meeting for Wednesday, March 16, at 7 p.m. in City Hall to discuss school sidewalk plowing with members of parent teachers organizations from five schools in Ward 4.

Sheets said the meeting is the first of several designed to produce a master plan for snow plowing in the ward. He said a second such meeting will deal with plowing problems on dead end streets.

Also invited to the meeting are the principals of the Furnace Brook, Willard, Gridley Bryant, Lincoln-Hancock and Adams Schools and Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson and Police Chief Francis X. Finn.

Raymondi Seeks Licensing Board Action On Stabbing

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi has demanded that the Quincy Licensing Board take immediate action regarding a stabbing incident that allegedly occurred at the Ray-Al Cafe on Washington St., Quincy Point, over the weekend.

"The barrooms along Washington St. are destroying our community and the ability of the residents in the area to quietly enjoy their homes and surroundings," he told the Licensing Board Tuesday.

"I call on you, therefore, as public officials who are concerned about the future of Quincy Point to take strong and affirmative action that will resolve this problem and return integrity to the Washington St. area."

"I would like to take this opportunity to pledge to you my continuing support in this matter, and I guarantee that I shall not cease appearing before this Board on behalf of the people that I represent until such action is taken to remedy the situation."

At Women's Center

Career, Educational Counseling, Employment Top Women Interests

Quincy women would like to see the Quincy Women's Center provide career and educational counseling, employment opportunities information, and referral services according to the results of a questionnaire taken at the Open House last month.

The results of the questionnaire were announced by Women's Center director, Alicia Coletti.

Mrs. Coletti said, "The calls now being received at the Women's Center corroborate the results of the survey in that the majority have concerned job counseling. A volunteer job counselor has met with the women who have expressed this need."

Other desired services are health information, parenting, divorce support, basic home repair, women and money, personnel needs and legal services, and day care at future programs.

Two thirds of the women polled wanted the Women's Center to open evenings. New hours for the Center beginning March 22 are Mondays 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.; Tuesdays 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.; Wednesdays 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.; and Thursdays 9 a.m. to 12 noon. The Women's Center will be closed during the week of March 14 for Spring Vacation.

Women also expressed interest in Open House programs. The Women's Center and the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women will hold a Women to Women Day, Saturday, March 19 at Quincy Junior College.

For further information on any Women's Center services call 479-8445.

League Of Women Voters Publishes City Government Directory

The League of Women Voters of Quincy has published a directory of the boards and committees of the Quincy city government.

Thirty-one government groups are listed and the information about each includes: time and place of public meetings, number of members, qualifications for serving, term of office, salary and whether members are elected or appointed.

The responsibility each board has for the governing of Quincy and what a citizen must do to address each board is also listed. Citizens who are now serving on these boards and committees are listed in a special section in the booklet.

The information was gathered and published by the League in order to inform the public more fully about the local government and to encourage attendance at the public meetings.

Copies of the directory are available for use at the reference rooms of the public library and its branches. Those interested in obtaining a copy may call 471-6086 or 471-5706.

DOOR-WINDOW
BURGLAR PROOFING

There are two simple devices that will help prevent burglars from "ripping off" your home. They are a solid door and windows with burglar-resistant glazing.

A good, solid-core door is cheaper than a door with windows or thin panels in it, and it eliminates a problem of a burglar breaking through the door and unlocking the lock from the inside. Burglars can come through a window, but they prefer to come through the door. It looks much less suspicious to the passerby.

Windows can be protected with burglar-resistant glazing [glass or plastic]. A do-it-yourselfer can apply a frame of burglar-resistant glazing to the inside of the window or door, right next to the existing glass, or an expert can take out the existing glass and rebuild the frame to accommodate the extra thickness and expansion properties of the burglar-resistant glazing. Ordinary tempered safety-glass will not do the job says one expert, "burglars love tempered glass. You just take a hand punch and give it a firm tap and glass disintegrates easily, with very little noise." But for heavens sake, these burglar resistant devices do no good if you forget to lock the windows and doors when you retire or leave the house.

Turn Of Century Clothing On Exhibit At Historical Society

Clothing worn in the Quincy area at the turn of the century will be modeled and exhibited in a Quincy Historical Society fashion show in the Adams Academy building, 8 Adams St., Sunday at 3 p.m.

Thirty costumes will be modeled or exhibited representing women's clothing as well as some men's and children's clothing of the period. Among the items included are: a black and gold felt wedding cape worn by the mother of Miss Cassandra Thayer, a well-known Quincy school teacher; a complete bathing outfit of eight items including high laced cotton shoes, hose, headgear, and a parasol, a tennis outfit with full length skirt and long sleeves, and a lingerie dress described in a 1900 magazine as suitable "for the promenade or casino, for the hottest evenings and for Sunday dress; their necessary place in every wardrobe is indeed well known." The costumes will be shown with suitable accessories.

The fashion show's title "Welcome Aboard the Twentieth Century", takes its name from a popular train of the early 1900's called the Twentieth Century. Miss Helene Johnson and Mrs. Helen Wiot, Quincy Historical Society volunteers in charge of the society's large textile and clothing collection of over one thousand items, are the creators and narrators for the program. Information about the clothing was drawn from the historical society's files and from old books and magazines on fashion.

Eleven models will participate in the show. They are: Miss Mary Bair, Miss Bea Botelho, Miss Eleanor Brown, Miss Dorothy Gilbride, Mrs. Margaret Innis, Mrs. Josephine Kilbourne, Miss Brenda Pepe, Miss Kathy Sullivan, Miss Susan Toland, Mrs. Anne Warwick and Miss Elizabeth Wiot. Miss Johnson and Mrs. Wiot note that the most difficult part of getting models for the show was finding women to wear the small waisted clothing of the era, and that many of the costumes show a strong similarity with the styles of the 1970's.

Admission will be free to all Quincy Historical Society members, and 50 cents for all others. The public is invited.

Dick Koch Turning Tables On Friends

Dick Koch and his wife, Simmy, are turning the tables on their friends March 24.

They're throwing a party that night at 7:30 p.m. at the Bryan VFW Post and inviting more than 1000 to it.

The event, including a collation and dancing, will commemorate Dick's and Simmy's 30 years of service to the Quincy community.

It's their way of saying "thank you" to the many people who have helped them help so many down through those 30 years.

The event comes on the eve year of the 30th anniversary of the Koch Club which will be celebrated in 1978.

Since the start of the club, many people have helped provide wholesome recreational activities for thousands of boys and girls in Quincy.

And thousands of adults have participated in Koch Club recreational and leisure programs. Thousands of dollars have been donated to scholarships and other charitable works and hundreds of food baskets delivered to the needy at Christmas.

People who have helped Dick and Simmy do this and others who have aided them raising money for the Heart Fund, Muscular Dystrophy, Cancer Crusade, Kidney Foundation and other health agencies will be among those at the party.

Dick and Simmy will be honoring them. And that's unique because Dick and Simmy certainly are deserving of many honors themselves. It's certainly a nice gesture on their part to turn the tables on their many friends.

No doubt, though, some political observers will be wondering if Dick will be launching a campaign for mayor that night.

The fact is he has had people urging him to run for mayor. He'd be quite a formidable candidate. Between his near 30 years with the Koch Club and his many other civic activities, he certainly has one of the biggest built-in voting blocs anywhere.

And what a catchy campaign slogan: "Things Go Better With Koch".

FORMER LOCAL football great John [Butch] Mahoney may try a run in the political field. Butch who is now a social health coordinator for the Quincy schools, reportedly is seriously thinking of making a bid for mayor this fall. He was Francis Bellotti's local coordinator in the latter's successful run for attorney general.

THE BIRTHDAY PARTY for Congressman James Burke is a reported sellout—three weeks before it is to be held. Burke will be honored on his 67th birthday Friday, March 25, at the Chateau de Ville, Randolph. More than 1,000 will be on hand to salute him. The $20 per head event includes a cocktail hour at 6:45 p.m. and dinner at 7:30.

Rep. Michael P. Feeney is general chairman. New Senate Majority Leader William Buizer will be the emcee. Head table guests will include U.S. House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. and former House Speaker John McCormack.

AT THE MONTCLAIR Men's Club annual sports dinner Saturday night, Joseph Gildea passed around a large get-well card for everyone to sign and sent it to Tom Currier who recently underwent open heart surgery in Virginia.

Joe also sent along three photos taken two years ago at the Montclair dinner when Tom and his long-time Hum 'n Strum partner Max Zides were honored. Max died just a month after that dinner.

Incidentally, if you would like to send Tom a card here's how: Tom Currier, Fairfax Hospital, 3300 Gallows Rd, Room 278, Falls Church, Va. 22043.

DURING HIS RECENT visit to Israel, City Councillor Paul Harold stopped at the Jerusalem City Hall to present Mayor Teddy Kollek an honorary citizen of Quincy citation. Harold in turn was awarded a Jerusalem Pilgrim's certificate.

In addition to Harold, other Quincy residents making the trip to the Holy Land were Rev. John McMahon, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Msgr. John Mullarkey, his sisters, Margaret and Nora Mullarkey, Leo Meady, his wife, Mary, Marie LoCicero and Frank Locke.

LIVING TODAY

By Dr. William F. Knox

'Not Enough Policemen'

It is becoming increasingly clear that we do not have enough policemen ... not enough in our towns and cities, not enough State Police, not even enough at the federal level. Crime continues to increase, the use of drugs increases, more and more people are acknowledged alcoholics, there is startling revelation that child abuse is far more common than anyone would suppose who wasn't in touch with the reports. There just aren't enough policemen.

Some criminal and person-hurting people who are little known may take comfort in learning that high ranking government or business officials are pulling off gigantic deals against the common people for which they never have to pay. This, many reason, justifies the smaller acts of dishonesty, such as not making a full report to the Internal Revenue Service, or petty theft in department stores. So, I ask, where is the whole thing going to stop ... the dishonesty, the violence, the taking advantage of the other person? We just don't have enough policemen.

But, will adding policemen solve the problems of vandalism, mugging, drug addiction? Some have suggested that the way to solve such problems is to build more jails, speed up the court system, put the car thief in jail for a year ... get tough with law enforcement. Yes ... I suppose that is one way. I shudder to think of the increased injustices, the anger, the frustration, and resulting violence that would be produced. Hitler used this method ... even to the point of extermination.

I suggest a different approach ... I would like to see [and hope I live long enough to see] the fulfillment of the Biblical prophecy ... "that they shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain: for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea," as righteousness and faithfulness and love become the rules of life for all men.

You say ... "but you ... only dreaming. That kind of peace belongs only to heaven." I'm not so sure. We have had our golden ages in human history, and I believe we can have one again. Now when we have more enlightenment, more technology, more physical power than ever before in history. What we are lacking is a healthy spirit in our lives, a spirit of love, of trust, of good will to all men, of helping those in need so that they can stand on their own feet and live fulfilling lives. This is possible, even in our times. When it does come about, the "desert will blossom as the rose."

But how is this possible? It must start with the individual ... a new love for oneself, then for others in one's family and community. The rule would be: WHAT IS GOOD FOR PEOPLE, not how can I outdo my neighbor. The guidelines would be the tested experiences of the best that we have known. Families and individuals would need to get comfortable with living lives of love rather than a dog-eat-dog kind of life. Courageous leaders from the White House to the State House to your house and mine would need to be comfortable with talking and seeking to know and do God's will in each circumstance of our living. Then ... we would need fewer policemen.

Donato, Italy. Before starting in business, he prepared himself by attending Quincy Trade School, Lowell Institute of Technology and the Franklin Union.

Senator McKinnon, recently promoted to Majority Whip, was first elected to the Massachusetts Senate in 1971, and for most of that time has served as chairman of the Commerce and Labor Committee.

Agency and the State Land Bank.

A native of Weymouth, McKinnon attended schools in that town, received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Tufts University and a Master of Education degree from Bridgewater State College.

He lives at 78 Cottage Lane with his wife, Anne [McLaughlin], and his four children, Kerin, Kevin, Sean and Megan.

Koch, has spent a lifetime of being a good neighbor and a good citizen of the South Shore, Pearce said.

He is founder and executive director of the Koch Club of Quincy, soon to celebrate its 30th anniversary. Over the years, 60,000 boys and girls and 15,000 men and women have participated in its activities.

Koch is a member of numerous business and civic organizations, including the Heart, Cancer and Muscular Dystrophy Associations. He is a trustee of the Norfolk County Agricultural School. He was named one of the 10 outstanding young men of Greater Boston in 1957 by the Greater Boston Junior Chamber of Commerce, chosen citizen of the year by the Quincy Jewish War Veterans in 1963, and was awarded a plaque of merit by the West Quincy Boy Scout Troop No. 32 for leadership in youth activities.

Tull First Mayoral Candidate

[Cont'd from Page 1]

Tull went to the New England School of Law and opened a law office in Quincy in 1959. He is a past president of the Quincy Bar Association, a member of the Norfolk County and Massachusetts Bars, and the American Trial Lawyers.

He is licensed to practice before the United States Supreme Court.

He was a member of the Board of Hospital Managers for eight years, including two terms as chairman, and a member of the Board of Zoning Appeals also for eight years.

Tull is a member of the Disabled American Veterans, the American Legion, Amvets and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He is a past adjutant of the Quincy Veterans Council. He also belongs to the Sons of Lebanon and the One Hundred Club.

He and his wife, Mary, have three children, George M. Tull Jr., of Hull, Mrs. Patricia Crosthwaite of Quincy and Steven Tull of Weymouth. They have four grandchildren.

"The city of Quincy to me is probably the nicest city in New England," said Tull. "When the current situation started I got upset and concerned with what was happening.

"Large businesses like Raymond's and Gilchrist's have moved out of the city and a lot of small businesses are going too. I see the tax base eroding.

"Homeworkers are being taxed to the extent that it is driving people out of a city that was attractive in the past.

"I got a fair picture of what was happening during my eight years on the hospital board. I'd like to do something about it."

Sheriff Marshall Turns $21,769 Over To County

Sheriff Clifford H. Marshall reports $21,769.50 has been returned to the Norfolk County treasurer's office.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS By Tom Henshaw

City's First Blackout Test A Success

Quincy's first test blackout since the start of the war was pronounced a success as the city and surrounding towns went dark between 9:15 and 9:30 p.m., except for the signal lights on the New Haven Railroad and two radio tower beacons.

A police check on three Quincy families, who faced fines up to $500 and a year in prison for refusal to cooperate in the blackout, discovered that they had simply forgotten about it.

A spokesman for the Quincy Electric Light and Power Co. said that about 70 per cent of all Quincy residents went around turning off their lights rather than draw the heavy blackout curtains.

The normal load on the company's residential lines on week nights at 8 p.m. was 8,500 kilowatts. At 9:15 p.m. on the night of the blackout, however, transmission was down to 2,300 kilowatts.

WRESTLING CHAMPS

Coach Leland Anderson's Quincy High School wrestling team captured four of 11 titles in Class A and seven of 11 in Class-B to win the State High School Wrestling meet at Quincy High.

Champions in Class A were Ray O'Toole, 103 pounds; Joe Louirio, 138 pounds; Al Costley, 145 pounds; and Puck DiChristofaro, 112 pounds.

Titlists in Class B were Sanborn, 103 pounds; Moscone, 112 pounds; Hobaica, 123 pounds; Sargenti, 133 pounds; Kressler, 145 pounds; Cadger, 155 pounds; and Monaco, 165 pounds.

WARNS OF SPIES

Capt. William Ferrazzi, war officer of the Quincy Police Department, warned Quincy Rotarians to avoid arguments with strangers lest they give away information that might help the enemy.

"You would be surprised how many agents the Nazis and the Japs have in this country," he said. "When a person is always starting arguments it is well to contact the FBI. That is the way spies get information."

BUILDING BOOM

"It appears that Quincy will have one of the greatest, if not the greatest home building years in its history," said Building Inspector Alrick Weidman as contractors rushed to build houses for war workers.

Alewife Realty Trust Co. of Arlington was building a $160,000 development of 54 family units in Quincy Point and a $282,000 development of 94 family units, mostly on Quincy Shore Boulevard in North Quincy.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By Eric Swider

Providing Leadership?

It seems to me that as citizens of metropolitan Boston, we have allowed the mass media to so convince us of the absolute correctness of the concept of an Imperial President, a ruling Governor, and a strong Mayor that we forfeited our rights, and most importantly our ability, to initiate public actions almost totally to the elected segment.

Businesspeople, the best and the brightest, of our citizenry in the main avoid running for public office and avoid involvement with the political process to a point where the operation of government has been put in the hands of bureaucrats who, as the Wall Street Journal recently pointed out, possess a mentality that suggests, "I shot an arrow into the air - and where it lands is somebody else's department."

Our problem is especially acute in this metro area where the traditional "Boston political" notion and the lack of a cohesive, well organized business community has resulted in all solutions and all efforts to initiate those solutions stemming from government.

While in other parts of the nation and the state, well organized businesspeople, through voluntary association, tackle industrial development for their area; in this part of Massachusetts "economic development" has been a poorly funded, much ignored and maligned responsibility of local governments. Every city and town in the metro area has an "IDC" and most of them are under financed and understaffed. Efforts by organizations like the South Shore Chamber of Commerce to promote the retention and attraction of new business to the area are too often questioned as to the basis of our motivations.

A surprising number of people have scolded me about the Chamber trying to assume the role of government in serving as a business promotion agency. The way I see it - coming from west of Dedham and all - is that the legitimate role of voluntary associations like the Chamber in Industrial Development promotion in Metro-Boston has been usurped by government and government is not doing a very good job of it.

It is the business community in other parts of our nation who has provided the initiative and the creative spark that has resulted in effective reorganization of core city governments to cope with the financial and social crises like we are now experiencing here. Our Boston media brings us daily reports on the sorry news of the City of Boston and its inability to cope with its future and of the politically riddled solutions that everybody, including the Boston media, knows aren't solutions at all.

Our state has recently gone through a process of self examination and evaluation about its economic future via the Westmore-McKinnon Act by the preparation of "Growth Policy Statements" by committees of citizens in virtually every town and city in the Commonwealth. Despite our local efforts to encourage as many businesspeople as possible to sign up and serve on these groups, which were loaded with non-economic types, the business representation in developing these reports was pitiful and the resulting documents reflect it.

If you were to base the economic future of this area on the collective growth policy statements of the cities and towns of the South Shore, and that's just what the state and regional planning agency are proposing to do, then you'd pretty much get the feeling that what you have now is about all you're gonna have for quite a while. Cumulatively, they say "status-quo" and I get the very distinct impression that they are more "social statements" than economic ones.

Some business groups like pointing the finger at the John McGlennons and Ralph Naders of this world as the root cause of our troubles. That, of course, lets all businesspeople off the hook and it's probably a better dessert than the discomforting thought that maybe we're the screw-ups; maybe we haven't done our homework. Maybe they're not all wrong; it's just that they've told their side and we haven't told ours.

Leadership from the business community to solve problems in the metro Boston area is crucial. I look forward to the day when the Boston business community will wake up to its responsibilities, recognize the 100 other communities that make up this region and gets on with actively organizing itself WITH US to solve problems which only business has the creative genius to solve.

[Eric Swider is Executive Vice-President of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.]

Mrs. Mary Collins of 116 Lansdowne St., Squantum, mother of four children who attend or will attend Quincy public schools, has announced her candidacy for the Quincy School Committee.

The preliminary municipal election is six months away.

"The workings of the School Committee are sometimes complicated and involved and it is difficult to remember that the students themselves are the Committee's prime concern," said Mrs. Collins, who regularly attends committee meetings as a spectator.

"I intend to keep informed about school matters, city-wide, and I would feel a great concern for fiscal responsibility and accountability to the taxpayers."

Mrs. Collins, who is a member of the Educational Development Committee of the Quincy Public Schools, added that her efforts as a member of the School Committee would be directed toward improving the educational process at all levels.

She has been a resident of Quincy for 14 years, serving on the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, as treasurer of the Social Service Committee of City Hospital and as vice chairman of the Quincy Election Commission.

Flowers add note of romance

By KAREN WILBERT

Flowers have been a part of weddings for centuries. They are treasured for the beauty, color, and wealth of tradition which they bring to marriage ceremonies of every size and description.

Worn or carried by every member of the wedding party, flowers provide a decorative background for religious rites and reception festivities alike. A few well-placed flowers make the most austere church or chapel look festive and pretty and add an aura of romance to the most modest house or restaurant.

A bouquet of flowers is traditionally carried by the bride and each of her attendants at all but the most informal weddings. It may be anything from a large armload of flowers to a small nosegay, but it should be scaled to the bride's size and complement her dress.

For example, a loose cascade of feathered chrysanthemums might be stunning for a tall bride in a long flowing dress, but overpowering to a short girl with a simpler look.

The bride's bouquet may be made of many flowers in many colors, though it is best to choose the natural hues of the flowers (that is, violets instead of purple-dyed carnations). Or one may choose all white, traditionally mixed with ivy and other greens.

According to florists, white roses are the year-round favorite of most brides. Orchids, carnations, lilies of the valley and gardenias are also popular bridal flowers. Be sure to give the florist a complete description of the bridal dress including the silhouette, length, neckline and sleeves so he can recommend an appropriate style for your bouquet.

Simplicity seems to be the key for this year's bridal attendants, who are choosing fewer parasols, baskets of flowers and colonial bouquets. Rather, single-stem roses and orchids which match a color in the bridesmaid's dress are popular.

Most of the cost of wedding flowers is in the labor. Each flower must be individually wired and wrapped for use in a bouquet or cascade. If a bride decides to carry an arm bouquet the cost will be cut considerably because the flowers will be loose with the stems showing. Cascades are slightly more expensive than nosegays or bouquets. Flowers for holiday weddings, such as Christmas, Valentine's Day, and Easter can be almost twice as expensive as other times of the year. Those holidays are traditionally big flower days, so labor is at a premium.

Floral decorations for the church and reception hall are not as extensive as they once were. One florist commented that by the time a bride gets to the florist, she has spent so much money already that she is trying to cut a few corners. The average bride usually spends about $150 on wedding flowers.

Most florists can handle only a certain number of weddings a day, so they recommend booking a wedding date at least a month in advance of the wedding, and more if the event is near a holiday or during the summer.

Family meeting initiated by the groom's family

The first contact between the bride's and groom's families should be initiated by the groom's parents. This can be done by a simple telephone call or letter extending an invitation to dinner at home or in a restaurant.

The bride and groom may wish to attend, if only to perform the necessary introductions.

Should the groom's family not make the initial overture, it is perfectly proper for the bride's parents to do so.

In those cases where the parents live at too great a distance from each other for a convenient get-together, a congenial letter from the mother of the groom is acceptable.

Today's bride happily combines both old and new

Individuality is keyword to modern wedding service

By SYDNEY BRANCH

Of all the ceremonies of life, the wedding is without a doubt the most festive, joyous, and the best-loved. No matter how much times may change and customs vary, the expression of love, faith, and trust found in the wedding ceremony is a constant source of inspiration.

Even with the current trend toward alternate lifestyles that do not involve the commitment of marriage, statistics prove that marriages are as popular as ever, and there has been an increase in the 70's in people "tying the knot."

Today's couples have more opportunities than ever to enrich this vital ceremony of life with their own personal expressions, and make their wedding truly the most meaningful event of their lives.

Gone are the days of the standard-looking bridal gown, the days when Lohengrin was the only bridal march to be heard, the days when couples had little choice but to promise to love, honor and obey — even though they felt there was so much more to be said.

The clergy and marriage counselors alike now encourage couples to find the music and words for their wedding ceremony which truly express what they feel for each other and their future together.

If they decide that the traditional bridal chorus and church vows are just what they want, that's fine. But in their search they will have gained from the rewarding experience of creating a joint definition of their own future plans.

This new freedom to modify, even break away from the traditional, carries through to the dress, reception plans, gift giving and honeymoon styles of today's newlyweds.

Color is appearing in today's wedding dresses, dresses which may vary from very formal to short and simply smashing, from frilly and laced to tailored and sleek.

Receptions range from simple tea and cake gatherings to exotic banquets — even sit-down dinners — with all kinds of new and different delicacies; but whatever the budget and size, all is done with a special personal flair.

Guests are spending more time in the selection of a gift for the newly-wedded couple, concentrating on individuality and seeking out presents that are true reflections of the new couple's lifestyle.

All in all, the key word for today's wedding is personal, with all the emphasis placed on making each and every aspect of the wedding ceremony a vital expression of the two distinct personalities who have decided to make that most loving and giving of commitments.

It is a delightful occasion for all involved, and should reflect both the joy and dignity which have always marked this special ceremony of life.

THE HAPPIEST DAY IS HERE... and even the sun is smiling. Ready to receive by the gazebo she wears Alfred Angelo's discreetly elegant gown with neckline framed in delicate appliques. He subscribes to traditional trends wearing the Cordoba tunic by After Six. In the new shade of nappy ginger with matching color shirt, tie, groom sash and flare-bottom trousers. Satin framing on the jacket adds a touch of resplendence.

KEPT SPINNING

Back in the days of our great-great grandmothers, it was customary for the entire bridal trousseau to be hand embroidered. In fact, girls started at a very early age to "spin" and embroider the linens for their "hope chests." Those who never married continued to embroider and spin — hence the origin of "spinster."

'Just be yourself!' is best advice for bride when choosing hairstyle for the wedding

Leading hair stylists agree that the day of the fancy upswept bridal hairdo, complete with banana curls, is long gone. Their advice? Wear your hair in the style you normally wear it, but add some excitement.

You can pretty-up your everyday look with frosting. It's easy to create anything from a single streak to a full head of shimmering blonde contrasts.

The key to being a beautiful bride is pure and simple — be yourself. The happiness you feel will reflect on your face — (yes it's true, you'll actually sparkle). So why not get your hair sparkling with a little excitement.

Whether you're dark blonde or darker, frosting will give your plain hair exciting blonde accents that will reflect how good you feel.

THE BIGGEST DAY OF YOUR LIFE — and if there was ever a time you wanted your hair to look its best — to be your crowning glory — it's on your wedding day, when all eyes, and cameras, are on YOU.

Planning a shower?

Looking for some new ideas in shower planning? Why not try giving a "Shower of Hours," with every guest assigned a time of day on the invitation. Guests will then search for a gift appropriate for their hours — 8:00 A.M. would be breakfast utensils and accessories, 4:00 could be tea cups and "break time" articles, evenings for party and entertaining materials.

Or hold a "Room Shower," with every guest assigned a special room of the house to cover — this way the bride will be certain to receive things for all areas of her home and all aspects of her lifestyle, instead of 10 extra blankets, 10 toasters, and no towels!

Don't be left at the gate — have your passports prepared

If you and your fiancé are planning a honeymoon abroad, you will need to do some extra planning and pre-nuptial appointment-making to be sure that you don't spend your first hours of bliss trapped in a customs office for insufficient documentation!

You should apply for your passports at least two months before your departure, in order to allow extra time for processing.

Because the bride is not legally a "Mrs." until the wedding, you will more than likely be traveling with separate passports, hers under her maiden name, and you will need to carry with you your certified marriage license.

When you return from your trip your passports may be revised to show your marital status.

To apply for a passport, you need either a birth certificate, naturalization certificate, or a former passport. You will also need another proof of identification carrying your photograph or description and signature (a driver's license, for example).

The passport office requires two additional photos of you taken within the last 6 months, 2" by 3", on a plain light background (snapshots or photos taken in coin-operated photo booths will not do — best have professional passport pictures made).

Your passport will take two to three weeks to process, and is good for five years. Bon voyage!

Enhance daily living with beautiful linens

Vibrant, warm and familiar, table linens enhance the pleasant moments of everyday living. Your table linens are the background for every setting . . . setting the theme with texture, color, and pattern. The look can be modern, provincial, traditional, Victorian, or a combination.

Dramatic accent
As the background for all your table treasures, china, glassware and favorite decorations and centerpieces, choose your linens as you select wardrobe accessories, to complement, to accent, to dramatize.

For that special occasion formal table, the classic "white" linen tablecloth is no longer the rule. Although white is classic and always in good taste, today we have adapted color throughout the home.

Now the finest decorative linens come in colors that range from cool pastels to brilliant jewel tones. In using color, pastel tends to lend dignity and a more quiet look . . . deep colors a dramatic effect.

For all times
Placemats of Belgian linen and polyester can set the mood for every setting and occasion, as illustrated. Proper and elegant for the most formal setting, embroidered and decoratively edged. Pretty and practical for breakfast to midnight snacks - in simple textures trimmed in contrasting colors.

Flexible, they adapt to many different serving arrangements. They come in all shapes . . . rectangle, oval, round, and contour. Delightfully practical and easy to care for since they have a permanent press, soil release finish.

The right size tablecloth is very important to the look of the table. Belgian linen tablecloths are made in all sizes to fit different tables, from the popular bridge table, to the lovely oval, oblong, and round.

FOR ENTERTAINING, set a table that suits your home and your own lifestyle. Here, the mood is casual, the setting Provincial. The Belgian linen octagonal placemats in bright blue, with embroidered banding of red and white perfectly complement the charming dinnerware, "Martha's Flowers," and the red, white and blue theme. The matching napkins are folded across the plates, held by the soup-bowls for an attractive, original effect.

Remember the larger the table, the longer the overhang - 5" to 10" overhang for a small table - 10" to 15" for a larger table. For a more gracious appearance, buffet tables may even have a longer overhang.

Mix and match
Select napkins in a variety of solid colors, plain, embroidered, or appliqued - all to mix and match. Napkins are a decorative touch, and also subtly indicate formality or informality of the setting.

The larger the napkin the more formal. Knowing several napkin folds can give your table settings a little added dignity for special occasions, amusing touches at other times.

In selecting your table linens do not forget maintenance. Since homemakers must schedule less and less time for housework, 100% linen cloths have been supplanted by a 65% Belgian linen/35% polyester blend cloth with a permanent press and soil release finish.

Smooth and fold
Best results are obtained by tumble drying in an automatic dryer. Remove immediately at end of cycle, smooth by hand and fold neatly.

FLAME OF LOVE

The diamond, as we all know, is the most common stone used for an engagement ring. Ever wonder why? Contrary to Lorelei Lee, it's not because they're a girl's best friend! It is actually a tradition that dates back to early Italy where it was believed that the diamond was a stone born from the flames of love.

New fashions for groom add dash, color to traditional formalwear

A survey of 1975 brides conducted for a leading bridal publication revealed that 75% of all first marriages took place in a house of worship. A best man and ushers were included in 80% of all wedding parties. A reception for guests was planned by 90.8% of all the respondents.

It is apparent that the wedding scene continues to be a stronghold of tradition despite the fastidists, cultists, and sensation-seekers.

For spring '77 the bride continues to reign supreme on her day, dressed most often in traditional white. The look of total femininity is expressed in lace and applique trims on clinging bodices, seethrough effects on sleeves and a variety of headpieces ranging from small half hats to mantillas.

The big news on the nuptial scene this year throws the spotlight on fashions for the groom and his men, according to Robert C. Rudofker, President of After Six, America's largest designers and producers of men's formal.

Previewing his company's new spring formal collection, Rudofker stated, "Young men have responded to the feeling of dashing romanticism we've captured in an expression of color harmony and two very distinctive silhouettes."

"Last year," he continued, "we streamlined the tallocat and suggested that this be worn by the groom to distinguish him from the other men in the wedding party."

"Response by formalwear specialists whose primary business is renting elegant male apparel for special occasions substantiated our belief that today's groom was ready for a new idea with more than a hint of the traditional."

"We're advocating this style for spring in fresh soft shades of ice blue, snappy ginger, sunshine yellow, sandy beige, and white."

Rudofker showed the dashing Cordoba tallocat trimmed with matching colored satin. Accessories including ruffled shirts, bow ties and groom sash are available in matching colors as well, to create color harmony and unity.

For the groom who opts to dress himself and his men in like fashions, Rudofker recommends the Seville, a one-button tuxedo style, with peak lapels framed with matching color satin.

The jacket is shaped to accent the trim figure of the all-American man. Here again, matching tone shirts, vests, ties, and trousers provide total color continuity.

Wrapping up his preview, Rudofker stated,

"Our company is sensitive to changing color and fabric trends. The major mills and fiber producers are on our team. But perhaps our greatest help comes from formalwear specialists across the country. They are our eyes and ears, helping us to respond fashion-wise to the desires of young people starting a lifestyle of their own — with roots in tradition, but reaching out to new and challenging fashion horizons."

Professional photos capture the wedding in candid moments

Some of the best moments are least expected. But they can be preserved for generations if you plan now to have professional candid photographs made of your wedding day.

After you've said "I will" but long before you say "I do," sit down with your local studio photographer and plan the type of wedding coverage you would like. Most studios offer special prices for normal bridal portraits and candid album photographs.

At this early meeting, you can decide how much of the day you wish the photographer to cover — from your final preparations at home, to farewell with parents, the ceremony, reception and honeymoon sendoff.

If you plan to get married during one of the "peak" bridal seasons — June, July, August, or December, in particular — it is wise to book a photographer at least six weeks or more before the ceremony.

TO CAPTURE THE MOOD of the moment arrange now for a professional photographer to make the portraits and candid photos of your wedding.

At your pre-sitting conference, ask your photographer about special effects — candlelit views, mood portraits, and super-imposed photos — you may wish to include in the wedding photo collection. He has samples of other wedding candids that will help you decide the type of photographs you'd like.

Plan ahead for all your upcoming photo needs. In addition to a large framed bridal portrait for display in your new home and the wedding album, you may wish to give photographs to parents and members of the bridal party as souvenirs of this important day.

Your photographer also has the Kodak Special Moments Collection, custom photo cards suitable for wedding announcements and thank-yous.

Before the wedding day, ask a family member or close friend to act as photographer's assistant. This person can be helpful in pointing out special friends and relatives so they are sure to be included in the wedding photos.

Wollaston Park Assn. Urges Fight Against 100% Valuation

The Wollaston Park Association has urged Sen. Arthur H. Tobin and the Quincy legislative delegation to "use all your influence and the avenues open to you" to fight 100 per cent real estate valuation in Quincy.

In letters to all Quincy legislators, Association Secretary Dorothy C. Kelly, said:

"Unless steps are taken shortly by the Legislature's Taxation Committee to defer 100 per cent revaluation in these critical days of rampaging inflation the awful impact will bring disaster to Quincy's homeowners - particularly the elderly and owners of older homes whose assessments will be doubled or tripled."

The letter quoted Mayor Theodore Mann of Newton as saying: "The shock of 100 revaluation is bringing about the mental demise of many of the elderly and for that matter young persons who are losing their homes because they cannot afford to pay their taxes."

"Our association," the letter continued, "has been in the forefront of opposition to revaluation because we have thoroughly studied the awful impact on communities like Braintree, Woburn and hundreds of others."

"We now entreat you to act immediately and use all your influence and the avenues open to you to urge the Taxation Committee and the Legislature as a whole to enact whatever legislation is necessary to defer 100 per cent revaluation."

This is the sixth in a series of articles written

By Rep. MICHAEL W. MORRISSEY

The Speaker is Back

The Speaker of the House is back. Up to now, only non-controversial matters have been taken up with the exception, of course, of the Boston Charter.

In April, reconstruction of the Mass. Avenue over-pass on the South Expressway will begin. Expressway construction is expected to last over 5 years. Members of the South Shore Legislative Delegation are currently meeting to work out possible transportation alternatives. I am pushing for increased MBTA service. Any suggestions on this subject would be appreciated.

The Red Line Extension of the MBTA from Quincy to South Braintree is currently underway. Some members of the Quincy delegation are lobbying to have the MBTA depress 1200 feet of new track which will run through Quincy Center. I support the depression because of the economic benefits to the City and the business community. If the tracks were not depressed, it probably would have an adverse effect on business and could result in business' having to shut their doors which in turn, effects the tax base of the City and would add to the property tax burden. On Tuesday, I travelled to Washington with other Legislators, a delegation from both the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and South Shore Chamber of Commerce to discuss the proposed project with federal officials. I will have more information on the project within the week.

The bill I filed on Under 25 Auto Insurance appears to be headed for a study. The bill will probably die politely in the Study. I am currently looking into alternatives to keep the bill alive.

The Committee on Health Care is hearing testimony on a bill that would require Nurses' to take additional courses of study or periodic refreshers on new techniques and processes.

The Committee on Governmental Regulations is currently reviewing a bill to ban Self-Service Gas Stations.

The Judiciary Committee acted favorably on a bill that would exclude evidence of reputation of victims in rape cases.

The word has reached me that the Legislature will be considering a pay-rise for state workers in the near future. The elected officials are also tied onto this raise. I will have more details on the raise in the near future.

If I can be of any assistance, please don't hesitate to call or write to me. My telephone number at the State House is 727-7035 or Room 20, State House, Boston or I can be reached at 328-0900. Look forward to hearing from you.

Cancer Not Leo

Q. I am interested in finding out whether I am a Cancer or a Leo. I read different magazines and newspapers and when I see the horoscopes in some I seem to be a Leo while in another I seem to be more Cancer. I was born on July 22, 1957 at 6:00 P.M. in Beverly, Mass.

B.G.

A. The Sun was in the Sign of the Zodiac Cancer until 10:13 p.m. Eastern Standard Time on the date of your birth. Since your time of birth was 6:00 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time or 5:00 p.m. Eastern Standard Time, your Sun was in Cancer.

However, the planets Mercury, Venus, Mars, Uranus and Pluto were all in the Sign of the Zodiac Leo. Jupiter was in Virgo; Neptune was in Libra; Saturn was in Sagittarius and the Moon was in Gemini.

These indicate that basically you are inclined to be emotional and sensitive to people and conditions in your environment. You are probably interested in that which is unusual, vague, mysterious and sensational but should be careful not to permit your imagination to get the better of your fine intellect.

Mentally you can be quick with a keen insight into conditions. You are at your best when you stick with facts and do not speculate. You appear to have good vitality, creative talent and should do well if you do not waste these.

Your thoughts and expressions are usually slanted towards attracting attention to yourself. You have an excellent mind. At times you may seem not to notice or hear what is going on especially when you are not particularly interested in that particular matter.

For questions to be answered through this column, mail the year, month, day of the month, city of birth, time of day if known and questions to Ask Oscar, Box 114, Canton, Mass. 02021. Please sign your name which will not be published. Selected questions can only be answered in this column.

Quincy In Bizarre Win Over English, North Cinderella Team Run Into Midnight

The Quincy High basketball team is alive and well in the State Basketball Tournament after surviving one of the most bizarre finishes in schoolboy history.

Joe Amorosino's Presidents, now 19-3 on the season, Wednesday night was scheduled to face Framingham South in the South Section Div. One semifinals and if victorious will meet the winner of the Durfee-New Bedford game Saturday at 4 p.m. at Brockton High for the South title.

Quincy last Saturday edged Boston English, 76-75, in the quarterfinals but Amorosino and Mike Lamie will never forget the finish.

With two seconds left and Quincy ahead, 76-74, Lamie, thinking the game was over, leaped in glee and grabbed the rim with both hands. The referee awarded English two technical foul shots but its best shooter, with a chance to send the game into overtime, missed one shot and the Presidents were home free.

"Mike felt terrible about it, but I don't want to make too much out of it," Amorosino said. "But this should make us more disciplined the rest of the tournament."

Quincy trailed, 45-38, at halftime but played control ball to move ahead.

Amorosino has emphasized all season long that there is no particular star but that Quincy's success has been due to a team effort. This was borne out in the two tournament games. Lamie was high against English with 19 points, but Roger Kvam had his biggest game with 18, big Jack Uhlar had 14 to push his career total to 978, and Ed Calahan added 13.

In the team's surprisingly easy 83-52 first round win over Catholic Memorial, it was Lyle Morrison who came up with his outstanding effort of the year when he scored 26 points. Uhlar had 22, and Ed Daley added 14.

Meanwhile, midnight arrived for North Quincy's Cinderella team when the gallant Raiders, who barely made the tournament by winning their final seven games, bowed to much taller Framingham South, 60-52, in their second tournament game. Framingham had breezed to the Bay State League crown with an 18-0 record, was 19-2 overall and one of the top seeded teams.

North, under first-year coach Eddie Miller, showed the same fight it had displayed in gaining a tourney berth and winning its first game and gave the heavily-favored winners all they could handle.

It was the usual team effort with Dan Cuddy leading the scorers with 14 points and sparkplug and quarterback John White adding 12.

"It was just a tremendous season as far as I am concerned," said Miller, a former Raider captain himself and junior varsity coach the past four years. "These kids have the North Quincy spirit and it's the same as when I played. It's carried over the years. They have guts and determination."

North had won its tourney opener, 74-62, over Boston Tech as Cuddy scored 24 points, Mike Gill had 16 and Keith Lindberg 14. As usual, everyone played strong defense.

CHEERLEADERS and fans whoop it up as Quincy takes dramatic win over Boston English to advance to the state tournament.

At Montclair Dinner

Fairbanks Promises Better Patriots Team In '77

Patriots Coach Chuck Fairbanks has promised improvement for 1977 by the New England team that made the National Football League playoffs in 1976 for the first time in its history.

Fairbanks, who was named "Coach of the Year" in the American Conference for last season told the Montclair Men's Club's 26th annual awards dinner:

"Right now, we have a sound group of players and a young team which will improve with experience and the return of men from last season's injured list. We will draft for outstanding athletes regardless of position."

Fairbanks accepted the John

Gillooly Memorial Award from the Montclair Men's Club in recognition of his "Coach of the Year" selection.

He praised the dedication of his players, particularly Raymond Hamilton, who played for him at Oklahoma and was a 14th round draft choice of the Patriots as a defensive lineman.

Pats Owner Billy Sullivan told the dinner that "I started the team as an owner and it cost me $25,000. I'm still the owner but for $11 million. That shows you how smart I am."

Sullivan, who made the presentation of the Gillooly Award, praised the accomplishments of the team and the tireless work of Fairbanks and Bucko Kilroy the director of player personnel.

Special awards were presented by Club President Joseph MacGilivray to Ron Hobson, pro football writer for the Patriot Ledger, and Jess Cain, popular personality of Radio WHDH, who was unable to attend due to his son's skiing accident.

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia commended the club for its involvement in community affairs and presented honorary Quincy citizenship certificates to Fairbanks, Hobson and Cain.

Other head table guests included Ray Hamilton, and Leon Gray, Patriots players; Pat Horne, public relations; Pat Sullivan, assistant PR; Charlie Lowe, public address announcer; Harry Carlson and Charlie Conway, storyteller.

Chairman Joe Gildea was assisted by Richard Post, Andrew Orrock, James Kelley, Peter Savage, Stan Kovalski, Ted O'Reilly, James Warren, Walter Marsh, Ray Cunningham, Edward Adams, James Vey and Herb Baker.

Carlyle Wins Men's Candlepin Tourney

The Carlyle Merchants team of Whitman captured the 24th Annual Greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tourney Sunday at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowldrome defeating St. Mark's V.F.W. 1755-1624 for the championship.

Carlyle could only gain an 11-pin lead over St. Mark's team in the first string but caught fire in the second to pile up a 73-pin lead going into the final, and pulled away in the last string for the 131-pin victory.

Dave Handry led the Whitman triumph with a 380, aided by Dennis Chick 351, Ken Turner 350, Bill Robbins 339 and Bill Crowley 335.

Steve Cioffi and Bob Krim tied for top scoring honors for St. Mark's with 339 each, followed by Anthony Koualski 336 and Joe Corbett 316.

Following the match, Richard J. Koch, Tourney Director, representing the Sponsoring Koch Club of Quincy, presented a check for $100 and championship team trophy to the Carlyle team, and a check for $25 to St. Mark's V.F.W. as a consolation award.

The tourney in its 24th year expanded from 32-44 teams.

All tourney records remained in tact with 1869 bowled in 1972 by Colonial Bowl of South Weymouth the high team total, and Carlyle's 675 of 1974 high team single.

Individual tourney honors are shared by Roger Delgiacco's high three string total of 441 bowled with Quincy Center in 1968, and Dennis Chick's 189 high tourney single string rolled in 1972 with Whitman.

Carlyle, winner of the last three out of four tourneys spoke of by-passing next year's event. Whitman captured every tourney string except one - tied with Colonial Bowl.

The tourney is sponsored each year as part of the Koch Club's winter athletic and recreation program.

In semi-final action last week:

The stage was set last Sunday in the semi-final round as St. Mark's upset the Wollaston Men's league 1738-1737 in one of the closest matches in the 24-year history of the Koch Club sponsored event.

St. Mark's spotted the Wollaston Men's league 22 pins in the first string, but bounced back to close the gap and carry a two-pin lead into the final string. In a dramatic finish, the third string saw a tie going into the final two boxes with the winner's anchor man posting a 9-box while his opposite could only register an 8 for the heartbreaking one-pin loss.

Winning was Steve Cioffi with 384 followed by Tony Koualski 353, George Johnstone 349, Joe Corbett 341 and Bob Krim 311.

Wollaston Men's top scorer was Walter Finn 377. Dick Spano had a 375, Bob Reynolds 337, Ron Walker 327 and Dan Finn 321.

Sunday's winner will receive a team trophy and $100 cash award, while the losing squad will get a $25 consolation prize.

The tourney is sponsored each year by the Koch Club as part of its winter athletic and recreation program. Forty-four teams entered this year.

Fredericton Too Much For Quincy In Junior B Tourney

Quincy hockey teams drew a blank over the weekend in their Junior B Tournament games with teams from Fredericton, N.B., losing five and tying one out of the six contests played.

The Quincy Sabres managed to pull out a 4-4 tie with the Fredericton Juvenile Caps while losing, 10-3, to the Fredericton Junior C Capitals.

The Quincy Siders lost to the Capitals, 4-2, and the Caps, 6-1; while the Quincy Junior B Flyers bowed twice to the Fredericton Junior B Raiders by scores of 9-6 and 3-0.

Tony Rielley was outstanding in the Flyers net in the 3-0 loss to the visitors. Goalie Mark Randall stood out in the Sabres' 4-4 tie.

The Flyers line of John Ryan, Peter Janis and Bruce Maggio also starred in the games.

Mike Caparelli of the Siders contributed two goals.

Girls A Team Wins Connecticut Hockey Tourney

Quincy's Shaughnessy & Ahearn Girls A team, with elimination starting it in the face, and faced with the unenviable task of winning three games on the final day, performed the "impossible" and won the recent Choate Rosemary Invitational Hockey Tournament at Wallingford, Conn.

Last year, the Quincy girls bowed in the finals.

Quincy nipped Cranston, R.I. Panthers, 1-0, in its opening game of the three-day double elimination event. Nancy MacDonald scored the winning goal.

The next morning, Quincy defeated host Rosemary Hall, 3-0, on goals by MacDonald, Peggy Burchill and Lisa Norling.

Later that day, the team lost to Natick, 5-1, with Eileen Marr scoring the goal.

That meant Quincy had to win three straight games the following day, including two in a row over the Natick Eagles, last year's New England champions.

In the first game, Quincy topped West Haven, Conn., 4-3, on goals by Lauren Apollo, Kathy Flynn, Norling and Maureen Santry.

Then came a 2-1 win over Natick as Marr scored both goals. After only a 45-minute rest, the once-beaten teams met for the title, and Quincy won, 3-2. Marr.

Terry Flynn and MacDonald had the goals.

Abp. Williams Girls Win 3rd Straight Title

The Abp. Williams High School girls' basketball team, sparked by several Quincy players, finished 10-0 during the regular season and won a third straight Catholic League title. But the team lost to Hanover, 51-45, in the opening round of the state tournament and was edged by Matignon, 47-45 in the first round of the Catholic invitational tournament.

Denise Jay scored 17 points and Nancy Smith 14 in the loss to Hanover's perennial tourney powerhouse, which had a big height advantage. This pair led the team in scoring this season.

Three Quincy girls sparked the team in its close defeat by Matignon. Kathy McSweeney had 14 points, Denise Jay 12 and Nancy Smith 10. The Bishops played without starting forward Nancy Marshall and she was sorely missed.

Matignon, trailing by four points after three periods, scored the winning basket with one second left in the game.

The team will play its final game against Cathedral High on March 25 at Boston Garden in a preliminary to the Celtics-Washington game.

Nancy Smith of Quincy scored 146 points in nine games and Denise Jay of Wollaston had 113 points in 10 games.

These girls are no strangers to each other, having played together since they were eight and nine years old. They have played YMCA, CYO and Quincy Recreation basketball together. Their hard work paid off last summer when they competed against 100 girls and were two of 10 selected to represent Boston in the U. S. Youth Games. They led their team to the Boston Neighborhood League championship.

Outstanding on defense for Williams are Kathy McSweeney of North Quincy and Nancy Marshall, who control the boards. Heidi Nawn, another defensive star, also has contributed 76 points.

Sophomores Gera Fay and Elaine Galvin, both of Quincy, and Donna Rusekas help give the Williams girls strength on the bench.

Pee Wee A's Win

The Quincy Elks Pee Wee A team defeated Hingham, 4-1.

Tom O'Connor had the hat trick and Bill Bradley one goal. Paul McCabe had two assists and Dennis Furtado one.

MONEY TALKS

I've Been Retired 18 Months -- And Still Hate It.

By Philip J. Lawrence, President
Colonial Federal Savings
and Loan Association
of Quincy, Holbrook & Wareham
8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

"I've been retired 18 months now, and I still hate it." The letter from an old friend was saddening, for it came from a person who had seemed to get a kick out of life.

Among the many things to be considered about retirement, two are preminent: Time and money.

Retirement drops a big load of time onto one's lap. Before, he or she was used to about 250 hours a month for leisure pursuits—family, hobbies, movies, television, sports. Now another 200 hours get added, leaving a whopping 450 hours of waking time a month. For what?

When a man retires today at 65, he can anticipate an average of 14 more years, a woman at least 17 years. Many will live longer than that; there are 13,000 persons in this country who are 100 or older. What is one going to do with these years?

For many persons with balanced personalities and wide interests, the prospect of all this leisure time poses no problem. For our friend it is apparently a tragedy.

The other major consideration is money. There is Social Security, of course, but the program was never designed nor intended to maintain one's standard of living. There may be a company or profit-sharing plan, but less than half of the private industrial force has any kind of a company pension. Few of these plans have cost-of-living escalation clauses.

We noted recently that some economists, pleased at the decline in the cost of living index from its 12% peak in 1974, are viewing an annual increase of 6% as moderate. But for the person who retires today, an annual 6% inflation can be disastrous. His or her $100 will have to be $106 next year to buy the same goods and services; in 20 years it will exceed $300.

Those who are now reaching retirement have had the benefit of the scary Depression years. Their saving instincts were based on the fact that they knew they had to take care of themselves. Younger generations who did not have the "benefit" of the Depression lesson seem less concerned about providing for their old age.

Time and money — two considerations that deserve present attention if future years of retired leisure are to be enjoyed — or just endured.

Alley Kats High Rollers In Women's Candlepin Tourney

The defending champion Alley Kats bowled high for the day to defeat the Rollerettes 1624-1470 in Sunday's second round of the 22nd annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling Tourney sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome.

In the remaining seven matches, John Hancock Insurance eliminated the Night Outers 1513-1354; Hull, Friday morning topped the Rag Dolls 1507-1483; Weymouth Landing ousted the Women Merchants 1505-1419, the Queen Pins knocked out the Whitman Merchants 1494-1468, 5-2. State Street edged Carlyle Community League 1452-1430; Kemper Insurance triumphed over the Bowling Bugs 1436-1365, and Supreme outlasted the High Nooners 1435-1416.

The Alley Kats proved the team to beat with a consistent team attack led by Sarale Cobban 355, Roseanne Donahue 333, Lois Peacock 324, Leslie Levine 310, and Mady DelGreco 302.

Ellen Ramsey scored high for the losing Rollerettes with 328.

Frances Zaleskas led the John Hancock victory with 321, followed by Joan O'Neil 302 and Pat Ciccolo 299.

Kerry Gruner with 309 was high for the losing Night Outers.

Hull's top scorers included Pauline Chagnon 339, and Dot O'Hare 306 for the win.

Three Rag Dolls hit over 300 to no avail, including Brenda Hamilton and Sandy Colarusso 308 each, and Lou Wilson 307. Hallie Parziak, long-time tourney participant fired a 339 to lead the Weymouth Landing ladies to victory, while Eileen Gardner chipped in 303, and Helen Ewell 302.

Betty Gagne with 300 was top for the losing Merchants. Theresa Daley with 316, and Ann Crespi 309 sparked the Queen Pins triumph.

Jeanette McNeil's 330 was high for the losing Whitman team. 5-2 State Street was led to victory by Donna Pettitelli 320 and Elaine Walsh 300.

Helen Riley's 318 was high for ousted Carlyle.

Cheryl Acker with 307 showed the way for Kemper, while Debby Hensley's 293 was high for the losing Bugs.

Marion Alibrandi led the Supreme victory with 300, while Sheila Ritchie's 325 was in vain for the High Nooners.

The eight surviving teams of the thirty-two entered will meet next Sunday at 12 noon in the quarterfinals of the Koch Club sponsored event.

ARE DAMAGES TAX DEDUCTIBLE

As a homeowner, expenses from damage or improvements may affect your income taxes. For instance: damage to your house from, say, fire or windstorm may be partially deductible as a casualty loss.

After subtracting insurance compensation, deduct $100 for each accident and the remainder can be claimed as a tax deduction.

Improvements, such as a porch, garage, finished basement, and so-on cannot be deducted. However, they can be added to the cost of the house when figuring profit on the sale. So, keep good records of such expenses. Try to preserve cancelled checks and receipted bills. They will help substantiate the figures if necessary.

I'm just scratching the surface here. If this situation applies to you, I suggest you contact your nearest Internal Revenue Office for a copy of their pamphlet No. 530 "Tax Information on Deductions for Homeowners". It may save you some money.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

Also, we have available a one year warranty on all plumbing, heating, mechanical, electrical systems and built-in appliances on homes that we sell.

Phone or drop in. We are here to help.

Council Rejects DeFalco Bid For 5 New Hospital Jobs

An unofficial remark by City Hospital Director Anthony DeFalco stung the City Council into turning down his bid to establish five positions at the Hospital Monday night.

Members of the City Council felt that they had assurances from the Hospital Board of Managers that the Board, with Council assistance, would screen applicants for the jobs and make recommendations to the Mayor.

Council President Arthur H. Tobin, however, called the Council's attention to a clipping from the Patriot Ledger in which DeFalco was quoted as saying that he would have the final say in the hiring process.

"If he's going to bypass the very members of the Board that gave him his appointment, I'm not going to vote to advertise the positions," said Tobin.

"I don't intend to sit here and be told 'the hell with you and your actions and the Hospital Board of Managers, I'm going to do as I please.' I'm not going to tolerate that attitude by any department head."

Tobin said he wanted a statement from the Board of Managers "whether the director is going to abide by the screening process before we put the Council to a vote on advertising the positions that no one's going to abide by."

There was a vote, however, and DeFalco's request for the positions was denied, 4-3, with Councilor John J. Lydon Jr. abstaining. "No" votes were cast by Councilors Dennis E. Harrington, Leo J. Kelly, Daniel G. Raymond and Tobin.

The jobs to be created were an administrative assistant, a medical stenographer and three accountants.

The Saga Of Ellen Nieters

that there are "basic and severe questions on this petition and the method in which it was obtained."

"As a citizen of Quincy, I ask this Council to investigate the Housing Authority and its misuse of its power and its illegal actions in the past two weeks."

"As a representative of every public housing tenant in Quincy, except for the elderly by their own choice, I am outraged by the actions that have taken place against my tenants, instigated by the Quincy Housing Authority."

"We cannot take the political garbage that has been going through this city. We will not get involved in it."

"But I don't want to see any more of my tenants browbeaten into signing things that they don't know what they are by Housing Authority personnel."

James St. Angelo, chairman of the HRC, told the councilors that if they were "aware of how this petition was obtained you'd vomit in disgust. Saturday this came so low that my children were accused of..."

Apparently overcome with emotion, he was unable to finish the sentence, while supporters in the audience cried, "Forget it, Jim! Forget it!"

Jon Steinberg, housing director of the State Department of Community Affairs, said the DCA is "concerned with some of the allegations Mr. Miller has presented and we will take our own position on it in terms of our own investigation."

He added, however, "we do not feel that that should in any way impede or hinder your decision here tonight."

"Will you furnish to us the allegations and who they were made by and what the specific allegations are of wrong doing?" asked Tobin.

"At this point in time," said Steinberg, "I have some allegations. What I would rather do is gather some more information. I suspect I will have sufficient information in the next week or two if some of these allegations are to bear fruit."

"I've been into some situations where I don't find it advisable when people have advised me that certain situations are going on to talk about those until I at least have additional information."

"I'm talking about when you are finished," said Tobin.

"That will be fine," replied Steinberg.

Pressed by Raymond, the man from DCA conceded that "if it were the case that a significant part of the tenant population were told they could sit in and listen but could take no part in the decision we would have a lot of trouble recognizing that as a decision of the full body of tenants."

Councillor Paul D. Harold, who appears to be the only favorable Nieters vote on the Council and who has been pushing for a decision right from the night that LaRaia made the appointment and stepped back to watch the fun, moved for immediate action on the nomination.

"I don't think that by waiting until Thursday we're going to have any more deliberation on it," Harold said. "I think everybody has his mind made up. I think it's important for someone to be appointed to the Housing Authority so that it can get back to business."

"It's important that we vote on it one way or another because not only has the Housing Authority come to a complete standstill but I think it has also created divisiveness on both sides."

"It is important for us to accept the responsibility to take a vote, either yes or no, and leave it at that so that people will know where they stand so they can get back to the business of running the Housing Authority."

"Do I hear a second to Councillor Harold's motion?" asked Chairman Quinn. There was none.

Has Reppucci Resigned As Assistant RSVP Director ?

Mayor LaRaia and Robert Tweedy, director of the Council on Aging, had little or no comment this week on a report that Herbert Reppucci had resigned his post as assistant director of RSVP.

The Quincy Sun obtained a copy of a letter dated Dec. 6, 1976, addressed to Tweedy and apparently signed by Reppucci, which said:

"Due to business reasons, which is demanding more of my time, I find it will be impossible for me to perform my duties effectively, as the assistant director of the RSVP in the city of Quincy.

"I regretfully submit my resignation to be effective on Jan. 3, 1977.

"Your guidance, your help and your sincerity made my days a pleasure working with you. In my free time if I can be of any service to you [voluntary of course] please don't hesitate in calling."

Reppucci was arrested by the FBI on Dec. 23, along with Public Works Commissioner

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin has announced his candidacy for Mayor in order to rescue Quincy from "the insensitivity and incompetence of the present administration that has placed the morale of our citizens at an all time low."

The 46-year-old Tobin, who is also a State Senator, has been Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia's chief critic on the City Council almost since the beginning of LaRaia's administration in January, 1976.

"As one who has been in the forefront of Quincy's accomplishments in the past," he said, "I want to restore 'Quincy's Pride and Progress'. I don't want to see our city nor its people ridiculed any longer."

Tobin, who has been a member of the City Council for 10 years (eight as its president) and the State Legislature for 13 years (seven in the Senate), indicated that he hoped to serve as both Senator and Mayor.

"I intend to take a positive approach in my campaign and point to the accomplishments of Amelio Della Chiesa as Mayor and State Representative and

ARTHUR TOBIN

James McIntyre when he was Mayor and Senator and the chaos we now have with a Mayor unable to do one job," said Tobin.

LaRaia Forecasts

$7 Tax Hike In 1978

Citing "stabilized city finances," Mayor LaRaia has forecast a tax rate increase of less than $7 for fiscal 1978 and a "minimal increase in taxes" for fiscal 1979.

He said it was possible to estimate taxes two years hence because of "a balanced budget this year and labor costs negotiated in two-year contracts."

The current Quincy tax rate is $194.80, up $34.90 from 1976, an increase that Mayor LaRaia has blamed on an unrealistically low budget

Appeal To Dukakis

Depressing MBTA Tracks Vital To City's Future Says QCBPA

Quincy businessmen, envisioning the downtown area becoming "one gigantic parking lot," have appealed to Gov. Michael Dukakis for his help in forcing the MBTA to depress the tracks on its right-of-way through Quincy Center.

"The depression of the MBTA tracks is the single most important issue affecting the vitalization and future of our city," said Charles L. Ryder, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, in a letter to Gov. Dukakis.

MBTA Director Robert Kiley told a hearing of the Joint Legislative Committee on Transportation Tuesday that depressing the MBTA tracks in Quincy would cost between $8 and $20 million and delay the project two years.

Rep. James A. Sheets [D-Quincy] replied that depression would cost no more than $4 to $6 million and "with a negative ruling on the need for environmental impact statement there would be no delay whatsoever."

"For depression of the tracks to cost $20 million the project would have to employ golden rails and silver spikes," said Sheets.

Meanwhile, Public Works Commissioner Paul N. Anderson, just back from meetings with federal funding agencies in Washington, told a news conference that everyone wants

Emergency Medical Course For Police, Firefighters

An emergency medical technician training program for police, firefighters and possibly a few civilians is expected to get underway March 29 at the City Hospital. Mayor LaRaia announces.

The course has been implemented in anticipation of state-required upgrading of the city ambulance service. It will also provide the city with a

$75,000 Needed To Carry Out Industrial Revaluation

Quincy is "two-thirds of the way home" in the process of carrying out full-market revaluation mandated by the State Supreme Court, says Chief Assessor Elmer K. Fagerlund.

But the process has been stymied for want of $75,000 to hire a consultant firm to revalue the city's industrial and special purposes properties.

Delay could mean action on the part of Owen Clarke, commissioner of Corporations and Taxation, to force the city to move ahead with its plans for revaluation.

"I don't know what the Commissioner will do," said Fagerlund. "I don't know his priorities."

Fagerlund said the assessors asked Mayor LaRaia last September to have the money appropriated and reminded him again in December but as yet no action has been taken.

The Mayor indicated to The Sun that the money would be requested in his 1978 budget, which he said will go to the City Council sometime in mid-April. He said he will not ask for the money before that.

If Commissioner Owen places a high priority on revaluation in Quincy, said Fagerlund, he could take these steps to force compliance:

- Obtain a court order permitting him to deduct the amount from Quincy's reimbursements on the Cherry Sheet.

- Get an order requiring the community to fund the plan.
- Encourage a 10-taxpayer suit forcing the city to comply.
- Seek a court order requiring city officials to take action.
- Get an injunction to halt the issuance of tax bills.
- Obtain a court order to bar removal of any assessor who is trying to implement revaluation.

The State Supreme Court ruled on Dec. 24, 1974 in a case involving the town of Sudbury that communities must assess properties at full market value. Quincy values at about 31 per cent.

Fagerlund said Quincy has complied with the schedule for revaluation set, down by the commissioner but has to have the $75,000 in order to proceed.

He said that the assessors themselves are prepared to revalue residences and commercial properties [office and apartment buildings] but they need help to revalue industrial and special purpose [funeral homes, etc.] properties.

"Appraising industrial property requires engineering skills that assessors don't have," he said. "We have selected a company to do it but now we need the $75,000."

Youth-To-Work Program To Spruce Up Blighted Areas

Mayor LaRaia announced Tuesday plans for an expanded Youth-to-Work Summer Program geared to improve the city's blighted areas and provide a meaningful work experience for more than 1,000 young people.

New federal monies will be sought to pay for the program, the Mayor said, and the City Council will be asked for an ordinance change in order to pay the young workers the minimum wage and supervisors at the higher rate.

Applications for jobs will be available starting April 1 until the deadline April 30.

"With enough projects and supervision, we hope to eliminate the annual summer youth dilemma of how to utilize time and talent through proper supervision and creative work experience," said LaRaia.

"Hopefully the private sector will follow our lead upon learning of this effort and hire available youth for summer employment."

$32,801 In New Plumbing

The department made 102

There were 28 gas-fitting applications filed with an estimated cost of $9,520. Inspections totalled 58 and $104 was taken in permit fees.

In Wake Of Brawls

Raymondi Seeks Police Beef-Up

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi has asked Police Chief Francis X. Finn to increase both foot and cruiser patrols in the lower Washington St. area of Quincy Point in the aftermath of several recent brawls.

Said Raymondi:

"If the liquor establishments in this area are not willing or able to police their businesses, then it is incumbent upon you, as the Chief of Police, to take the initiative and force them to maintain a high level of operation."

"The residents in this area continue to be concerned and upset about the continuing abuses of these establishments."

"It has been brought to my attention that you have acted in assigning additional officers to other sections of our city that are experiencing some problems."

"I would submit to you that in light of the events of the past few weeks that no other area in the city warrants additional manpower more than the lower Washington St. area."

Chief Finn told the Licensing Board last week that Quincy, and particularly Quincy Point, is being invaded by "unbelievably vicious" motorcycle gangs and that the bars in Quincy Point were not alone responsible for recent violence.

"The people who work there have been terrorized," he said. "They are afraid to report what is going on."

One little thing that makes us big:

A free "How to Buy a House" booklet for John and Mary Abernathy. Just last month, John and Mary bought their first home.

They're mighty proud of it.

We're mighty proud to have helped them with mortgage money—at an interest rate that will save them money for the next 25 years.

But we're also proud to have given them our free booklet that covers housebuying from roof to cellar. Before they even applied for a mortgage.

Sure, giving them a booklet is a small thing. But thanks to "How to Buy a House," John tells us, he and Mary managed to steer clear of a few problems that could have cost them a lot in both time and money.

ANTI-BURGLAR BOOMERANG

Keeping burglars out of your home is one thing. But while you're at it, make sure you don't lock your family inside as a byproduct. It could spell death in case of fire.

Take for example the case of Willy Lynch of Los Angeles. To prevent burglars from looting his home, he installed bars in all the windows and two-way locks on all the doors - the kind that needs a key to get out as well as in. One morning after leaving for work, the inevitable happened. Smoke was seen pouring out of the front windows. In seconds, the mother and children were beating frantically at the windows and doors. Flames and smoke had prevented them from getting the door key from the living room which was in flames. The neighbors had no luck in removing the bars. Finally, a motorist pulled up, produced a chain from his trunk and pulled off the bars from the front door.

Results - Two children were hospitalized with severe burns and a third, an eleven month-old child was found dead under a toppled bookcase. The moral of the story should be clear.

Kitty...

As I turned into the driveway I saw Bobby, our then 11-year-old, crouched down in the front yard petting a kitten as it sipped milk from a saucer.

"Whose cat is that?" I asked.
"I don't know," he said. "She came into the yard this afternoon and is hungry. I'm giving her a little milk."

"O.K.," I said. "But don't get any ideas about keeping her. I don't want any cats around here."

My wife and I went to the Music Circus that night to see the Mills Brothers. When we returned the kitten was hanging around the back door. She tried to follow us in but I wouldn't let her. It was June [last year] and the night had turned chilly. I felt a little sorry for her, I found a cardboard box, turned it sideways and put it outside so she could sleep in it.

The next morning, Bobby gave her some more milk. And as I left for work I again reminded him: "Remember, you're not keeping that cat. Check around the neighborhood, she probably belongs to someone around here."

That night when I returned, he insisted he and his friends could find no one to claim her.

So Bobby fixed up a spot for her in the garage. The next night she made it to the cellar. And the following night, upstairs. And we had a cat for a pet.

I never cared for cats and never could see why people made such a fuss over them.

But I had to admit this one was really pretty. She was like a calico with grey, brown and streaks of orange and beautiful green eyes. And she had big white boxing-glove-like paws.

My wife and the kids named her Kitty. Simple, but appropriate since she was still a kitten. [I called her Maggie, though].

Well, Kitty soon became part of the family. We all got very attached to her.

She liked to sleep on top of the TV set. And sometimes would hang her head down and actually look at the program. One night she watched the Red Sox with us.

She amused us by crawling into a paper bag and fighting her way out the back of it. Or by hiding under one of the Colonial living room chairs and giving herself away by letting her tail stick out. Or sneaking up alongside the chair, to line up one of her squeaky toys and pounce on it. I pitied the poor mouse that ever got in her way. She was so quick.

She used to like to climb onto the garage roof and sit there observing the surrounding neighborhood or jump from there to the house roof. Then she started climbing trees. One day she got to the top of a tree and couldn't get down. We had to get a ladder out and Bobby and his pal Jimmy rescued her.

Then one Sunday in September, night came and Kitty was still out. There was no sign of her anywhere. She had become a favorite around the neighborhood. Maybe she was visiting.

Then a car stopped in front of the house. A young fellow and a girl got out and crouched in the street. My vision was obstructed by two huge shrubs in the front yard. I went out.

"Is this your cat?" he asked as he came toward me. In his arms was Kitty.

"She was lying in the street," he said. "I just saw her in time. It's a wonder a car hasn't run over her."

I thanked him. Kitty was hardly moving so we took her to the Weymouth Animal Hospital. "She's in shock," the doctor said. "She could have been stunned by a car. We'll have to take X-rays..."

The next day the doctor called and said the X-rays were negative. She seemed to be responding to medication, but would have to stay another day or two.

The next day the hospital called to say Kitty could have visitors, we smiled at that. It was like Kitty was a human. My wife and Bobby went over to see her. And the next day she was released.

Christmas came and we all got a kick out of the stocking we got for her with toys in it.

In January she seemed to be sleeping more than usual. And she just didn't put much weight on. She seemed to lose interest in her toys. Her appetite waned. One day she didn't eat.

We took her back to the hospital. The doctor looked at her and said "She's terribly anemic."

And she said after a preliminary examination, Kitty probably had one or two diseases. One of them: leukemia.

We were stunned.

"We'll have to take blood samples and give her a transfusion as soon as we can get a donor cat," the doctor was saying. "I lost my own cat from leukemia just a week ago..."

Well, Kitty fought back. She came home and for a month or so was her old self. Playing in paper bags, chasing her toys, nipping at your bare feet.

We had been told Kitty had the virus that causes leukemia. Some cats fight the virus off. Kitty, it seemed, was one of them.

I began to wonder if we should have her spayed or let her have at least one litter. She was such a pretty cat. A neighbor had already asked for one of her kittens if we let her breed.

Then Kitty began sleeping more. I thought she was just bored with the winter. Others told us their cats reacted the same way. But then she was eating less.

My wife called me at work. She had called the doctor who suggested that Kitty be brought in that night so that she could examine her the first thing in the morning and maybe make arrangements for another transfusion.

Bobby and she took Kitty to the hospital. The next morning, Kitty was dead. The leukemia was definite.

If we had gotten her to the hospital sooner we might have been able to buy her a few more days or weeks of life.

But time and the odds were heavily against her. She had two big strikes on her all the way.

I suppose there are those who will wonder why I even write this. After all, they will probably say, it was only a cat.

No, Kitty, was something special, who strayed into a home and brought happiness. I just want it known for the record that this creature of God's once lived.

She got cheated out of a full life. But for those few months she lived, she knew she was loved.

Maybe some day the little that was learned about leukemia by treating her may help find a cure for it in other animals. And, in humans, too.

Kitty, we really miss you.

It's Official: Tobin In Mayoral Ring

In the days of Della Chiesa and McIntyre, the post of Mayor of Quincy was a part-time job, raised to a full-time post with a salary of $25,000 during the administration of former Mayor Walter J. Hannon.

Hannon, a close ally of McIntyre and Tobin, was defeated by LaRaia for re-election to a third term in December, 1975, but only after a recount during which 600 votes in blocks of 50 changed hands to give LaRaia a 473-vote victory.

LaRaia has not yet indicated whether or not he will seek a second term. The last time he was asked he said he would like to assess his accomplishments during his first term and take a sampling of public opinion over the next two months.

There is one other announced candidate - George Tull, 63, a Quincy attorney, who made his plans known last Thursday.

In his announcement, Tobin said:

"I am, today announcing my candidacy for the office of Mayor of the City of Quincy."

"The City of Presidents has a long history of strong leaders and proud traditions. Our city's government has been recognized through the years for its integrity and stability. It's Mayors, City Councils, and School Committees of differing backgrounds and viewpoints have directed the affairs of this community in a most responsible manner so that Quincy has, until recently, enjoyed a positive reputation. But today our city is in turmoil. Our citizens are angry and frustrated about the direction their government has taken with almost daily revelations of questionable conduct and motivations."

"The insensitivity and incompetence of the present administration has placed the morale of our citizens at an all time low, and Quincy's progress is stagnated and counterproductive."

"I am upset and concerned that the administration of our city has become an object of ridicule, which casts a cloud on the pride of our community. In just over one year the accomplishments of decades have faded from our thoughts. Personally, the easier course of action for me to take would be to walk away from these problems. But as one who has been in the forefront of Quincy's accomplishments in the past, I want to restore 'Quincy's Pride and Progress'."

"I love our city and I don't want to see our city nor it's people ridiculed any longer. I want to do something about it. To do this, I need your help and trust to unify our people, and put our ship of state back on a steady course."

"Over the next several months I will be bringing my campaign to the people, discussing all the issues confronting our city today, issues such as controlling the soaring cost of government, providing more efficient public services, and attracting quality business growth."

"But no issue involving our city is more important than restoring integrity and competency to the management of our municipal affairs. In order to rebuild trust in our government, we must attract the most competent and experienced people to key positions, and that process should start at the top with the office of the Chief Executive."

"I am confident that I can bring our people together and be a Mayor that all our citizens can be proud of once again."

A lifelong resident of Quincy, Tobin attended Quincy public schools and was graduated from Boston College and Suffolk Law School. He was elected law school class president.

He served three years in the U.S. Marine Corps, including a tour of duty with the First Marine Division in Korea. He was graduated with honors from the Naval Logistics School and the Marine Corps Leadership School.

Tobin was appointed a Quincy assessor by McIntyre in 1966 and elected to the state house of representatives in the same year. He was elected to the City Council at large in 1967.

He is a member of the Morrisette Legion Post, the Amvets, the Caddy Detachment of the Marine Corps League, the Quincy Historical Society, the Atlantic Neighborhood Association, the Merrymount PTO.

Also the Montclair Men's Club, the Ward II Civic Association, the North Quincy Knights of Columbus and the St. John's Holy Name Society.

He lives at 58 Huntley Rd., Quincy Center, with his wife, the former Shirley Straughn. They have seven children, Stephen 20, Mark 19, Kelly Ann 18, Tracey 16, twins Bruce and Brian 14, and Matthew 12.

Mayor's Commission Thanks Quincy Cooperative Bank

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women would like to express their sincere thanks to the Quincy Cooperative Bank for their continued contributions to women's activities in the City of Quincy.

Since the first of the year, the Quincy Cooperative Bank has been working on a monthly series of workshops on women and money management with the Commission. Through this series we have and will continue to provide information on issues of major concern to women, including taxes, budgets, credit, mortgages, and investments at no cost to the public.

The next workshop will be held as part of a special Woman-to-Woman Day on March 19, 1977. In addition to assisting in the workshop on Consumer Credit which will be one of six two-hour workshops, the Quincy Cooperative Bank is also sponsoring a social for participants to conclude the Program at the Neighborhood Club. Since we feel strongly that this day-long program is an important opportunity to bring women together for discussion and learning, we are very pleased that the bank is willing to add the finishing touches to our efforts.

Again, we would like to thank the bank for their continued awareness of and attention to the needs of women in the community.

Trudy Buckley, Chairwoman, Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women.

Has Reppucci Resigned As Assistant RSVP Director?

[Cont'd from Page 1]

Vincent LoCicero, on charges of extorting $7,000 from the low bidder on a contract for a $1 million addition to the Merrymount School.

He was suspended by Mayor LaRaia, who - last week appointed Diane Mackie as his "interim" replacement.

Reppucci and LoCicero have both pleaded innocent.

The Mayor said he knew nothing of the letter from Reppucci to Tweedy" but reiterated that Reppucci was suspended and that Miss Mackie is an interim appointment. He said he couldn't comment further since the case is due to come to trial April 11.

Tweedy declined to comment.

Other sources, however, said a screening committee of the Advisory Council to RSVP recommended Miss Mackie from over two dozen applicants. The Advisory Council according to the sources, overwhelmingly accepted the recommendation and approved her appointment on a full-time basis. The job pays about $9,500 to start.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS By Tom Henshaw

Navy Office May Close At Shipyard

Samuel Wakeman, general manager of Bethlehem Shipbuilding Division in Quincy, said that unless the Fore River Shipyard gets more Navy contracts the Navy's office at the Yard, opened in 1898, will have to be closed.

Meanwhile, George A. Daley Jr., chairman of the Quincy Shipbuilding Committee, asked the South Shore Congressional delegation for its help in obtaining a $12 million contract for refurbishing a Navy ship.

A spokesman for the shipyard, where 1,600 workers had been laid off since Jan. 1 following delivery of the USS Northampton, said Bethlehem would welcome the contract despite the fact that the yard was geared for work on new ships.

The South Shore Congressmen, Sens. Leverett Saltonstall [R-Dover] and John F. Kennedy [D-Boston] and Cong. Richard B. Wigglesworth [R-Milton], promised to get in touch with the Navy Department on the contract.

BURGIN DECLINES DRAFT

Thomas S. Burgin, insurance man and former mayor of Quincy, effectively put a stop to a movement to draft him for the post of chairman of the Metropolitan District Commission.

"I definitely could not think of accepting a state position that requires so much time," said Burgin.

"The chairmanship constitutes a challenge and it could be interesting work but I have committed myself to the YMCA building fund drive and I have my own business I have to devote time to."

NORTH INDEPENDENTS WIN

The North Quincy Independents, made-up of players from Quincy, North Quincy and Archbishop Williams High Schools, demolished the Winthrop Wizards, 64-17, in the opening round of the annual Charlestown Boys Club Basketball Tournament.

In the lineup for the Independents were George Dennen, Al Elkhill, Ed Densmore and Ed Gilbody of North Quincy, Dick Ruggles of Quincy, and Dick Armstrong of Archbishop Williams.

TAX RATE HEADED DOWN

City Manager William J. Deegan Jr. estimated that Quincy's 1953 tax rate would be $48.80, a decrease of $5 from the previous year, after the City Council finished trimming and passed the city budget.

The Council vote was 6-1 with Councillor Carl W. Anderson in opposition. He said he approved everything in it except the $2,050 raise for the city manager which would hike his salary to $16,000.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By Eric Swider

'A Helluva Way To Run A Railroad'

In recent weeks, the Chamber has been focussing considerable public and press attention on transportation matters in this south of Boston region.

Our efforts to seek reasonable alternatives for commuters when the Southeast Expressway goes out of business soon, and our full court press to obtain a depressing of MBTA tracks through downtown Quincy as a way of improving its potential for future commercial development, has created several head-on confrontations with State transportation officials. They are probably as tired of hearing from us as we are of their lack of willingness to look at the problems from the perspective of local residents who have to put up with totally inadequate systems.

It is without question that the person most responsible for the demise of the Southwest Expressway and the I-95 extension - that would have substantially reduced our commuters had they been in place - is now ironically the State's Transportation czar and would rather dismiss our plight than grapple with the idea that maybe his previous efforts as a citizen were too successful and a mistake.

Fred Salvucci has decided that we don't have a problem here - that the Mass Avenue overpass reconstruction is only going to make things a little more worse - so we'll only be a little more inconvenienced than we are now, and so that's not too bad.

Right now, on the best day of the year, commuting into Boston from the South Shore is a totally unbelievable disaster. Salvucci figures that anybody that's crazy enough to put up with our current situation certainly can be pacified by telling them that things are going to be only a little bit worse.

And from what I can gather, that's what he's doing, and we'll all lay back and accept it.

Next thing we'll be told, if the State's advertising campaign unfolds according to plan, is that if you aren't willing to be a good sport about putting up with the next eight years of Southeast Expressway bridge reconstructions, then you have body odor, bad breath, and other social diseases that make you more criminal than an auto thief or shoplifter.

In fact, if you'd believe the by-play that I've heard, you'd get the distinct impression that State police will deal more severely with lone drivers who use the "Downtown Express Lane" than a judge would with a mugger.

The MBTA depression through Quincy Center, while a local matter, talks well to our concern about "responsive government." The mayor of the City of Quincy, the Quincy City Council, the State legislative delegation from Quincy, the Mayor's MBTA Task Force, the AFL-CIO, the Quincy Building Trades Council, the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, Progress Downtown Quincy, and the Chamber all agree on the absolute importance of depressing the train tracks. If the facts be known, this might be about the only thing that we will all agree upon locally this year, but that's another matter.

The MBTA has told us all to go away and not to bother them with the facts. They've an UMTA grant to build, and build they will - their way - right away. UMTA even agrees that if the depression would enhance Quincy's chances for development, then they probably would and could underwrite a major share of the costs. We believe that it is not a major action; therefore, it will not require extensive environmental analysis, and furthermore, if prompt action is taken, it need not impose on the Governor's commitment to ride a Silverbird into South Braintree by December 31, 1979.

Our frustration on both issues is that the South Shore, as individual cities and towns, is incapable of effectively dealing with the bureaucratic power of State government. The Governor and his troops command attention from the regional media and their gospel - is irrefutable. The individual community's moans and groans are not of interest to the regional press and electronic media; and in fact, the individual communities have very little capability to tell their story at the regional level.

The South Shore Chamber is committed to fighting, yelling, screaming, kicking, demanding, intimidating, and doing whatever else it can to get a better deal for our Region in relationship to its transportation needs and the immediate crises ahead. But on a long term basis, it's a helluva way to run a railroad.

[Eric Swider is Executive Vice-President of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.]

Morrissey Votes To Return Lottery Profits To Communities

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey [D-Quincy] has voted to return the profits from the State Lottery to the cities and towns, as originally intended when the lottery went into operation.

Last year, the Legislature diverted some of the money from the communities into the state's general fund.

Morrissey's vote came on an amendment that would have returned up to $4 million in profits from the Daily Numbers Game to the cities and towns. The amendment was defeated by a narrow margin.

The diversion of the lottery money is scheduled to end in July unless the Legislature votes to extend it. Morrissey said he will oppose any attempt at extension.

"The lottery diversion was a major campaign issue in my recent election," said Morrissey. "Return of the money to the local communities affords the city or town more control and fiscal responsibility."

Sheets Seeks Improvements At Beaches, Streams

Rep. James A. Sheets [D-Quincy] has asked the Planning Department to take a look at Quincy's streams and beaches with a view toward possible improvement, development and protection that could be funded by the state.

Sheets said the Department of Environmental Quality

Engineering of the Division of Waterways will conduct a rivers and harbors hearing April 15 to receive petitions for proposed work from municipalities.

"I am hopeful that some of the problems Quincy has along its 26 miles of shore line can be corrected by the Division of Waterways," said Sheets.

Lenten Enrichment Services At St. John's Church

St. John's Church in Quincy Center, will offer a special enrichment program for Lent.

On Wednesdays, March 16 and March 23 at the 7:30 p.m. liturgy, Rev. Gerard Dorgan will speak on the role of God's people in the contemporary church.

The christian life is essentially the recognition of being loved and the act of loving. It is hearing God and doing his word. These two activities, which are the essence of piety for both Christian and Jew, will be discussed in these first two sessions of the Lenten program.

On Wednesday, March 30, Rev. Edward Doyle will speak of the role as Church, the body of Christ, and the responsibility of laity to participate in the life of the church.

Fr. Dorgan, a graduate of St. John's Seminary, is currently teaching at St. John's Seminary College where he is dean of admissions. He also acts as liaison between Cardinal Medeiros and the charismatic prayer groups of the archdiocese.

Rev. Doyle is a permanent deacon currently assigned to St. Paul's Church in Hingham.

These special liturgies are part of the ongoing effort of the adult education committee of St. John's parish to bring enrichment and education to the people of the community. The public is cordially invited to attend.

How much should a funeral cost?

A funeral is no place for on-the-job training. So we're offering a booklet that talks openly about prices, optional services available, and the countless little details that could add to your grief—if you're not prepared for them.

The booklet doesn't recommend funeral homes...ours or anyone else's...but it will make you knowledgeable enough to plan wisely and help you from possibly spending more than you should, or may need to, for a funeral.

Mail the coupon for your free booklet, or call for an appointment.

Another little thing that makes us big:

A dozen new recipes for a hometown chef. The fellow with the smile is Fred G. Salowitz. He works as a chef right here in Quincy. Fred came to us for an interest-paying REDI-NOW account. And ended up with a few new recipes as well.

Financial recipes, that is. Thank to our free Financial Recipe Book, Fred learned all about REDI-CASH. A total banking program that combines REDI-NOW checking, the REDI-TRANSFER money manager and the REDI-CREDIT "write yourself a loan."

"Imagine," says Fred. "A bank that can give me new recipes!"

We're glad to be of help, Fred.

(Now maybe you can tell us how to make that terrific cheesecake!)
